I. Background 17
A. Overview of the role and governance of community colleges in California 19
B. Claimants' Position 21
C. California Community Colleges-Chancellor's Office Position (Chancellor's Office) 22
D. Department of Finance's Position (Finance) 23
II. Discussion 23
A. The "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" does not constitute executive orders subject to article XIII B, section 6 and therefore are not within the Commission's jurisdiction. The "Program and Course Approval Handbook" constitutes an executive order subject to article XIII B, section 6, and is within the Commission's jurisdiction. 25
(1) "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" 25
(2) "Program and Course Approval Handbook" 26
B. The executive order, test claim statutes, and regulations impose some state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service on community college districts subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution 27
(1) Delineation of Functions of the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges and the Governing Boards of Community College Districts (Ed. Code, §§ 70901, 70901.5, and 70902) 28

c. The regulations providing for the investigation and enforcement of minimum conditions do not impose any state-mandated activities (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 51100 and 51102) 38

d. The pre-existing duty of community college districts to comply with the "minimum standards" adopted by the Board of Governors does not preclude a finding of a new program or higher level of service regarding a new regulation adopted as a "minimum standard" that requires new activities....40

(3) Approval of New Colleges and Educational Centers (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55825, 55827, 55828, 55829, 55830, and 55831) 41

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Overview

This consolidated test claim filed by Los Rios Community College District, Santa Monica Community College District, and West Kern Community College District addresses Education Code sections, title 5 regulations, and an executive order that prescribe standards for the formation and basic operation of the California Community Colleges, and set forth minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles community college districts to receive state aid.

These conditions and standards cover various areas of operation and formation of community colleges including, but not limited to, the following: (1) standards of scholarship; (2) degrees and certificates; (3) open courses; (4) comprehensive or master plans for academics and facilities; (5) student fees; (6) approval of new colleges and educational centers; (7) accreditation; (8) counseling programs; and (9) investigation and enforcement of the minimum conditions by the Chancellor and the Board of Governors.

In addition, this test claim addresses regulations which provide that community college districts adopt policies or provide students with information or notices regarding: (1) student directory information, (2) student representation fees, (3) the provision of course materials, and (4) possible consequences of failing to pay a proper financial obligation due to the district or college.

Procedural History

The consolidated Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-25 and 02-TC-31) test claim was filed during the 2002-2003 fiscal year. As a result, the reimbursement period for any reimbursable state-mandated new programs or higher level of service found in this test claim begins on July 1, 2001.

Between 2003 and 2010 various parties requested and received multiple extensions to file comments on the Notice to Students (02-TC-25) and Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-31) test claims. During this period the Commission has received comments from the claimants and the Chancellor's Office on both test claims. Finance has submitted comments on the Notice to Students test claim, but notified the Commission of its intent to reserve comments on the Minimum Conditions for State Aid test claim until after the draft analysis was issued by the Commission.

On January 9, 2008 the Commission consolidated the Notice to Students (02-TC-25) and Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-31) test claims to form the consolidated Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-25 and 02-TC-31) test claim. On April 2, 2008, the Commission severed a portion of the Disabled Student Program and Services (02-TC-22) test claim and consolidated it with the consolidated Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-25 and 02-TC-31) test claim. On June 22, 2010, the Commission severed a portion of the consolidated test claim Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-25 and 02-TC-31), and consolidated the severed portion with the Discrimination Complaint Procedures (02-TC-46) test claim.

On January 19, 2011 and May 6, 2011 the Commission severed a portion of Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-25 and 02-TC-31) related to community college construction[1] and consolidated the severed portion with the Community College Construction (02-TC-47) test claim.

On January 31, 2011 the Commission issued the draft staff analysis. On April 21, 2011 the claimants filed comments on the draft staff analysis. The Commission has not received comments from Finance or the Chancellor's Office.

Position of Parties

Claimants' Position

The claimants allege that the test claim statutes and regulations impose reimbursable state-mandated activities on community college districts addressing various areas of operation and formation of community colleges discussed in the overview above. In addition, the claimants allege that regulations addressing the provision of information or notices to students impose reimbursable state-mandated activities on community colleges.

The claimants acknowledge that some funding may have or has been received by community college districts for some of the claimed activities, but argue that if funding has been received it is not enough to fully fund the state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service alleged.

The claimants' comments on the draft staff analysis generally: (1) disagree with the standard of review the Commission uses to determine whether a program is new or imposes a higher level of service; (2) disagree with all of the minimum conditions analysis; and (3) disagree with some of the individual findings that recommend a denial of reimbursement.

The California Community Colleges Chancellor's Office (Chancellor's Office)

The Chancellor's Office asserts generally that community college districts are not entitled to reimbursement for any of the pled activities, and that the test claim should be rejected in its entirety. The Chancellor's Office argues that the activities alleged by the claimants are conditions for receipt of state aid and that the claimants are not required to accept state aid, and therefore the claimants are not mandated to engage in any of the claimed activities. In addition, if the claimants have complied with the challenged provisions in order to receive state aid and have received state aid, the claimants have already been compensated for compliance and no further reimbursement is warranted. The Chancellor's Office also argues that some of the regulations are not new requirements, and that some of the activities are mandated by federal law.

The Department of Finance (Finance)

Finance has chosen to reserve comments in regard to the consolidated Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-25 and 02-TC-31) test claim. However, in regard to the Education Code sections and title 5 regulations pled in the Notice to Students (02-TC-25) test claim, Finance argues that any costs associated with the code sections and title 5 regulations are fully supported by the general purpose apportionment funding allocated annually to community colleges in Schedule (1) Apportionments, of Item 6870-101-0001 of the Budget Act.

Commission Responsibilities

Under article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution, local governments and school districts are entitled to reimbursement for the costs of state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service. In order for local governments or school districts to be eligible for reimbursement, one or more similarly situated local governments or school districts must file a test claim with the Commission. "Test claim" means the first claim filed with the Commission alleging that a particular statute or executive order imposes costs mandated by the state. Test claims function similarly to class actions and all members of the class have the opportunity to participate in the test claim process and all are bound by the final decision of the Commission for purposes of that test claim.

The Commission is the quasi-judicial body vested with exclusive authority to adjudicate disputes over the existence of state-mandated programs within the meaning of article XIII B, section 6. In making its decisions, the Commission cannot apply article XIII B as an equitable remedy to cure the perceived unfairness resulting from political decisions on funding priorities.

Claims

The following chart provides a brief summary of the claims and issues raised by the claimant, and staff's recommendation.

Subject of Claim	Description	Issues	Staff Recommendation
Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual (Policy Manual)	The Policy Manual sets forth the eligibility requirements and standards for accreditation with the Accrediting Commission For Community and Junior Colleges (ACCJC).	The claimants allege that the Policy Manual constitutes an "executive order" and it imposes reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Denied: The ACCJC is not a state agency, and as a result, the Policy Manual is not an "executive order" under Government Code section 17516.
Program and Course Approval Handbook (Handbook)	The Handbook is intended to assist individuals at community colleges responsible for designing new programs or courses in seeking program or course approval from the Chancellor's Office.	The claimants allege that the Handbook constitutes an "executive order" subject to the Commission's jurisdiction, and imposes reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Denied: Although the Handbook constitutes an executive order, it does not impose a new program or higher level of service. See "Curriculum" section of the analysis.
Delineation of Functions	The Education Code sections pled in this section (§§ 70901, 70901.5, and70902) delineate the functions of the state and the local community college districts in postsecondary education.	The claimants do not allege any specific activities associated with these code sections.	Denied: The plain language of Education Code sections 70901 and 70901.5 does not impose any activities on community college districts. However, Education Code section 70902 is addressed throughout the rest of the analysis.

Minimum Conditions and the Investigation and Enforcement of Minimum Conditions	As a condition for entitlement to state aid, the title 5 regulations require community college operation activities including: standards of scholarship, student fees, accreditation, and counseling programs.	The claimants allege that the conditions for entitlement for state aid impose reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Denied: There is no evidence in the record that community college districts are legally or practically compelled to become entitled to state aid.
Approval of New Colleges and Educational Centers	The regulations address the process to obtain the Board of Governors' approval of a proposed new college or educational center by a community college district.	The claimants allege that districts are required to engage in activities associated with receiving approval of proposed new colleges or educational centers.	Denied: Districts are not required to propose new colleges or educational centers. As a result, districts are not mandated to comply with the regulations.
Master Plans for Academics	The code section and regulations address the preparation of a community college district's educational master plan.	The claimants allege that the code section and title 5 regulations pled in this section impose reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Denied: The activities are not new.
Faculty Participation in District and College Governance	The Education Code section and regulations address faculty participation in district and college governance through the formation of academic senates.	The claimants allege that Education Code section 70902 and the title 5 regulations impose reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Partially Approved: Education Code section 70902 and some of the regulations impose reimbursable state-mandated costs, but some of the activities imposed are not new or are fully funded.
Full-time/Part-time Faculty Ratio	The Education Code sections and title 5 regulations address the Board of Governors' goal that community college districts have a full-time faculty percentage of 75 percent.	The claimants allege that these code sections and regulations impose reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Denied: Districts do not face legal or practical compulsion to meet the 75 percent goal.
Matriculation	This section addresses the provision of matriculation programs pursuant to the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act of 1986.	The claimants allege that the Act imposes reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Denied: Districts are not legally or practically compelled to participate in the Act.

Transfer Centers	This section addresses activities associated with the transfer system between the three segments of California's higher education system (Community Colleges, UC and CSU).	The claimants allege that all of the code sections pled impose reimbursable state-mandated costs. The Chancellor's Office argues that the distribution of the core curriculum for transferring (transfer core curriculum) does not constitute a new program or higher level of service.	Partially Approved: Some of the code sections do not mandate any activities on community college districts. The distribution of the transfer core curriculum does constitute a new program or higher level of service.
Vocational Education	This section addresses activities that must be done prior to and after the establishment of vocational or occupational training programs.	The claimants allege all of the code sections and title 5 regulations impose reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Partially Approved: Although districts are required to engage in vocational or occupational training activities, some activities are not mandated and some are not new.
Standards of Scholarship	Education Code section 70902 and regulations address community college districts' standards regarding things such as district grading practices and standards of probation.	The claimants allege the regulations impose reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Partially Approved: Some of the regulations do not impose state-mandated activities.
Curriculum	Education Code section 70902 and regulations address requirements and procedures for securing approval of proposed courses and programs.	The claimants allege that the code section and all of the regulations impose reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Partially Approved: The Education Code section and some of the regulations do not impose state-mandated activities on community college districts.
Degrees and Certificates	The regulations address the award of degrees, certificates, and diplomas by community college districts.	The claimants allege all of the regulations impose reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Partially Approved: Some of the regulations do not impose state-mandated activities. In addition, some of the activities are not new.
Open Courses	The regulations address the provision of courses that are open to enrollment by any student admitted to the community college.	The claimants allege all of the regulations impose reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Partially Approved: Some of the regulations do not impose any activities on districts.
Student Fees	Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(9), addresses the establishment of student fees.	The claimants allege that the statute imposes reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Denied: The language of Education Code section 70902 does not impose any activities on community college districts.

Notices to Students	The regulations address the adoption of policies or the provision of notice to students regarding issues including: student representation fees and the provision of instructional or other materials.	The claimants allege that these regulations impose reimbursable state-mandated costs.	Denied: The regulations either are not new or do not impose state-mandated activities on community college districts.

Staff makes the following findings:

- The "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" Does Not Constitute an Executive Order

  The Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual is issued by the Accrediting Commission for Community and Junior Colleges (ACCJC). The "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" sets forth the eligibility requirements and standards for accreditation with the ACCJC.

  The claimants argue that the Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual constitutes an executive order. However, the ACCJC is one of three commissions that make up the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), a non-governmental corporate entity whose commissions evaluate and accredit public and private educational institutions. Thus, the "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" does not constitute an executive order issued by any agency, department, board, or commission of state government. As a result, the "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" does not constitute an executive order subject to article XIII B, section 6, and therefore, is not within the Commission's jurisdiction.

- The "Program and Course Approval Handbook" Constitutes an Executive Order

  The Program and Course Approval Handbook is issued by the Chancellor's Office and is intended to assist California community college administrators, staff, and faculty who are responsible for designing and submitting new programs or courses to the Chancellor's Office for approval.

  The Program and Course Approval Handbook provides that colleges are expected to follow the procedures and instructions contained in the Handbook in order to have proposed courses and programs approved by the Chancellor's Office. As provided in statute and regulation, community colleges are required to offer courses of instruction and programs. As a result, community college districts, which are required to offer courses and programs, are also required to follow the procedures and instructions contained in the Handbook when it is necessary to obtain the approval of the Chancellor's Office. However, to the extent that the Handbook provides guidelines and explanations of statutes and regulations, community college districts are not required to comply with the Handbook because these guidelines and explanations are not law. Therefore, the procedures and instructions contained in the Handbook constitute an executive order subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution, and thus, subject to the Commission's jurisdiction.

- Delineation of Functions (Ed. Code, §§ 70901, 70901.5, and 70902)

  This section addresses Education Code sections 70901, 70901.5, and 70902, which delineate the roles and functions of the state and the local community college districts in postsecondary education.

Many of the title 5 regulations pled in this test claim were adopted by the Board of Governors pursuant to Education Code section 70901 and fulfill the duty of the Board of Governors to establish standards regarding the operation of community colleges and the duty to establish conditions, satisfaction of which entitle districts to receive state aid. Education Code sections 70901 and 70901.5 do not impose any activities on community college districts. Instead, as described above, sections 70901 and 70901.5 impose activities on the Board of Governors, and as a result, do not impose reimbursable state mandated activities subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

In the claimants' response to the draft staff analysis, the claimants allege for the first time that Education Code section 70902 imposes affirmative duties resulting in reimbursable state-mandated activities. Specifically, the claimants allege that Education Code section 70902, subdivisions (b)(1), (2), (3), (7), (9), and (14), impose affirmative duties on community college districts, and suggest that these duties impose new programs or higher levels of service. For ease of discussion, whether Education Code section 70902, subdivisions (b)(1), (2), (3), (7), (9), and (14), and the title 5 regulations pled in this test claim constitute reimbursable state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service will be addressed throughout the rest of the test claim analysis.

- Minimum Conditions Entitling Community College Districts to State Aid and Investigation and Enforcement of Minimum Conditions (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 51000, 51002, 51004, 51006, 51008, 51012, 51014, 51016, 51018, 51020, 51021, 51022, 51023, 51023.5, 51023.7, 51024, 51025, 51027, 51100, and 51102)
  The title 5 regulations in this section set forth the minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles community college districts to receive state aid. These conditions cover the following areas of basic operation: standards of scholarship, degrees and certificates, open courses, comprehensive plans, student fees, approval of new colleges and educational centers, accreditation, counseling programs, objectives, curriculum, instructional programs, faculty, staff, students, matriculation services, full-time/part-time faculty, and transfer centers. In addition, the regulations set forth the role of Chancellor's Office in investigating and enforcing the minimum conditions.

  The claimants have pled all of the Education Code sections and title 5 regulations as minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles a community college district to state aid. In addition the claimants allege that the minimum conditions impose state-mandated activities that are reimbursable under article XIII B, section 6 of the California constitution.

  The California Supreme Court held in Department of Finance v. Commission on State Mandates (Kern High School Dist.) that when analyzing state mandate claims, the Commission must look at the underlying program to determine if the claimant's participation in the underlying program is voluntary or legally compelled.[2] The court also held open the possibility that a reimbursable state mandate might be found in circumstances short of legal compulsion where "'certain and severe … penalties', such as 'double … taxation' and other 'draconian' consequences,'"[3] would result if the local entity did not comply with the program.

[3] Id. at p. 751.

Based on the plain language of the code sections and title 5 regulations staff finds that only title 5 sections 51000, 51002, 51004, 51006, 51008, 51012, 51014, 51016, 51018, 51020, 51021, 51022, 51023, 51023.5, 51023.7, 51024, 51025, and 51027 constitute minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles a community college district to state aid. However, because community college districts perform the activities in the title 5 regulations as conditions for entitlement to state aid and there is no evidence in the record that districts are legally or practically compelled to become entitled to state aid, staff finds that the title 5 regulations do not impose activities mandated by the state pursuant to Kern High School Dist.

Title 5, sections 51100 and 51102, require the Chancellor's Office to engage in activities; however, they do not impose any activities on community college districts.

- Approval of New Colleges and Educational Centers (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55825, 55827, 55828, 55829, 55830, and 55831)
  The title 5 regulations set forth the process to obtain the Board of Governors' approval of a community college district's proposed new college or educational center.

  The initial decision to create a new college or educational center, which triggers the activities required by section 55825-55831, is left to the discretion of the community college district. As a result, pursuant to Kern High School Dist. staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55825, 55827, 55828, 55829, 55830, and 55831 do not impose state-mandated activities subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

- Master Plans for Academics (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(1), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404)
  Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), and the title 5 regulations address the preparation of a community college district's education master plan. This includes activities such as establishing policies for current and long-range educational plans and programs for each community college in the district, updating these plans, and submitting these plans to the Chancellor.

  The claimants have pled Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), as added in 1988, and title 5 sections 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404 as added in 1971 and last amended in 1991. However, the language of sections 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404 has remained unchanged since the adoption of the sections in 1971. In addition, the provisions of Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), do not impose any activities that are not required by title 5 sections 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404. As a result, staff finds that the activities mandated by Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), and California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404 do not constitute a new program or higher level of service subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

- Faculty, Staff, and Student Participation in District and College Governance (Ed. Code, § 70902, subds. (b)(7) and (b)(14), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 53200, 53202-53204, and 53207)
  Education Code section 70902, subdivisions (b)(7) and (b)(14), and the title 5 regulations address faculty, staff, and student participation in district and college governance. The activities that arise include the establishment of procedures to ensure faculty, staff, and students the opportunity to participate in district governance, the recognition of academic senates formed within colleges or districts, the adoption of policies for the delegation of authority and responsibility to the academic senates, consultation with the academic senate, and the release of college faculty that are elected to serve on the state-wide academic senate.

To constitute a "new program or higher level of service" the activities must carry out the governmental function of providing a service to the public, or impose unique requirements on local governments that do not apply to all residents and entities in the state in order to implement a state policy. In addition, the requirements must be new in comparison with the pre-existing scheme and must be intended to provide an enhanced service to the public. To make this determination, the requirements must initially be compared with the legal requirements in effect immediately prior to its enactment. The requirement to recognize the college or district-wide academic senate formed in colleges or districts is not a new program or higher level of service.

However, the remaining state-mandated activities found in this section of the analysis constitute a reimbursable new program or higher level of service. These activities include: (1) establishing procedures to ensure faculty, staff, and students the opportunity to express their opinions at the campus level; (2) participating the consultation process established by the Board of Governors; and (3) adopting policies for the appropriate delegation of authority and responsibility to its college or district academic senate.

- Full-time/Part-time Faculty Ratio (Ed. Code, §§ 87482.6 and 87482.7; and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 53300-53302, 53308-53312, and 53314)
  The Education Code sections and title 5 regulations address the attempt of the Legislature and the Board of Governors to achieve the goal of the Board of Governors that community college districts have a full-time faculty percentage of 75 percent. The Legislature and the Board of Governors established a statutory and regulatory scheme in which community college districts are to use specified funds for the purpose of achieving a full-time faculty percentage of 75 percent. If a district fails to do so, the funds provided for this purpose will be withheld and redirected to community college districts for the purpose of promoting equal employment opportunity in districts.

  Thus, if a district chooses not to increase its full-time faculty percentage it will forgo funds that were to be used toward achieving the 75 percent standard. As a result, community college districts only forgo funds provided for this program, and do not face a substantial penalty independent of the program funds at issue. As a result, under Kern High School Dist., the Education Code sections and title 5 regulations not impose any state-mandated activities.

- Matriculation (Ed. Code, §§ 78211.5, 78212, 78213, 78214, 78215, and 78216; and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55500, 55502, 55510, 55512, 55514, 55516, 55518, 55520, 55521, 55522, 55523, 55524, 55525, 55526, 55530, 55532, and 55534)
  This section addresses the provision of matriculation programs by community college districts pursuant to the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act of 1986 and its implementing regulations. As defined by the code sections and title 5 regulations, "matriculation" is a process that brings a college and a student who enrolls for credit into an agreement for the purpose of realizing the student's educational goals through the college's established programs, policies, and requirements.

  Compliance with the provisions of the Act and its implementing regulations is triggered by the underlying discretionary decisions made by community colleges or districts to participate in the Act in order to receive funds under the Act. Therefore, community colleges and districts are not legally compelled to comply with the provisions of the Act or its implementing regulations. Thus, staff finds that the Education Code sections and title 5 regulations do not impose any state-mandated activities upon community college districts, and therefore, do not mandate a new program or higher level of service subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

- Transfer Centers (Ed. Code, §§ 66721, 66721.5, 66722, 66722.5, 66731, 66732, 66736, 66737, 66738, 66740, 66741, 66742, 66743, and 71027)
  This section addresses the transfer system between the three segments of California's higher education system and the functions of various entities involved in the transfer system. The activities that arise in this section include: the distribution of the current transfer core curriculum to community college students; designing and implementing policies intended to facilitate successful movement of students from community colleges through the University of California and the California State University; maintaining student transfer counseling centers; and the development of discipline-specific articulation agreements between the community colleges and the campuses of the University of California and the California State University.

  Although some of the activities claimed by the claimants are not mandated by the code sections, some of the code sections impose reimbursable state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service. These new programs or higher levels of service include: (1) directing the appropriate officials at their respective campuses to provide each of their students with a copy of the current transfer core curriculum; (2) distributing a copy of the current transfer core curriculum to each student; and (3) recognizing student matriculation from community colleges through the University and California State University as a central institutional priority of all segments of higher education.

- Vocational Education (Ed. Code, §§ 78015 and 78016; and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55600-55603, 55605, 55607, 55620, and 55630)
  This section addresses the activities that must be done prior to and after the establishment of vocational or occupational training programs, the appointment of a vocational education advisory committee for each community college district, and the ability of community college districts to contract with private postsecondary schools, activity centers, work activity centers, or sheltered workshops to provide vocational skill training.

  Pursuant to Kern High School Dist., districts are not required to comply with the title 5 regulations that impose contracting requirements because community college districts are not required to contract with private postsecondary schools to provide vocational skills training.

  In addition, the appointment of a vocational education advisory committee does not constitute a new program or higher level of service, because districts were required to appoint the advisory committee in 1973.

  The remaining state-mandated activities found in this section of the analysis constitute a reimbursable new program or higher level of service, including: (1) conducting a job market study of the labor market area; (2) making copies of each job market study available to the public; and (3)determining whether or not the job market study justifies the proposed vocational education program.

- Standards of Scholarship (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(3), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55750, 55751, 55752, 55753, 55753.5, 55753.7, 55754, 55755, 55756.5, 55757, 55758, 55758.5, 55759, 55760, 55761, 55762, 55763, 55764, and 55765)
  This section addresses a statute and regulations that set forth standards addressing the basic operation of community college districts regarding standards of scholarship, including but not limited to the following areas of scholarship: grading practices, credit-no credit options, advanced placement examinations, standards for probation, academic record symbols, and grade point average.

Although some of the title 5 regulations do not impose state-mandated activities, the state-mandated activities imposed by Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3), and the title 5 regulations constitute a reimbursable new program or higher level of service. This includes the following activities: (1) publishing regulations regarding standards of scholarship in the college catalog under appropriate headings, (2) file a copy of the regulations with the Chancellor, and (3) determining a uniform grading practice for the district based on sound academic principles.

- Curriculum (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55000-55002.5, 55004-55006, 55100, 55130, 55150, 55160, 55170, 55182, 55200-55202, 55205, 55207, 55209, 55211, 55213, 55215, 55217, 55219, 55300, 55316, 55316.5, 55320-55322, 55340, and 55350; and "Program and Course Approval Handbook," Chancellor's Office California Community Colleges (September 2001))
  This section addresses Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2), and title 5 regulations and the "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (Handbook) addressing the requirements and procedures for securing approval of courses and programs proposed by community colleges or community college districts. The process for course approval begins with a recommendation for approval by the community college curriculum or district curriculum committee to the district governing board. The recommended course then needs approval by the district governing board, followed by the approval of the Chancellor.

  Community college districts have broad discretion over the governance of community colleges. This discretion extends to the courses and programs the community colleges offer. However, as provided in statute, the primary mission of community college districts is to provide academic and vocational instruction. In addition, community college districts by definition are degree-granting institutions. Thus, although community college districts maintain discretion in the curriculum the districts' offer, districts at a minimum must offer courses, and as a result, districts must comply with the regulations and procedures necessary to offer courses.

  The Education Code section and some of the title 5 regulations do not impose state-mandated activities or do not constitute a new program or higher level of service. In addition, the Handbook does not impose a new program or higher level of service. However, the other state-mandated activities imposed by the title 5 regulations constitute a reimbursable new program or higher level of service. This includes: (1) establishing policies for and approve educational programs; (2) establishing a college or district curriculum committee by mutual agreement of the college or district administration and the academic senate; and (3) making available to students through college publications specified facts regarding each course.

- Degrees and Certificates (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55800, 55800.5, 55801, 55805, 55805.5, 55806, 55807, 55808, and 55809)
  This section addresses regulations pertaining to the award of degrees, certificates, and diplomas by community college districts upon the completion of standards specified by the Board of Governors and the governing board of the community college district. The activities that arise in this section include the establishment of criteria to determine which courses may be used in implementing the district philosophy on General Education, conferring a degree on students who have successfully completed the requirements established by the district, and designing specific courses that are needed to receive a degree.

Some of the title 5 regulations do not impose state-mandated activities. In addition, the requirement to confer a degree upon a student is not a new program or higher level of service. However, the other state-mandated activities imposed by the title 5 regulations constitute a reimbursable new program or higher level of service, including: (1) adopting a policy consistent with the Board of Governors regulations regarding Degrees and Certificates; (2) reviewing the policy and criteria of General Education; and (3) offering specified areas of study in general education.

- Open Courses (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 58102, 58104, 58106, 58107, and 58108)
  This section addresses regulations that set forth standards regarding the provision of courses open to enrollment by any student admitted to the community college. Many of the regulations pled in this section do not impose any state-mandated activities. However, the regulations do impose some reimbursable state-mandated new program or higher level of service on community districts including: (1) publishing a description of each course that is clear and understandable to the prospective student in the official catalog, schedule of classes, and addenda; and (2) handling challenges to enrollment limitations made by students.

- Student Fees (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(9))

  This section addresses the establishment of student fees. The code section provides that community college districts are to establish student fees as required by law. However, the claimants have not pled any statutes or regulations that require the establishment of student fees, and the code section on its own does not impose any activities on community college districts.

- Notice to Students (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, 54626, 54805, 59404, and 59410)
  This section addresses the adoption of policies or the provision of notices to students regarding various issues related to the operation and governing of community colleges and community college districts, including: (1) student directory information; (2) student representation fees; (3) the provision of instructional or other materials; and (4) the possible consequences of failing to pay a proper financial obligation due to the district or college.

  The title 5 regulations either are not new or do not impose state-mandated activities on community college districts.

Conclusion

For the reasons discussed in the analysis, staff finds that the activities listed under section III of this analysis titled "Conclusion" constitute a reimbursable state-mandated new program or higher level of service within the meaning of article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution and Government Code section 17514 and 17556. Staff notes that some of the activities found to be reimbursable are broad and could be interpreted as including a wide range of activities in order to be implemented. However, these broad activities do not include activities that have been specifically denied in this analysis. Where necessary, the scope of the approved activities will be limited in the parameters and guidelines.

Finally, staff finds that all other test claim statutes, regulations, and alleged executive orders do not constitute a reimbursable state-mandated program because they either do not require any activities of community college districts, are voluntary or are downstream of a voluntary activity, or are not new as compared to the legal requirements in effect immediately prior to their enactment.

Recommendation

Staff recommends that the Commission adopt this analysis to partially approve this test claim.

I. Background

This claim addresses 27 statutes, 141 title 5 regulations, and two alleged executive orders that prescribe minimum standards for the formation and basic operation of community colleges and community college districts.[5] [6] Some of the standards also constitute minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles community college districts to receive state aid. In addition, some of the administrative regulations address the adoption of policies or notification of students by community colleges of information related to the operation and governing of community colleges and community college districts.

On June 23, 2003 Santa Monica Community College District filed the Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-31) test claim, seeking reimbursement for costs associated with statutes, title 5 regulations, and alleged executive orders that prescribe standards for the formation and basic operation of the California Community Colleges, and set forth minimum conditions, satisfaction of which, entitles community college districts to receive state aid.

These conditions and standards cover various areas of operation and formation of community colleges including, but not limited to, the following: (1) standards of scholarship, (2) degrees and certificates, (3) open courses, (4) comprehensive or master plans for academics and facilities, (5) student fees, (6) approval of new colleges and educational centers, (7) accreditation, (8) counseling programs, (9) objectives for instructional programs, (10) curriculum, (11) instructional programs, (12) course articulation, (13) academic freedom, (14) staff, faculty, and student participation in district and college governance, (15) matriculation, (16) full-time/part-time faculty ratio, (17) transfer centers, and (18) investigation and enforcement of the minimum conditions by the Chancellor and the Board of Governors.[7]

On June 5, 2003 Los Rios Community College District filed the Notice to Students (02-TC-25) test claim seeking reimbursement for costs associated with statutes and title 5 regulations, many of which were pled in 02-TC-31.[8] In addition, Los Rios Community College District seeks reimbursement for administrative regulations which provide that community college districts adopt policies or provide students with information or notices regarding: (1) student directory information, (2) student representation fees, (3) the provision of course materials, and (4) possible consequences of failing to pay a proper financial obligation due to the district or college.

On January 9, 2008 the 02-TC-25 and 02-TC-31 test claims were consolidated into the Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-25 and 02-TC-31) test claim due to the fact that both claims pled many of the same statutes and administrative regulations that prescribe standards for the formation and basic operation of community college districts, some of which also entitle community college districts to receive state aid when satisfied.

[5] On June 22, 2010, the Commission severed a portion of the consolidated test claim Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-25 and 02-TC-31), and consolidated the severed portion with the Discrimination Complaint Procedures (02-TC-46) test claim.

[6] References to "title 5" are to the California Code of Regulations, unless otherwise stated.

[7] West Kern Community College District filed the Disabled Student Programs and Services (02-TC-22) test claim alleging costs associated with the provision of services to disabled students within the California community colleges system. The 02-TC-22 test claim was heard and decided on September 26, 2008. However, prior to being heard and decided, title 5, sections 55522 and 55602.5, which address student matriculation and vocational education programs, were severed from the 02-TC-22 test claim and consolidated with the Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-22 and 02-TC-31) test claim on April 2, 2008.

[8] Education Code sections 66281.5 and 66721.5, and California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 51006, 54805, 55005, 55202, 55530, 55534, 55750, 55752, 55753, 55758, 55759, 55760, 55761, 55762, 55764, 55765, 55800, 58102, 58104, 59404, and 59410.

On January 19, 2011 and May 6, 2011 the Commission severed a portion of Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-25 and 02-TC-31) related to community college construction[9] and consolidated the severed portion with the Community College Construction (02-TC-47) test claim. This severance occurred because both test claims pled code sections relating to community college construction plans and the submission of these plans to the Board of Governors, and it was determined that it would be more efficient to analyze the severed code sections in the Community College Construction (02-TC-47) test claim.

Because the test claim statutes, regulations, and alleged executive orders pled in this test claim deal with some of the basic functions of community colleges, it is helpful to have a brief overview of the role and governance of community colleges in California in order to address the various issues that arise in this test claim analysis.

A. Overview of the role and governance of community colleges in California

In California, community colleges were originally established as extensions of local high schools.[10] In 1907, high schools were authorized to provide courses that were equivalent to the first two years of a collegiate curriculum.[11] In 1917, community colleges were designated, along with high schools and technical schools, as part of the secondary school system of the state.[12] The duties of high school boards that elected to offer community college courses included: (1) adopting regulations governing the organization of community college courses, (2) keeping attendance records of students enrolled in community college courses as required by the regulations of the state board of education, (3) including the average daily attendance of students in community college courses in the annual report of the average daily attendance of the high school district which was used in apportioning state high school funds, and (4) receiving approval for courses by the state board of education in order to receive funding for students attending those courses.[13]

In regard to the curriculum offered by a community college, the state authorized high school boards to prescribe a variety of courses, providing:

> [Community college] courses of study may include such studies as are required for the junior certificate at the University of California, and such other courses of training in the mechanical and industrial arts, household economy, agriculture, civic education and commerce as the high school board may deem it advisable to establish.[14]

Rapidly increasing enrollments and a need to differentiate the functions of the segments of higher education prompted the Legislature to request the preparation of a master plan for the development, expansion, and integration of the facilities, curriculum, and standards of higher education in community colleges, state colleges, the University of California, and other institutions of higher education of the state.[15] In preparing this master plan a study titled, "A Master Plan for Higher Education in California, 1960-75" (Master Plan) was created. The Master Plan was originally prepared in 1959, and its recommendations were approved in principle by the affected governing boards of the higher education segments.

In 1960, legislation was enacted to implement some of the recommendations in the Master Plan, including the Donahoe Higher Education Act.[16] The Donahoe Higher Education Act addressed the mission and governance of California's public higher education system.[17] With the adoption of the Donahoe Higher Education Act, which defined public higher education to include all public community colleges, state colleges, and the University of California, the place of community colleges in the public education system shifted from secondary education to postsecondary education.[18] The role of and services provided by community colleges in public education, however, remained largely the same.[19] In addition to delineating the role of community colleges in higher education, the Donahoe Higher Education Act assigned to the State Board of Education the duty to exercise general supervision over community colleges and to prescribe minimum standards for the formation and operation of community colleges.[20] In 1967, the Legislature transferred the supervision and the establishment of minimum standards for the community colleges from the State Board of Education to the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges (Board of Governors) and the California Community Colleges Chancellor's Office (Chancellor's Office).[21] [22]

After the creation of the original Master Plan in 1959, reviews of the Master Plan and the higher education system continued. These reviews resulted in the reaffirmation of the principles and achievements of the original Master Plan and set forth new recommendations to improve higher education.[23] As with the original Master Plan, legislation necessary to implement some of the recommendations was enacted largely through amendments to the Donahoe Higher Education Act.[24] As will be discussed in the test claim analysis below, some of the legislation enacted during these reviews of the Master Plan amended certain activities that were previously expressed as intent language or suggestions into required activities.

Although primary authority over public education is vested in the Legislature, the Legislature has ceded substantial discretionary control to local school districts as authorized by the California Constitution.[25] In 1976 the Legislature utilized its authority under article IX, section 14 of the California Constitution to authorize community college districts to initiate and carry on any program, activity, or to otherwise act in any manner which is not in conflict with or inconsistent with, or preempted by, any law and which is not in conflict with the purposes for which school districts are established.[26] This general authority that is embodied in current Education Code section 70902 became known as the "permissive code" concept under which a district's governing board can act under its general authority without specific statutory authorization.[27] While local districts possess great authority in the governance of community colleges within the districts, the state has maintained general supervision of the governance of community colleges.[28] Much of this supervision can be found in the test claim statutes and title 5 regulations pled in this test claim.

It is in the context of the long established provision of postsecondary education by local educational districts, the broad authority given to community college districts to engage in any activity not inconsistent with state law and regulations, and the general supervision of community college districts by the Board of Governors that the Commission must determine whether the activities addressing various areas of operation of community college districts are state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service.

B. Claimants' Position

Los Rios Community College District, Santa Monica Community College District, and West Kern Community College District's consolidated test claim sets out a list of activities spanning over 220 pages[29] alleged to be newly required by 30 California Education Code sections,

143 California Code of Regulation sections, and two alleged executive orders.[30] The claimants allege that the state has required community college districts to "comply with a variety of state code and regulatory requirements (minimum requirements) the satisfaction of which entitles a college district to receive state aid and for which noncompliance results in fiscal and other penalties."[31]

In addition, the claimants assert that meeting the new requirements of some of the test claim statutes and regulations required increased costs to establish and implement policies and procedures, and periodically update those policies and procedures, for the notification of students regarding various issues related to the operation and governing of community colleges.[32]

The claimants acknowledge that community college districts may have received funding for some of the claimed activities, but argue that if funding has been received it is not enough to fully fund the state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service alleged.[33]

The claimants filed comments, dated April 19, 2004, May 5, 2004, and September 21, 2004, in rebuttal to the Chancellor's Office comments in response to the test claim filing. In addition, the claimants filed comments in response to the draft staff analysis, dated April 21, 2011. The claimants' comments on the draft staff analysis generally: (1) disagree with the standard of review the Commission uses to determine whether a program is new or imposes a higher level of service; (2) disagree with all of the minimum conditions analysis; and (3) disagree with some of the individual findings that recommend a denial of reimbursement.[34]

C. California Community Colleges-Chancellor's Office Position (Chancellor's Office)

On March 11, 2004 and March 16, 2004 the Chancellor's Office submitted comments on the Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-31) and Notice to Students (02-TC-25) test claims, respectively. The Chancellor's Office asserts generally for both claims that community college districts are not entitled to reimbursement for any of the pled activities, and that the test claims should be rejected in their entirety.

Regarding the Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-31) test claim, the Chancellor's Office argues: (1) If the claimants have complied with the challenged provisions in order to receive state aid and have received state aid, claimants have already been compensated for compliance and no further reimbursement is warranted, (2) the claimants are not required to collect state aid and to the extent that the claimants choose to do so that choice negates the finding of a state mandate for activities that are necessary to make claimants eligible for state aid, (3) minimum standards (statutes and regulations) are not eligible for reimbursement if they were required by legislative action that predated January 1, 1975, (4) a number of the regulations address areas that are already required by federal laws, and (5) a number of the regulations address areas of general law that are not based on a claimant's status as a local governmental body.

[30] Prior to the severance and consolidation with the Discrimination Complaint Procedures (02-TC-46) test claim, the consolidated Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-25 and 02-TC-31) test claim addressed 61 California Education Code sections, 159 California Code of Regulation sections, and 3 alleged executive orders.

[34] Exhibit V, Claimants' response to draft staff analysis, dated April 21, 2011.

Regarding the Notice to Students (02-TC-25) test claim, the Chancellor's Office provides many of the same arguments provided for the Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-31) test claim.[35] However, the Chancellor's Office additionally argues that the notice requirements regarding educational programs do not carry out the governmental function of providing services to the public and therefore do not constitute a "program" under article XIII B of the California Constitution. In addition, the Chancellor's Office argues that the costs of the notices can be covered by funds already received from the state.[36]

The Chancellor's Office has not file any comments in response to the draft staff analysis.

D. Department of Finance's Position (Finance)

On November 9, 2007, Finance submitted comments on the Notice to Students (02-TC-25) test claim, but has chosen to reserve comments on the Minimum Conditions for State Aid (02-TC-31) test claim until after a draft staff analysis is issued. In regard to the Notice to Students (02-TC-25) test claim, Finance concurs with the Chancellor's Office conclusion that the test claim should be denied in its entirety. Finance argues the following:

- Any costs associated with Education Code section 66721.5 are "relatively minor, and fall well within the established purposes of each community college districts [sic] current general purpose funding provided in Schedule (1) of Item 6870-101-0001 of the annual Budget Act, pursuant to Chapter 5, of Part 50, of Division 7, of Title 3 of the Education Code."[37]
- In regard to the regulations, "[c]ommunity college districts receive general purpose funding from the state to support broad instructional services and programs of study for their students. As such, this source of funding is available and appropriate to support any costs of implementing the requirements set forth by the regulations. As in Kern, these are "reasonable" expenses that can be incurred. We further contend that the activities outlined in these notice regulations are more than just a general framework. These regulations provide a guideline for fundamental activities that are integral to providing instructional services and operating instructional programs, and in our view are fully supported by general purpose apportionment funding allocated annually to community colleges in Schedule (1) Apportionments, of Item 6870-101-0001 of the Budget Act pursuant to [Chapter 5, of Part 50, of Division 7, of Title 3 of the Education Code]."[38]

Finance has not filed any comments in response to the draft staff analysis.

II. Discussion

The courts have found that article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution[39] recognizes the state constitutional restrictions on the powers of local government to tax and spend.[40] "Its [39] California Constitution, article XIII B, section 6, subdivision (a), (as amended by Proposition 1A in November 2004) provides: "Whenever the Legislature or any state agency mandates a new program or higher level of service on any local government, the State shall provide a subvention of funds to reimburse that local government for the costs of the program or increased level of service, except that the Legislature may, but need not, provide a subvention of funds for purpose is to preclude the state from shifting financial responsibility for carrying out governmental functions to local agencies, which are 'ill equipped' to assume increased financial responsibilities because of the taxing and spending limitations that articles XIII A and XIII B impose."[41] A test claim statute or executive order may impose a reimbursable state-mandated program if it orders or commands a local agency or school district to engage in an activity or task.[42] In addition, the required activity or task must be new, constituting a "new program," and it must create a "higher level of service" over the previously required level of service.[43]

The courts have defined a "program" subject to article XIII B, section 6, of the California Constitution, as one that carries out the governmental function of providing public services, or a law that imposes unique requirements on local agencies or school districts to implement a state policy, but does not apply generally to all residents and entities in the state.[44] To determine if the program is new or imposes a higher level of service, the test claim legislation must be compared with the legal requirements in effect immediately before the enactment of the test claim legislation.[45] A "higher level of service" occurs when there is "an increase in the actual level or quality of governmental services provided."[46] Finally, the newly required activity or increased level of service must impose costs mandated by the state.[47]

In the claimants' April 21, 2011 comments, the claimants assert that the correct standard of review is to compare the statutes pled on the effective date of the test claim filing to the status of the law as of December 31, 1974, thus ignoring any intervening laws that were adopted.[48] The claimants base this argument on the definition of "costs mandated by the state" contained in Government Code section 17514.

However, the California Supreme Court in San Diego Unified School Dist. defined "new program or higher level of service" to mean "new in comparison with the preexisting scheme in view of the circumstances that they did not exist prior to the enactment of" statutes pled in the test claim.[49] Thus, pursuant to the Supreme Court's decision in San Diego Unified School Dist., the Commission must compare the test claim statutes and executive orders pled with the legal requirements in effect immediately before the enactment.

The Commission is vested with exclusive authority to adjudicate disputes over the existence of state-mandated programs within the meaning of article XIII B, section 6.[50] In making its decisions, the Commission must strictly construe article XIII B, section 6 and not apply it as an "equitable remedy to cure the perceived unfairness resulting from political decisions on funding priorities."[51]

A. The "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" does not constitute an executive order subject to article XIII B, section 6 and therefore is not within the Commission's jurisdiction. The "Program and Course Approval Handbook" constitutes an executive order subject to article XIII B, section 6, and is within the Commission's jurisdiction.

The claimants have pled the "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" and "Program and Course Approval Handbook" as "executive orders" and argue that these documents impose reimbursable state-mandated activities. However, in order to make this determination, it must be determined if these documents are executive orders such that the Commission has jurisdiction over them.

Pursuant to Government Code section 17551, the Commission hears and decides claims for reimbursement of costs mandated by the state. Government Code section 17514 defines "costs mandated by the state" as increased costs a school district is required to incur as a result of an enacted statute or an issued executive order which mandates a new program or higher level of service. An "executive order" is defined as any order, plan, requirement, rule, or regulation issued by: (1) the Governor; (2) any officer or official serving at the pleasure of the Governor; or (3) any agency, department, board, or commission of state government.[52]

(1) "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual"

The claimants assert that community college districts incur reimbursable costs resulting from the "Revised Summer 2002" edition of the "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" issued by the Accrediting Commission for Community and Junior Colleges (ACCJC). The "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" sets forth the eligibility requirements and standards established by the ACCJC for accreditation with the ACCJC. The ACCJC is one of three commissions that make up the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), a non-governmental corporate entity whose commissions evaluate and accredit public and private educational institutions.[53] Thus, the "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" does not constitute an executive order issued by any agency, department, board, or commission of state government.[54] As a result, the "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" does not constitute an executive order subject to article XIII B, section 6, and therefore, is not within the Commission's jurisdiction.

The claimants argue that although the "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" was not issued by a nongovernmental agency, there is an independent basis for the mandate.[55] The claimants base this on the title 5 "minimum condition" regulations below, specifically section 51016. However, as discussed below, the "minimum condition" regulations, including section 51016, do not impose state-mandated activities. Thus, there is no independent basis for the alleged requirement to comply with the "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual."

(2) "Program and Course Approval Handbook"

The September 2001 "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (Handbook) issued by the Chancellor's Office is a document "intended to assist California community college administrators, staff, and faculty who are responsible for designing and submitting new programs or courses to the Chancellor's Office for approval."[56] The Chancellor's Office issued the Handbook pursuant to California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55000.5, which provides:

> The Chancellor shall prepare, distribute, and maintain a detailed handbook for use by the local educational agencies. The handbook shall contain course approval criteria, implementation plans for administrative regulations, and procedures for securing course and program approvals.

In compliance with this duty, the Handbook includes guidelines and explanations of statutory and regulatory requirements and duties of both the state and community college districts. In addition, the Handbook includes the procedures and forms for the approval process of new programs and courses.

The introduction to the Handbook provides that "[s]tatements in this handbook are not law, except for the regulations and statutes quoted in it."[57] The Handbook also provides that colleges are expected to follow the procedures and instructions contained in the Handbook in order to have proposed courses and programs approved by the Chancellor's Office.[58] As provided in statute and regulation, community colleges are required to offer courses of instruction and programs.[59] As a result, community college districts, which are required to offer courses and programs, are also required to follow the procedures and instructions contained in the Handbook when it is necessary to obtain the approval of the Chancellor's Office. However, to the extent that the Handbook provides guidelines and explanations of statutes and regulations, community college districts are not required to comply with the Handbook because these "statements … are not law." Therefore, the procedures and instructions contained in the Handbook constitute an executive order subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution, and thus, subject to the Commission's jurisdiction.

Because the Handbook is subject to the Commission's jurisdiction it is necessary to determine whether or not the Handbook imposes a reimbursable state-mandated new program or higher level of service within the meaning of article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution. This discussion will occur below in the "Curriculum" section of this analysis.

B. The executive order, test claim statutes, and regulations impose some state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service on community college districts subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution

To be subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution, the test claim statutes, regulations, and executive order must (1) mandate a new activity upon the claimant, which (2) constitutes a new program or higher level of service.

To meet the first prong, the language of the test claim statutes and regulations must mandate an activity or task on a local governmental entity or school district. If the language does not mandate or require the claimant to perform a task, article XIII B, section 6, does not apply.

> In statutory construction cases, our fundamental task is to ascertain the intent of lawmakers so as to effectuate the purpose of the statute. [Citations.] We begin by examining the statutory language, giving the words their usual and ordinary meaning. [Citations.] If the terms of the statute are unambiguous, we presume the lawmakers meant what they said, and the plain meaning of the language governs.[60]

This rule of statutory construction is applicable to administrative regulations, as courts have held that, in general, the same rules of construction apply when interpreting administrative regulations as apply when interpreting statutes.[61]

In addition, the California Supreme Court held in Kern High School Dist. that when analyzing state mandate claims, the Commission must look at the underlying program to determine if the claimant's participation in the underlying program is voluntary or legally compelled.[62] The court also held open the possibility that a reimbursable state mandate might be found in circumstances short of legal compulsion; where certain and severe penalties, such as double taxation and other draconian consequences would result if the local entity did not comply with the program.[63]

In order to meet the second prong, the state-mandated activities must constitute a "new program or higher level of service." To constitute a "new program or higher level of service" the activities must carry out the governmental function of providing a service to the public, or impose unique requirements on local governments that do not apply to all residents and entities in the state in order to implement a state policy.[64] In addition, the requirements must be new in comparison with the pre-existing scheme and must be intended to provide an enhanced service to the public.[65] To make this determination, the requirements must initially be compared with the legal requirements in effect immediately prior to its enactment.[66]

When making this comparison courts have held:

> When a statute, although new in form, re-enacts an older statute without substantial change, even though it repeals the older statute, the new statute is but a continuation of the old. There is no break in the continuous operation of the old statute, and no abatement of any of the legal consequences of acts done under the old statute. Especially does this rule apply to the consolidation, revision, or codification of statutes, because, obviously, in such event the intent of the Legislature is to secure clarification, a new arrangement of clauses, and to delete superseded provisions, and not to affect the continuous operation of the law.[67]

For ease of discussion, the test claim statutes, regulations, and executive orders will be analyzed pursuant to the following sections: (1) delineation of functions of the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges and the governing boards of community college districts; (2) minimum conditions entitling community colleges to state aid and the investigation and enforcement of minimum conditions; (3) approval of new colleges and educational centers; (4) comprehensive or master plans for academics and facilities; (5) faculty participation in district and college governance; (6) full-time/part-time faculty ratio; (7) matriculation; (8) transfer centers; (9) vocational education; (10) standards of scholarship; (11) curriculum; (12) degrees and certificates; (13) open courses; and (14) notices to students.

(1) Delineation of Functions of the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges and the Governing Boards of Community College Districts (Ed. Code, §§ 70901, 70901.5, and 70902)

This section addresses Education Code sections 70901, 70901.5, and 70902. Section 70901 sets forth the duties and authority given to the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges and section 70902 sets forth the broad duties and general authority given to the governing boards of local community college districts. In doing so, the Legislature delineates the roles and functions of the state and the local community college districts in postsecondary education. Education Code section 70901.5 sets forth the rulemaking process which the Board of Governors must engage in to adopt regulations.

Included in the duties and authority set forth in Education Code section 70901 is the duty of the Board of Governors to provide general supervision over community college districts. In furtherance of this duty, the Board of Governors is directed to establish minimum standards for various areas of operation for community colleges including student academic standards, employment of academic and administrative staff, the formation of community colleges and districts, and faculty, student and staff participation in the district and college governance. In addition, the Board of Governors is directed to adopt minimum conditions entitling districts to receive state aid for the support of community colleges.

Many of the title 5 regulations pled in this test claim were adopted by the Board of Governors pursuant to Education Code section 70901 and fulfill the duty of the Board of Governors to establish standards regarding the operation of community colleges and the duty to establish conditions, satisfaction of which entitle districts to receive state aid. Education Code sections 70901 and 70901.5 do not impose any activities on community college districts. Instead, as described above, sections 70901 and 70901.5 impose activities on the Board of Governors, and as a result, do not impose reimbursable state mandated activities subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

In the claimants' response to the draft staff analysis, the claimants allege for the first time that Education Code section 70902 imposes affirmative duties resulting in reimbursable state-mandated activities.[68] Specifically, the claimants allege that Education Code section 70902, subdivisions (b)(1), (2), (3), (7), (9), and (14), impose affirmative duties on community college districts, and suggests that these duties impose new programs or higher levels of service.[69] For ease of discussion, whether Education Code section 70902, subdivisions (b)(1), (2), (3), (7), (9), and (14), and the title 5 regulations pled in this test claim constitute reimbursable state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service will be addressed throughout the rest of the test claim analysis.

(2) Minimum Conditions Entitling Community College Districts to State Aid and Investigation and Enforcement of Minimum Conditions (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 51000, 51002, 51004, 51006, 51008, 51012, 51014, 51016, 51018, 51020, 51021, 51022, 51023, 51023.5, 51023.7, 51024, 51025, 51027, 51100, and 51102)

This section addresses California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 51000, 51002, 51004, 51006, 51008, 51012, 51014, 51016, 51018, 51020, 51021, 51022, 51023, 51023.5, 51023.7, 51024, 51025, and 51027, which set forth minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles community college districts to receive state aid. In addition, this section addresses title 5, sections 51100 and 51102, which address the investigation and enforcement of the minimum conditions.

As discussed above, the Board of Governors is required to establish "minimum conditions" and "minimum standards." The claimants and the Chancellor's Office disagree as to the scope of what constitutes a "minimum condition" established pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6), and what constitutes a "minimum standard" established pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(1). The claimants assert that the whole of this test claim addresses "minimum conditions" and the Chancellor's Office asserts that the whole of this test claim deals with "minimum standards" or makes no distinction between the two. In addition, the Chancellor's Office argues as a general matter that community college districts have a pre-existing duty to comply with "minimum conditions" or "minimum standards" established by the Between pages 164 and 381, the claimants do not allege costs associated with Education Code section 70902.

Board of Governors, and therefore none of the "minimum conditions" or "minimum standards" constitute a new program or higher level of service regardless of the content of the "minimum conditions" or "minimum standards."

The following discussion will first address what title 5 regulations constitute "minimum conditions" established pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6). Second, the discussion will address whether the title 5 regulations that constitute "minimum conditions" impose state-mandated activities on community college districts. Third, the discussion will address whether the title 5 regulations addressing the investigation and enforcement of the "minimum conditions" impose state-mandated activities on community college districts. Finally, the discussion will address whether a pre-existing duty to comply with "minimum standards" adopted by the Board of Governors precludes a finding of a new program or higher level of service regardless of the content of the "minimum standards."

a. Not all of the test claim statutes and administrative regulations pled by the claimants constitute "minimum conditions" established pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6)

The claimants have pled 27 Education Code sections, 141 regulations, and two alleged executive orders alleging state-mandated costs resulting from these statutes, regulations, and executive orders. The claimants have pled all of the Education Code sections, most of the administrative regulations,[70] and the alleged executive orders as "minimum conditions" established pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6).[71]

Education Code section 70901 provides in relevant part:

When discussing the regulations pled by the claimants, the Chancellor's Office makes no distinction between "minimum standards" adopted under Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(1) and "minimum conditions" adopted under Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6).[72] The claimants, however, argue that there is a distinction between the establishment of "minimum conditions" and the establishment of "minimum standards."[73]

Generally, when interpreting statutory language the plain meaning of the language governs.[74] In addition, where the Legislature uses a different word or phrase in one part of a statute than it does in other sections or in a similar statute concerning a related subject, it must be presumed that the Legislature intended a different meaning.[75] "Standard" is defined as, "A degree or level of requirement, excellence, or attainment."[76] In contrast, "condition" is defined as, "A proposition upon which another proposition depends; the antecedent of a conditional proposition."[77] The Legislature's decision to use "standard" in one section and "condition" in another, and the different meanings of these words, lead to the presumption that a distinction exists between "minimum standards" and "minimum conditions" as used in section 70901, subdivisions (b)(1) and (b)(6).

In addition to the distinction between "minimum standards" and "minimum conditions," the claimants further assert that the "minimum standards" established by the Board of Governors under Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(1), "are only applicable to" the areas of community college operation set forth by subdivisions (b)(1)(A) – (E).[78] The claimants appear to argue that the test claim statutes and executive orders claimed in this test claim do not constitute "minimum standards," rather "[t]his test claim is about the 'minimum conditions' for the receipt of state aid which were established in 1988."[79]

Although staff agrees that there is a distinction between the "minimum standards" established pursuant to subdivision (b)(1) and the "minimum conditions" established pursuant to subdivision (b)(6), the claimants' broad interpretation of subdivision (b)(6) is contrary to the plain language of Education Code section 70901 and the plain language of the regulations implementing subdivision (b)(6).

Subdivision (b)(1) provides, in relevant part, that the Board of Governors shall "[e]stablish minimum standards as required by law, including, but not limited to, [subdivision (b)(1)(A) – (E)]."[80] Thus, contrary to the claimants' assertion that the minimum standards established pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(1), "are only applicable to" the areas of community college operation set forth in subdivisions (b)(1)(A) – (E), subdivision (b)(1) provides the Board of Governors with broad authority to establish "minimum standards" regarding the general operation of community colleges.

Although the language of Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6), also provides the Board of Governors with broad authority to establish "minimum conditions" entitling districts to receive state aid, within the regulations that implement subdivision (b)(6) the Board of Governors has chosen to limit the scope of what constitutes a "minimum condition." California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 51000, which sets forth the scope of what constitutes minimum conditions established by the Board of Governors pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6), provides:

> The provisions of this Chapter are adopted under the authority of Education Code Section 70901(b)(6) and comprise the rules and regulations fixing and affirming the minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles a district maintaining community colleges to receive state aid for the support of its community colleges. (Emphasis added.)

Based on the plain language of section 51000, the scope of what "comprise[s] the rules and regulations fixing and affirming the minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles a district…to receive state aid…" is limited to the "provisions of this Chapter." The "Chapter" referenced in section 51000, consists of California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 51000, 51002, 51004, 51006, 51008, 51012, 51014, 51016, 51018, 51020-51025, 51027, 51100, and 51102. As a result, pursuant to the plain language of section 51000, 121 of the 141 California Code of Regulation sections, the 27 Education Code sections[81] and the executive order pled by the claimants do not constitute "minimum conditions" established pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6). According to the plain language of section 51000, only California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 51000, 51002, 51004, 51006, 51008, 51010, 51012, 51014, 51016, 51018, 51020 – 51027, 51100, and 51102 comprise the rules and regulations fixing and affirming the minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles a community college district to receive state aid.

The Office of Administrative Law, however, issued a Nomenclature Cross-Reference for title 5 of the California Code of Regulations,[82] effective April 1, 1990, that provides:

[80] Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(1). (Emphasis added.)

[81] The Education Code sections pled by the claimants also cannot constitute "minimum conditions" established by the Board of Governors because the Board of Governors lack the authority to adopt Education Code sections.

[82] Nomenclature Cross-Reference was issued under the authority of the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to Government Code sections Government Code section 11344.

> Effective April 1, 1990, the Office of Administrative Law authorized the renaming of the hierarchical headings used within the Titles of the California Code of Regulations. Until the agencies implement these changes in their regulations, use the following Cross-Reference Table for the new organizational headings used in this Title.[83]

The Cross-Reference Table then provides that "Part" should be read as "Division," "Division" as "Chapter," "Chapter" as "Subchapter," "Subchapter" as "Article," "Article" as "Subarticle," and "Section" remains as "Section."

California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 51000, 51002, 51004, 51006, 51008, 51010, 51012, 51014, 51016, 51018, 51020-51027, 51100, and 51102, are located under "Chapter 2. Community College Standards." "Chapter 2. Community College Standards" consists of two subchapters, "Subchapter 1. Minimum Conditions," and "Subchapter 2. Investigation and Enforcement of Minimum Conditions." "Subchapter 1. Minimum Conditions" consists of sections 51000, 51002, 51004, 51006, 51008, 51010, 51012, 51014, 51016, 51018, and 51020-51027. "Subchapter 2. Investigation and Enforcement of Minimum Conditions" consists of sections 51100 and 51102.

From a plain reading of section 51000 it is unclear whether the Board of Governors has implemented the changes in hierarchical headings in section 51000. As a result, an ambiguity arises as to whether the provisions of "Chapter 2. Community College Standards" (Cal. Code Regs. §§ 51000 – 51102), or only the provisions of "Subchapter 1. Minimum Conditions," (Cal. Code Regs. §§ 51000-51027), "comprise the rules and regulations fixing and affirming the minimum conditions … ."

In order to determine whether the Board of Governors implemented the changes in hierarchical headings, it is necessary to look at the hierarchical headings and the language used in section 51000 prior to and after the effective date of the Nomenclature Cross-Reference for title 5. Immediately prior to the effective date of the Nomenclature Cross-Reference for title 5, section 51000 was part of "Chapter 1. Minimum Standards," while sections 51100 and 51102 were part of "Chapter 2. Investigation and Enforcement of Minimum Standards."[84]

In 1991, "Chapter 1. Minimum Standards" and "Chapter 2. Investigation and Enforcement of Minimum Standards" were brought under "Chapter 2. Community College Standards" and were renamed to "Subchapter 1. Minimum Conditions" and "Subchapter 2. Investigation and Enforcement of Minimum Conditions" by the Office of Administrative Law.[85] However, the language of section 51000 continued to provide, before and after the effective date of the Nomenclature Cross-Reference, "The provisions of this chapter … ."[86] As a result, it is evident that the Board of Governors has not implemented the changes in hierarchical headings in regard to section 51000, and thus, pursuant to the Nomenclature Cross-Reference for title 5, "Chapter" should be read as "Subchapter," and thus, limiting the scope of what constitutes a "minimum condition" established pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6), to "Subchapter 1. Minimum Conditions."

Therefore, staff finds that the scope of what constitutes a "minimum condition," pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6), is limited to California Code of Regulations, title 5, Chapter 2, Subchapter 1, sections 51000 – 51027. Title 5, sections 51100 and 51102, which address the enforcement of the minimum conditions by the Chancellor's Office, are outside the scope of what constitutes a "minimum condition" pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6) and will be discussed later in this analysis. Similarly, the remaining title 5 regulations pled by the claimants are outside of the scope of what constitutes a "minimum condition." Instead, these title 5 regulations were adopted under the broad authority to adopt minimum standards provided by Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(1), or by other legislation requiring the adoption of implementing regulations. These regulations and the test claim statutes and executive order will be discussed later in this analysis.

b. California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 51000, 51002, 51004, 51006, 51008, 51012, 51014, 51016, 51018, 51020, 51021, 51022, 51023, 51023.5, 51023.7, 51024, 51025, and 51027 do not impose any state-mandated activities.

This section addresses California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 51000, 51002, 51004, 51006, 51008, 51012, 51014, 51016, 51018, 51020, 51021, 51022, 51023, 51023.5, 51023.7, 51024, 51025, and 51027. These regulations, established pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b), set forth the minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles community college districts to receive state aid. These conditions cover the following areas of basic operation: standards of scholarship, degrees and certificates, open courses, comprehensive plans, student fees, approval of new colleges and educational centers, accreditation, counseling programs, objectives, curriculum, instructional programs, faculty, staff, students, matriculation services, full-time/part-time faculty, and transfer centers.

In reference to sections 51000-51027, section 51000 provides:

> The provisions of this [Subchapter] [sections 51000-51027] are adopted under the authority of Education Code Section 70901(b)(6) and comprise the rules and regulations fixing and affirming the minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles a district maintaining community colleges to receive state aid for the support of its community colleges.[87]

The Chancellor's Office and the claimants both describe the language of section 51000 as providing that most of the regulations pled by the claimants[88] establish minimum conditions for the receipt of state aid.[89] Read in this manner, section 51000 conditions the receipt of state aid by community college districts on compliance with the minimum conditions. The resulting implication is that a failure to comply with the minimum conditions results in forgoing the receipt of state aid.

Contrary to the plain language of section 51000 and Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6), the Chancellor's Office response to the 02-TC-25/02-TC-31 test claim appears to have interpreted the language of section 51000 as requiring compliance with the minimum conditions in order to receive state aid.[90] It is generally recognized that an agency's interpretation of its own regulations becomes of controlling weight unless the agency's interpretation is plainly erroneous or inconsistent with the regulation.[91] In addition, an agency does not acquire special authority to interpret its own words when, instead of using its expertise and experience to formulate a regulation, it has elected merely to paraphrase the statutory language which it aims to implement.[92] California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 51000 paraphrases Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6), which provides that the Board of Governors are to, "[e]stablish minimum conditions entitling districts to receive state aid for support of community colleges."[93] However, contrary to the plain language of section 51000 and Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6), the Chancellor's Office response to the test claim appears to have interpreted the language of section 51000 as requiring compliance with the minimum conditions in order to receive state aid.[94]

When interpreting regulations, if the terms of the regulation are unambiguous, the plain meaning of the language governs, and an intent that cannot be found in the words of the regulation cannot be found to exist.[95] Additionally, an interpretation of a regulation should not render any language mere surplusage, and the language must be considered in the context of the regulatory framework as a whole.[96]

The plain language of section 51000 indicates that sections 51000-51027 are minimum conditions, "satisfaction of which entitles" a community college district to state aid. The language does not provide that a community college district which has not satisfied the minimum conditions, and therefore is not entitled to state aid, will not receive state aid. This intent cannot be found to exist absent language indicating such intent. In addition, interpreting section 51000 as providing that sections 51000-51027 constitute minimum conditions for the receipt of state aid would render the language of section 51000 that provides, "satisfaction of which entitles," unnecessary and mere surplusage. Giving effect to the usual and ordinary import of this language leads to an interpretation of section 51000 as providing that satisfaction of the minimum conditions leads to an entitlement to state aid by a community college district.

The plain language interpretation of section 51000 is also consistent with the regulatory scheme regarding minimum conditions. California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 51102, which addresses enforcement of the minimum conditions by the Chancellor, provides that after the Chancellor has notified a district of the Chancellor's finding of the district's noncompliance, and the district has responded or the time for a response has lapsed, the Chancellor shall take one or more of the following actions:

> (1) accept in whole or part the district's response regarding noncompliance;

(2) require the district to submit and adhere to a plan and timetable for achieving compliance as a condition for continued receipt of state aid;

(3) withhold all or part of the district's state aid. The amount of withholding shall be related to the extent and gravity of noncompliance and shall require approval of the Board of Governors.

The Chancellor has discretion on which action or actions to take upon a finding that a community college district is not in compliance with the "minimum conditions." Each of these actions that the Chancellor is authorized to take allow for the possible provision of state aid to a community college district. Accordingly, even if the Chancellor finds a community college district to be in noncompliance with title 5, sections 51000-51027, a community college district may receive state aid. Thus, compliance with the minimum conditions (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 51000-51027) is a downstream activity of becoming entitled to receive state aid. As a result, pursuant to Kern High School Dist., the underlying issue that must be addressed to determine whether title 5, sections 51000-51027, mandate any activities is whether community college districts are mandated to become entitled to receive state aid, and not whether community college districts are mandated to receive state aid as discussed by the Chancellor's Office and the claimants.[97]

Pursuant to Kern High School Dist., the Commission must look at the underlying program to determine if a claimant's participation in the underlying program is legally compelled. In addition, the court in Kern High School Dist. left open the possibility that a state mandate might be found in circumstances of practical compulsion, where a local entity faced certain and severe penalties as a result of noncompliance with a program that is not legally compelled. The court in Dept of Finance v. Commission on State Mandates (POBRA) (2009) 170 Cal.App.4th 1355, explained further that a finding of "practical compulsion" requires a concrete showing in the record that a failure to engage in the activity/activities at issue will result in certain and severe penalties.[98]

The claimants argue that a "Kern analysis" is unnecessary and not relevant, because districts are legally compelled to comply with the minimum conditions.[99] However, there is nothing in the governing statutes, regulations, or in the record that community college districts are required to become entitled to state aid. As a result, community college districts do not face legal compulsion to become entitled to state aid.

In addition, even if the Chancellor finds a community college district to be in noncompliance with the minimum conditions (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 51000-51027), and therefore not entitled to receive state aid, the district may still receive state aid. This was the situation faced by San Mateo County Community College District, an example cited to by the claimants in response to the staff analysis for the Discrimination Complaint Procedures (02-TC-46) test claim.[100] In 2001 and 2002, San Mateo County Community College District appointed the Chancellor-Superintendent of the District without complying with section 51010, which requires as a condition to become entitled to state aid that community college districts substantially comply with the equal employment opportunity regulations (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53000 et seq.). The claimants note that "the Chancellor recommended a penalty of $550,513 for the perceived noncompliance in this one instance."[101]

However, in ultimately settling the matter the San Mateo County Community College District and the Chancellor's Office came to an agreement in which San Mateo County Community College District agreed to increased monitoring. The District did not lose any state aid.[102] Thus, there is no concrete evidence that a failure to comply with the minimum conditions results in certain and severe consequences.

The claimants argue that the need for a "concrete showing" pursuant to Department of Finance v. Commission on State Mandates (POBRA), is unnecessary because title 5, section 51000, "is, by itself, legally compelling."[103] In addition, the claimants question the level of certainty needed when applying POBRA to this test claim.[104] Although there is evidence of the possible results of not becoming entitled to state aid, as discussed above, there is no evidence of the certainty or severity of any consequence. The idea of practical compulsion was borrowed by the court in Kern High School Dist. from the federal mandates analysis in City of Sacramento,[105] and the court in POBRA clarified the need for a concrete showing of certain and severe penalties.[106]

In City of Sacramento if the state failed to conform to federal law the certain result would be either double taxation of businesses within the state or the complete termination of the state's unemployment system, which the court determined to constitute certain and severe penalties.[107] In Hayes v. Commission on State Mandates, which is cited to in the federal mandates analyses below, the court found a federal mandate in a situation where districts had been sued in the past and faced future litigation with no real defense as an actual consequence of failing to comply with federal law that codified the equal protection rights of handicapped children, and thus compliance with the federal law would ultimately be compelled.[108] In making this finding the court noted that parents and organized groups representing handicapped children were becoming increasingly litigious in their efforts to secure appropriate education for handicapped children.[109] As an added consequence, districts that failed to comply with the federal law faced the possible loss of federal funds.

Here, there is only a possible loss of funding, but no evidence of the certainty of this loss, as exemplified by San Mateo County Community College District. In addition, there is no evidence that districts face any other certain and severe consequence of not becoming entitled to state aid, such as litigation without any defense. Thus, pursuant to POBRA community college districts do not face practical compulsion to comply with the minimum conditions. As a result, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 51000, 51002, 51004, 51006, 51008, 51012, 51014, 51016, 51018, 51020, 51021, 51022, 51023, 51023.5, 51023.7, 51024, 51025, and 51027, do not impose any state-mandated activities upon community college districts, and therefore do not mandate a new program or higher level of service subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.[110]

c. The regulations providing for the investigation and enforcement of minimum conditions do not impose any state-mandated activities (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 51100 and 51102)

This section addresses the investigation and enforcement of the minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles a district to receive state aid for the support of its community colleges.

Section 51100, subdivision (a), requires the Chancellor to review each community college at least once every seven years "to determine whether it has met the minimum conditions contained in Subchapter 1 (commencing with Section 51000) of Chapter 2." Subdivision (b) requires the Chancellor to inform the chief executive officer of a district if the Chancellor determines that a visit to a college in the district is necessary to investigate compliance. In addition, the Chancellor is required to specify the particular minimum conditions which will be investigated.

The plain language of section 51100 does not require community college districts or community colleges to engage in any activities. Rather, the plain language sets forth the duty of the Chancellor to review whether each community college has met the minimum conditions satisfaction of which entitles a district to receive state aid for the support of its community colleges. As a result, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 51100 does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts or colleges.

Section 51102 requires the Chancellor to notify the chief executive officer of a district in writing if a review conducted pursuant to section 51100 discloses that a college in the district is not in compliance "with the provisions of Subchapter 1 (commencing with Section 51100[111]) of Chapter 2." In addition, the Chancellor is required to request an official written response from the district by a date which the Chancellor is to specify. Subdivision (b) of section 51102 provides that after the Chancellor has received the district's response or if the time for a response has lapsed, the Chancellor is required to take one or more of the following actions:

(1) accept in whole or part the district's response regarding noncompliance;

(2) require the district to submit and adhere to a plan and timetable for achieving compliance as a condition for continued receipt of state aid;

[110] Throughout the claimants' response to the draft staff analysis, dated April 21, 2011, the claimants note that the "minimum condition" regulations are not analyzed on an individual basis. This is unnecessary due to the fact that regardless of the content and subject matter of the individual "minimum condition" regulations, each regulation is a minimum condition satisfaction of which entitles a district to state aid, and therefore does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts.

[111] The intended citation is to California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 51000, as "Subchapter 1 of Chapter 2" does not commence with section 51100. In addition, there are no activities in section 51100 directed at community college districts such that a district would be required to comply with its provisions.

(3) withhold all or part of the district's state aid. The amount of withholding shall be related to the extent and gravity of noncompliance and shall require approval of the Board of Governors.[112]

Subdivision (c) of section 51102 requires the Chancellor to report to the Board of Governors on any of the above actions taken. If the Chancellor decides to withhold all or a portion of a district's state aid, the Chancellor shall inform and obtain the approval of the Board prior to the withholding.

The claimants allege that community college districts are required to: (1) adopt and implement policies and procedures to comply with any enforcement orders that the Chancellor may issue to the district regarding district compliance with the "minimum conditions" (pursuant to Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 51102); (2) prepare and submit to the Chancellor an official written response by a date specified by the Chancellor (pursuant to Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 51102, subd. (a)); and (3) prepare, submit, and implement a plan and timetable for achieving compliance as a condition for continued receipt of state aid if the Chancellor requires (pursuant to Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 51102, subd. (b)).[113] The claimants argue that although the activities alleged to be required by section 51102 are not stated in the section, they are reasonable and necessary.[114]

However, based on the plain language of section 51102, community college districts are not required to engage in any of the activities alleged by the claimants. Upon a plain reading of section 51102, there is no language in the section that requires community college districts to implement policies and procedures to comply with enforcement orders that the Chancellor may issue. Thus, section 51102 does not impose a state mandate to implement policies and procedures to comply with enforcement orders that the Chancellor may issue.

In addition, although section 51102, subdivision (a), requires that the Chancellor request an official written response from a district found to be in noncompliance with the "minimum conditions," the plain language of section 51102 does not include a requirement on districts to prepare and submit an official written response to the Chancellor. In fact, subdivision (b) of section 51102 provides that the Chancellor can only take action "[a]fter receiving the district's written response, or after the time for response has lapsed … ."[115] Thus, not only does the language of section 51102 not require community college districts to prepare and submit an official written response, the language of section 51102 acknowledges the possibility of a district's failure to submit an official written response. As a result, section 51102 does not impose a state mandate to prepare and submit an official written response to the Chancellor.

Also, the plain language of section 51102, subdivision (b), does not impose any activities on community college districts. Instead, section 51102 provides the Chancellor authority to pursue various courses of actions if the Chancellor makes a determination that a community college district is not in compliance with the minimum conditions. No actual action by a community college district is required by section 51102, subdivision (b).

As a result, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 51102 does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts or colleges.

d. The pre-existing duty of community college districts to comply with the "minimum standards" adopted by the Board of Governors does not preclude a finding of a new program or higher level of service regarding a new regulation adopted as a "minimum standard" that requires new activities.

The Chancellor's Office argues that the "…minimum standards of the Board of Governors do not constitute a new program or higher level of service if the Board of Governors was statutorily obligated to set minimum standards in these areas prior to 1975."[116] The Chancellor's Office cites as its authority the California Attorney General's opinion number 99-1214.[117] As relevant to this discussion, opinion number 99-1214 addresses the following question:

> When a local agency brings a particular juvenile facility into compliance with the minimum standards established by the Board of Corrections, is the state required to reimburse the local agency for the costs incurred in meeting the standards?

The Attorney General found that local agencies are not entitled to reimbursement, pursuant to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution, for bringing a juvenile detention facility into compliance with the "minimum standards" established by the Board of Corrections.[118] The Attorney General reasoned that the minimum standards adopted by the Board of Corrections establish what constitutes a "suitable" place for the detention of minors. In addition, counties have been required to maintain a "suitable" place for the detention of minors prior to 1975, and setting the minimum standards for what is "suitable" does not create a "higher" level of service because it has long been the level of service that has been required of local agencies.[119] The Attorney General notes that the minimum standards set by the Board of Corrections for local detention facilities reflect constitutional requirements.[120]

The Chancellor's Office argues that similarly the Board of Governors were required to establish "minimum standards" for the formation, operation, and governing of a community college prior to 1975, and that community college districts have been obligated to adhere to these "minimum standards" prior to 1975.[121] The Chancellor's Office concludes that pursuant to the Attorney General's analysis, "such minimum standards cannot be the basis for a mandate claim."[122]

Although an opinion of the Attorney General is entitled to great weight, it is not controlling legal authority.[123] Without making a finding on the specific statutes analyzed by the Attorney General, the application of the Attorney General's opinion in this instance would be contrary to the intent of article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution and prior case law.

Article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution was intended to preclude the state from shifting to local agencies and school districts the financial responsibility for providing public services in view of the restrictions on the taxing and spending power of local entities under article XIII B and article XIII A of the California Constitution.[124] The intent of article XIII B, section 6, would be violated if the state, through the Board of Governors, could avoid reimbursing community college districts for individual regulations that impose a "new program or higher level of service" by simply adopting those regulations as part of the "minimum standards."

In addition, in Long Beach Unified School Dist., the Long Beach Unified School District sought reimbursement for regulations which required certain school districts to develop and adopt plans for the alleviation and prevention of racial and ethnic segregation of minority students in the district.[125] The state argued that the regulations did not mandate a new program or higher level of service because school districts have a pre-existing constitutional duty to make an effort to eliminate racial segregation in public schools.[126] The court, however, found that specific requirements imposed by the state to ensure compliance with this constitutional duty constituted a "higher level of service."[127] Thus, even with a pre-existing duty to adhere to constitutional requirements or minimum standards established by a state governing agency, a new specific requirement added to the constitutional requirements or minimum standards could result in a reimbursable state mandate if the new requirement increases the level of service to the public.

To the extent that any of the remaining regulations pled by the claimants constitute "minimum standards" and impose any state-mandated increases to the level of service to the public, staff finds that the pre-existing duty of community college districts to comply with the "minimum standards" adopted by the Board of Governors does not preclude a finding of a new program or higher level of service.

(3) Approval of New Colleges and Educational Centers (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55825, 55827, 55828, 55829, 55830, and 55831)

This section addresses title 5, sections 55825 and 55827-55831. These regulations set forth the process to obtain the Board of Governors' approval of a community college district's proposed new college or educational center.

In claimants' response to the draft staff analysis, the claimants allege for the first time that Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), imposes duties on community college districts in relation to the approval of new colleges and educational centers.[128] Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), as it relates to facility plans was severed after the claimants' response to the draft staff analysis.[129] As a result, staff makes no findings on Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), in this section of the analysis.

a. Title 5, sections 55825, 55827, 55828, 55829, 55830, and 55831, do not impose state-mandated activities.

Section 55825 sets forth the responsibilities of a district's governing board seeking approval of a proposed new college or educational center. Section 55825 provides:

> The governing board of a community college district planning the formation of a new college or educational center as defined in section 55827 shall employ and comply with the standards contained in sections 55829, 55830 and 55831.

Section 55827 sets forth the definitions of "college" and "educational center" as used by sections 55825-55831. Section 55828 sets forth the responsibilities of the Chancellor's Office and Board of Governors in the approval process. In addition, section 55828 further specifies the responsibilities of community college districts that are planning the formation of a new college or educational center. If a community college district is planning a new college or educational center, section 55828 requires the district to prepare and submit to the Chancellor's Office a proposal that "should contain at least" the following elements: (1) an assessment of needs and preferences, (2) an identification of objectives, and (3) an analysis of alternative delivery systems. Sections 55829, 55830 and 55831 specify what these three elements must contain.

Read in the context of the whole regulatory scheme rather than individual parts or words standing alone,[130] sections 55825, 55827, 55828, 55829, 55830, and 55831 do not impose any mandated activities on community college districts. As noted above, section 55825 et seq. sets forth requirements for a community college district planning the formation of a new college or educational center. However, pursuant to Kern High School Dist. a requirement resulting from an underlying discretionary decision does not constitute a state-mandated activity. Here, the initial decision to create a new college or educational center, which triggers any activities required by section 55825-55831, is left to the discretion of the community college district. As a result, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55825, 55827, 55828, 55829, 55830, and 55831 do not impose state-mandated activities subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.[131]

(4) Master Plans for Academics (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(1), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404)

This section addresses a statute and regulations regarding the preparation of a community college district's educational master plan.

In the claimant's April 21, 2011 response to the draft staff analysis, the claimants argue that this analysis does not analyze Education Code sections 81821-81823, which address a community college district's plan for capital construction, and thus, the analysis should be revised to include an analysis of whether these sections constitute a new program or higher level of service for community colleges. On January 19, 2011, Commission staff issued a notice of severance of Education Code sections 81821-81823 from this test claim and into the Community College Construction (02-TC-47) test claim. As a result, these code sections will not be analyzed here.

[131] In claimants' response to the draft staff analysis, the claimants continue to disagree with the finding that schools and community college districts are not required to build new instructional facilities as has been found in prior Commission decisions. See, Exhibit V, Claimants' response to the draft staff analysis, supra, p. 13.

In addition, Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), as it relates to facility plans was severed from this test claim.[132] As a result, any discussion regarding section 70902, subdivision (b)(1) will only address academic plans and programs.

a. Not all of the statutes and regulations in the "Master Plans for Academics" impose state-mandated activities.

Educational Master Plan (Ed. Code, § 70901, subd. (b)(1), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404)

Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), and title 5 sections 55401-55404 address the establishment of a community college district's current and long range educational plans for each community college within the district and for the district as a whole. The plain language of Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), and title 5 sections 55401-55404 require community college districts to engage in the following activities:

1. Establish policies for, and approve, current and long range educational plans and programs for each community college that the district maintains and for the district as a whole. (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(1), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55401.)
2. Submit to the chancellor an educational master plan for each community college that it maintains and for the district as a whole on or before November 1 of each year. (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(1), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55402.)
3. Modify and bring up to date annually each educational master plan. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55402.)
4. Submit each educational master plan on a form provided by the Chancellor and with information required by the Chancellor. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55403.)
5. Include in each educational master plan the educational objectives of the community college or district and the future plans for transfer programs, occupational programs, continuing education courses, and remedial and developmental programs. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55404.)
6. Include in each educational master plan, plans for the development and expansion of ancillary services, including services in the library and for counseling, placement, and financial aid on the basis of current and future enrollment. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55404.)

b. The activities mandated by Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), and California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404, do not constitute a reimbursable new program or higher level of service

In order to be reimbursable under article XIII B, section 6, of the California Constitution, Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), and title 5 sections 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404 have to have been adopted on or after 1975.[133] The claimants have pled Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), as added in 1988,[134] and title sections 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404 as added in 1971 and last amended in 1991. However, the language of title 5sections 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404 has remained unchanged since the adoption of the sections in 1971, and Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), does not impose any additional duties on community college districts that are not present in title 5 sections 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404.

The claimants agree that the language of sections 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404, has remained the same since 1971, but argue that title 5 section 51008, which is a "minimum condition," is the source of the mandate.[135] As discussed above, section 51008 does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts. However, even if section 51008 imposed a state-mandate to engage in the activities required by sections 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404, these requirements were in place since 1971.

As a result, staff finds that the activities mandated by Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(1), and California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55401, 55402, 55403, and 55404 do not constitute a new program or higher level of service subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

(5) Faculty, Staff, and Student Participation in District and College Governance (Ed. Code, § 70902, subds. (b)(7) and (b)(14); and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 53200, 53202-53204, and 53207)

This section discusses Education Code section 70902, subdivisions (b)(7) and (b)(14), and title 5, sections 53200, 53202-53204, and 53027, relating to faculty, staff, and student participation in district and college governance. Section 53200 contains the definitions of terms used in the title 5 regulations pled in this section of the analysis. Sections 53202 and 53203 provide for the formation of academic senates and the adoption of policies by the district delegating authority and responsibilities to an academic senate. Section 53204 sets forth the Board of Governors' intent in regard to the title 5 regulations pled in this section of the analysis. Section 53207 addresses the release of faculty members to serve on the Academic Senate of the California Community Colleges (ASCCC).

a. Education Code section 70902, subdivisions (b)(7) and (b)(14), and Title 5, sections 53202, 53203, and 53207, impose state-mandated activities

Polices to Ensure Staff, and Student Opportunities to Participate in College Governance (Ed. Code, § 70902, subds. (b)(7) and (b)(14))

Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(7), requires community college districts to establish procedures to ensure faculty, staff, and students the opportunity to express their opinions at the campus level, to ensure that these opinions are given every reasonable consideration, and to ensure the right of the academic senates to assume primary responsibility for making recommendations in the areas of curriculum and academic standards. The procedures that community college districts are required to establish must be consistent with the minimum standards established by the Board of Governors. The minimum standards regarding faculty are set forth in title 5, sections 53200-53207, discussed below. In contrast, the minimum standards established by the Board of Governors addressing staff and student participation are set forth in title 5, sections 51023.5 and 51023.7, which the Board of Governors established as minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles a district to state aid. As a result, although the requirements of title 5, sections 51023.5 and 51023.7, do not independently impose state-mandated activities, Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(7), requires that community college districts establish policies to ensure staff and students the opportunity to participate in college governance, that are consistent with sections 51023.5 and 51023.7.

Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(14), requires community college districts to participate in the consultation process established by the Board of Governors for the development and review of policy proposals. This activity refers to the process established by the Board of Governors pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (e). Education Code section 70901, subdivision (e), requires the Board of Governors to establish and carry out a process for consultation with institutional representatives of community college districts so as to ensure their participation in the development and review of policy proposals before adoption by the Board of Governors.

Thus, staff finds that Education Code section 70902, subdivisions (b)(7) and (b)(14), impose the following state-mandated activities:

1. Establish procedures to ensure faculty, staff, and students the opportunity to express their opinions at the campus level, to ensure that these opinions are given every reasonable consideration, and to ensure that these opinions are given every reasonable consideration, and to ensure the right of the academic senates to assume primary responsibility for making recommendations in the areas of curriculum and academic standards.

   The procedures established shall be consistent with the minimum standards set forth in California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 53200-53207 (for faculty), 51023.5 (for staff), and 51023.7 (for students). (Ed. Code, § 70902, subds. (b)(7) (Stats. 1988, ch. 973).)

2. Participate in the consultation process established by the Board of Governors for the development and review of policy proposals pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (e). (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(14) (Stats. 1988. Ch. 973).)

Formation and Powers of an Academic Senate (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 53202 and 53203)

In order to provide faculty with a formal and effective procedure for participating in the formation and implementation of district policies on academic and professional matters, title 5, section 53201, authorizes the formation of academic senates at the college or district level.[136] Section 53202 provides that the formation of an academic senate occurs by a vote to form an academic senate by the full-time faculty of a community college or district.[137] After the formation of the college or district academic senate, the district must recognize the academic senate and authorize the academic senate to engage in specific activities. Section 53203, requires community college districts to establish policies for the delegation of specific authority and responsibilities to the academic senates upon the formation of the academic senates. Reading section 53201 in context with section 53202, it is clear that the initial decision to establish a college or district academic senate lies with the faculty of the colleges and is not a decision made by the district itself. As a result, if the faculty of a college chooses to establish an academic senate, the district is mandated by the plain language of the regulations to recognize the academic senate and establish policies for the delegation of specific authority and responsibilities.

[136] The claimants have not pled section 53201 in this test claim.

[137] California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 53202, subdivision (e), provides for the formation of an academic senate by part-time faculty in the event that a college does not have any full-time faculty.

Pursuant to the above discussion, staff finds that title 5, sections 53202 and 53203, impose the following state-mandated activities:

1. Recognize the college or district-wide academic senate formed by the full-time faculty (or part-time faculty in the absence of any full-time faculty in the college) and authorize the faculty to:

    a. Fix and amend by vote of the full-time faculty the composition, structure, and procedures of the academic senate, and

    b. Provide for the selection, in accordance with accepted democratic election procedures, the members of the academic senate. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53202 (Register 90, No. 49).)

2. Adopt policies for appropriate delegation of authority and responsibility to its college or district academic senate.

    Policies must provide, at a minimum, that the governing board or its designees will consult collegially with the academic senate when adopting policies and procedures on academic and professional matters. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53203, subd. (a) (Register 94, No. 38).)

3. Consult collegially with representatives of the academic senate when adopting the policies for appropriate delegation of authority and responsibility to its college or district academic senate pursuant to California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 53202, subd. (a). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53203, subd. (b) (Register 94, No. 38).)

4. Adopt procedures for responding to recommendations of the academic senate that incorporate the following:

    a. In instances where the governing board elects to rely primarily upon the advice and judgment of the academic senate, the recommendations of the senate will normally be accepted, and only in exceptional circumstances and for compelling reasons will the recommendation not be accepted. If a recommendation is not accepted, the governing board or its designee, upon request of the academic senate, shall promptly communicate its reasons in writing to the academic senate. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53203, subd. (d)(1) (Register 94, No. 38).)

    b. In instances where the governing board elects to provide for mutual agreement with the academic senate, and agreement has not been reached, existing policy shall remain in effect unless continuing with such policy exposes the district to legal liability or causes substantial fiscal hardship. In cases where there is no existing policy, or in cases where the exposure to legal liability or substantial fiscal hardship requires existing policy to be changed, the governing board may act, after a good faith effort to reach agreement, only for compelling legal, fiscal, or organizational reasons. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53203, subd. (d)(2) (Register 94, No. 38).)

Scope of Regulations (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53204)

Title 5, section 53204, provides the Board of Governors' intent to limit the application of title 5, section 53200 et seq. Specifically, section 53204 provides:

> Nothing in [Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53200 et seq.] shall be construed to impinge upon the due process rights of faculty, nor to detract from any negotiated agreements between collective bargaining representatives and district governing boards. It is the intent of the Board of Governors to respect agreements between > academic senates and collective bargaining representatives as to how they will consult, collaborate, share, or delegate among themselves the responsibilities that are or may be delegated to the academic senate pursuant to these regulations.

As can be seen by the language quoted above, section 53204 does not impose any mandated activities on community college districts.

Release or Reassignment of Faculty Members to the Academic Senate of the California Community Colleges (ASCCC) (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53207)

The ASCCC has been established through ratification by local academic senates, and that the ASCCC is recognized by the Board of Governors as the representative of community college academic senates before the Board of Governors.[138] The purpose of the ASCCC is to provide community college faculty with a formal and effective procedure for participating in the formation of state policies on academic and professional matters.

Title 5 section 53207 provides for the release or reassignment of faculty members elected to serve as president and vice president of the ASCCC, and for the reimbursement of the districts employing the faculty members elected by the ASCCC. Section 53207 provides:

> This section shall only be operative during any fiscal year in which sufficient funds are provided therefore to the ASCCC in the annual Budget Act for that fiscal year or other legislation."[139]

The claimants note that the sufficiency of the amount provided to the ASCCC is determined by the state, and that when funding is provided it is unclear whether reimbursements provided pursuant to section 53207 fully reimburse all costs for releasing faculty members.[140] Staff agrees. Thus, staff finds that title 5 section 53207 requires community college districts to engage in the following state-mandated activities, subject to offsets for reimbursement provided by the ASCCC for release and reassignment time:

1. Grant faculty members elected to serve as president and vice president of the Academic Senate of the California Community Colleges release or reassigned time from their terms of office. This activity is subject to offsetting revenue from reimbursement of release or reassigned time and administrative costs for hiring faculty to replace the faculty serving as president or vice president pursuant to title 5 section 53207, subdivision (b) (Register 2003, No. 18). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53207, subd. (a) (Register 2003, No. 18).)
2. Identify release or reassigned time prior to September of each year for employees elected to serve as president and vice president of the Academic Senate of the California Community Colleges for reimbursement at the part-time replacement cost. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53207, subd. (c) (Register 2003, No. 18).)
3. If the release or reassigned time need identified by the district is 100 percent and the position is in a hard to replace discipline area, certify this to the Chancellor by August 1

[139] California Code section 53207, subdivision (f). During the fiscal year in which the reimbursement period for this test claim begins (2001-2002 fiscal year), $497,000 was provided for reimbursement per California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 53207 (see, the 2001-02 Budget Act line-item 6870-101-0001, schedule (13)).

for reimbursement at the full-time temporary replacement cost of the employee released. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53207, subd. (c) (Register 2003, No. 18).)

b. The activities mandated by Education Code section 70902, subdivisions (b)(7) and (b)(14), and California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 53202, 53203, and 53207, constitute new programs or higher levels of service subject to article XIIIB, section 6 of the California Constitution.

To constitute a "new program or higher level of service" the activities must carry out the governmental function of providing a service to the public, or impose unique requirements on local governments that do not apply to all residents and entities in the state in order to implement a state policy.[141] In addition, the requirements must be new in comparison with the pre-existing scheme and must be intended to provide an enhanced service to the public.[142] To make this determination, the requirements must initially be compared with the legal requirements in effect immediately prior to its enactment.[143]

The activities mandated by Education Code section 70902, subdivisions (b)(7) and (b)(14), and title 5, sections 53202, 53203, and 53207, constitute a "program" within the meaning of article XIII B of the California Constitution by carrying out the governmental function of education through providing an avenue for faculty to participate in the formation of state policies on academics and professional matters.

The claimants have pled title 5, section 53202, as last amended in 1990.[144] Section 53202 mandates community college districts to engage in the following activity:

> Recognize the college or district-wide academic senate formed by the full-time faculty (or part-time faculty in the absence of any full-time faculty in the college) and authorize the faculty to:
>
> a. Fix and amend by vote of the full-time faculty the composition, structure, and procedures of the academic senate, and
> b. Provide for the selection, in accordance with accepted democratic election procedures, the members of the academic senate. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53202 (Register 90, No. 49).)

However, since 1974, community college districts have been required to engage in this activity, and as a result, the activity mandated by title 5, section 53202, does not constitute a new program or higher level of service.[145] The claimants argue that prior to 1975, section 53202 did not require community college districts to "recognize" the academic senate.[146] However, in 1974, former title 5 section 53203 required districts to consider and respond to the views and recommendations of the academic senate.[147] In addition, former title 5 section 53204 required community college districts to meet and confer with the academic senates upon request by the academic senate. Thus, pursuant to former title 5 sections 53203 and 53204, community college districts were required to recognize academic senates.

The claimants have pled Education Code section 70902, subdivisions (b)(7) and (b)(14), as added in 1988.[148] Immediately prior to 1988, community college districts were not required to engage in the activities mandated by section 70902, subdivisions (b)(7) and (b)(14). As a result, the activities mandated by section 70902, subdivisions (b)(7) and (b)(14), constitute new programs or higher levels of service.

Title 5, section 53203, as added in 1990 and last amended in 1994; and section 53207, as added in 2003.[149] Immediately prior to 1990 and 2003, community college districts were not required to engage in the activities mandated by sections 53203 and 53207, respectively. As a result, the activities mandated by title 5, sections 53203 and 53207, constitute a new program or higher level of service subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

(i) Summary of state-mandated new program or higher level of service

Pursuant to the above discussion, staff finds that the following activities relating to faculty participation in district and college governance constitute a state-mandated new program or higher level of service:

1. Establish procedures to ensure faculty, staff, and students the opportunity to express their opinions at the campus level, to ensure that these opinions are given every reasonable consideration, and to ensure that these opinions are given every reasonable consideration, and to ensure the right of the academic senates to assume primary responsibility for making recommendations in the areas of curriculum and academic standards.

   The procedures established shall be consistent with the minimum standards set forth in California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 53200-53207 (for faculty), 51023.5 (for staff), and 51023.7 (for students). (Ed. Code, § 70902, subds. (b)(7) (Stats. 1988, ch. 973).)

2. Participate in the consultation process established by the Board of Governors for the development and review of policy proposals pursuant to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (e). (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(14) (Stats. 1988. Ch. 973).)

3. Adopt policies for appropriate delegation of authority and responsibility to its college or district academic senate.

   Policies must provide, at a minimum, that the governing board or its designees will consult collegially with the academic senate when adopting policies and procedures on academic and professional matters. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53203, subd. (a) (Register 94, No. 38).)

4. Consult collegially with representatives of the academic senate when adopting the policies for appropriate delegation of authority and responsibility to its college or district

5. Adopt procedures for responding to recommendations of the academic senate that incorporate the following:

    a. In instances where the governing board elects to rely primarily upon the advice and judgment of the academic senate, the recommendations of the senate will normally be accepted, and only in exceptional circumstances and for compelling reasons will the recommendation not be accepted. If a recommendation is not accepted, the governing board or its designee, upon request of the academic senate, shall promptly communicate its reasons in writing to the academic senate. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53203, subd. (d)(1) (Register 94, No. 38).)

    b. In instances where the governing board elects to provide for mutual agreement with the academic senate, and agreement has not been reached, existing policy shall remain in effect unless continuing with such policy exposes the district to legal liability or causes substantial fiscal hardship. In cases where there is no existing policy, or in cases where the exposure to legal liability or substantial fiscal hardship requires existing policy to be changed, the governing board may act, after a good faith effort to reach agreement, only for compelling legal, fiscal, or organizational reasons. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53203, subd. (d)(2) (Register 94, No. 38).)

6. Grant faculty members elected to serve as president and vice president of the Academic Senate of the California Community Colleges release or reassigned time from their terms of office. This activity is subject to offsetting revenue from reimbursement of release or reassigned time and administrative costs for hiring faculty to replace the faculty serving as president or vice president pursuant to title 5 section 53207, subdivision (b) (Register 2003, No. 18). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53207, subd. (a) (Register 2003, No. 18).)

7. Identify release or reassigned time prior to September of each year for employees elected to serve as president and vice president of the Academic Senate of the California Community Colleges for reimbursement at the part-time replacement cost. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53207, subd. (c) (Register 2003, No. 18).)

8. If the release or reassigned time need identified by the district is 100 percent and the position is in a hard to replace discipline area, certify this to the Chancellor by August 1 for reimbursement at the full-time temporary replacement cost of the employee released. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53207, subd. (c) (Register 2003, No. 18).)

(6) Full-time/Part-time Faculty Ratio (Ed. Code, §§ 87482.6 and 87482.7; and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 53300-53302, 53308-53312, and 53314)

In 1988, the Legislature adopted Assembly Bill 1725 (A.B. 1725)[150] with the intent to reform and improve community college education programs and the allocation of education funds to community colleges. Included as part of these improvements was the initiation of "program-based funding," (Ed. Code, § 84750 et seq.) which the Legislature declared would more adequately and accountably fund the costs of providing community college education.[151] The [150] Statutes 1988, chapter 973.

[151] Education Code section 84755.

Legislature noted, however, that program-based funding would not be implemented until fiscal year 1991-1992. As a result of the delayed implementation of program-based funding and the number of reforms community colleges were to face, the Legislature provided transitional funding for program improvements and mandates imposed as part of the A.B. 1725 reform that could operate until program-based funding was implemented.[152]

One of the reforms to be funded by the transitional program improvement funds addressed the policy of the Board of Governors to have at least 75 percent of the hours of credit instruction in the California Community Colleges, as a system, should be taught by full-time instructors.[153] To effectuate the reform the Legislature adopted Education Code sections 87482.6 in 1988 and 87482.7 in 1991.[154] Education Code section 87482.6 requires the Board of Governors to adopt regulations governing the percentage of full-time instructors employed by a district and specifies the content of the regulations.[155] Education Code section 87482.7 addresses a related issue, requiring community college districts to adopt minimum condition regulations regarding the percentage of hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors.[156]

In 1990, the Board of Governors adopted California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 53300 et seq. to implement Education Code section 87482.6.[157] These regulations largely restated the content of Education Code section 87482.6, by providing for the Chancellor's calculation of full-time faculty to be hired by districts using specific funding, and a specific reduction of funding for failing to hire the calculated amount. In 1991, the Board of Governors adopted California

[156] Education Code section 87482.7, subdivision (a). Staff notes that Education Code section 87482.7 directs the Board of Governors to establish "minimum standards" pursuant to "paragraph (6) of subdivision (b) of Section 70901;" however, section 70901, subdivision (b)(6), directs the Board of Governors to adopt "minimum conditions." Courts have held that, "where the context of a statute, or other considerations arising therefrom, show that a word was erroneously used by the legislature for another word which, if substituted, will harmonize the statute with its obvious purpose and intent, the statute will be read as though the intended word had been used." (Southern Pac. Co. v. Riverside County (1939) 35 Cal.App.2d. 380, 388. Here, Education Code section 87482.7 cites directly to Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b)(6), which addresses "minimum conditions." In addition, Education Code section 87482.6, which was enacted prior to Education Code section 87482.7, directed the Board of Governors to adopt regulations governing the percentage of credit instruction taught by full-time faculty, but did not require these regulations to be adopted as minimum conditions. Interpreting Education Code section 87482.7 as requiring the Board of Governors to adopt "minimum standards" instead of "minimum conditions" would be duplicative of Education Code section 87482.6. Thus, in context with the above it is clear that the Legislature intended Education Code section 87482.7 to direct the Board of Governors to adopt "minimum conditions."

[157] California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 53300 et seq. (Register 90, Nos. 32-37).

Code of Regulations, title 5, section 51025, to implement Education Code section 87482.7.[158] By 2001, title 5, sections 51025 and 53300 et seq., had been amended to be read in conjunction with one another. In effect, section 51025 directs community college districts to use growth and program improvement allocations to secure full-time faculty. The number of faculty is to be determined by the Chancellor using the methods of calculation set forth in title 5, sections 53300-53314, which use the percentage of credit instruction hours taught by faculty as a factor.[159]

a. Education Code sections 87482.6 and 87482.7, and California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 53300-53302, 53308-53312, and 53314, do not impose any state-mandated activities

In section 87482.6 the Legislature established a scheme governing the percentage of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors and linked the program improvement funds received by community college districts with the maintenance of the percentage. Subdivision (a) of section 87482.6 directs community college districts that have less than 75 percent of their hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors to apply a portion of the program improvement allocation as follows:

> (1) Districts which, in the prior fiscal year, had between 67 percent and 75 percent of their hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors shall apply up to 33 percent of their program improvement allocation as necessary to reach the 75 percent standard. If a district in this category chooses instead not to improve its percentage, the board of governors shall withhold 33 percent of the district's program improvement allocation.
> (2) Districts which, in the prior fiscal year, had less than 67 percent of their hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors shall apply up to 40 percent of their program improvement allocation as necessary to reach the 75 percent standard. If a district in this category chooses instead not to improve its percentage, the board of governors shall withhold 40 percent of the district's program improvement allocation. Districts which maintain 75 percent or more of their hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors shall otherwise be free to use their program improvement allocation for any of the purposes specified in Section 84755.[160]

[158] California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 51025 (Register 91, No. 46). California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 51025, has been found to not constitute a reimbursable state-mandated new program or higher level of service in the "Minimum Conditions Entitling Community College Districts to State Aid" section of this analysis.

[159] Staff notes that it has already found that title 5, section 51025, does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts, however, it is helpful to include a discussion of section 51025 for purposes of the below analysis. See the "Minimum Conditions Entitling Community College Districts to State Aid" section of the test claim analysis.

[160] Education Code section 87482.6, subdivision (a), as added by Statutes 1988, chapter 973.

face certain and severe penalties independent of the program funds at issue, and that a loss of the program funds at issue does not constitute a severe penalty.[162]

The plain language of subdivision (a) of section 87482.6 directs how community college districts, which have less than 75 percent of their hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors, are to expend program improvement funds. However, as shown by the plain language of the subdivisions (a)(1) and (a)(2) of section 87482.6, districts have the ability to choose "instead not to improve its percentage." If a district chooses not to improve its full-time instructor percentage it will forgo the percentage of its program improvement funds that were to be used toward achieving the 75 percent standard. Thus, the claimants only face the loss of funding for an optional program, and do not face a "substantial penalty independent of the program funds at issue."[163] As a result, under Kern High School Dist., subdivision (a) of section 87482.6 does not impose any state-mandated activities.

Title 5, section 51025, which implements Education Code section 87482.6, contains provisions similar to subdivision (a) of section 87482.6. Specifically, title 5, section 51025, directs community college districts that have a full-time faculty percentage under 75 percent to use specified amounts of growth and program improvement allocations to increase the number of full-time faculty in the districts. If a district chooses not to increase its full-time faculty it is subject to a reduction of revenue equal to the average replacement cost of the faculty not hired, which would have been covered by the growth and program improvement allocations provided by the state. The revenue that is taken from community college districts is then redirected back to community college districts for purposes of faculty and staff diversity. Thus, like Education Code section 87482.6, the claimants do not face a "substantial penalty independent of the program funds at issue."[164] As a result, consistent with the finding in the "Minimum Conditions Entitling Community College Districts to State Aid" section of this test claim analysis, title 5, section 51025, does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college district in implementing the discretionary program set forth in Education Code section 87482.6.

Subdivision (b) of section 87482.6 provides, "The board of governors shall adopt regulations for the effective administration of this section [Ed. Code, § 87482.6]. Unless and until amended by the board of governors, the regulations shall provide as follows … ." Subdivision (b) proceeds to set forth the content of the regulations that the Board of Governors must adopt unless and until the Board of Governors decides to amend the content. Subdivision (b) does not impose any activities on community college districts. Instead, the plain language of subdivision (b) directs the Board of Governors to engage in a specified activity (i.e. adopt regulations to implement Ed. Code, § 87482.6). In addition, pursuant to the language of section 87482.6, subdivision (b), the provisions of subdivision (b) are no longer operative due to the Board of Governors' adoption of title 5, sections 53300 et seq. As a result, staff finds that Education Code section 87482.6 does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts.

In response to the draft staff analysis, the claimants argue that subdivision (b)(4) of section 87482.6, and former title 5, section 53320, indicate that a community college district faces an additional penalty, on top of losing a percentage of its program improvement allocation, [163] Id. at p. 731.

[164] Kern High School Dist., supra, 30 Cal.4th 727, 731.

if the district chooses not to increase its full-time instructor percentage.[165] Subdivision (b)(4) provides for a reduction of a district's base budget by an amount equivalent to the average replacement cost times the deficiency in the number of full-time faculty that the Chancellor determined a district was to retain with its program improvement allocation. Former title 5, section 53320, mirrored these provisions. The claimants assert that this "is clearly a penalty independent of the program funds at issue for any one fiscal year."[166]

However, subdivision (b) of section 87482.6 and title 5, sections 53300-53320, set forth provisions "for the effective administration" of the provisions of subdivision (a), which set forth a voluntary program. The assumption in the provisions of subdivision (b) is that a district is participating, as indicated by subdivision (b)(3), which provides that the Chancellor "shall compute the number of full-time faculty (FTF) which are to be secured through the use of the prescribed portion of program improvement revenue allocated to each district."[167] Thus, subdivision (b)(4) sets forth the result of a district's failure to obtain the amount of full-time faculty using program improvement revenue pursuant to a discretionary program.

In addition, even if a community college district did participate in the voluntary program set forth in Education Code section 87482.6, subdivision (a), any portion of its base budget that would be subject to reduction pursuant to Education Code section 87482.6, subdivision (b)(4), and former title 5, section 53320, would have come from its program improvement revenue. Subdivision (b)(4) of section 87482.6 and former title 5, section 53320, require the Chancellor to review the extent to which districts had retained full time faculty using the districts' program improvement revenue two years after the receipt of that revenue. Pursuant to the provisions of Education Code section 87455, subdivision (d), which addresses the allocation and use of program improvement revenue, the program improvement revenues would have become part of a district's base budget during the two year period. Thus, contrary to the claimant's assertion, there is not a penalty independent of the program funds at issue.

Finally, as noted above, pursuant to its own terms Education Code section 87482.6, subdivision (b), is no longer operative due to the adoption of title 5, sections 53300-53320. Former title 5, section 53320, which mirrored the terms of section 87482.6, subdivision (b), was repealed in 1994. Thus, even assuming that the provisions of Education Code section 87482.6, subdivision (b), and former title 5, section 53320, did impose an additional penalty independent of the program funds at issue, these provisions were not in effect during the reimbursement period of this test claim.[168] As a result, districts did not face the additional penalty during the reimbursement period that the claimants' argue compel districts to participate in the program set forth in Education Code section 87482.6, subdivision (a).

Education Code section 87482.7 addresses the adoption of regulations by the Board of Governors and the transfer of program improvement funds by the Department of Finance from community college districts, which do not maintain the percentage of their hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors at 75 percent, to the Employment Opportunity Fund. Section 87482.7 provides:

[167] Education Code section 87482.6, subdivision (b)(3). (Italics added.)

[168] The reimbursement period for this test claim began on July 1, 2001.

(a) The board of governors shall, pursuant to paragraph (6) of subdivision (b) of Section 70901, adopt regulations that establish minimum standards regarding the percentage of hours of credit instruction that shall be taught by full-time instructors.

(b) Upon notification by the board of governors, the Department of Finance shall transfer any money deducted from district apportionments pursuant to the regulations adopted under this section. This money shall be transferred to the Employment Opportunity Fund pursuant to Section 87107.

The plain language of section 87482.7, quoted above, directs the Board of Governors to engage in specified activities; however, it does not impose any activities on community college districts. Thus, staff finds that Education Code section 87482.7 does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts.

As discussed above, title 5, sections 53300-53314, were initially adopted by the Board of Governors as directed by Education Code section 87482.6. Sections 53300-53314, set forth the methods of calculation used by the Chancellor to determine the number of full-time faculty which each district is to secure using growth and program improvement revenue pursuant to title 5, section 51025.[169] The claimants argue that "the methods of calculating the faculty ratios rely upon district information and have a direct bearing on the amount of program funding or penalty for each district."[170] However, sections 53300-53314 do not require the submission of this information. Thus, the activities contained in title 5, sections 53300-53314, do not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts; rather, these activities are imposed on the Chancellor.

Pursuant to the above discussion, staff finds that Education Code sections 87482.6 and 87482.7, and California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 53300-53302, 53308-53312, and 53314, do not impose any state-mandated activities subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

(7) Matriculation (Ed. Code, §§ 78211.5, 78212, 78213, 78214, 78215, and 78216; and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55500, 55502, 55510, 55512, 55514, 55516, 55518, 55520, 55521, 55522, 55523, 55524, 55525, 55526, 55530, 55532, and 55534)

This section addresses the provision of matriculation programs by community college districts pursuant to the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act of 1986 (Ed. Code §§ 78210-78218) and its implementing regulations (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55500 et seq.). As defined by the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act of 1986 and its implementing regulations, matriculation is "a process that brings a college and a student who enrolls for credit into an agreement for the purpose of realizing the student's educational goal through the college's established programs, policies, and requirements."[171] For purposes of this section only, the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act of 1986 shall be referred to as "the Act."

In response to the draft staff analysis, the claimants cite to Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2), and state that subdivision (b)(2) requires community college districts to approve courses of instruction and educational programs, and to submit those programs to the Board of Governors. Although matriculation is related to the establishment of courses of instruction and educational programs, subdivision (b)(2) does not require community college districts to participate in the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act, nor do the claimants analyze how Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2), imposes any requirements as relevant to the this section. As a result, Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2), will not be further addressed in this section of the analysis.

a. Education Code sections 78211.5, 78212, and 78213 – 78216, and California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55500, 55502, 55510, 55512, 55514, 55516, 55518, 55520 – 55526, 55530, 55532, and 55534 do not impose any state-mandated activities

Under Kern High School Dist., it is necessary to look at the underlying program, the Act (Education Code sections 78210 – 78218) and its implementing regulations (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55500 – 55534), to determine if the claimants' participation is legally compelled.

Although the claimants point to various sections of the Act that allegedly mandate activities upon the claimants, these sections must be read in the context of the whole statutory scheme and not as individual parts or words standing alone.[172] Education Code section 78211.5 provides in relevant part:

> (a) The Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges shall initially provide for full implementation of the matriculation services specified in Section 78212 in as many community colleges as the funds appropriated for this purpose allow.
> (b) Because of the need to develop and evaluate data on a standard statewide basis concerning the implementation and effectiveness of the matriculation services described in this article [Education Code sections 78210 – 78218], any college or district receiving funding under this article shall agree to carry out its provisions as specified, but shall be bound to that agreement only for the period during which funding is received pursuant to this article. … . (Emphasis added.)

In addition, California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55500, provides in relevant part:

> (a) This [subchapter (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55500-55534)][173] implements and should be read in conjunction with the provisions of the [Act of 1986], c. 1467, Stats. 1986, codified as Education Code Sections 78210, et seq. … .[¶]
> (b) The requirements of this [subchapter] apply only to districts receiving funds pursuant to Education Code Section 78216 for the period of time during which such funds are received. … . (Emphasis added.)

The claimants argue that when the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act is operative, community college districts are required to comply with the act, and that districts have no choice to decline to participate by refusing funding.[174]

However, the plain language of Education Code section 78211.5 and California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55500, show the voluntary nature of participation in, and as a result, compliance with the provisions of the Act and its implementing regulations. Education Code section 78211.5, subdivision (a), indicates an acknowledgement of the possibility that not all community colleges will receive funds pursuant to the Act. Pursuant to Education Code section 78211.5, subdivision (b), community colleges or districts must agree to carry out the provisions of the Act as a condition to receive funding under the Act. Also, community colleges and districts are not bound by this agreement to carry out the provisions of the Act when funding is not received under the Act. Thus, compliance with the provisions of the Act and its implementing regulations are triggered by the underlying discretionary decisions made by community colleges or districts to participate in the Act in order to receive funds under the Act, and therefore, community colleges and districts are not legally compelled to comply with the provisions of the Act or its implementing regulations.

The claimants assert that the Act (Ed. Code §§ 78210-78218), and the title 5 regulations pled by the claimants regarding matriculation programs (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55500-55534) are two separate sources that require community college districts to provide matriculation services.[175] The claimants argue that, "[i]ndependently of the [Act], community college districts are required to comply with the Title 5 regulations mandating matriculation services."[176] However, this is contrary to the plain language of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55500, which provides that California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55500-55534 "implement and should be read in conjunction with the provisions of the [Act]." Therefore, the requirements found in California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55500-55534 cannot be read independently of the Act. In addition, pursuant to the plain language of section 55500, subdivision (b), the requirements of sections 55500-55534 only apply to districts in receipt of funds under the Act. As a result, the requirements of California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55500-55534 are inextricably tied to the Act, participation in which is discretionary.

There is no evidence in the record of, nor have the claimants alleged, certain and severe penalties resulting from noncompliance with the Act or its implementing regulations. Outside of forgoing funds provided pursuant to the Act, claimants do not face a "substantial penalty independent of the program funds at issue."[177] As a result, the claimants do not face practical compulsion to comply with the provisions of the Act or its implementing regulations.

Thus, staff finds that Education Code sections 78211.5, 78212, and 78213 – 78216, and California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55500, 55502, 55510, 55512, 55514, 55516, 55518, 55520 – 55526, 55530, 55532, and 55534 do not impose any state-mandated activities upon community college districts, and therefore, do not mandate a new program or higher level of service subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

This section addresses the transfer system between the three segments of California's higher education system and the functions of various entities involved in the transfer system. The word "matriculation" as used in this section of the analysis does not refer to the Seymour-Campbell

Matriculation Act of 1986. Instead for purposes of this section "matriculation" refers to the transfer of students between the three segments of California's higher education system.

In addition, as used in this section, "governing boards" is defined as the local boards of trustees and the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, the Trustees of the California State University, and the Regents of the University of California.[178]

a. Education Code sections 66721.5, 66731, 66732, 66736, 66738, 66740, and 66742 impose state-mandated activities

Transfer System: Transfer Core Curriculum, Transfer Function, and Transfer Agreement (Ed. Code, §§ 66721, 66721.5, 66722, and 66722.5)

Sections 66721, 66721.5, 66722, and 66722.5 address the development and distribution of a "transfer core curriculum" for use by students for the purpose of transferring from the California Community College system to the University of California (UC) or California State University (CSU) systems.

The plain language of section 66721 does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts. Rather, section 66721 sets forth the duty of the Board of Governors, the Regents of the UC, and the Trustees of the CSU, to jointly cause the transfer core curriculum to be published and distributed to each public school in the state that provides instruction in grades 7 to 12 and to each community college in this state. In addition, section 66721 requires the Board of Governors to distribute the transfer core curriculum to the State Board of Education.

Also, sections 66722 and 66722.5 do not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts. Instead, sections 66722 and 66722.5 set forth statements of legislative intent. Specifically section 66722 provides:

> It is the intent of the Legislature that the transfer function shall be a central institutional priority of all segments of higher education in California, and that the segments shall have as a fundamental policy and practice the maintenance of an effective transfer system.

Section 66722.5 provides:

> It is the intent of the Legislature that the segments of higher education shall pursue the development of transfer agreement programs that specify the curricular requirements that must be met, and the level of achievement that must be attained, by community college students in order for those students to transfer to the campus, undergraduate college, or major of choice in the public four-year segments.

As a result, staff finds that sections 66721, 66722, and 66722.5 do not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts.

Education Code section 66721.5, as added by Statutes 2000, chapter 187, was enacted as part of the Access to Transfer Information for Community College Students Act. Section 66721.5 addresses the distribution of the transfer core curriculum established by the California Community Colleges, CSU, and the UC. The plain language of section 66721.5, subdivision (a)(1), requires each community college district to direct each community college in the district to provide each student with a copy of the current transfer core curriculum. As defined by subdivision (a)(2), "transfer core curriculum" means the lower-division, general education transfer curriculum that is articulated between the California Community Colleges and the CSU and UC. Subdivision (b) provides that a copy of the current core curriculum shall be distributed to each newly admitted community college student who is enrolled in a degree or certification program and is physically in attendance at the institution. Subdivisions (c) and (d) provide:

> (c) The governing board of a community college district shall ensure that the text of the current transfer core curriculum is included in the published class schedule of each academic term. Copies of the transfer core curriculum may also be made available in other locations on each campus, including, but not, necessarily limited to, all of the following:
> (1) The admissions office.
> (2) The bookstore.
> (3) The career counseling center.
> (4) The veteran's affairs office.
> (d) Notwithstanding subdivision (c), the governing board of a community college may, as an alternative to the methods of distribution set forth in subdivision (c), distribute copies of the current transfer core curriculum by any of the following means:
>
> (1) During the registration process.
> (2) By mail, with the registration materials or the enrollment materials, or both, or with other items sent to students.
>
> (3) During the issuance of student identification cards.
> (4) During student orientation programs.

The claimant asserts that section 66721.5, subdivision (c), requires making the current transfer core curriculum available at, but not limited to, the following locations: (1) the admissions office, (2) the bookstore, (3) the career counseling center, and (4) the veteran's affairs office. However, the plain language of subdivision (c) provides that "[c]opies of the transfer core curriculum may also be made available in other locations on each campus" including but not limited to the locations stated above. Thus, making the current transfer core curriculum available at "other locations" is discretionary and not mandated by the state.

Subdivision (d) sets forth alternatives to the "methods of distribution set forth in subdivision (c)." However, it is unclear whether "methods of distribution set forth in subdivision (c)" refers to the required act of including the transfer core curriculum in the published class schedule each academic term or to the discretionary methods of distribution set forth in subdivision (c). If subdivision (d) intends the former, then section 66721.5 requires the current transfer core curriculum to be distributed by either including the transfer core curriculum in the published class schedule each academic term or by one of the alternatives set forth in subdivision (d). If, however, "methods of distribution set forth in subdivision (c)" refers to the discretionary methods of distribution set forth in subdivision (c), then subdivision (d) does not require any activities, because the alternatives set forth in subdivision (d) would be alternatives to a discretionary act, and thus, would also be discretionary.

Courts have held that where the provisions of a statute are ambiguous or conflict, the court may look to the legislative record and committee reports to determine the legislative intent.[179] The Senate Rules Committee issued a report explaining that section 66271.5:

> 3. Requires [California Community College] governing boards to publish the current transfer core curriculum in the class schedule each academic term.
>
> 4. Allows, as an alternative to publishing the transfer core curriculum in the class schedule pursuant to #3 above, [California Community College] governing boards to distribute copies by any of the following means:
>
> A. During the registration process.
>
> B. By mail, as specified.
>
> C. Along with the issuance of student identification cards.
> D. During student orientation programs.[180]

This report indicates that the Legislature intended that "methods of distribution set forth in subdivision (c)" refers to including the transfer core curriculum in the published class schedule each academic term, rather than the discretionary methods set forth in subdivision (c). As a result, subdivisions (c) and (d) require community college districts distribute the transfer core curriculum using one of the following methods: (1) including the transfer core curriculum in the published class schedule each academic term, (2) during the registration process, (3) by mail, with the registration materials or the enrollment materials, or both, or with other items sent to students, (4) during the issuance of student identification cards, or (5) during student orientation programs.

Staff finds that Education Code section 66721.5 imposes the following state-mandated activities:

1. The governing board of each community college district direct the appropriate officials at their respective campuses to provide each of their students with a copy of the current transfer core curriculum (Ed. Code § 66721.5, subd. (a)(1))
2. Distribute a copy of the current transfer core curriculum to each community college student who is enrolled in a degree or certification program and is physically in attendance at the institution (Ed. Code § 66721.5, subd. (b)).
3. Including the text of the current transfer core curriculum in the published class schedule for each academic term, or distribute the transfer core curriculum during the registration process, or by mail, or during the issuance of student identification cards, or during student orientation programs (Ed. Code § 66721.5, subd. (c) and (d)).

[180] Senate Rules Committee, Office of Senate Floor Analysis, Third Reading Analysis of Assembly Bill 1918 (1999-2000 Reg. Sess.) as amended April 24, 2000.

Sections 66731, 66732, 66736-66738, and 66740-66743 address the functions of various entities involved in the transfer system between the three segments of California's system of higher education.

Section 66731 addresses the role of transferring from community colleges to the UC or the CSU in California's higher education system. The plain language of section 66731 mandates community college district governing boards to:

> Recognize student matriculation from community colleges through the University of California and California State University as a central institutional priority of all segments of higher education. (Ed. Code, § 66731.)

Section 66732 addresses the policy of the governing boards of each segment of higher education regarding transferring and its role in achieving student diversity. Section 66732 provides:

> The governing boards of each segment shall declare as policy that the student transfer agreement program shall constitute a significant role in achieving the goal of student diversity within their segments, and in ensuring that all students, particularly those currently underrepresented in higher education, have access to a university education. The governing boards of each segment shall design, adopt, and implement policies intended to facilitate successful movement of students from community colleges through the University of California and the California State University.

As defined by Education Code section 66011, "governing boards" means the local board of trustees and the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, the Trustees of the CSU, and the Regents of the UC. Pursuant to the plain language of section 66732, community college districts are mandated to engage in the following activities:

1. Declare as policy that the student transfer agreement program shall constitute a significant role in achieving the goal of student diversity within their segments, and in ensuring that all students, particularly those currently underrepresented in higher education, have access to a university education. (Ed. Code, § 66732.)
2. Design, adopt, and implement policies intended to facilitate successful movement of students from community colleges through the University of California and the California State University. (Ed. Code, § 66732.)

Section 66736 addresses the counseling, advising, and monitoring of students seeking to transfer. Section 66736 requires community college districts to engage in the following activity:

1. Ensure that its colleges maintain student transfer counseling centers or other counseling and student services designed and implemented to affirmatively seek out, counsel, advise, and monitor the progress of potential and identified community college transfer students. (Ed. Code, § 66736.)
2. All policies and procedures adopted for the purpose of ensuring the maintenance of student transfer counseling and student services pursuant to Education Code section 66736 must give preference and emphasis toward enhancing the transfer of students from economically disadvantaged families and students from traditionally underrepresented minorities, to the fullest extent possible under state and federal statutes and regulations. (Ed. Code, § 66736.)

Section 66737 addresses the expectation that the Regents of the UC, the Trustees of the CSU, and the Board of Governors develop programs to facilitate the successful transfer of students between community colleges and the universities. Specifically, section 66737 provides:

> The Regents of the University of California, the Trustees of the California State University, and the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges are expected to develop new programs of outreach, recruitment, and cooperation between and among the three segments of public higher education to facilitate the successful transfer of students between the community colleges and the universities. Every community college student who successfully completes the transfer agreement programs, as defined in Section 66738, in a community college shall have an appropriate place in an upper division university program.

Section 66737 does not impose any activities on community college districts. Instead, the plain language of section 66737 sets forth the expectation that the Regents of the UC, the Trustees of the CSU, and the Board of Governors engage in specific activities. As a result, staff finds that Education Code section 66737 does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts.

Section 66738 addresses the development and implementation of formal systemwide articulation agreements and transfer agreement programs. Specifically, section 66738 provides:

> (a) The governing board of each public postsecondary education segment shall be accountable for the development and implementation of formal systemwide articulation agreements and transfer agreement programs, including those for general education or a transfer core curriculum, and other appropriate procedures to support and enhance the transfer function.
>
> (b) The elements in a comprehensive transfer system shall include, but not be limited to, the following:
> (1) Enrollment and resource planning; intersegmental faculty curricular efforts.
> (2) Coordinated counseling.
> (3) Financial aid and transfer services.
> (4) Transfer articulation agreements and programs.
> (5) Specific efforts to improve diversity.
> (6) Early outreach activities.
> (7) Expansion of current practices relating to concurrent enrollment of community college students in appropriate university courses.
> (c) The governing board of each segment shall expand existing practices related to concurrent enrollment, in which community college students are provided the opportunity to take courses at University of California and California State University campuses, as space is available; and to expand opportunities for potential transfer students to participate in activities that familiarize them with the university campus.

The plain language of section 66738, subdivision (a) requires the governing board of each public postsecondary education segment, including local governing boards of community college districts,[181] to be accountable for the development and implementation of formal systemwide articulation agreements and transfer agreement programs. Subdivision (c) requires the governing board of each segment, including the governing boards of community college districts, to expand existing practices related to concurrent enrollment and to expand opportunities for potential transfer students to participate in activities that familiarize them with the university campus.

Subdivision (b) does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts. Instead, subdivision (b) sets forth the elements of a comprehensive transfer system, but makes no reference to community college districts' role in developing or implementing these elements. Thus, subdivision (b) acts as a declaration of what a comprehensive transfer system includes. The claimants argue that subdivision (b) defines the mandate in subdivision (a).[182] However, the activities required by subdivision (a) are an element of subdivision (b). Specifically, subdivision (a) requires community college districts, along with the other segments of postsecondary education, to be accountable for the development and implementation of formal systemwide articulation agreements and transfer agreement programs. This activity is a part of what a "comprehensive transfer system" is defined as by subdivision (b).[183] Subdivisions (a) and (b) do not require community college districts to create a comprehensive transfer system, as defined by subdivision (b).

As a result, staff finds that Education Code section 66738 imposes the following state-mandated activities on community college districts:

1. Be accountable for the development and implementation of formal systemwide articulation agreements and transfer agreement programs, including those for general education or a transfer core curriculum, and other appropriate procedures to support and enhance the transfer function. (Ed. Code, § 66738, subds. (a).)
2. Expand existing practices related to concurrent enrollment, in which community college students are provided the opportunity to take courses at University of California and California State University campuses, as space is available, and to expand opportunities for potential transfer students to participate in activities that familiarize them with the university campus. (Ed. Code, § 66738, subd. (c).)

Section 66740 addresses the development of discipline-specific articulation agreements, transfer programs, and discipline-based agreements. The section sets forth specific roles of the three segments of higher education. Specifically, section 66740 provides:

> Each department, school, and major in the University of California and California State University shall develop, in conjunction with community college faculty in appropriate and associated departments, discipline-specific articulation agreements and transfer program agreements for those majors that have lower division prerequisites. Faculty from the community colleges and university campuses shall participate in discipline-specific curriculum development to coordinate course content and expected levels of student competency.
> Where specific majors are impacted or over-subscribed, the prescribed course of study and minimum grade point average required for consideration for upper division admission to all of these majors shall be made readily available to community college counselors, faculty, and students on an annual basis. In cases where the prescribed course of study is altered by the university department, notice of the modification shall be communicated to appropriate community college faculty and counselors at least one year prior to the deadline for application to that major and implementation by the department responsible for teaching that major.

Community college districts, in conjunction with the California State University and the University of California, shall develop discipline-based agreements with as many campuses of the two university segments as feasible, and no fewer than three University of California campuses and five California State University campuses.

The development of these agreements shall be the mutual responsibility of all three segments, and no one segment should bear the organizational or financial responsibility for accomplishing these goals.

The Chancellor of the California Community Colleges and the President of the University of California shall begin the process of setting priorities to determine which community colleges will receive first attention for the development of agreements. Criteria for priority determination shall include, but not be limited to, the percentage and number of students from economically disadvantaged families and underrepresented racial and ethnic minorities, and community colleges which traditionally have not transferred many students to the University of California. The priority list shall be completed by March 1, 1992. These considerations shall not be used in any way to displace current agreements between any community college and the University of California or the California State University.

The Chancellor of the California Community Colleges and the Chancellor of the California State University system shall begin the process of setting priorities to determine which community colleges will receive first attention for the development of agreements. Criteria for priority determination shall include, but not be limited to, the percentage and number of students from economically disadvantaged families and underrepresented racial and ethnic minorities, and community colleges which traditionally have not transferred many students to California State Universities. The priority list shall be completed by March 1, 1992. These considerations shall not be used in any way to displace current agreements between any community college and the University of California or the California State University.

The first paragraph of section 66740 requires community college faculty in appropriate and associated departments to act in conjunction with each department, school, and major in the UC and CSU to develop discipline-specific articulation agreements and transfer program agreements for those majors that have lower division prerequisites. In doing so, community college faculty shall participate in discipline-specific curriculum development to coordinate course content and expected levels of student competency.

The third paragraph of section 66740 requires community college districts, in conjunction with the CSU and the UC, to develop discipline-based agreements with as many campuses of the two university segments as feasible, but no fewer than three UC campuses and five CSU campuses.

The remaining paragraphs (paragraphs 2 and 4-6) of section 66740 do not impose any activities on community college districts. The second paragraph of section 66740 provides:

Where specific majors are impacted or over-subscribed, the prescribed course of study and minimum grade point average required for consideration for upper division admission to all of these majors shall be made readily available to community college counselors, faculty, and students on an annual basis. In cases > where the prescribed course of study is altered by the university department, notice of the modification shall be communicated to appropriate community college faculty and counselors at least one year prior to the deadline for application to that major and implementation by the department responsible for teaching that major.

The claimants assert that the first sentence of the second paragraph of section 66740 requires community college districts to implement policies and procedures to ensure that, where specific majors are impacted or over-subscribed, the prescribed course of study and minimum grade point average required for consideration for upper division admission to all of these majors are made readily available to community college counselors, faculty, and students on an annual basis.[184] In addition, the claimants assert that the second sentence of this paragraph is directed at community college districts, and therefore, requires notification of a modification of prescribed courses of study made by university departments prior to implementation by the department.[185]

The plain language of the first sentence of the second paragraph does not provide for the implementation of policies and procedures. Instead, the language of the second paragraph requires that specified information be made readily available to community college counselors, faculty, and students on an annual basis. The language of the second paragraph, however, is silent as to which entities are required to engage in the activities set forth in the first and second sentences of the paragraph. Because of this ambiguity, it is necessary to give a reasonable and commonsense interpretation of the statutory provisions consistent with the apparent legislative purpose and intent.[186]

A reasonable and commonsense interpretation is that the second paragraph is directed at the entities from which the information regarding impacted or over-subscribed majors or changes made to prescribed courses of study by the CSU or UC departments originates. Here, the CSU and UC are the entities which would first know whether or not majors within the CSU and UC are impacted or over-subscribed. In addition, the CSU and UC, or the departments within the CSU and UC, would be the entities which prescribe the course of study and minimum grade point average for admission to the majors within the CSU and UC. Also, when prescribed courses of study are altered by the CSU and UC departments, the CSU and UC would be the entities with the information required to be communicated to appropriate community college faculty and counselors. Thus, it is clear that the second paragraph is directed at the CSU and UC, and not community college districts.

In the claimants' response to the draft staff analysis, the claimants argue that it is reasonable and necessary for the community college districts to facilitate the distribution of the information regarding impacted or over-subscribed majors or changes made to prescribed courses of study by the CSU or UC. However, as discussed above, the language of section 66740 does not require this activity, nor is there any evidence in the record that it is necessary for community college districts to facilitate the distribution of the information regarding impacted or over-subscribed majors or changes made to prescribed courses of study by the CSU or UC. As a result, staff finds that the second paragraph of section 66740 does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts.

[186] American Buildings Co. v. Bay Commercial Construction, Inc., supra, 99 Cal. App. 4th 1193.

The fourth paragraph of section 66740 sets forth that the development of the agreements described in the first and third paragraphs of section 66740 are the mutual responsibility of all three segments of higher education, and the legislative intent that no one segment should bear the organizational or financial responsibility for accomplishing these goals.

The fifth and sixth paragraphs provide that the Chancellor is required to begin the process of setting priorities with the CSU and UC to determine which community colleges will receive first attention for the development of agreements. As a result, the fifth and sixth paragraphs do not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts.

Staff finds that the Education Code section 66740 mandates community college districts to engage in the following activities:

1. Act in conjunction with each department, school, and major in the University of California and California State University to develop discipline-specific articulation agreements and transfer program agreements for those majors that have lower division prerequisites.

   In doing so, faculty from community colleges and university campuses are to participate in discipline-specific curriculum development to coordinate course content and expected levels of student competency. (Ed. Code, § 66740, first paragraph.)

2. Develop discipline-based agreements in conjunction with the California State University and the University of California with as many campuses of the two university segments as feasible, but no fewer than three University of California campuses and five California State University campuses. No one segment should bear the organizational or financial responsibility for accomplishing these goals. (Ed. Code, § 66740, third paragraph.)

Section 66741 sets forth the expected results and the rights resulting from the system wide and interinstitutional agreements developed by the CSU, UC, and community colleges pursuant to Education Code section 66740. Section 66741 provides:

> As a result of system wide and interinstitutional agreements, each community college student shall be assured of the opportunity to enter into a transfer agreement program enabling a student to receive high priority consideration, attain equivalent special treatment, or enter into a contract when applying for university admission at the advanced standing level. It is recognized that eligibility for transfer agreement programs will require completion of certain requirements as defined in interinstitutional agreements. It is also recognized that access to majors of choice will, in most cases, require completion of additional requirements, such as specialized coursework and attainment of a specialized grade point average.
> Transfer agreement programs also shall carry high priority access to majors of choice. The University of California and the California State University shall require that continuing undergraduate students and community college transfer students are assessed against a common set of criteria for upper division standing to a specific major. However, generally speaking, access to these programs shall require completion of specialized coursework and attainment of a grade point average above the minimums defined in general admission requirements, such as those used in supplementary admission criteria for impacted or over-subscribed programs.
> Alternatively, students may also, by meeting the University of California or California State University requirements for admission at the advanced standing > level, simply wish to apply as required. All students meeting these admission requirements shall be guaranteed a place somewhere in the University of California or California State University system, as appropriate.

The claimants assert that community college districts are required to ensure that each community college student is assured of the opportunity to enter into a transfer agreement program enabling a student to (1) receive high priority consideration, (2) attain equivalent special treatment, or (3) enter into a contract when applying for university admission at the advanced standing level.[187] The plain language of section 66741, however, does not require community college districts to engage in any activity. Instead, section 66741 sets forth what will result from the agreements made by the CSU, UC, California Community Colleges, and local community college districts. As a result, staff finds that Education Code section 66741 does not impose any state-mandated activities.

Section 66742 addresses the presentation of annual statistical reports on transfer patterns to the Governor and the Legislature. Specifically, section 66742 provides:

> The governing boards of the three public segments of higher education shall present annual statistical reports on transfer patterns via the California Postsecondary Education Commission to the Governor and Legislature. The reports shall include recent statistics on student enrollments by campus, segment, gender, ethnicity, and the ratio of upper division to lower division, including information on both freshman and transfer student access to the system. These reports should include, to the extent that data are available or become available, data on application, admission and enrollment information for all students by sex, ethnicity, and campus. For transfer students, this data shall indicate the segment of origin for all students. In addition, data shall be separately identified for transfer students from California Community Colleges, and shall identify the subset of applications which are completed together with admission, enrollment, and declared major information for that group. The reports shall describe the number of transfer agreements, if any, whose terms and conditions were not satisfied by either the California State University or the University of California, the number of California Community College transfer students denied either admission to the student's first choice of a particular campus of the California State University or the University of California or the student's first choice of a major field of study, and, among those students, the number of students who, upon denial of either of the student's first choices, immediately enrolled at another campus of the California State University or the University of California. The reports shall also include information by sex and ethnicity on retention and degree completion for transfer students as well as for native students, and the number and percentage of baccalaureate degree recipients who transferred from a community college.

The plain language of section 66742 mandates community college districts to engage in the following activity:

> Present annual statistical reports with the California Community Colleges, California State University, and the University of California on transfer patterns to the Governor and Legislature via the California Postsecondary Education Commission.

[187] Exhibit B, Test Claim 02-TC-31, p. 372.

Include in these reports statistics and information as described in Education Code section 66742. (Education Code section 66742.)

Section 66743 addresses the presentation of a biennial report by an intersegmental advisory committee convened by the California Postsecondary Education Commission to the Governor and the Legislature. Specifically, section 66743 provides:

> The California Postsecondary Education Commission is requested to convene an intersegmental advisory committee on transfer access and performance for the purposes of presenting biennial reports to the Governor and the Legislature on the status of transfer policies and programs, the diligence of each segment's board, and the effectiveness of these programs in meeting the state's goals for transfer. The report shall include information about all of the following:
>
> (a) The effectiveness of transfer agreement programs and activities in enhancing the transfer function overall as well as the extent to which transfer program activities have been directed at students who have been historically underrepresented in the University of California and the California State University.
>
> (b) The status of the implementation of the transfer core curriculum as described in Section 66720 for each community college, including information about the extent to which sophomore level courses needed for transfer are available on all community college campuses.
>
> (c) Progress that has been made in achieving articulation agreements in those specific majors that have lower division prerequisites, and the dissemination of this information. The committee shall also explore methods to systematically measure the extent to which the state's goals of freshmen and transfer student access are being met, including analyses of the number of fully eligible freshmen or transfer students who are denied access to the system, and the reasons for that denial. The committee shall also address ways in which sharing of information about transfer students among the segments can be improved, including early identification of potential transfer students for intensive recruitment purposes.
> The Governor and the Legislature shall monitor the success of the University of California and the California State University in achieving their targeted enrollment levels and in implementing these reforms. A substantial failure to implement reform, to achieve the 60/40 ratio by the designated dates, or to improve the transfer rate of historically underrepresented groups significantly, shall precipitate legislative hearings to determine the reasons why any one or all of these goals have not been met.

The claimants assert that section 66743 requires community college districts to compile, prepare and make available data required by the California Postsecondary Education Commission's intersegmental advisory committee on transfer access and performance so that the committee may present biennial reports to the Governor and the Legislature on the status of transfer policies and programs.[188] In addition the claimants assert, "Community college districts, as one of the 'segments,' are a reasonable and perhaps necessary source for CPEC for some of the information regarding the effectiveness of transfer agreement programs . . . ."[189] The plain language of section 66743, however, does not require community college district to engage in any activities. Rather, section 66743 requires an "intersegmental advisory committee" convened by the California Postsecondary Education Commission to engage in a specified activity. As a result, staff finds that section 66743 does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts.

In summary staff finds that Education Code sections 66731, 66732, 66736, 66738, 66740, and 66742 require community college districts to engage in the following state-mandated activities:

1. Recognize student matriculation from community colleges through the University of California and California State University as a central institutional priority of all segments of higher education. (Ed. Code, § 66731.)

2. Declare as policy that the student transfer agreement program shall constitute a significant role in achieving the goal of student diversity within their segments, and in ensuring that all students, particularly those currently underrepresented in higher education, have access to a university education. (Ed. Code, § 66732.)

3. Design, adopt, and implement policies intended to facilitate successful movement of students from community colleges through the University of California and the California State University. (Ed. Code, § 66732.)

4. Ensure that its college or colleges maintain student transfer counseling centers or other counseling and student services designed and implemented to affirmatively seek out, counsel, advise, and monitor the progress of potential and identified community college transfer students.

   All policies and procedures adopted for this purpose must give preference and emphasis toward enhancing the transfer of students from economically disadvantaged families and students from traditionally underrepresented minorities, to the fullest extent possible under state and federal statutes and regulations. (Ed. Code, § 66736.)

5. Be accountable for the development and implementation of formal system wide articulation agreements and transfer agreement programs, including those for general education or a transfer core curriculum, and other appropriate procedures to support and enhance the transfer function. (Ed. Code, § 66738, subds. (a).)

6. Expand existing practices related to concurrent enrollment, in which community college students are provided the opportunity to take courses at University of California and California State University campuses, as space is available, and to expand opportunities for potential transfer students to participate in activities that familiarize them with the university campus. (Ed. Code, § 66738, subd. (c).)

7. Act in conjunction with each department, school, major in the University of California and California State University to develop discipline-specific articulation agreements and transfer program agreements for those majors that have lower division prerequisites.

   In doing so, faculty from community colleges and university campuses are to participate in discipline-specific curriculum development to coordinate course content and expected levels of student competency. (Ed. Code, § 66740, first paragraph.)

8. Develop discipline-based agreements in conjunction with the California State University and the University of California with as many campuses of the two university segments as feasible, but no fewer than three University of California campuses and five California State University campuses. No one segment should bear the organizational or financial responsibility for accomplishing these goals. (Ed. Code, § 66740, third paragraph.)

9. Present annual statistical reports with the California Community Colleges, California State University, and the University of California on transfer patterns to the Governor and Legislature via the California Postsecondary Education Commission.

   Include in these reports statistics and information as described in Education Code section 66742. (Education Code section 66742.)

General Common Course Numbering System (Ed. Code, § 71027)

Section 71027 addresses the Board of Governors' duty regarding a general common course numbering system. Specifically, section71027 provides:

> (a) The Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges shall develop, maintain, and disseminate a general common course numbering system for use by the community college districts.
> (b) The office of the Chancellor of the California Community Colleges shall absorb the costs of developing, maintaining, and disseminating a general common course numbering system pursuant to this section within the office's existing resources

The claimants assert that section 71027 requires community college districts "[t]o implement policies and procedures to comply with the statewide common course numbering system adopted and disseminated by the Board of Governors … ."[190] However, the plain language of section 71027 does not impose any activities on community college districts. Rather, section 71027 requires the Board of Governors to engage in specific activities and for the Chancellor's Office to absorb all costs of these activities within its existing resources. As a result, staff finds that Education Code section 71027 does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts.

(i) Summary of state-mandated activities

1. The governing board of each community college district direct the appropriate officials at their respective campuses to provide each of their students with a copy of the current transfer core curriculum (Ed. Code § 66721.5, subd. (a)(1))
2. Distribute a copy of the current transfer core curriculum to each community college student who is enrolled in a degree or certification program and is physically in attendance at the institution (Ed. Code § 66721.5, subd. (b)).
3. Including the text of the current transfer core curriculum in the published class schedule for each academic term, or distribute the transfer core curriculum during the registration process, or by mail, or during the issuance of student identification cards, or during student orientation programs (Ed. Code § 66721.5, subd. (c) and (d)).
4. Recognize student matriculation from community colleges through the University of California and California State University as a central institutional priority of all segments of higher education. (Ed. Code, § 66731.)
5. Declare as policy that the student transfer agreement program shall constitute a significant role in achieving the goal of student diversity within their segments, and in ensuring that all students, particularly those currently underrepresented in higher education, have access to a university education. (Ed. Code, § 66732.)

[190] Exhibit B, Test Claim 02-TC-31, p. 366.

6. Design, adopt, and implement policies intended to facilitate successful movement of students from community colleges through the University of California and the California State University. (Ed. Code, § 66732.)

7. Ensure that its college or colleges maintain student transfer counseling centers or other counseling and student services designed and implemented to affirmatively seek out, counsel, advise, and monitor the progress of potential and identified community college transfer students.

   All policies and procedures adopted for this purpose must give preference and emphasis toward enhancing the transfer of students from economically disadvantaged families and students from traditionally underrepresented minorities, to the fullest extent possible under state and federal statutes and regulations. (Ed. Code, § 66736.)

8. Be accountable for the development and implementation of formal systemwide articulation agreements and transfer agreement programs, including those for general education or a transfer core curriculum, and other appropriate procedures to support and enhance the transfer function. (Ed. Code, § 66738, subds. (a).)

9. Expand existing practices related to concurrent enrollment, in which community college students are provided the opportunity to take courses at University of California and California State University campuses, as space is available, and to expand opportunities for potential transfer students to participate in activities that familiarize them with the university campus. (Ed. Code, § 66738, subd. (c).)

10. Act in conjunction with each department, school, major in the University of California and California State University to develop discipline-specific articulation agreements and transfer program agreements for those majors that have lower division prerequisites.

    In doing so, faculty from community colleges and university campuses are to participate in discipline-specific curriculum development to coordinate course content and expected levels of student competency. (Ed. Code, § 66740, first paragraph.)

11. Develop discipline-based agreements in conjunction with the California State University and the University of California with as many campuses of the two university segments as feasible, but no fewer than three University of California campuses and five California State University campuses. No one segment should bear the organizational or financial responsibility for accomplishing these goals. (Ed. Code, § 66740, third paragraph.)

12. Present annual statistical reports with the California Community Colleges, California State University, and the University of California on transfer patterns to the Governor and Legislature via the California Postsecondary Education Commission.

    Include in these reports statistics and information as described in Education Code section 66742. (Education Code section 66742.)

    b. The activities mandated by Education Code sections 66721.5, 66731, 66732, 66736, 66738, 66740, and 66742 constitute new programs or higher levels of service subject to article XIIIB, section 6 of the California Constitution

As found by the court in Long Beach Unified School Dist., education is a peculiarly governmental function.[191] In addition, the Legislature has found:

[191] Long Beach Unified School Dist., supra, 225 Cal.App.3d. at p. 172.

> Student matriculation, from community colleges through the University of California and the California State University, is recognized by the Governor, Legislature, and the governing boards of each of the segments of California's system of public postsecondary education as a central institutional priority of all segments of higher education.[192]

The requirements of Education Code section 66721.5 carry out the governmental function of education and the central institutional priority of higher education by ensuring that all students are clearly and fully informed as to which community college courses and units are transferable so as to improve the opportunity of community college students to transfer.

Citing to County of Los Angeles v. Department of Industrial Relations (1989) 214 Cal.App.3d 1538, the Chancellor's Office argues that although education is a "program" subject to article XIII B, and transfer principles are a part of the "program," the means by which students learn of the transfer core curriculum is not a "program."[193] As relevant to this discussion, the county in County of Los Angeles v. Department of Industrial Relations argued that elevator safety regulations that required specific activities in regard to elevators constituted a "program" under article XIII B because elevators in county owned and leased buildings are necessary to provide access to services to the public. However, the court held, "In determining whether these regulations are a program, the critical question is whether the mandated program carries out the governmental function of providing services to the public, not whether the elevators can be used to obtain these services."[194] The court concluded that providing elevators equipped with fire and earthquake safety features is not a "governmental function of providing services to the public" and therefore not a "program" under article XIII B.[195]

The Chancellor's Office asserts that the distribution of copies of the current transfer core curriculum is "more akin to the elevators [discussed in County of Los Angeles v. Department of Industrial Relations] that provide a means of obtaining the program services."[196] As a result, the Chancellor's Office argues that the activities required by section 66721.5 do not constitute a "program." County of Los Angeles v. Department of Industrial Relations, however, is factually distinguishable from this situation. In County of Los Angeles v. Department of Industrial Relations the regulations at issue imposed requirements on all public buildings regarding elevator safety which were completely separate and unrelated to the public services provided by the county in the buildings owned and leased by the county. Here, section 66721.5 is directly related to the governmental function of education and higher education's central institutional priority of transferring students. Thus, the requirements imposed by section 66721.5 do not merely serve as a means to access a program (i.e. education) unrelated to section 66721.5. Rather, the distribution of the current transfer core curriculum carries out the governmental function of education and higher education's central institutional priority. As a result, the activities required by section 66721.5 constitute a "program" subject to article XIII B.

Similarly, the state-mandated activities imposed by Education Code sections 66731, 66732, 66736, 66738, 66740, and 66742 carry out the governmental function of education by promoting student matriculation between the three segments of public higher education, and as a result constitute a "program" within the meaning of article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

The claimants have pled Education Code section 66721.5, as added by Statutes 2000, chapter 187.[197] Prior to the enactment of Statutes 2000, chapter 187, Education Code section 66721.5 did not exist, nor did the section's requirements exist as a different code section. As a result, Education Code section 66721.5, as added by Statutes 2000, chapter 1867, constitutes a "new program or higher level of service."

The claimants have pled Education Code sections 66731, 66732, 66736, 66738, 66740, and 66742, as added by Statutes 1991, chapter 1188.[198] Prior to the enactment of Education Code sections 66731, 66732, 66736, 66738, 66740, and 66742 in 1991, community college districts were not required to engage in the activities imposed by the sections. As a result, the state-mandated activities imposed by Education Code sections 66731, 66732, 66736, 66738, 66740, and 66742, as added by Statutes 1991, chapter 1188, constitute "new programs or higher levels of service."

(i) Summary of state-mandated new program or higher level of service

In summary, staff finds that the test claim statutes of the "Transfer Centers" section of this analysis impose the following state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service:

1. The governing board of each community college district direct the appropriate officials at their respective campuses to provide each of their students with a copy of the current transfer core curriculum. (Ed. Code § 66721.5, subd. (a)(1) (Stats. 2000, ch. 187).)
2. Distribute a copy of the current transfer core curriculum to each community college student who is enrolled in a degree or certification program and is physically in attendance at the institution. (Ed. Code § 66721.5, subd. (b) (Stats. 2000, ch. 187).)
3. Include the text of the current transfer core curriculum in the published class schedule for each academic term, or distribute the transfer core curriculum during the registration process, or by mail, or during the issuance of student identification cards, or during student orientation programs. (Ed. Code § 66721.5, subd. (c) and (d) (Stats. 2000, ch. 187).)
4. Recognize student matriculation from community colleges through the University of California and California State University as a central institutional priority of all segments of higher education. (Ed. Code, § 66731 (Stats. 1991, ch. 1188).)
5. Declare as policy that the student transfer agreement program shall constitute a significant role in achieving the goal of student diversity within their segments, and in ensuring that all students, particularly those currently underrepresented in higher education, have access to a university education. (Ed. Code, § 66732 (Stats. 1991, ch. 1188).)
6. Design, adopt, and implement policies intended to facilitate successful movement of students from community colleges through the University of California and the California State University. (Ed. Code, § 66732(Stats. 1991, ch. 1188).)

[199] In the claimants' response to the draft staff analysis (Exhibit V, p. 20) the claimants cite to Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2), which addresses the establishment of policies for and approval of credit courses of instruction generally. Although Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b), is generally related to the provision of vocational education programs and all other courses and programs offered by a community college district, it does not require the provision of vocational education programs or specifically address vocational education. This analysis will address Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b), in the "Curriculum" section of the analysis, because it is a more appropriate place for the issues raised by Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b).

This section addresses the activities that must be done prior to and after the establishment of vocational or occupational training programs, and the ability of community college districts to contract with private postsecondary schools, activity centers, work activity centers, or sheltered workshops to provide vocational skill training.

a. Education Code sections 78015 and 78016, and California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55601, impose state-mandated activities on community college districts; however, California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55600, 55602-55603, 55605, 55607, 55620, and 55630 do not

Establishment and Review of Vocational Education Programs (Ed. Code, §§ 78015 and 78016)

Sections 78015 and 78016 address activities that must be done prior to and after the establishment of vocational or occupational training programs. Section 78015 sets forth activities that a community college district must engage in prior to establishing a vocational or occupational training program. The plain language of section 78015 requires a community college district to engage in the following activities:

1. Conduct a job market study of the labor market area, as defined by Education Code section 52301.5, in which it proposes to establish the program prior to establishing the program.[200]

   The labor market study must use the State-Local Cooperative Labor Market Information Program established by Unemployment Insurance Code section 10533, or if this program is not available for the labor market area, the study must use other sources of labor market information.

   The study must include a California Occupational Information System supply analysis of existing vocational and occupational education or training programs for adults maintained by high schools, community colleges, and private postsecondary schools in the area to ensure that the anticipated employment demand for students in the proposed programs justifies the establishment of the proposed courses of instruction. (Ed. Code, § 78015, subd. (a)(1) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

2. Make copies of each job market study available to the public. (Ed. Code, § 78015, subd. (a)(2) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

3. Determine whether or not the job market study justifies the proposed vocational education program. (Ed. Code, § 78015, subd. (b) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

4. Determine by resolution whether the program will be offered through the district's own facilities or through a contract with an approved private postsecondary school pursuant to Education Code section 8092, if the district determines that the job market study justifies the initiation of the proposed program. (Ed. Code, § 78015, subd. (c) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

However, when analyzing whether section 78015 mandates any activities it is necessary to look at the underlying program to determine if the claimant's participation in the underlying program is voluntary.[201] Here, a community college district is required to engage in the activities stated above only if it establishes a vocational or occupational training program. As a result, it is necessary to determine if community college districts are required to offer vocational or occupational training program.

[200] Education Code section 52301.5 defines "Labor Market Area" as "a county or aggregation of counties designated by the Employment Development Department (EDD) that has one or more central core cities and that meets criteria of population, population density, commute patterns, and social and economic integration specified by the EDD.

[201] Kern High School Dist., supra, 30 Cal.4th 727, 743.

Education Code section 66010.4 sets forth the "missions and functions" of California's institutions of higher education. Subdivision (a) of section 66010.4 delineates the primary mission of community colleges, and provides in relevant part, "The California Community Colleges shall, as a primary mission, offer academic and vocational instruction … ." Thus, community college districts are required to establish vocational programs, and as a result, are mandated to engage in the activities set forth in Education Code section 78015.

Section 78016 addresses the review of vocational or occupational training programs. Specifically, section 78016 mandates community college districts to engage in the following activities:

1. Review every vocational or occupational training program offered by the district and commenced subsequent to July 28, 1983, every two years to ensure that each program: (1) meets a documented labor market demand; (2) does not represent unnecessary duplication of other manpower training programs in the area; and (3) is of demonstrated effectiveness as measured by the employment and completion success of its students.

   These three requirements are to be demonstrated by the California Occupational Information System, including State-Local Cooperative Labor Market Information Program established in Unemployment Insurance Code section 10533, or if this program is not available in the labor market area, other available sources of labor market information. (Ed. Code, § 78016, subd. (a) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

2. Terminate any program that does not meet the requirements of Education Code section 78016, subdivision (a), and the standards promulgated by the governing board within one year after the review conducted pursuant to section 78016. (Ed. Code, § 78016, subd. (b) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

3. Include the review and comments by the local Private Industry Council, established pursuant to Unemployment Insurance Code section 15000 et seq., in the review process of every vocational or occupational training program offered by the district and commenced subsequent to July 28, 1983, the review and comments by the Private Industry Council shall occur prior to any decision by the district governing board. (Ed. Code, § 78016, subd. (c) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

4. Make a written summary of the findings of each review available to the public. (Ed. Code, § 78016, subd. (e) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

Appointment of Vocational Education Advisory Committee (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55601)

Title 5, section 55601, addresses the appointment of a vocational education advisory committee by community college districts participating in a vocational education program. Title 5, section 55601, provides:

> The governing board of each community college district participating in a vocational education program shall appoint a vocational education advisory committee to develop recommendations on the program and to provide liaison between the district and potential employers.
> The committee shall consist of one or more representative of the general public knowledgeable about the disadvantaged, students, teachers, business, industry, > school administration, and the field office of the Department of Employment Development.[202]

As discussed above, community college districts are required to establish vocational education programs. Thus, title 5, section 55601, mandates community college districts to engage in the following activity:

> Appoint a vocational education advisory committee, consisting of one or more members of the general public, to develop recommendations on the program and to provide a liaison between the district and potential employers. The members must be knowledgeable about the disadvantaged, students, teachers, business, industry, school administration, and the field office of the Department of Employment Development. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55601 (Register 93, No. 25).)

Vocational Education Contracts (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55600, 55602, 55603, 55605, 55607, 55620, and 55630)

Title 5, sections 55600, 55602-55607, 55620, and 55630, address the ability of community college districts to contract with private post secondary schools to provide vocational skills training, and the corresponding contracting requirements if a district chooses to contract with a private post secondary school. However, pursuant to Kern High School Dist. a requirement resulting from an underlying discretionary decision does not constitute a state-mandated activity.[203] Title 5, section 55602, provides, "Any community college district or districts may contract with a private post secondary school … to provide vocational skill training … ."[204] Pursuant to title 5, section 55602, community college districts have the authority to contract with a private post secondary school, but are not required to use this authority. Thus, it is a community college district's decision to utilize its authority that triggers any subsequent requirements within title 5, sections 55602-55607, 55620, and 55630, which set forth requirements regarding contracting with a private post secondary school for the provision of vocational skills training.

In response to the draft staff analysis, the claimants argue:

> [v]ocational education was determined by the DSA to be a mandate, not a precursor optional program. The use of private contractors is a method to implement the mandate, not a subsequent new program. A choice of methods or sources to implement the mandate is not a new program subsequent to a discretionary program. If regulations never had been established specifically for vocational education contracts, there would be no question that private contracting was a reimbursable method to implement the mandate.[205]

The claimants misinterpret the draft staff analysis. The claimants' argument is based on its assertion that the provision of vocational education is a reimbursable state-mandated new program or higher level of service. The requirement to provide vocational education stems from Education Code section 66010.4, which was not pled in this test claim. The analysis cited to this requirement as the basis for finding that new requirements relating to vocational education constituted state-mandated activities. However, the analysis did not find that the provision of vocational education was a reimbursable state-mandated new program or higher level of service. Because Education Code section 66010.4 was not pled in this test claim and, thus the Commission does not have jurisdiction to make findings regarding its provisions.[206] Absent a finding that the provision of vocational education is a reimbursable state-mandated new program or higher level of service, community college districts would not be able to claim reimbursement for providing vocational education through the discretionary use of contractors. As a result, the requirements of title 5, sections 55600, 55602, 55603, 55605, 55607, 55620, and 55630 do not constitute state-mandated activities.

b. The state-mandated activities imposed by Education Code sections 78015 and 78016 constitute a new program or higher level of service; however, the activity mandated by California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55601 does not

To constitute a "new program or higher level of service" the activities must carry out the governmental function of providing a service to the public, or impose unique requirements on local governments that do not apply to all residents and entities in the state in order to implement a state policy.[207] In addition, the requirements must be new in comparison with the pre-existing scheme and must be intended to provide an enhanced service to the public.[208] To make this determination, the requirements must initially be compared with the legal requirements in effect immediately prior to its enactment.[209]

The state-mandated activities imposed by Education Code sections 78015 and 78016 carry out the governmental function of providing education by setting forth the steps necessary to establish vocational education programs, the provision of which is a primary mission of the California Community Colleges. In addition, the claimants have pled Education Code sections 78015 and 78016 as added in 1979 and last amended in 1998.[210] Immediately prior to 1979, community college districts were not required to engage in the state-mandated program within Education Code sections 78015 and 78016. Thus, Education Code sections 78015 and 78016 constitute a new program or higher level of service.

California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55601, carries out a governmental function by requiring the appointment of a vocational education advisory committee for each community college district to advise community college districts on the creation of vocational education programs, the provision of which, as noted above, are a primary mission of community colleges. The claimants have pled title 5, section 55601, as added in 1993.[211] However, the requirement to appoint a vocational education advisory committee existed in 1973 under former Education Code section 6257.[212] This requirement was renumbered to Education Code section 8070 in 1976.[213]

In 1990, the Board of Governors were directed to incorporate the text of Education Code section 8070 into the title 5 regulations governing community college districts, noting that if the Board of Governors fails to adopt and put into effect regulations containing the language of Education Code section 8070, the Education Code section shall remain operative until the Board of Governors does so.[214] Thus, even though there was a two year delay to incorporate the provisions of Education Code section 8070 into the title 5 regulations in the form of title 5, section 55601, there was never a lapse in the requirement. As a result, the requirement of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55601, does not constitute a state-mandated new program or higher level of service.

(i) Summary of state-mandated new program or higher level of service

1. Conduct a job market study of the labor market area, as defined by Education Code section 52301.5, in which it proposes to establish the program prior to establishing the program.[215]

   The labor market study must use the State-Local Cooperative Labor Market Information Program established by Unemployment Insurance Code section 10533, or if this program is not available for the labor market area, the study must use other sources of labor market information.

   The study must include a California Occupational Information System supply analysis of existing vocational and occupational education or training programs for adults maintained by high schools, community colleges, and private postsecondary schools in the area to ensure that the anticipated employment demand for students in the proposed programs justifies the establishment of the proposed courses of instruction. (Ed. Code, § 78015, subd. (a)(1) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

2. Make copies of each job market study available to the public. (Ed. Code, § 78015, subd. (a)(2) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

3. Determine whether or not the job market study justifies the proposed vocational education program. (Ed. Code, § 78015, subd. (b) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

4. Determine by resolution whether the program will be offered through the district's own facilities or through a contract with an approved private postsecondary school pursuant to Education Code section 8092, if the district determines that the job market study justifies the initiation of the proposed program. (Ed. Code, § 78015, subd. (c) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

5. Review every vocational or occupational training program offered by the district and commenced subsequent to July 28, 1983, every two years to ensure that each program: (1) meets a documented labor market demand; (2) does not represent unnecessary duplication of other manpower training programs in the area; and (3) is of demonstrated effectiveness as measured by the employment and completion success of its students.

[214] Statutes 1990, chapter 1372, section 708.

[215] Education Code section 52301.5 defines "Labor Market Area" as "a county or aggregation of counties designated by the Employment Development Department (EDD) that has one or more central core cities and that meets criteria of population, population density, commute patterns, and social and economic integration specified by the EDD.

These three requirements are to be demonstrated by the California Occupational Information System, including State-Local Cooperative Labor Market Information Program established in Unemployment Insurance Code section 10533, or if this program is not available in the labor market area, other available sources of labor market information. (Ed. Code, § 78016, subd. (a) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

6. Terminate any program that does not meet the requirements of Education Code section 78016, subdivision (a), and the standards promulgated by the governing board within one year after the review conducted pursuant to section 78016. (Ed. Code, § 78016, subd. (b) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

7. Include the review and comments by the local Private Industry Council, established pursuant to Unemployment Insurance Code section 15000 et seq., in the review process of every vocational or occupational training program offered by the district and commenced subsequent to July 28, 1983, the review and comments by the Private Industry Council shall occur prior to any decision by the district governing board. (Ed. Code, § 78016, subd. (c) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

8. Make a written summary of the findings of each review available to the public. (Ed. Code, § 78016, subd. (e) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

(10) Standards of Scholarship (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(3; Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55750, 55751, 55752, 55753, 55753.5, 55753.7, 55754, 55755, 55756.5, 55757, 55758, 55758.5, 55759, 55760, 55761, 55762, 55763, 55764, and 55765)

This section addresses regulations that set forth standards addressing the basic operation of community college districts regarding standards of scholarship, including but not limited to the following areas of scholarship: grading practices, credit-no credit options, advanced placement examinations, standards for probation, academic record symbols, and grade point average.

a. Education Code section 70902, subd. (b)(3), and California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55750, 55751, 55753, 55754, 55755, 55756, 55756.5, 55757, 55758, 55759, 55760, 55761, and 55764 requires community college districts to engage in state-mandated activities

Regulations (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(3); Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55750)

As relevant to this discussion, Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3), requires district governing boards to establish academic standards, probation, dismissal, and readmission policies consistent with the minimum standards adopted by the Board of Governors. Title 5 sections 55750 et seq. set forth the minimum standards addressing academic standards, probation, dismissal, and readmission. As part of the minimum standards adopted by the Board of Governors, section 55750 provides:

> The governing board of a district maintaining a community college shall adopt regulations consistent with this [subchapter].[216] The regulations shall be published in the college catalog under appropriate headings and filed with the Chancellor's Office as required by section 51002 of this [division].[217]

[216] See "Minimum Conditions Entitling Community College Districts to State Aid" section, regarding the discussion of the Nomenclature Cross-Reference issued by the Office of Administrative Law.

The plain language of section 55750 requires community college districts to adopt regulations consistent with the subchapter on "Standards of Scholarship." In addition, these regulations are required to be published in the college catalog under appropriate headings. The language of section 55750 also provides that the district file the regulations with the Chancellor's office as required by section 51002.

Although the requirements of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 51002, do not independently impose state-mandated activities, section 55750 requires community college districts to file their regulations regarding district standards of scholarship with the Chancellor's Office as required by section 51002. Section 51002, subdivision (b), requires districts to file a copy of their regulations, and any amendments, with the Chancellor's Office. As a result, community college districts are mandated to file a copy of their the regulations, and any amendments thereto, adopted pursuant to section 55750 with the Chancellor's Office. Therefore, staff finds that Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3), and California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55750 mandates community college districts to engage in the following activities:

1. Adopt regulations consistent with the subchapter regarding standards of scholarship consisting of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55750 – 55765.[218] (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(3) and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55750.)
2. Publish the regulations consistent with the subchapter regarding standards of scholarship in the college catalog under appropriate headings. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55750.)
3. File a copy of the regulations regarding standards of scholarship, and any amendments, with the Chancellor. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55750.)

In the claimants' response to the draft staff analysis, the claimants cite Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3), in association with title 5 section 51020, which has been determined to not impose any state-mandated activities.[219] The claimants do make any argument regarding the relationship between the Education Code section or the title 5 section. Instead, the claimants suggest that Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3), should be analyzed.[220] To the extent that the claimants are arguing that Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3), imposes an independent requirement to comply with the provisions of title 5 section 51020, staff finds that it does not. As found above, Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3), requires community college districts to establish academic standards, probation, and dismissal, and readmission policies consistent with the minimum standards adopted by the Board of Governors, which are set forth in title 5 sections 55750-55765. Section 70902, subdivision (b) does not require districts to have stated objectives for its instructional programs, as provided by title 5 section 51020.

Grading Practices (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55751)

Section 55751 addresses the grading practices of community college districts. The plain language of section 55751 requires community college districts to determine a uniform grading practice for the district based on sound academic principles. In addition, the uniform grading practices must conform to the standard that work in all courses acceptable in the fulfillment of the requirements for an associate or baccalaureate degree, a certificate, diploma or license is graded in accordance with a grading scale adopted by the governing board consistent with section 55758, and sections 55752 (Credit-No Credit Options) or 55753 (Credit by Examination). As a result, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55751 imposes the following state-mandated activities:

1. Determine a uniform grading practice for the district based on sound academic principles. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55751.)
2. Conform the uniform grading practices to the standard that work in all courses acceptable in the fulfillment of the requirements for an associate or baccalaureate degree, a certificate, diploma or license is graded in accordance with a grading scale adopted by the governing board consistent with section 55758, and sections 55752 (Credit-No Credit Options) or 55753 (Credit by Examination). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55751, subds. (a) and (b).)

Credit-No Credit Option (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55752)

Section 55752 addresses the "credit-no credit" options regarding classes offered by a community college. Section 55752, subdivision (a), provides that the "governing board of a community college district may by resolution and regulation offer courses" in which all students are evaluated on a "credit- no credit" basis, or in which students may choose to be evaluated on a "credit-no credit" basis or a letter grade. In addition, subdivision (a) provides that if such a course is offered, a community college must specify in its catalog the category into which the course falls.

As a result, the plain language of section 55752 authorizes the governing boards of community college districts to offer courses on a "credit-no credit" basis, but does not require the governing boards to do so. If "credit-no credit" courses are not offered, there would be no requirement to specify the type of "credit-no credit" course in the district catalog, adopt regulations, or file the regulations with the Chancellor's Office. As a result, any requirement of section 55752 is a downstream activity resulting from a community college district's voluntary decision to offer courses wherein all students are evaluated on a "credit-no credit" basis or wherein each student may elect whether the basis of evaluation is to be "credit-no credit" or letter grade. Thus, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55752, does not impose any state-mandated activities on community colleges, and therefore, is not subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

Credit by Examination (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55753)

Section 55753 addresses the option of credit by examination for a community college course. Section 55753, as added by Register 83, Number 29 (July 16, 1983) provides:

> (a) The governing board maintaining one or more community colleges shall adopt and publish procedures and regulations pertaining to credit by examination in accordance with the provisions of this section and the provisions of Sections 55751, 55752, 55758, 55760, 55761, 55762, and 55764.
> (b) The governing board may grant credit to any student who satisfactorily passes an examination approved or conducted by proper authorities of the college. Such credit may be granted only to a student who is registered at the college and in good standing and only for a course listed in the catalog of the community college.

(c) The student's academic record shall be clearly annotated to reflect that credit was earned by examination.

(d) Units for which credit is given pursuant to the provisions of this section shall not be counted in determining the 12 semester hours of credit in residence required for an associate degree.

In 2002, section 55753 was amended by Register 2002, Number 8 (Feb. 22, 2002) to provide:

(a) The governing board of each community college district shall adopt and publish procedures and regulations pertaining to credit by examination in accordance with the provisions of [the "Standards of Scholarship" subchapter].

(b) [As quoted above (Register 83, No. 29 (July 16, 1983))].

(c) The nature and content of the examination shall be determined solely by faculty in the discipline that normally teaches the course for which credit is to be granted in accordance with policies and procedures approved by the curriculum committee established pursuant to Section 55002. The faculty shall determine that the examination adequately measures mastery of the course content as set forth in the outline of record. The faculty may accept an examination conducted at a location other than the community college for this purpose.

(d) A separate examination shall be conducted for each course for which credit is to be granted. Credit may be awarded for prior experience or prior learning only in terms of individually identified courses for which examinations are conducted pursuant to this section.

(e) [Identical to the above quoted subdivision (c), as added by Register 83, Number 29 (July 16, 1983)]

(f) Grading shall be according to the regular grading scale approved by the governing board pursuant to Section 55758, except that students shall be offered a credit-no credit option if that option is ordinarily available for the course.

(g) [Identical to the above quoted subdivision (d), as added by Register 83, Number 29 (July 16, 1983)]

The plain language of subdivision (a) provides that community college districts shall adopt and publish procedures and regulations pertaining to credit by examination. However, courts have held that the intent of a regulation should be ascertained from the entire regulation and regulatory scheme rather than from isolated parts or words.[221] Additionally, under Kern High School Dist. a requirement resulting from an underlying discretionary decision does not constitute a state-mandated activity.

Here, subdivision (b) authorizes, but does not require, community college districts to offer credit by examination. In addition, the usual and ordinary meaning of the word "procedures" is, "a way of performing or effecting something."[222] In light of the discretionary nature of offering credit by examination, and the usual and ordinary meaning of "procedures," the activity of adopting and publishing procedures, or a way of performing or effecting credit by examination, would only be necessary if a community college district made the initial decision to offer credit by examination. Thus, the requirement of adopting and publishing procedures regarding credit by examination is triggered by a community college district's initial discretionary decision to offer credit by examination, and therefore under Kern High School Dist., is not mandated by the state. Likewise, the subsequent activities set forth in section 55753, subdivisions (c)-(g) are downstream activities of a community college district's decision to offer credit-by examination, and therefore not state-mandated.

As distinguished from "procedures," the usual and ordinary meaning of the word "regulations" is, "A principle, rule, or law designed to control or govern behavior."[223] Adopting and publishing regulations regarding credit by examination, or rules to control or govern credit by examination is not dependent on actually offering credit by examination. Thus, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55753, subdivision (a) imposes the following state-mandated activities:

> Adopt and publish regulations pertaining to credit by examination in accordance with the provisions of Subchapter 9 "Standards of Scholarship" (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55750 et seq.). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55753, subd. (a).)

Articulation of High School Courses (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55753.5)

Section 55753.5 addresses the use of articulated high school courses to satisfy community college course requirements. Section 55753.5 provides in relevant part:

> The governing board of a community college district may adopt policies to permit articulated high school courses to be applied to community college requirements in accordance with this Section. …

The remaining portions of section 55753.5 set forth what articulated high school courses can and cannot be used in lieu of comparable community college courses, and the requirements resulting from the application of articulated high school courses toward community college requirements. Reading section 55753.5 as a whole and "not as individual parts or words standing alone,"[224] any activities required are a result of a community college district's decision to permit articulated high school courses to be applied to community college requirements. As a result, under Kern High School Dist., California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55753.5, does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts, and therefore, is not subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

Advanced Placement Examinations (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55753.7)

Section 55753.7 addresses the granting of credit for satisfactory completion of advanced placement examinations. Section 55753.7 provides in relevant part:

> The governing board of a community college district may adopt policies to grant credit for satisfactory completion of advanced placement examinations typically recognized by colleges and universities as measuring competencies comparable to those achieved in baccalaureate leave courses.

The remaining portions of section 55753.7 set forth activities resulting from the granting of credit for satisfactory completion of advanced placement examinations. Read as a whole, any activities required by section 55753.7 are downstream activities resulting from a community college district's decision to adopt policies to grant credit for satisfactory completion of advanced placement examinations. As a result, under Kern High School Dist., California Code or Regulations, title 5, section 55753.7, does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts, and therefore, is not subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

Standards for Probation (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55754)

Section 55754 addresses the standards for academic and progress probation. Pursuant to the plain language of the section 55754, subdivision (a), community colleges are required to place student on academic probation if the student has attempted at least 12 semester or 18 quarter units and has earned a grade point average below 2.0 in all units which were graded.

The plain language of subdivision (b), similarly provides that a community college is to place a student on progress probation if the student has enrolled in a total of at least 12 semester or 18 quarter units and the percentage of all units in which the student has enrolled and for which entries of "Withdrawal," "Incomplete," and "No Credit" have been recorded reaches or exceeds 50 percent. However, subdivision (b) must be read in the context of the regulatory scheme as a whole.[225] Under the California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55752 and 55758, community college districts are not required to offer courses on a "credit – no credit" basis, nor are community college districts required to authorize the use of "Withdrawal" or "Incomplete" as academic record symbols.[226] As a result, the requirement to place a student on "progress probation" is a downstream activity of a community college's decision to offer courses on a "credit – no credit" basis and to authorize the use of "Withdrawal" or "Incomplete" as academic record symbols.

In response to the draft staff analysis, the claimants argue that the above analysis is incorrect because it is based on the discretionary use of "Credit" and "No Credit" grading symbols, and "grading symbols are not a new program applied to a precursor optional program, so Kern is inapplicable."[227] The claimants misinterpret the above analysis. Placing a student on "progress probation" is a downstream activity of offering classes on a "credit-no credit" basis, which is a discretionary decision pursuant to section 55752.[228] Therefore, under Kern High School District, subdivision (b) does not mandate any activity upon community colleges or districts.

In addition, the plain language of subdivision (c) authorizes community college districts to adopt standards for probation higher than those set forth by subdivisions (a) and (b); however, districts are not required to do so. Thus, staff finds that subdivision (a) of section 55754 of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations imposes the following state-mandated activity:

> Place a student on academic probation when he/she has attempted at least 12 semester or 18 quarter units as shown by the official academic record and earned a grade point average below 2.0 in all units which were graded on the basis of the grading scale. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55754, subd. (a).)

[226] California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55752 addresses the "credit – no credit" grading option. California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55758 addresses academic record symbols, including the use of "Withdrawal" and "Incomplete." Section 55758 will be addressed in more detail below.

[227] Exhibit V, Claimants' response to draft staff analysis, supra, p. 8.

[228] In the claimants' response to draft staff analysis (Exhibit V) the claimants make the same argument in regard to California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55755, subdivision (b), and 55756, subdivision (b). Staff's response applies equally to these regulations.

Removal from Probation (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55755)

Section 55755 addresses the removal of students from probation. Pursuant to the plain language of section 55755, subdivision (a), community colleges are required to remove a student from academic probation when the student's accumulated grade point average is 2.0 or higher.

Subdivision (b) provides that community colleges are required to remove a student from progress probation when the percentage of units for which "Withdrawal," "Incomplete," and "No Credit" entries have been recorded drops below 50 percent. However, as discussed with section 55754, districts are not required to offer courses on a "credit-no credit" basis or to use "Withdrawal" or "Incomplete" as academic record symbols. Thus, under Kern High School Dist., subdivision (b) does not mandate any activities on community college districts.

Subdivision (c) requires community college districts to adopt and publish procedures and conditions for probation and appeal of probation and request for removal from probation. In addition, subdivision (c) authorizes a community college district to establish standards higher than those specified in subdivisions (a) and (b), but the district is not required to do so.

For the reasons discussed above staff finds that subdivisions (a) and (c) of section 55755 of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations impose the state-mandated activities summarized below.

1. Remove a student from academic probation when the student's accumulated grade point average is 2.0 or higher. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55755, subd. (a).)
2. Adopt and publish procedures and conditions for probation and appeal of probation and request for removal from probation. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55755, subd. (c).)

Standards for Dismissal (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756)

Section 55756 addresses community college district standards for dismissal. Pursuant to the plain language of section 55756, subdivision (a), community colleges are required to make a student on academic probation subject to dismissal if the student earned a cumulative grade point average of less than 1.75 in all units attempted in each of three consecutive semesters or 5 quarters which were graded. Subdivision (b) provides that a student on progress probation is required to be subject to dismissal if the percentage of units in which the student has been enrolled for which entries of "Withdrawal," "Incomplete," and "No Credit" have been recorded for 3 consecutive semesters or 5 consecutive quarters reaches or exceeds 50 percent. However, for the same reasons discussed above, subdivision (b) of section 55756 does not impose any state-mandated activities. Subdivision (c) requires a community college district to adopt and publish procedures and conditions for dismissal and appeal of dismissal and request for reinstatement. Subdivision (d) requires community college districts to adopt rules setting forth the circumstances that warrant exceptions to the standards for dismissal, and to file a copy of the rules with the Chancellor. As a result, staff finds that subdivisions (a), (c) and (d) of section 55756 of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations impose the following state-mandated activities:

1. Make a student subject to dismissal if the student is on academic probation and has earned a cumulative grade point average of less than 1.75 in all units attempted in each of 3 consecutive semesters or 5 consecutive quarters which were graded on the basis of a grading scale. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756, subd. (a).)
2. Adopt and publish procedures and conditions for dismissal and appeal of dismissal and request for reinstatement. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756, subd. (c).)
3. Adopt rules setting forth the circumstances that warrant exceptions to the standards for dismissal. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756, subd. (d).)

4. File a copy of the rules setting forth the circumstances that warrant exceptions to the standards for dismissal with the Chancellor. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756, subd. (d).)

Remedial Coursework Limit (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756.5)

Section 55756.5 addresses the remedial coursework limit of community colleges which, with exceptions,[229] is set at 30 semester units or 45 quarter units. "Remedial course work" refers to precollegiate basic skills courses which are defined as those courses in reading, writing, computation, and English as a Second Language which are designated by the community college district as nondegree credit courses.[230] Subdivision (b) of section 55756.5, provides:

> A student's need for remedial coursework shall be determined using appropriate assessment instruments, methods, or procedures administered pursuant to [subchapter] 6 (commencing with section 55500) of [chapter] 6 of this [division].

The plain language of subdivision (b) requires community college districts to use appropriate assessment instruments, methods, or procedures used pursuant to the regulations implementing the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act of 1986 (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55500 – 55534). The "assessment instruments, methods, or procedures" used in the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act of 1986 include, but are not limited to: interviews; standardized tests; holistic scoring processes; attitude surveys; vocational or career aptitude and interest inventories; high school or college transcripts; specialized certificates or licenses; educational histories; other measures of performance; and assessment procedures such as identification of test scores which measure particular skill levels, the administrative process by which students are referred for assessment, the manner in which assessment results are made available, and the length of time required before such results are available. As a result, pursuant to subdivision (b), community colleges are required to use these "assessment instruments, methods, or procedures" to determine a student's need for remedial coursework.

In addition, subdivisions (b) and (e) of section 55756.5 require community colleges to dismiss and refer students that have exhausted the unit limitation to appropriate adult noncredit education services provided by college, adult school, community-based organization, or other appropriate local provider with which the district has an established referral agreement. Also, pursuant to subdivision (g) community college districts are required to submit, through the established Management Information System, information necessary to enable the Chancellor to determine: (1) the effect of section 55765.5 on students by sex, age, and ethnicity; and (2) the success rates for students enrolled in "remedial coursework."

The claimants allege that subdivision (c) of section 55756.5 requires community college districts to track and ensure that students enrolled in English as a Second Language classes and those students identified by the districts as having a learning disability are exempted from the remedial coursework limit.[231] However, the plain language of subdivision (c) does not require community college districts to track or ensure exemption of students that fit within these categories. Rather, the plain language of subdivision (c) only provides that students that fit within these categories are exempt. As a result, tracking or ensuring that students are exempt is not required by section 55756.5.

The claimants also allege that subdivision (d) of section 55756.5 requires:

> … the governing board [of a community college district] to review and approve any locally developed standards which provide for a waiver of the limitation on remedial coursework with respect to any student, and for the standards to include provisions which ensure that waivers are only given for specified periods of time or for specified numbers of units … .[232]

However, the plain language of subdivision (d) provides in relevant part that the "governing board of a district may provide a waiver of the limitation on remedial coursework … ."[233] Subdivision (d) then sets forth requirements if the district decides to provide a waiver. As a result, any activities required under subdivision (d) are downstream activities of a district's voluntary decision to provide a waiver to the remedial coursework limit, and therefore are not required by the section.

In addition, the claimants allege that subdivision (f) requires community college districts:

> [t]o allow a student who has successfully completed all appropriate "remedial coursework," or has demonstrated the level of skills which reasonably assures success in college-level courses, to request reinstatement to proceed with college-level coursework … . [234]

However, the plain language of subdivision (f) does not impose the activity of allowing a student to request reinstatement on a community college or district. Rather, subdivision (f) allows students to make a request for reinstatement to proceed with college-level courses if certain conditions are met. Subdivision (f) does not require any activities of community college districts. As a result, staff finds that subdivisions (b), (e) and (g) of section 55756.5 of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations impose the following state-mandated activities:

1. Determine a student's need for remedial coursework using appropriate assessment instruments, methods, or procedures, including, but not limited to, interviews; standardized tests; holistic scoring processes; attitude surveys; vocational or career aptitude and interest inventories; high school or college transcripts; specialized certificates or licenses; educational histories; other measures of performance; and assessment procedures such as identification of test cores which measure particular skill levels, the administrative process by which students are referred for assessment, the manner in which assessment results are made available, and the length of time required before such results are available. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756.5, subd. (b).)
2. Dismiss and refer students that have exhausted the remedial coursework unit limitation to appropriate adult noncredit education services, provided by college, adult school, community-based organization, or other appropriate local provider which the district has an established referral agreement. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756.5, subds. (b) and (e).)
3. Submit, through the established Management Information System, information necessary to enable the Chancellor to determine the effect of the California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55756.5 on students by sex, age and ethnicity, and the success rates for students enrolled in "remedial coursework." (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §55756.5, subd. (g).)

Units Attempted (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55757)

Section 55757 provides:

> For the purposes of sections 55754 and 55756, "all units attempted" means all units of credit for which the student is enrolled in the current community college of attendance. The governing board of each district shall adopt rules and regulations governing the inclusion in or exclusion of units in which a student did not receive a grade or "credit-no credit" or from which the student withdrew in accordance with rules adopted by the district governing board.

The first sentence of section 55757 defines "all units attempted" for purposes of sections 55754 and 55756. As discussed above, sections 55754 and 55756 address a community college district's standards for probation and dismissal of students for academic reasons. Read in this context, the second sentence of section 55757 requires the governing board of a district to adopt rules and regulations governing the inclusion in or exclusion of units in which a student did not receive a grade or "credit-no credit" or from which the student withdrew when determining whether a student should be placed on probation or dismissed.

Although, as discussed above, community college districts are not required to offer courses on a "credit – no credit" basis, nor are they required to authorize the use of "Withdrawal" or "Incomplete" as academic record symbols,[235] they are still required to adopt rules and regulations governing the inclusion or exclusion of units received on these bases. As a result, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55757 imposes the following state-mandated activity:

> Adopt rules and regulations governing the inclusion in or exclusion of units, for the purpose of determining whether to place a student on probation or dismissal, in which a student did not receive a grade or "credit-no credit" or from which the student withdrew in accordance with rules adopted by the district governing board. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55757.)

Academic Record Symbols and Grade Point Average (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55758)

Section 55758 addresses the academic record symbols and grade point average used by community college districts. Subdivision (a) of section 55758 provides in relevant part:

> Grades from a grading scale shall be averaged on the basis of the point equivalencies to determine a student's grade point average using only the following evaluative symbols …

Subdivision (a) than sets forth the evaluative symbols "A" through "F" with the grade point equivalencies of "4" through "0" respectively. Subdivision (d) requires the governing board of each community college district to publish in the catalogs of community colleges the point equivalencies for the grades in the grading scale used in section 55758, subdivision (a), as part of its grading practices. Subdivisions (b), (c), and (e), authorize the governing board of community college districts to use "plus," "minus," "FW" designations, and nonevaluative symbols.

The plain language of section 55758 imposes a state mandate on community college districts to determine a student's grade point average using grades from the grading scale set forth in subdivision (a). In addition, subdivision (d) requires community college districts to publish in the catalogs of community colleges the point equivalencies for the grades in the grading scale used in section 55758, subdivision (a). However, pursuant to the plain language of the section 55758 and interpreting the regulatory scheme as a whole, the inclusion of the academic record symbols "CR" and "NC" are not required to be published pursuant to section 55758, subdivision (d). Subdivision (d) provides that a district "shall publish the point equivalencies for the grades used in [subdivision] (a) … in the catalog."[236] As set forth in subdivision (a), the symbols "CR" and "NC" do not have corresponding point equivalencies. In fact, it is noted in subdivision (a) that units awarded a "CR" or "NC" are not to be counted in a student's grade point average. In addition, as discussed above in the section regarding section 55752, community college districts are not required to offer courses on a "credit – no credit" ("CR" – "NC") basis. As a result, the inclusion of "CR" or "NC" in the published grading scale is not required by subdivision (d) of section 55758.

In addition, section 55758 authorizes, but does not require, the governing board of a community college district to use "plus", "minuses", "FW" designations, and nonevaluative symbols. The plain language of section 55758 provides that "plus", "minus", and "FW" designations, and nonevaluative symbols need to be published if they are used. As a result, staff finds community college districts are not mandated by the state to publish as part of their grading practices "plus", "minuses", "FW" designations, and nonevaluative symbols in their catalogs.

Thus, staff finds that only California Code Regulations, title 5, section 55758, subdivisions (a) and (d) impose state-mandated activities, which are summarized below.

1. Determine a student's grade point average using the grades from a grading scale and the corresponding point equivalencies set forth in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55758, subdivision (a). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55758, subd. (a).)
2. Publish the point equivalencies for the grades used in California Code Regulations, title 5, section 55758, subdivision (a), in the catalog or catalogs of the community college district as part of its grading practices. "Point equivalencies for the grades" that are to be published excludes the symbols for credit (CR) and no credit (NC). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55758, subd. (d).)

Grade Point Average Calculation (Cal. Cod Regs., tit. 5 § 55758.5)

Section 55758.5 addresses the calculation of a student's degree applicable grade point averages. Section 55758.5 provides in relevant part, "In calculating students' degree applicable grade point averages, grades earned in nondegree credit courses shall not be included." The claimants assert that community college districts are required "[t]o ensure that grades earned in nondegree credit courses are not included in calculating students' degree applicable grade point averages." Additionally, the claimants argue that:

> The Section 55758.5 activity in which the districts must 'engage' is the calculation of the grade point average, which must exclude noncredit courses. To implement the calculation, the noncredit grade must be affirmatively removed thus creating an activity in which the districts must 'engage.' The noncredit grading ratings have the same regulatory standing in Section 55758, subdivision (a), as A-F ratings.[237] [238]

[236] Emphasis added.

The claimants seek to imply an activity into section 55758.5. However, the plain language of section 55758.5 does not impose any activities on community college districts; rather it prohibits a community college district from engaging in an activity. Specifically, community college districts are prohibited from including grades earned in nondegree credit courses when calculating a student's degree applicable grade point average. The plain language of section 55758.5 does not require the calculation of the grade point average and then to affirmatively remove nondegree credit courses. Thus, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55758.5 does not impose any state-mandated activities.

Notification of Probation and Dismissal (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55759)

Section 55759 addresses the notification of students of academic probation and dismissal. Section 55759 requires each community college to make reasonable efforts to notify a student subject to academic probation or dismissal at or near the beginning of the semester or quarter in which it will take effect, but no later than the start of the fall semester or quarter. Each community college must also make reasonable efforts to notify a student of removal from probation or reinstatement after dismissal within timelines established by the district. In addition, section 55759 requires the policies and procedures regarding probation and dismissal to be published in the college catalog. In addition, each community college shall make a reasonable effort to provide counseling and other support services to a student on probation to help the student overcome any academic difficulties.

Thus, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55759 imposes the following state-mandated activities:

1. Make reasonable efforts to notify a student of removal from probation or reinstatement after dismissal within timelines established by the district. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55759.)
2. Publish the policies and procedures regarding probation and dismissal in the college catalog. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55759.)
3. Make reasonable effort to provide counseling and other support services to a student on probation to help the student overcome any academic difficulties. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55759.)

Grade Changes and Course Repetition (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55760, 55761, and 55762)

Sections 55760, 55761, and 55762 address grade changes, the district policy for course repetition, and the requirements when adopting regulations to implement the policy.

Section 55760, subdivision (a), provides that the instructor of a course shall determine the grade to be awarded to each student in any course of instruction for which grades are awarded. In addition, subdivision (a) requires districts to include expunging incorrect grades from the record in the procedures for the correction of grades given in error. Subdivision (b) provides that the governing board of a district must adopt and publish procedures and regulations in accordance with sections 55761 and 55762, which pertain to the repetition of courses for which substandard work has been recorded. In addition, subdivision (b) requires appropriate annotations to be made in a student's permanent academic record when grade changes are made in accordance to sections 55761 and 55762.

[238] It is necessary to note that there is a distinction between "credit-no credit" courses and "nondegree credit" courses. Nondegree credit courses are course for which a student receives course credit, but the credit is not applicable toward a degree. A credit-no credit course is a course in which a student either receives credit or no credit upon completion of the course. Thus, this section of the analysis does not involve "credit-no credit" courses, which community college districts are not required to offer as discussed above.

Section 55761 requires the governing board of a community college district to adopt and publish procedures or regulations pertaining to the repetition of courses for which substandard work has been recorded. Section 55761 also provides that the procedures or regulations may allow such courses to be repeated and the previous grade and credit to be disregarded in the computation of grade point averages.

Section 55762 sets forth rules pertaining to the adoption and publishing of policies and procedures or regulations that permit the repetition of courses. Section 55762, subdivision (a), prohibits a community college district from adopting regulations or procedures that conflict with existing law pertaining to the finality of grades assigned by instructors, and the retention and destruction of records. Subdivision (b) provides that the governing board of a community college district may permit repetition of any course which was taken at an accredited college or university and for which substandard work has been recorded. Subdivision (c) provides that when the governing board of a community college district permits course repetition, the governing board must indicate any specific courses or categories of courses which are exempt from course repetition. Subdivision (d) provides that courses that are repeated must be clearly indicated on the student's permanent academic record. Subdivision (e) provides that when course repetition is allowed, specific procedures must be published to implement section 55762. Subdivision (g) provides that the governing board must maintain a careful record of actions taken under course repetition procedures or regulations.

Although sections 55760 and 55761 require the adoption and publication of procedures and regulations pertaining to the repetition of courses for which substandard work has been recorded, community college districts are not required to allow such repetition. Section 55761 provides in relevant part, "The procedures or regulations may allow [courses for which substandard work has been recorded] to be repeated and the previous grade and credit to be disregarded … ."[239] In addition, the language throughout section 55762 indicates the voluntary nature of allowing course repetition for which substandard work has been recorded.[240] Similar to the analysis in section 55753 regarding the adoption of "procedures," the activity of adopting and publishing procedures (defined as a way of performing or effecting something) for the repetition of courses for which substandard work has been recorded is unnecessary if a community college district chooses not to offer repetition of courses. As a result, pursuant to Kern High School Dist. the adoption and publication of procedures pertaining to the repetition of courses is not a state-mandated activity. In addition, the activities set forth in section 55762 are also downstream activities resulting from a community college district's decision to offer repetition of courses, and not a result of a state mandate.

As distinguished from the activity of adopting procedures, adopting and publishing regulations regarding the repetition of courses for which substandard work has been recorded is not dependent on actually offering the repetition of courses. Thus, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55760 and 55761 impose the following state-mandated activities:

1. The instructor of the course is to determine the grade to be awarded each student in accordance with the California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55758 ("Academic Record Symbols and Grade Point Average"). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55760, subd. (a).)

2. Include in the procedures for the correction of grades given in error the expunging of the incorrect grade from the record. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55760, subd. (a).)

3. Adopt and publish regulations for repeating courses in which substandard work has been recorded. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55760, subd. (b), and 55761.)

Academic Renewal without Course Repetition (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55764 and 55765)

Sections 55764 and 55765 address a community college district's policy regarding academic renewal without course repetition and the requirements when adopting procedures or regulations to implement the policy.

Section 55764 requires the district of a community college to adopt and publish procedures or regulations pertaining to the alleviation of previously recorded substandard academic performance that is not reflective of a student's demonstrated ability. The procedures or regulations must include a clear statement of the educational principles upon which they are based, and must be referred to as academic renewal regulations. When procedures or regulations permit recorded substandard course work to be disregarded in the computation of grade point averages, the permanent academic record shall be annotated so that all work remains legible.

Section 55765, subdivision (a), prohibits a community college district from adopting regulations or procedures that conflict with existing law pertaining to the finality of grades assigned by instructors, and the retention and destruction of records. Subdivision (b) provides that when adopted procedures or regulations permit the alleviation of previously recorded substandard performance that is not reflective of a student's demonstrated ability, the governing board of a community college district must state: (1) the amount of coursework that may be alleviated, (2) the amount of academic work to have been completed at a satisfactory level subsequent to the coursework to be alleviated, (3) the length of time that is to elapse since the substandard coursework was recorded, and (4) any courses exempt from academic renewal. Subdivision (c) provides that when alleviation is permitted, the governing board must publish specific procedures to be followed in implementing the procedures or regulations adopted pursuant to section 55765 and 55764 that allow alleviation. These implementing procedures must state, at a minimum, the procedures to be followed by students petitioning for alleviation, and the officers or personnel responsible for implementing the procedures or regulations.

Although section 55764 requires the adoption and publication of procedures or regulations pertaining to the alleviation of previously recorded substandard academic performance that is not reflective of a student's demonstrated ability, community college districts are not required to allow alleviation of previously recorded substandard academic performance that is not reflective of a student's demonstrated ability. For the same reasons discussed in the analysis of section 55753, the adoption and publication of procedures is a downstream activity triggered by a community college district's decision to offer alleviation of previously recorded substandard academic performance that is not reflective of a student's demonstrated ability. Similarly, the activities set forth in section 55765 are also downstream activities resulting from a community college district's decision to offer alleviation of previously recorded substandard academic performance, and not a result of a state mandate.

However, for the same reasons as discussed in the analysis of section 55753, adopting and publishing regulations regarding the alleviation of previously recorded substandard academic performance that is not reflective of a student's demonstrated ability is not dependent on offering alleviation of previously recorded substandard academic performance. Thus, staff finds that

California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55764, imposes the following state-mandated activity:

> Adopt and publish regulations for alleviation of previously recorded substandard academic performance that is not reflective of a student's demonstrated ability. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55764.)

(i) Summary of state-mandated activities

In summary, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, subchapter 9, sections 55750, 55751, 55753, 55754, 55755, 55756, 55756.5, 55757, 55758, 55759, 55760, 55761, and 55764, impose the following state-mandated activities:

3 consecutive semesters or 5 consecutive quarters which were graded on the basis of a grading scale. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756, subd. (a).)

11. Adopt and publish procedures and conditions for dismissal and appeal of dismissal and request for reinstatement. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756, subd. (c).)
12. Adopt rules setting forth the circumstances that warrant exceptions to the standards for dismissal. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756, subd. (d).)

14. Determine a student's need for remedial coursework using appropriate assessment instruments, methods, or procedures, including, but not limited to, interviews; standardized tests; holistic scoring processes; attitude surveys; vocational or career aptitude and interest inventories; high school or college transcripts; specialized certificates or licenses; educational histories; other measures of performance; and assessment procedures such as identification of test cores which measure particular skill levels, the administrative process by which students are referred for assessment, the manner in which assessment results are made available, and the length of time required before such results are available. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756.5, subd. (b).)
15. Dismiss and refer students that have exhausted the remedial coursework unit limitation to appropriate adult noncredit education services, provided by college, adult school, community-based organization, or other appropriate local provider which the district has an established referral agreement. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756.5, subds. (b) and (e).)
16. Submit, through the established Management Information System, information necessary to enable the Chancellor to determine the effect of the California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55756.5, on students by sex, age, and ethnicity, and the success rates for students enrolled in "remedial coursework." (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §55756.5, subd. (g).)
17. Adopt rules and regulations governing the inclusion in or exclusion of units, for the purpose of determining whether to place a student on probation or dismissal, in which a student did not receive a grade or "credit-no credit" or from which the student withdrew in accordance with rules adopted by the district governing board. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55757.)
18. Determine a student's grade point average using the grades from a grading scale and the corresponding point equivalencies set forth in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55758, subdivision (a). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55758, subd. (a).)
19. Publish the point equivalencies for the grades used in California Code Regulations, title 5, section 55758, subdivision (a), in the catalog or catalogs of the community college district as part of its grading practices. "Point equivalencies for the grades" that are to be published excludes the symbols for credit (CR) and no credit (NC). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55758, subd. (d).)
20. Make reasonable efforts to notify a student subject to academic probation or dismissal at or near the beginning of the semester or quarter which it will take effect, but no later than the start of the fall semester or quarter. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55759.)
21. Make reasonable efforts to notify a student of removal from probation or reinstatement after dismissal within timelines established by the district. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55759.)

22. Publish the policies and procedures regarding probation and dismissal in the college catalog. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55759.)

23. Make reasonable effort to provide counseling and other support services to a student on probation to help the student overcome any academic difficulties. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55759.)

24. The instructor of the course is to determine the grade to be awarded each student in accordance with the California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55758 ("Academic Record Symbols and Grade Point Average"). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55760, subd. (a).)

25. Include in the procedures for the correction of grades given in error the expunging of the incorrect grade from the record. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55760, subd. (a).)

26. Adopt and publish regulations for repeating courses in which substandard work has been recorded. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55760, subd. (b), and 55761.)

27. Adopt and publish regulations for alleviation of previously recorded substandard academic performance that is not reflective of a student's demonstrated ability. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55764.)

b. Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3), and California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55750, 55751, 55753, 55754, 55755, 55756, 55756.5, 55757, 55758, 55759, 55760, 55761, and 55764 constitute a new program or higher level of service

To constitute a "new program or higher level of service" the activities must carry out the governmental function of providing a service to the public, or impose unique requirements on local governments that do not apply to all residents and entities in the state in order to implement a state policy.[242] In addition, the requirements must be new in comparison with the pre-existing scheme and must be intended to provide an enhanced service to the public.[243] To make this determination, the requirements must initially be compared with the legal requirements in effect immediately prior to its enactment.[244]

As discussed and summarized above, the activities required by Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3), and title 5 sections 55750, 55751, 55753, 55754, 55755, 55756, 55756.5, 55757, 55758, 55759, 55760, 55761, and 55764 include, but are not limited to, activities related to the grading practices, academic probation and dismissal, and remedial coursework. The activities required by these sections carry out the governmental function of providing education. As the court held in Long Beach Unified School Dist., a case involving a kindergarten through 12th grade (K-12) school district, "although numerous private schools exist, education in our society is considered to be a peculiarly governmental function."[245] Despite the distinct differences between postsecondary education and K-12 education, namely that postsecondary education is not compulsory or a fundamental right,[246] education remains a peculiarly governmental function. The Legislature has acknowledged postsecondary education as a governmental function of providing service to the public with the enactment of the Donahoe Higher Education Act. The Donahoe Higher Education Act sets forth the system of postsecondary education including community colleges, state colleges, and the University of California. Education Code section 66002, which sets forth the legislative findings of the Donahoe Higher Education Act, provides:

> California must support an educational system which prepares all Californians for responsible citizenship and meaningful careers in a multicultural society; this requires a commitment from all to make quality education available and affordable for every Californian.[247]

The legislative findings indicate the need for state government to support a higher educational system for a public purpose. Thus, education, whether provided in K-12 or community college districts, provides a service to the public and therefore is a peculiarly governmental function. As a result, the activities mandated by Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3), and title 5 sections 55750, 55751, 55753, 55754, 55755, 55756, 55756.5, 55757, 55758, 55759, 55760, 55761, and 55764 carry out a governmental function and constitute a "program" within the meaning of article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

The following discussion will address whether these sections constitute new programs or higher levels of service by looking at the legal requirements in effect immediately prior to the enactment of the sections.

Remedial Coursework Limit (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756.5)

Section 55756.5 mandates community college districts to engage in the following activities:

1. Determine a student's need for remedial coursework using appropriate assessment instruments, methods, or procedures, including, but not limited to, interviews; standardized tests; holistic scoring processes; attitude surveys; vocational or career aptitude and interest inventories; high school or college transcripts; specialized certificates or licenses; educational histories; other measures of performance; and assessment procedures such as identification of test scores which measure particular skill levels, the administrative process by which students are referred for assessment, the manner in which assessment results are made available, and the length of time required before such results are available. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756.5, subd. (b) (Register 91, No. 23).)
2. Dismiss and refer students that have exhausted the remedial coursework unit limitation to appropriate adult noncredit education services, provided by college, adult school, community-based organization, or other appropriate local provider which the district has an established referral agreement. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55756.5, subds. (b) and (e) (Register 91, No. 23).)

[247] Education Code section 66002, subdivision (e)(3).

The claimants have pled section 55756.5 of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations, as added in 1990.[248] Prior to the adoption of section 55756.5, community colleges were not required to engage in the activities required by section 55756.5, and as a result, the activities are new as compared to pre-existing legal requirements. As a result, staff finds that the above activities mandated by section 55756.5 of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations constitute a "new program or higher level of service" subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution. In 2007, section 55756.5 was renumbered to California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55035; however, the state-mandated "new program or higher level of service" found above continued after the 2007 amendment.[249]

Standards of Scholarship (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(3), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55750, 55751, 55753, 55754, 55755, 55756, 55757, 55758, 55759, 55760, 55761, and 55764)

The claimants have Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3) as added in 1988,[250] and title 5 sections 55750, 55751, 55754, 55755, 55756, 55757, 55759, 55760, 55761, and 55764 of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations, as added in 1983 and last amended in 1991.[251] In addition, the claimants have pled title 5, section 55753, as added in 1983 and last amended in 2002, and title 5, section 55758, as added in 1983 and last amended in 2001.[252] The activities mandated by Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3), and the title 5 sections are derived from former Education Code section 72285 and title 5 regulations existing prior to 1983.[253] However, former Education Code section 72285 was enacted in 1976 as part of a statutory scheme that the Legislature declared:

[253] Title 5, section 55750, addressing the adoption of regulations, was derived from former title 5, section 51300, added in 1971 by Register 71, number 27. Title 5, section 55751, addressing grading practices, was derived from former title 5, section 51301, as amended in 1977 by Register 77, number 45. Title 5, section 55753, addressing credit by examination, was derived from former title 5, section 51302.5, as amended in 1980 by Register 80, number 11. Title 5, section 55754, addressing standards for probation, was derived from former title 5, section 51303, as added in 1971 by Register 71, number 27. Title 5, section 55755, addressing removal from probation, was derived from former title 5, section 51303.5, as added in 1980 by Register 80, number 19. Title 5, section 55756, addressing standards for dismissal, was derived from former title 5, section 51304, as added in 1971 by Register 71, number 27. Title 5, section 55757, addressing units attempted, was derived from former title 5, section 51305, as added in 1971 by Register 71, number 27. Title 5, section 55758, addressing academic record symbols and grade point average, was derived from former title 5, section 51306, as added in 1971 by Register 71, number 27. Title 5, section 55759, addressing notification of probation and dismissal, was derived from former title 5, sections 51503 and 51507, as 1970 and 1971 by Registers 70 and 71, numbers 16 and 27. Title 5, sections 55760 and 55761, addressing grade

> [S]hall be construed as an expression of the policy of the Legislature with regard to the functions of the above-mentioned boards [(including district governing boards)], but shall not be construed as an enactment of specific legal provisions. Nothing contained in this article shall supplant existing law.[254]

Thus, the requirement imposed by Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3), is new as compared to the preexisting statutory scheme.

The former title 5 sections were all part of former "Division 2" of the title 5 regulations, the provisions of which:

> [C]omprise the rules and regulations affirming and fixing the minimum standards, satisfaction of which entitles a district maintaining community colleges to receive state aid for the support of their community colleges.[255]

Thus, the former title 5 regulations which contain the same requirements as the regulations pled in this section of the staff analysis did not impose state-mandated activities prior to 1983 for the same reasons that the regulations pled in the "Minimum Conditions" section of the staff analysis did not impose state-mandated activities. Specifically, the requirements of the former title 5 regulations are downstream activities triggered by the discretionary decision to become entitled to receive state aid. As a result, immediately prior to the adoption of title 5, sections 55750, 55751, 55754, 55755, 55756, 55757, 55759, 55760, 55761, and 55764, community college districts were not required to engage in the activities mandated by the sections.

Pursuant to the above discussion, staff finds that Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3) and the title 5 sections constitute a "new program or higher level of service" subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution. In 2007, the title 5 regulations pled in this section of the test claim analysis were repealed and renumbered to title 5, section 55020 et seq.; however, the state-mandated new program or higher level of service found above continued after the 2007 amendment.[256]

(i) Summary of state-mandated new program or higher level of service

Pursuant to the above discussion, staff finds that Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(3), and California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55750, 55751, 55753, 55754, 55755, 55756, 55756.5, 55757, 55758, 55759, 55760, 55761, and 55764 mandate new programs or higher levels of service subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution. Specifically, California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55750, 55751, 55753, 55754, 55755, 55756, 55756.5, 55757, 55758, 55759, 55760, 55761, and 55764 mandate the following new program or higher level of service:

changes and course repetition, were derived from former title 5, sections 51308 and 51315, as amended in 1977 and 1980 by Registers 80 and 77, numbers 11 and 46. Title 5, section 55764, addressing academic renewal without course repetition, was derived from former title 5, section 51318, as amended in 1977 by Register 77, number 18.

(11) Curriculum (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55000-55002.5, 55004-55006, 55100, 55130, 55150, 55160, 55170, 55182, 55200-55202, 55205, 55207, 55209, 55211, 55213, 55215, 55217, 55219, 55300, 55316, 55316.5, 55320-55322, 55340, and 55350; and "Program and Course Approval Handbook," Chancellor's Office California Community Colleges (September 2001))

The "Curriculum" section of the staff analysis addresses Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2), and 33 title 5 regulations and the 135-page "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (Handbook) addressing the requirements and procedures for securing approval of courses and programs proposed by community colleges or community college districts. The process for course approval begins with a recommendation for approval by the community college curriculum or district curriculum committee to the district governing board. The recommended course then needs approval by the district governing board, followed by the approval of the Chancellor.

As discussed throughout this analysis, community college districts have broad discretion over the governance of community colleges. This discretion extends to the courses and programs the community colleges offer. However, as provided in statute, the primary mission of community college districts is to provide academic and vocational instruction.[258] In addition, community college districts by definition are degree-granting institutions.[259] Thus, although community college districts maintain discretion in the curriculum the districts' offer, districts at a minimum must offer some courses, and as a result, districts must comply with the regulations and procedures necessary to offer courses.

a. Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2), and California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55001, 55002, 55004, 55005, and 55006, and the "Program and Course Approval Handbook," Chancellor's Office California Community Colleges (September 2001) impose state-mandated activities.

Definition of Terms and Content of Social Science Courses (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55000, 55000.5, 55002.5, and 55004)

Title 5, section 55000, defines specified terms as used in the title 5 regulations addressing "Curriculum and Instruction."[260] Title 5, section 55000.5, imposes a requirement on the Chancellor's Office to issue and maintain a handbook containing course approval criteria and procedures for securing course and program approval.[261] Title 5, section 55002.5, defines a "credit hour," and authorizes variances from the definition in the event that a term is more or less than 16 weeks. Title 5, section 55004, describes the content that courses of instruction in social sciences are required to include.

[260] California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55000, defines the terms "course," "educational program," and "class."

[261] The 2001 version of the handbook issued by the Chancellor's Office, titled "Program and Course Approval Handbook," has been pled by the claimants as an executive order imposing state-mandated activities.

Title 5, sections 55000, 55000.5, and 55002.5, do not impose any activities on community college districts. Rather, these sections define terms and impose activities on the Chancellor's Office. The claimants allege that districts, "are required to use these definitions in the course adoption and implementation process."[262] Although, the terms defined in sections 55000, 55000.5, and 55002.5, may be needed to understand the scope of any mandated activities imposed by the regulations pled by the claimants, these sections do not, in and of themselves, impose any activities on the claimants. However, to the extent that any state-mandated activity contains a term defined by these sections, these definitions must be used to define those terms.

Title 5, section 55004, requires community college districts to engage in the following activity:

> Include in social science courses a study of the role, participation, and contribution of both men and women, black Americans, American Indians, Mexicans, Asians, Pacific Island people, and other ethnic groups to the economic, political, and social development of California and the United States. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55004 (Register 91, No. 23).)

Recommendation and Approval of Proposed Courses at the Community College/Community College District Level (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55001, 55002, 55005, and 55006)

Title 5, sections 55001, 55002, 55005, and 55006, address the standards and criteria for receiving district approval for proposed courses, the publication of information regarding the classes offered, and the reporting and record keeping requirements for courses offered.

Title 5, section 55002, sets forth the standards and criteria that proposed courses must meet in order to be recommended and approved as associate degree credit courses, nondegree credit courses, noncredit courses, and community service classes. In addition, section 55002 requires that a college or district curriculum committee be established by the mutual agreement of the college or district administration and the academic senate. Title 5, section 55001, outlines and describes the types of educational programs that community colleges are authorized to provide. Specifically, section 55001 describes the type of courses that fall within the realm of "instructional services" and "community services." In addition, title 5, section 55001, requires community college districts to report the classification of all courses, classes, and activities offered by the district to the Chancellor's Office. Title 5, section 55005, requires community colleges to publish the following course information for students: (1) whether the course is offered as a credit or noncredit course, or a community service class; (2) whether it is transferable to a four-year college or university; (3) whether the course fulfills a major or general education requirement; and (4) whether the course is offered on the basis of credit-no credit. Title 5, section 55006, requires community college districts to keep and submit records and reports concerning their total activities as may be required by the Chancellor to fulfill statutory responsibilities.

In order to determine if an activity is mandated by the state it is necessary to look at the underlying program to determine if the claimant's participation in the underlying program is voluntary or legally compelled.[263] For many of the activities required by the title 5 regulations at issue here the underlying program is the offering of courses as associate degree credit courses, nondegree credit courses, noncredit courses, and community service classes.

In regard to associate degree credit courses, community colleges are defined by the Board of Governors' regulations as degree-granting institutions, and thus, colleges must offer associate degree credit courses.[264] Regarding nondegree credit courses and noncredit courses, the primary mission of community colleges has been defined to include offering instruction and courses to achieve:

> The provision of remedial instruction for those in need of it and, in conjunction with the school districts, instruction in English as a second language, adult noncredit instruction, and support services which help students succeed at the postsecondary level are reaffirmed and supported as essential and important functions of the community colleges.[265]

Nondegree credit courses are defined by title 5, section 55002, subdivision (b), to include precollegiate basic skills courses, which are courses in reading, writing, computation, and English as a second language.[266] Thus, pursuant to the primary mission of community colleges, community colleges are required to offer nondegree credit courses and noncredit courses. However, in regard to community service classes, Education Code section 66010.4, which sets forth the primary mission of community colleges, provides:

> (a)(2) In addition to the primary mission of academic and vocational instruction, the community colleges shall offer instruction and courses to achieve all of the following:
> (A) The provision of remedial instruction for those in need of it and, in conjunction with the school districts, instruction in English as a second language, adult noncredit instruction, and support services which help students succeed at the postsecondary level are reaffirmed and supported as essential and important functions of the community colleges.
>
> (B) The provision of adult noncredit education curricula in areas defined as being in the state's interest is an essential and important function of the community colleges.
> (C) The provision of community services courses and programs is an authorized function of the community colleges so long as their provision is compatible with an institution's ability to meet its obligations in its primary missions.[267]

The claimants allege that the provision that "community colleges shall offer instruction and courses to achieve all of the following" in Education Code section 66010.4, subdivision (a)(2), requires community college districts to use the authority given in subdivision (a)(2)(C) to offer community service courses. However, read in context of the whole of subdivision (a)(2), including (a)(2)(A) and (a)(2)(B) which specifically require the provision of certain instruction, subdivision (a)(2)(C) only authorizes the provision of community service classes. Thus, community colleges are authorized, but not required, to offer community service classes. As a result, the activities required by title 5, sections 55001, 55002, 55005, and 55006, constitute state-mandated activities as they apply to associate degree credit courses, nondegree credit courses, and noncredit courses. However, the activities do not constitute state-mandated activities, to the extent that the required activities apply to community service classes.

[265] Education Code section 66010.4, subdivision (a)(2)(A).

[266] California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, subdivision (b), cites to title 5, section 55502, subdivision (d), which defines "precollegiate basic skills courses" as "courses in reading, writing, computation, and English as a Second Language which are designated by community college district as nondegree credit courses pursuant to section 55002, subdivision (b).

[267] Education Code section 66010.4, subdivision (a)(2).

Pursuant to the above discussion, staff finds that title 5, sections 55001, 55002, 55005, and 55006, impose the following state-mandated activities:

1. Report the classification of all courses, classes, and activities offered in accordance with California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55001, subdivision (a) (describing instructional services of community colleges), and 55002 (standards and criteria for associate degree credit course, nondegree credit course, and noncredit course) by transmitting the following information to the Chancellor's Office:
    a. The unique static course identifier and the course title for all credit and noncredit courses. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55001, subd. (c)(1) (Register 94, No. 38).)
    b. The classification of each credit and noncredit course in accordance with its primary objective, consistent with guidelines published by the Chancellor. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55001, subd. (c)(2) (Register 94, No. 38).)
    c. Whether the course is offered as credit or noncredit. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55001, subd. (c)(3) (Register 94, No. 38).)
    d. Whether the course transfers to the California State University or the University of California or both. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55001, subd. (c)(4) (Register 94, No. 38).)
2. Establish a college or district curriculum committee by mutual agreement of the college or district administration and the academic senate. The committee shall be either a committee of the academic senate or a committee that includes faculty and is otherwise comprised in a way that is mutually agreeable to the college or district administration and academic senate. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(1) (Register 93, No. 42).)
3. When seeking to offer a course as an associate degree credit course, nondegree credit course, or noncredit course, the course must be recommended by the college or district curriculum committee and approved by the district governing board. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a), (b), and (c) (Register 93, No. 42).)
4. Each section of an associate degree course, nondegree course, or noncredit course is to be taught by a qualified instructor in accordance with a set of objectives and with other specifications defined in the course outline of record. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(4), (b)(4), and (c)(3) (Register 93, No. 42).)
5. Proposed associate degree credit courses and nondegree credit courses must meet the following requirements found in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, subdivisions (a)(2) and (b)(2), in order to receive a recommendation by the college or district curriculum committee:
    a. Grading policy: The course provides for measurement of student performance in terms of the stated course objectives and culminates in a formal, permanently recorded grade based upon uniform standards in accordance with California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55758 (Register 2000, No. 50), which details the academic record symbols and associated grade points to be used by community colleges.

The grade is based on demonstrated proficiency in subject matter and the ability to demonstrate that proficiency, at least in part, by means of essays for associate degree credit courses or written expression for nondegree credit courses, or in courses where the curriculum committee deems them to be appropriate, by problem-solving exercises or skills demonstrations by students. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(2)(A) and (b)(2)(A) (Register 93, No. 42).)

b. Units: The course grants units of credit based upon a relationship specified by the governing board between the number of units assigned to the course and the number of lecture and/or laboratory hours or performance criteria specified in the course outline.

   The course also requires a minimum of three hours of work per week, including class time (and/or demonstrated competency for nondegree credit courses) for each unit of credit, prorated for short-term, laboratory and activity courses. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(2)(B) and (b)(2)(B) (Register 93, No. 42).)

c. Intensity: For associate degree credit course, the course must treat subject matter with a scope and intensity that requires students to study independently outside of class time. For nondegree credit courses, the course must provide instruction in critical thinking and generally treats subject matter with a scope and intensity that prepares students to study independently outside of class time and includes reading and writing assignments and homework. In particular, the assignments will be sufficiently rigorous that students completing each such course successfully will have acquired the skills necessary to successfully complete college-level work upon completion of the required sequence of such courses. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(2)(C) and (b)(2)(C) (Register 93, No. 42).)

6. Proposed associate degree credit courses must also meet the following requirements found in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, subdivisions (a)(2), in order to receive a recommendation by the college or district curriculum committee:

   a. Prerequisites and Corequisites: Require prerequisites or corequisites when: (a) the college and/or district curriculum committee determines, based on a review of the course outline of record, that a student would be highly unlikely to receive a satisfactory grade unless the student has knowledge or skills not taught in the course; or (b) success in the course is dependent upon communication or computation skills, then the course shall require as prerequisites or corequisites eligibility for enrollment in associate degree credit courses in English and/or mathematics. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(2)(D) and (E) (Register 93, No. 42).)

   b. Difficulty: The course work calls for critical thinking and the understanding and application of concepts determined by the curriculum committee to be at college level. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(2)(F) (Register 93, No. 42).)

   c. Level: The course work calls for critical thinking and the understanding and application of concepts determined by the curriculum committee to be at college level. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(2)(G) (Register 93, No. 42).)

7. Maintain a course outline of record for associate degree credit courses, nondegree credit courses, and noncredit courses in the official college files that describe the course and make the outline available to each instructor.

For associate degree credit courses and nondegree credit courses, the course outline shall specify the unit value, scope, objectives, and content of the course in terms of a specific body of knowledge. Also, the course outline shall specify types or provide examples of required reading and writing assignments, other outside-of-class assignments, instructional methodology, and methods of evaluation for determining whether the stated objectives have been met by students.

For noncredit course, the course outline shall specify the scope, objectives, contents, instructional methodology, and methods of evaluation for determining whether the stated objectives have been met. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(3), (b)(3), and (c)(2) (Register 93, No. 42).)

8. Proposed noncredit courses must treat subject matter and use resource materials, teaching methods, and standards of attendance and achievement that is deemed appropriate for the enrolled students by the college or district curriculum committee in order to receive a recommendation by the college or district curriculum committee. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (c)(1) (Register 93, No. 42).)
9. Make available to students through college publications all of the following facts regarding each course offered before they enroll in the course: (1) whether the course is offered as a credit or noncredit course; (2) whether the course is transferable to four-year colleges and universities; and (3) whether the course fulfills a major or general education requirement. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55005 (Register 91, No. 23))
10. Each community college must keep and submit such current records and reports concerning their total activities as may be required by the Chancellor to fulfill statutory responsibilities. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55006 (Register 91, No. 23).)

Approval of Courses and Programs by the Chancellor (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55100, 55130, 55150, 55160, 55170, and 55182; and "Program and Course Approval Handbook," Chancellor's Office California Community Colleges (September 2001))

Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2), and title 5, sections 55100, 55130, 55160, 55170, and 55182, and the Program and Course Approval Handbook (Handbook), address the approval requirements for credit courses and programs, noncredit courses and programs, and community service classes.

Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2), requires community college districts to engage in the following activities:

1. Establish policies for and approve educational programs. (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2)(A) (Stats. 1988, ch. 973).)
2. Submit educational programs to the Board of Governors for approval. (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2)(A) (Stats. 1988, ch. 973).)
3. Establish policies for, and approve, individual courses that are offered in approved educational programs, without referral to the Board of Governors. (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2) (Stats. 1988, ch. 973).)

In the claimants' response to the draft staff analysis, the claimants also cite to Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2), in relation to title 5, section 51022. However, Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2), does not require community college districts to comply with title 5, section 51022, and thus, does not impose any additional activities beyond those listed above.

Similarly, title 5 sections 55100, 55130, and 55150, requires each course or program to be offered by a community college to be approved by the Chancellor before the course is offered by the college, and specifies that approval is sought by submitting the course on forms provided by the Chancellor's Office to the Chancellor. Section 55100 also requires community college districts to establish policies for local approval of individual courses offered as part of a program previously approved by the Chancellor. In addition, section 55130 sets forth the information to be included on the forms requesting approval of credit programs, and provides that the development, establishment, and evaluation of an education program shall include representative faculty involvement. Pursuant to section 55130, districts are to include specified information including, but not limited to: (1) an explanation of whether the program is appropriate to the objectives and conditions of higher education and community college education in California and whether it conforms to statewide master planning; (2) the need for the proposed program; and (3) the need for and present adequacy of college/district resources.[268]

Section 55160 provides that community college districts are authorized to approve and conduct community services classes without the approval of the Chancellor and requires that such classes be reported to the Chancellor in accordance with title 5, section 55001, which identifies the types of community service classes and specifies what information must be reported to the Chancellor. However, as discussed above, community college districts are not required to offer community service classes. Thus, pursuant to Kern High School Dist., community college districts are not mandated by the state to engage in any activity required by title 5, section 55160.

Section 55170 addresses the approval of contract classes. Contract education refers to situations in which a community college district contracts with a public or private entity for the purposes of providing instruction or services or both by the community college.[269] Section 55170, however, provides that districts must seek approval of contract classes only if the district claims state support for the class. In addition, community college districts are authorized, but not required, to establish contract education programs. Thus, the underlying decisions of a community college district to establish contract education programs, and subsequently seek state support for the classes in the program, which triggers the approval requirement found in section 55170, are discretionary. The claimants argue that the "use of private contractors is a method to implement the mandate, not a subsequent new program." However, the "mandate" or activity required by section 55170 is seeking approval for offering contract classes for which a community college district seeks state support. Absent the voluntary decision to offer a contract course, which is also supported by the state, community college districts would not have to comply with the provisions of section 55170. As a result, title 5 section 55170 does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts.

Section 55182 authorizes community college districts to reinstate courses which were deleted from the credit or noncredit curriculum during the 1982-83 fiscal year in response to a reduction in funding to community colleges in the Budget Act of 1982. Section 55182 conditions reinstatement of classes terminated in the 1982-83 fiscal year on community colleges following specified criteria and procedures set forth in section 55182. The claimants argue:

> Section 55182 states that reinstatement of the course must be in accordance with the mission of the community college, which is the Education Code 66010.4 criterion for including these courses in the scope of the mandate, not the fact that > they were once deleted due to budget constraints. Further, these courses are part of the educational program subject to (Education Code Sections 70901 and 70902 and Title 5 Section 55001) Board of Governors approval. The DSA does not cite any legal basis that defines the specific courses that must be provided in furtherance of the primary mission of the community colleges. The codes and regulations only speak to types of course, therefore, the courses deleted pursuant to the 1982 Budget Act are not automatically discretionary as to this course approval mandate. Adoption of previously deleted courses is essentially the same process as adopting a new course that is within the scope of the mandate.[270]

The claimants misidentify the "mandate" or required activity addressed in title 5, section 55182. The required activity is complying with certain criteria and procedures. This is triggered only if a community college district chooses to reinstate a previously deleted course in response to the Budget Act of 1982. Because community college districts are authorized, and not required, to reinstate courses deleted in the 1982-83 fiscal year, districts are not mandated by the state to comply with any requirements of section 55182.

The Handbook provides explanations of the content of the forms referred to in title 5, sections 55100, 55130, and 55150. In addition, the appendix of the Handbook contains the forms that are to be submitted when requesting approval of proposed courses and programs. Although staff has found that the Handbook constitutes an executive order within the jurisdiction of the Commission, it is necessary to determine which parts of the Handbook impose mandated activities on community college districts. Of the 135 pages of the Handbook, the claimants have alleged mandated activities from pages 16-18, 24-25, and A-1 through A-54 of Appendix A of the Handbook.[271]

Pages 16-18 of the Handbook discuss the five criteria, derived from statute and the title 5 regulations, used by the Chancellor's Office to approve programs and courses, specifically: (1) appropriateness to mission; (2) need; (3) quality; (4) feasibility; and (5) compliance. However, these criteria are essentially reiterations and explanations of the requirements contained in title 5, sections 55002, 55100-55150, and 55805.5.[272] As a result, the criteria listed on pages 16-18 do not mandate any activities on community college districts. Instead the criteria provide clarification and guidelines on the content of the requirements of the regulations pled by the claimants.

Pages 24-25 of the Handbook discuss blanket approval of stand-alone courses, which exempts community college districts from seeking approval to offer a course from the Chancellor. The process laid out on pages 24-25 of the Handbook do not require community college districts to engage in any activity; rather it authorizes districts to offer courses without engaging in the approval process normally required of proposed courses. Thus, pages 24-25 of the Handbook do not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts.

[272] California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, 55100-55150, which generally address the approval requirements for credit courses and programs, noncredit courses and programs, are discussed above within this section. Title 5, section 55805.5, which addresses the types of courses appropriate for an associate degree, is discussed below in the "Degrees and Certificates" section of the staff analysis.

Pages A-1 through A-54 contain the course and program approval forms that community colleges and community college districts must submit to the Chancellor, pursuant to title 5, sections 55100, 55130, and 55150, an explanation of the information requested in the form, and a description of the documentation required to be submitted with the form showing the proposed course or program meets criteria of appropriateness to mission, need, quality, feasibility, and compliance. The following forms are contained in pages A-1 through A-44 of the appendix of the Handbook: (1) Application for Approval-New Occupational Program (pages A-1 through A-20); (2) Application for Approval-New Transfer Program (pages A-21 through A-35); (3) Request to Add New Option or Certificate Within Existing Program to Inventory (pages A-36 through A-42); (4) Non-Substantial Changes to Approved Program (or Reactivation of Inactive Program) (pages A-43 through A-46); and (5) Application for Approval-New or Revised Apprenticeship Program (pages A-47 through A-54).

The "Application for Approval-New Occupational Programs" and the "Application for Approval-New Transfer Program" forms are used to seek approval of new academic, vocational, and transfer programs. As noted above and further discussed in the "Degrees and Certificates" section of the staff analysis, community college districts are degree-granting institutions which are required to offer academic and vocational instruction. In addition, as discussed in the "Transfer Centers" section of the staff analysis, transferring from community colleges through the University of California and California State University is a central institutional priority, and community college districts are required to have a core transfer curriculum. In order to offer degree programs, vocational programs, or transfer programs, community college districts are mandated to submit the "Application for Approval-New Occupational Programs" and the "Application for Approval-New Transfer Program," and provide documentation showing that the course or program meets the criteria of appropriateness to mission, need, quality, feasibility, and compliance as stated on pages A-1 through A-35 of the appendix.

However, as discussed in the "Degrees and Certificates" section of the staff analysis, districts are not required to offer certificates. Also, there is no evidence in the record that community college districts are required to add a new option, emphasis, or specialization to an existing degree program. As a result, community college districts are not mandated to submit the "Request to Add New Option or Certificate Within Existing Program to Inventory" or to provide the documentation stated on pages A-36 through A-42 of the appendix. Similarly, community college districts are not required to establish contract education programs. The "Application for Approval-New or Revised Apprenticeship Program" is the form used to request approval for contract education programs, and as a result, the submission of this form and the documentation stated on pages A-47 through A-54 of the appendix is not mandated by the state.

The "Non-Substantial Changes to Approved Program (or Reactivation of Inactive Program)" form is used by community colleges that desire to have non-substantial changes to approved programs reflected immediately in the Inventory of Approved and Projected Programs maintained and updated by the Chancellor's Office. However, the Chancellor's Office conducts periodic college program inventory updates, which gives colleges the opportunity to update such information for all their programs at once. As a result, the use of this form is triggered by a college's discretionary decision to have non-substantial changes to approved programs reflected immediately in the Inventory of Approved and Projected Programs, which is not required. Thus, community colleges and districts are not mandated to submit the "Non-Substantial Changes to Approved Program (or Reactivation of Inactive Program)" found at pages A-43 through A-46 of the appendix.

Pursuant to the above discussion, staff finds that Education Code section 70902, subd. (b)(2), and title 5, sections 55100, 55130, and 55150, and the Handbook require community college districts to engage in the following state-mandated activities:

1. Establish policies for and approve educational programs (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2)(A) (Stats. 1988, ch. 973).)
2. Seek approval of proposed courses and programs on forms provided by the Chancellor's Office. Specifically, the "Application for Approval-New Occupational Programs" and the "Application for Approval-New Transfer Program" forms, which require the provision of the documentation showing that the proposed courses and programs meet the criteria of appropriateness to mission, need, quality, feasibility, and compliance as stated on pages A-1 through A-35 of the appendix of the "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (2001). (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2)(A) (Stats. 1988, ch. 973), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55100, subd. (a); 55130, subd. (a); and 55150, subd. (a) (Register 91, No. 23); and "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (2001) pages A-1 through A-35.)
3. Include in the application for program approval the following information:
    a. The name of the proposed program
    b. The description of the proposed program
    c. The purposes and specific objectives of the proposed program
    d. The place of the proposed program in the district master plan
    e. An explanation of whether the program is appropriate to the objectives and conditions of higher education and community college education in California and whether it conforms to statewide master planning
    f. The need for the proposed program based on the following factors: (a) other community colleges in the area currently offering the proposed program, (b) other programs closely related to the proposed program offered by the college, (c) the relation of the proposed program to job market analysis, (d) enrollment projection for the proposed program, (e) recommendations of area vocational master plan committees when applicable, and (f) the classification of the courses in the program in accordance with California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55001 (Register 94, No. 38)
    g. The need for and present adequacy of the following resources in relation to the proposed program: (a) library and media center resources, (b) facilities and equipment required to initiate and sustain the program, (c) availability of adequate or proposed financial support, and (d) availability of faculty. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55130, subdivision (b) (Register 91, No. 23).)
4. Establish policies for approval of individual courses offered as part of a program that has already been approved by the Chancellor. (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2)(B) (Stats. 1988, ch. 973), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55100, subd. (b) (Register 91, No. 23).)
5. Include representative faculty involvement in the development, establishment, and evaluation of an education program. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55130, subd. (c) (Register 91, No. 23).)
6. Keep on file at the community college offering the course the course outlines for all noncredit courses offered. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55150, subd. (b) (Register 91, No. 23).)
7. Keep such current records and reports as may be required by the Chancellor. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55150, subd. (c) (Register 91, No. 23).)

Prerequisites, Corequisites, and Advisories on Recommended Preparation (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55200, 55201, and 55202)

The regulations discussed in this section address the authority to establish prerequisites, corequisites, and advisories on recommended preparation courses, the requirements associated with establishment of these courses, and the limitation on a district's authority to establish these courses. Prerequisites and corequisites are conditions that must be met to enroll in another course or educational program.[273] Advisories on recommended preparation are suggested courses to be taken in conjunction with or before enrolling in a course or educational program.[274]

Title 5, section 55201, provides "[n]othing in this subchapter [addressing programs, courses and classes (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§55000-55202)] shall be construed to require a district to establish prerequisites, corequisites, or advisories on recommended preparation," except when the course is offered for associate degree credit and the curriculum committee finds that the prerequisite or corequisite is necessary pursuant to title 5, section 55002, subdivisions (a)(2)(D) or (a)(2)(E).[275] Subdivisions (a)(2)(D) and (a)(2)(E) require the establishment of prerequisites or corequisites for an associate degree credit course whenever: (1) the college or district curriculum committee determines, based on a review of the course outline of record, that a student would be highly unlikely to receive a satisfactory grade unless the student has knowledge or skills not taught in the course; or (2) success in the course is dependent upon communication or computation skills, then the course shall require as prerequisites or corequisites eligibility for enrollment in associate degree credit courses in English or mathematics. Thus, any activities required by the title 5 regulations pled by the claimants (particularly sections 55201 and 55202) regarding the establishment of prerequisites or corequisites are only mandated by the state when applicable to prerequisites and corequisites established for the above purposes. Also, any activities required by these sections in regard to the establishment of advisories on recommended preparation are not mandated by the state, because community college districts are authorized but not required to establish advisories on recommended preparation.

Title 5, section 55201, also contains a provision referencing a title 5 regulation (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55510) that implements the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act of 1986 (Ed. Code §§ 78210-78218). Specifically, section 55201, subdivision (h), requires "[d]istrict [prerequisite and corequisite policies] adopted pursuant to this section … be submitted to the Chancellor as part of the district's matriculation plan pursuant to Section 55510." However, as discussed in the "Matriculation" section of this analysis, the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act and its implementing regulations do not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts. As a result, the requirement of subdivision (h) of section 55201 does not impose activities on community college districts.

Staff finds that title 5, sections 55201 and 55202, impose the following state-mandated activities on community college districts:

1. Adopt policies for the following in accordance with the Board of Governors regulations addressing faculty participation in district and college governance (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 53200-53204) when establishing prerequisites or corequisites for an associate degree credit course as required by California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, [274] California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55200, subdivision (c) (Register 93, No. 42).

subdivisions (a)(2)(D) and (E) (e.g. a student is unlikely to receive a satisfactory grade in a course without the prerequisite or corequisite, or success in a course is dependent on communication or computation skills):

a. The process for establishing prerequisites and corequisites. The policy for the process for establishing prerequisites or corequisites shall be based on content review with additional methods of scrutiny being applied depending on the type of prerequisite or corequisite established. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (b)(1) (Register 98, No. 7).)

b. The procedures to assure that courses for which prerequisites or corequisites are established will be taught in accordance with the course outline that are the basis for the requirement to establish the prerequisite or corequisite. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (b)(2) (Register 98, No. 7).)

c. The process, including levels of scrutiny, for reviewing prerequisites and corequisites to assure that they remain necessary and appropriate. The process shall provide that at least once each six years all prerequisites and corequisites established by the district shall be reviewed. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (b)(3) (Register 98, No. 7).)

d. The bases and process for an individual student to challenge the application of a prerequisite or corequisite. The bases to challenge a prerequisite or corequisite are:

   i. The prerequisite or corequisite was not established in accordance with the district's process for establishing prerequisites and corequisites;

   ii. The prerequisite or corequisite violates California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55200-55202, which address the authority, requirements, and limitations on authority, when establishing prerequisites and corequisites;

   iii. The prerequisite or corequisite are either unlawfully discriminatory or are being applied in an unlawfully discriminatory manner;

   iv. The student has the knowledge or ability to succeed in the course or program despite not meeting the prerequisite or corequisite; and

   v. The student will be subject to undue delay in attaining the goal of his or her educational plan because the prerequisite or corequisite course has not been made reasonably available. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subds. (b)(2) and (f)(1)-(5) (Register 98, No. 7).)

2. Gather data according to sound research practices and show that a student is highly unlikely to succeed in the course unless the student has met the proposed prerequisite or corequisite, in addition to conducting a content review, if the community college district seeks to establish a course in communication or computation skills as a prerequisite or corequisite for any non-communication or non-computation skills course.

   This data gathering requirement does not apply when:

   a. Four-year institutions will not grant credit for a course unless it has the particular communication or computation skill prerequisite; or

   b. The prerequisite or corequisite is required for enrollment in a program that is subject to approval by a state agency other than the Chancellor's Office and both of the following conditions are satisfied:

i. Colleges in at least six different districts have previously satisfied the data collection requirement with respect to the same prerequisite or corequisite for the same program; and

ii. The district establishing the prerequisite or corequisite conducts an evaluation to determine whether the prerequisite or corequisite has a disproportionate impact on particular groups of students described in terms of race, ethnicity, gender, age or disability, as defined by the Chancellor, and if there is a disproportionate impact the district in consultation with the Chancellor develops and implements a plan setting forth the steps the district will take to correct the disproportionate impact. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (e) (Register 98, No. 7).)

3. If a prerequisite or corequisite is challenged on the basis that it is either unlawfully discriminatory or applied in an unlawfully discriminatory manner (pursuant to Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (f)(3)), advise the student that he or she may file a formal complaint of unlawful discrimination pursuant to the title 5 regulations addressing discrimination complaint procedures (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 59300 et seq.). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (g) (Register 98, No. 7).)
4. Identify prerequisites and corequisites in college publications available to students as well as in the course outline of any course for which they are established. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (a) (Register 93, No. 42).)
5. Determine whether a student meets a prerequisite based on successful completion of an appropriate course. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (c) (Register 93, No. 42).)
6. Ensure precollegiate basic skills courses designed to teach the required skills in reading, written expression, or mathematics, are offered with reasonable frequency and that the number of sections available is reasonable given the number of students who are required to meet the associated skills prerequisites and who diligently seek enrollment in the prerequisite course, if a prerequisite requires precollegiate skills in reading, written expression, or mathematics. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (d) (Register 93, No. 42).)
7. Offer sufficient sections of a corequisite course to reasonably accommodate all students who are required to take the corequisite. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (e) (Register 93, No. 42).)
8. Waive a corequisite for any student whom space in the corequisite course is not available. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (e) (Register 93, No. 42).)
9. Make a determination of whether a student meets a prerequisite prior to the student's enrollment in the course requiring the prerequisite. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (g) (Register 93, No. 42).)

Distance Education and Independent Study (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55205, 55207, 55209, 55211, 55213, 55215, 55217, 55219, 55300, 55316, 55316.5, 55320, 55321, 55322, 55340, and 55350)

Distance education is instruction in which the instructor and the student are separated by distance and interact through the assistance of communication technology.[276] Independent study is a mode of instruction in which students are not required to be under the immediate supervision and control of a qualified academic employee.[277] The title 5 regulations pled in this section address the requirements associated with offering courses and programs designed and conducted as distance education and independent study. The requirements address issues including, but not limited to, the following: (1) instructor contact or availability; (2) maintenance and reporting of information regarding distance education and independent study courses and programs to the Chancellor; (3) accepting courses toward the completion of a degree; (4) course quality and criteria; and (5) the establishment of procedures to evaluate student progress in independent study courses or programs.

Under Kern High School Dist., when analyzing state mandate claims it is necessary for the Commission to look at the underlying program to determine if a claimant's participation in the underlying program is voluntary or legally compelled.[278] Here, community college districts are authorized under the "permissive code" to offer distance education and independent study, however, districts are not required to offer instruction using distance education or independent study.[279] Thus, any activities required by title 5 regulations pled in this section of the staff analysis are downstream activities triggered by a community college district's decision to offer distance education or independent study.

The claimants argue that "[t]he mandate here pertains to approval of courses, and not to the method of course delivery."[280] However, as discussed above, the requirement is triggered by a community college district's discretionary decision to offer distance education and independent study course. Without this discretionary decision districts would not be required to engage in the requirements associated with seeking approval of these types of courses.

In addition, the claimants argue, "Inasmuch as the Legislature does not mandate a form of instructional delivery, all methods, traditional or otherwise, are alternatives, but are not discretionary programs pursuant to Kern."[281] However, the claimants' argument essentially provides that since community college districts are given broad authority to act in any manner not inconsistent with their purpose pursuant to the "permissive code," any discretionary activity consistent with the purpose of community college districts which triggers required activities would result in reimbursable state-mandated activities. This result is contrary to the decision in Kern High School Dist. As a result, staff finds that title 5, sections 55205, 55207, 55209, 55211, 55213, 55215, 55217, 55219, 55300, 55316, 55316.5, 55320, 55321, 55322, 55340, and 55350, do not impose state-mandated activities.

(i) Summary of state-mandate activities

Because the regulations pled in this section of the analysis are interrelated, some of the activities mandated by one title 5 regulation section are also required in a different title 5 regulation, as a result, where appropriate duplicate activities will be combined. California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55001, 55002, 55004, 55005, 55006, 55100, 55130, 55150, 55201, and 55202; and "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (2001) pages A-1 through A-44, impose the following state-mandated activities:

1. Include in social science courses a study of the role, participation, and contribution of both men and women, black Americans, American Indians, Mexicans, Asians, Pacific Island people, and other ethnic groups to the economic, political, and social development of California and the United States. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55004 (Register 91, No. 23).)
2. Report the classification of all courses, classes, and activities offered in accordance with California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55001, subdivision (a) (describing instructional services of community colleges), and 55002 (standards and criteria for associate degree credit course, nondegree credit course, and noncredit course) by transmitting the following information to the Chancellor's Office:
    a. The unique static course identifier and the course title for all credit and noncredit courses. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55001, subd. (c)(1) (Register 94, No. 38).)
    b. The classification of each credit and noncredit course in accordance with its primary objective, consistent with guidelines published by the Chancellor. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55001, subd. (c)(2) (Register 94, No. 38).)
    c. Whether the course is offered as credit or noncredit. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55001, subd. (c)(3) (Register 94, No. 38).)
    d. Whether the course transfers to the California State University or the University of California or both. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55001, subd. (c)(4) (Register 94, No. 38).)
3. Establish a college or district curriculum committee by mutual agreement of the college or district administration and the academic senate. The committee shall be either a committee of the academic senate or a committee that includes faculty and is otherwise comprised in a way that is mutually agreeable to the college or district administration and academic senate. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(1) (Register 93, No. 42).)
4. When seeking to offer a course as an associate degree credit course, nondegree credit course, or noncredit course, the course must be recommended by the college or district curriculum committee and approved by the district governing board. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a), (b), and (c) (Register 93, No. 42).)
5. Each section of an associate degree course, nondegree course, or noncredit course is to be taught by a qualified instructor in accordance with a set of objectives and with other specifications defined in the course outline of record. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(4), (b)(4), and (c)(3) (Register 93, No. 42).)
6. Proposed associate degree credit courses and nondegree credit courses must meet the following requirements found in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, subdivisions (a)(2) and (b)(2), in order to receive a recommendation by the college or district curriculum committee:
    a. Grading policy: The course provides for measurement of student performance in terms of the stated course objectives and culminates in a formal, permanently recorded grade based upon uniform standards in accordance with California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55758 (Register 2000, No. 50), which details the academic record symbols and associated grade points to be used by community colleges.

The grade is based on demonstrated proficiency in subject matter and the ability to demonstrate that proficiency, at least in part, by means of essays for associate degree credit courses or written expression for nondegree credit courses, or in courses where the curriculum committee deems them to be appropriate, by problem-solving exercises or skills demonstrations by students. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(2)(A) and (b)(2)(A) (Register 93, No. 42).)

b. (2) Units: The course grants units of credit based upon a relationship specified by the governing board between the number of units assigned to the course and the number of lecture and/or laboratory hours or performance criteria specified in the course outline.

   The course also requires a minimum of three hours of work per week, including class time (and/or demonstrated competency for nondegree credit courses) for each unit of credit, prorated for short-term, laboratory and activity courses. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(2)(B) and (b)(2)(B) (Register 93, No. 42).)

c. Intensity: For associate degree credit course, the course must treat subject matter with a scope and intensity that requires students to study independently outside of class time. For nondegree credit courses, the course must provide instruction in critical thinking and generally treats subject matter with a scope and intensity that prepares students to study independently outside of class time and includes reading and writing assignments and homework. In particular, the assignments will be sufficiently rigorous that students completing each such course successfully will have acquired the skills necessary to successfully complete college-level work upon completion of the required sequence of such courses. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(2)(C) and (b)(2)(C) (Register 93, No. 42).)

7. Proposed associate degree credit courses must also meet the following requirements found in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, subdivisions (a)(2), in order to receive a recommendation by the college or district curriculum committee:

   a. Prerequisites and Corequisites: Require prerequisites or corequisites when: (a) the college and/or district curriculum committee determines, based on a review of the course outline of record, that a student would be highly unlikely to receive a satisfactory grade unless the student has knowledge or skills not taught in the course; or (b) success in the course is dependent upon communication or computation skills, then the course shall require as prerequisites or corequisites eligibility for enrollment in associate degree credit courses in English and/or mathematics. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(2)(D) and (E) (Register 93, No. 42).)

   b. Difficulty: The course work calls for critical thinking and the understanding and application of concepts determined by the curriculum committee to be at college level. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(2)(F) (Register 93, No. 42).)

   c. Level: The course work calls for critical thinking and the understanding and application of concepts determined by the curriculum committee to be at college level. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(2)(G) (Register 93, No. 42).)

8. Maintain a course outline of record for associate degree credit courses, nondegree credit courses, and noncredit courses in the official college files that describe the course and make the outline available to each instructor.

For associate degree credit courses and nondegree credit courses, the course outline shall specify the unit value, scope, objectives, and content of the course in terms of a specific body of knowledge. Also, the course outline shall specify types or provide examples of required reading and writing assignments, other outside-of-class assignments, instructional methodology, and methods of evaluation for determining whether the stated objectives have been met by students.

For noncredit course, the course outline shall specify the scope, objectives, contents, instructional methodology, and methods of evaluation for determining whether the stated objectives have been met. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(3), (b)(3), and (c)(2) (Register 93, No. 42); and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55150, subd. (b) (Register 91, No. 23).)

9. Proposed noncredit courses must treat subject matter and use resource materials, teaching methods, and standards of attendance and achievement that is deemed appropriate for the enrolled students by the college or district curriculum committee in order to receive a recommendation by the college or district curriculum committee. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (c)(1) (Register 93, No. 42).)
10. Make available to students through college publications all of the following facts regarding each course offered before they enroll in the course: (1) whether the course is offered as a credit or noncredit course; (2) whether the course is transferable to four-year colleges and universities; and (3) whether the course fulfills a major or general education requirement. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55005 (Register 91, No. 23))
12. Establish policies for and approve educational programs (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2)(A) (Stats. 1988, ch. 973).)
13. Seek approval of proposed courses and programs on forms provided by the Chancellor's Office. Specifically, the "Application for Approval-New Occupational Programs" and the "Application for Approval-New Transfer Program" forms, which require the provision of the documentation showing that the proposed courses and programs meet the criteria of appropriateness to mission, need, quality, feasibility, and compliance as stated on pages A-1 through A-35 of the appendix of the "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (2001). (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2)(A) (Stats. 1988, ch. 973), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55100, subd. (a); 55130, subd. (a); and 55150, subd. (a) (Register 91, No. 23); and "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (2001) pages A-1 through A-35.)
14. Include in the application for program approval the following information:
    a. The name of the proposed program
    b. The description of the proposed program
    c. The purposes and specific objectives of the proposed program
    d. The place of the proposed program in the district master plan
    e. An explanation of whether the program is appropriate to the objectives and conditions of higher education and community college education in California and whether it conforms to statewide master planning

f. The need for the proposed program based on the following factors: (a) other community colleges in the area currently offering the proposed program, (b) other programs closely related to the proposed program offered by the college, (c) the relation of the proposed program to job market analysis, (d) enrollment projection for the proposed program, (e) recommendations of area vocational master plan committees when applicable, and (f) the classification of the courses in the program in accordance with California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55001 (Register 94, No. 38)

g. The need for and present adequacy of the following resources in relation to the proposed program: (a) library and media center resources, (b) facilities and equipment required to initiate and sustain the program, (c) availability of adequate or proposed financial support, and (d) availability of faculty. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55130, subd. (b) (Register 91, No. 23).)

15. Establish policies for approval of individual courses offered as part of a program that has already been approved by the Chancellor. (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2)(B) (Stats. 1988, ch. 973), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55100, subd. (b) (Register 91, No. 23).)

16. Include representative faculty involvement in the development, establishment, and evaluation of an education program. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55130, subd. (c) (Register 91, No. 23).)

17. Adopt policies for the following in accordance with the Board of Governors regulations addressing faculty participation in district and college governance (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 53200-53204) when establishing prerequisites or corequisites for an associate degree credit course as required by California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, subdivisions (a)(2)(D) and (E) (e.g. a student is unlikely to receive a satisfactory grade in a course without the prerequisite or corequisite, or success in a course is dependent on communication or computation skills):

    a. The process for establishing prerequisites and corequisites. The policy for the process for establishing prerequisites or corequisites shall be based on content review with additional methods of scrutiny being applied depending on the type of prerequisite or corequisite established. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (b)(1) (Register 98, No. 7).)

    b. The procedures to assure that courses for which prerequisites or corequisites are established will be taught in accordance with the course outline that are the basis for the requirement to establish the prerequisite or corequisite. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (b)(2) (Register 98, No. 7).)

    c. The process, including levels of scrutiny, for reviewing prerequisites and corequisites to assure that they remain necessary and appropriate. The process shall provide that at least once each six years all prerequisites and corequisites established by the district shall be reviewed. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (b)(3) (Register 98, No. 7).)

    d. The bases and process for an individual student to challenge the application of a prerequisite or corequisite. The bases to challenge a prerequisite or corequisite are:

        i. The prerequisite or corequisite was not established in accordance with the district's process for establishing prerequisites and corequisites;

ii. The prerequisite or corequisite violates California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55200-55202, which address the authority, requirements, and limitations on authority, when establishing prerequisites and corequisites;

iii. The prerequisite or corequisite are either unlawfully discriminatory or are being applied in an unlawfully discriminatory manner;

iv. The student has the knowledge or ability to succeed in the course or program despite not meeting the prerequisite or corequisite; and

v. The student will be subject to undue delay in attaining the goal of his or her educational plan because the prerequisite or corequisite course has not been made reasonably available. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subds. (b)(2) and (f)(1)-(5) (Register 98, No. 7).)

18. Gather data according to sound research practices and show that a student is highly unlikely to succeed in the course unless the student has met the proposed prerequisite or corequisite, in addition to conducting a content review, if the community college district seeks to establish a course in communication or computation skills as a prerequisite or corequisite for any non-communication or non-computation skills course.

    This data gathering requirement does not apply when:

    a. Four-year institutions will not grant credit for a course unless it has the particular communication or computation skill prerequisite; or

    b. The prerequisite or corequisite is required for enrollment in a program that is subject to approval by a state agency other than the Chancellor's Office and both of the following conditions are satisfied:

        i. Colleges in at least six different districts have previously satisfied the data collection requirement with respect to the same prerequisite or corequisite for the same program; and

        ii. The district establishing the prerequisite or corequisite conducts an evaluation to determine whether the prerequisite or corequisite has a disproportionate impact on particular groups of students described in terms of race, ethnicity, gender, age or disability, as defined by the Chancellor, and if there is a disproportionate impact the district in consultation with the Chancellor develops and implements a plan setting forth the steps the district will take to correct the disproportionate impact. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (e) (Register 98, No. 7).)

19. If a prerequisite or corequisite is challenged on the basis that it is either unlawfully discriminatory or applied in an unlawfully discriminatory manner (pursuant to Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (f)(3)), advise the student that he or she may file a formal complaint of unlawful discrimination pursuant to the title 5 regulations addressing discrimination complaint procedures (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 59300 et seq.). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (g) (Register 98, No. 7).)

20. Identify prerequisites and corequisites in college publications available to students as well as in the course outline of any course for which they are established. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (a) (Register 93, No. 42).)

21. Determine whether a student meets a prerequisite based on successful completion of an appropriate course. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (c) (Register 93, No. 42).)

22. Ensure precollegiate basic skills courses designed to teach the required skills in reading, written expression, or mathematics, are offered with reasonable frequency and that the number of sections available is reasonable given the number of students who are required to meet the associated skills prerequisites and who diligently seek enrollment in the prerequisite course, if a prerequisite requires precollegiate skills in reading, written expression, or mathematics. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (d) (Register 93, No. 42).)

23. Offer sufficient sections of a corequisite course to reasonably accommodate all students who are required to take the corequisite. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (e) (Register 93, No. 42).)

24. Waive a corequisite for any student whom space in the corequisite course is not available. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (e) (Register 93, No. 42).)

25. Make a determination of whether a student meets a prerequisite prior to the student's enrollment in the course requiring the prerequisite. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (g) (Register 93, No. 42).)

b. Parts of California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55001, 55002, 55005, 55006, 55150, 55201, and 55202, constitute a new program or higher level of service.

The activities mandated by title 5, sections 55001, 55002, 55004, 55005, 55006, 55100, 55130, 55150, 55201, and 55202; and "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (2001) pages A-1 through A-44, carry out the governmental function of education, and as a result, the activities mandated by these title 5 regulations and the Handbook constitute a "program" within the meaning of article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

Although the activities mandated by the title 5 regulations constitute a "program" it is necessary to determine if the mandates are new in comparison with the pre-existing scheme and provide an enhanced service to the public. To make this determination, the mandates must be compared with the legal requirements in effect immediately prior to their enactment.[282]

Content of Social Science Courses (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55004 (Register 91, No. 23))

The claimants have pled title 5, section 55004, as added in 1991.[283] As added in 1991, section 55004 mandates community college districts to engage in the following activity:

> Include in social science courses a study of the role, participation, and contribution of both men and women, black Americans, American Indians, Mexicans, Asians, Pacific Island people, and other ethnic groups to the economic, political, and social development of California and the United States. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55004 (Register 91, No. 23).)

However, immediately prior to adoption of title 5, section 55004, in 1991, former Education Code section 78202, required the same activity. Although former Education Code section 78202 was repealed in 1990, the Legislature directed the Board of Governors to incorporate the text of former Education Code section 78202 into its regulations and until such incorporation occurs, former Education Code section 78202 shall remain operative.[284] In addition, the Legislature states specifically that there "be no lapse in the requirements, rights, responsibilities, conditions, or prescriptions contained" in former Education Code section 78202.[285] Thus, the mandated activity imposed by title 5, section 55004, does not constitute a new program or higher level of service.[286]

Recommendation and Approval of Proposed Courses (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55001, 55002, 55005, 55006, 55100, 55130, and 55150 (Register 81, No. 52; Register 88, No. 42; Register 91, No. 23; Register 93, No. 42; and Register 94, No. 38); and "Program and Course Approval Handbook," Chancellor's Office California Community Colleges (September 2001) pages A-1 through A-35)

The claimants have pled title 5, section 55001, as added in 1981 and last amended in 1994.[287] In addition, title 5, section 55002, was pled as added in 1988 and last amended in 1993.[288] Section 55001 mandates activities involving the identification, classification, and description of courses offered by community college districts, and transmitting such information to the Chancellor's Office. Section 55002 mandates activities involving the development and approval of proposed associate degree credit courses, nondegree credit courses, and noncredit courses. These activities include establishing a district or college curriculum committee, and maintaining a course outline of record for proposed courses. The activities mandated by title 5, sections 55001 and 55002, were not mandated prior to 1981 and 1988, respectively. As a result, the activities mandated by title 5, sections 55001 and 55002, constitute a new program or higher level of service. On April 14, 2006, title 5, section 55001 was repealed, and as a result, the state-mandated activities required by this section ends on that date.[289]

Title 5, section 55005, requires the publication of specific information for students regarding the courses offered. This information includes whether the course is offered as a credit or noncredit course, the course is transferable to four-year colleges and universities, and whether the course fulfills a major or general education requirement. The claimants have pled title 5, section 55005, as added in 1981 and last amended in 1991.[290] The activities mandated by title 5, section 55005, are derived from former title 5, sections 51102 and 51103, as added in 1971 by Register 71, number 27. However, former title 5, sections 51102 and 51103, are part of former "Division 2" of the title 5 regulations, the provisions of which: regulations are downstream activities triggered by the discretionary decision to become entitled to receive state aid. As a result, immediately prior to the adoption of title 5, section 55005, community college districts were not required to engage in the activities mandated by the section, and therefore, the activities mandated by title 5, section 55005, constitute a "new program or higher level of service" subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

Thus, the former title 5 regulations which contain the same requirements as the regulations pled in this section of the staff analysis did not impose state-mandated activities prior to 1983 for the same reasons that the regulations pled in the "Minimum Conditions" section of the staff analysis did not impose state-mandated activities. Specifically, the requirements of the former title 5

Title 5, sections 55006 and 55150, subdivision (c), requires community college districts to engage in the following activity:

The claimants have pled title 5, sections 55006 and 55150, as added in 1981 and last amended in 1991.[292] Immediately prior to the adoption of title 5, sections 55006 and 55150, in 1981 community college districts were not required to engage in the above-stated activity. As a result, the activity mandated by title5, sections 55006 and 55150, subdivision (c), constitute a new program or higher level of service.

Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2)(A), requires community college districts to establish policies for and approve educational programs. The claimants have pled Education Code section 70902 as added in 1988.[293] Immediately prior to 1988, community college districts were not required to establish policies for and approve education programs. Thus, this activity constitutes a new program or higher level of service.

In addition to the above activity, Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2)(A), and title 5, sections 55100, subdivision (a); 55130, subdivision (a); and 55150, subdivision (a); and the "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (Handbook) pages A-1 through A-35 (consisting of the "Application for Approval-New Occupational Programs" and the "Application for Approval-New Transfer Program" forms), require community college districts to engage in the following activity:

> Seek approval of proposed courses and programs on forms provided by the Chancellor's Office. Specifically, the "Application for Approval-New Occupational Programs" and the "Application for Approval-New Transfer Program" forms, which require the provision of the documentation showing that the proposed courses and programs meet the criteria of appropriateness to mission, need, quality, feasibility, and compliance as stated on pages A-1 through A-35 of the appendix of the "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (2001). (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2)(A), and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55100, subd. (a); 55130, subd. (a); and 55150, subd. (a) (Register 91, No. 23); and "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (2001) pages A-1 through A-35.)

The claimants have pled title 5, sections 55100, 55130, and 55150, as added in 1981 and last amended in 1991.[294] In addition, the claimants have pled the "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (Handbook) as issued in 2001. However, since 1971 community college districts have been required to seek approval of proposed courses and programs on forms provided by the Chancellor's Office.[295] In addition, immediately prior to 2001 the Chancellor's Office provided the form for program and course approval in the appendix of the "Curriculum Standards Handbook" issued in 1995, which required community colleges and community college districts to provide documentation showing that the proposed courses and programs meet the criteria of appropriateness to mission, need, quality, feasibility, and compliance.[296] As a result, the above activity mandated by California Code section 70902, subdivision (a)(2)(A), and title 5, sections 55100, subdivision (a); 55130, subdivision (a); and 55150, subdivision (a); and the "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (Handbook) pages A-1 through A-35 (consisting of the "Application for Approval-New Occupational Programs" and the "Application for Approval-New Transfer Program" forms), does not constitute a new program or higher level of service.

Title 5, section 55130, subdivision (b), requires community colleges or districts to include specific information in the application for program approval, including the name, description, purpose, specific objectives, need, and adequacy of facilities. The claimants have pled title 5, section 55130, as added in 1981 and last amended in 1991. However, since 1971 community college districts were required to include this information in their application for program approval to the Chancellor.[297] As a result, including the information specified by title 5, section 55130, subdivision (b), in the application seeking program approval does not constitute a new program or higher level of service.

Similarly, since 1971 community college districts have been required to engage in the activities mandated by Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2)(B), and title 5, sections 55100, subdivision (b); and 55130, subdivision (c).[298] These sections require districts to establish policies for approval of individual courses offered as part of a program that has already been approved by the Chancellor, and the inclusion of representative faculty involvement in the development, establishment, and evaluation of an education program. As a result, the activities mandated by Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(2)(B), and title 5, sections 55100, subdivision (b); and 55130, subdivision (c), do not constitute a new program or higher level of service.

Title 5, sections 55201 and 55202, mandate activities associated with the establishment of prerequisites and corequisites for associate degree programs. The claimants have pled title 5, sections 55201 and 55202, as added in 1993, and section 55201 as last amended in 1998.[299]

[299] The dates coincide with Register 93, number 42; and Register 98, number 7. Staff notes that the claimants have pled title 5, section 55201, as added in 1983. However, in 1983 title 5, section 55201, did not exist, instead it was added in 1993. From the claimants' narrative, it is Immediately prior to 1993, community college districts were not required to engage in the activities mandated by title 5, sections 55201 and 55202, and as a result, the activities mandated by title 5, sections 55201 and 55202, constitute a new program or higher level of service.

In 2007, sections 55201 and 55202 were combined and renumbered to title 5, section 55003, without any substantive changes to the new program or higher level of service found above.[300]

(i) Summary of state-mandated new program or higher level of service

Pursuant to the above discussion, staff finds that the following state-mandated activities constitute a new program or higher level of service subject to article XII B, section 6 of the California Constitution:

1. Report the classification of all courses, classes, and activities offered in accordance with California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55001, subdivision (a) (describing instructional services of community colleges), and 55002 (standards and criteria for associate degree credit course, nondegree credit course, and noncredit course) by transmitting the following information to the Chancellor's Office:
    a. The unique static course identifier and the course title for all credit and noncredit courses. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55001, subd. (c)(1) (Register 94, No. 38) ending April 14, 2006.)
    b. The classification of each credit and noncredit course in accordance with its primary objective, consistent with guidelines published by the Chancellor. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55001, subd. (c)(2) (Register 94, No. 38) ending April 14, 2006.)
    c. Whether the course is offered as credit or noncredit. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55001, subd. (c)(3) (Register 94, No. 38) ending April 14, 2006.)
    d. Whether the course transfers to the California State University or the University of California or both. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55001, subd. (c)(4) (Register 94, No. 38) ending April 14, 2006.)
2. Establish a college or district curriculum committee by mutual agreement of the college or district administration and the academic senate. The committee shall be either a committee of the academic senate or a committee that includes faculty and is otherwise comprised in a way that is mutually agreeable to the college or district administration and academic senate. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(1) (Register 93, No. 42).)
3. When seeking to offer a course as an associate degree credit course, nondegree credit course, or noncredit course, the course must be recommended by the college or district curriculum committee and approved by the district governing board. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a), (b), and (c) (Register 93, No. 42).)
4. Each section of an associate degree course, nondegree course, or noncredit course is to be taught by a qualified instructor in accordance with a set of objectives and with other specifications defined in the course outline of record. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(4), (b)(4), and (c)(3) (Register 93, No. 42).)

clear that the claimants intended to plead title 5, section 55201, as added in 1993. Thus, staff will treat section 55201 as pled as added in 1993.

[300] California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55003 (Register 2007, No. 35 (Aug. 16, 2007).)

5. Proposed associate degree credit courses and nondegree credit courses must meet the following requirements found in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, subdivisions (a)(2) and (b)(2), in order to receive a recommendation by the college or district curriculum committee:

    a. Grading policy: The course provides for measurement of student performance in terms of the stated course objectives and culminates in a formal, permanently recorded grade based upon uniform standards in accordance with California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55758 (Register 2000, No. 50), which details the academic record symbols and associated grade points to be used by community colleges.

       The grade is based on demonstrated proficiency in subject matter and the ability to demonstrate that proficiency, at least in part, by means of essays for associate degree credit courses or written expression for nondegree credit courses, or in courses where the curriculum committee deems them to be appropriate, by problem-solving exercises or skills demonstrations by students. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(2)(A) and (b)(2)(A) (Register 93, No. 42).)

    b. Units: The course grants units of credit based upon a relationship specified by the governing board between the number of units assigned to the course and the number of lecture and/or laboratory hours or performance criteria specified in the course outline.

       The course also requires a minimum of three hours of work per week, including class time (and/or demonstrated competency for nondegree credit courses) for each unit of credit, prorated for short-term, laboratory and activity courses. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(2)(B) and (b)(2)(B) (Register 93, No. 42).)

    c. Intensity: For associate degree credit course, the course must treat subject matter with a scope and intensity that requires students to study independently outside of class time. For nondegree credit courses, the course must provide instruction in critical thinking and generally treats subject matter with a scope and intensity that prepares students to study independently outside of class time and includes reading and writing assignments and homework. In particular, the assignments will be sufficiently rigorous that students completing each such course successfully will have acquired the skills necessary to successfully complete college-level work upon completion of the required sequence of such courses. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(2)(C) and (b)(2)(C) (Register 93, No. 42).)

6. Proposed associate degree credit courses must also meet the following requirements found in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, subdivisions (a)(2), in order to receive a recommendation by the college or district curriculum committee:

    a. Prerequisites and Corequisites: Require prerequisites or corequisites when: (a) the college and/or district curriculum committee determines, based on a review of the course outline of record, that a student would be highly unlikely to receive a satisfactory grade unless the student has knowledge or skills not taught in the course; or (b) success in the course is dependent upon communication or computation skills, then the course shall require as prerequisites or corequisites eligibility for enrollment in associate degree credit courses in English and/or mathematics. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(2)(D) and (E) (Register 93, No. 42).)

b. Difficulty: The course work calls for critical thinking and the understanding and application of concepts determined by the curriculum committee to be at college level. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(2)(F) (Register 93, No. 42).)

c. Level: The course work calls for critical thinking and the understanding and application of concepts determined by the curriculum committee to be at college level. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(2)(G) (Register 93, No. 42).)

7. Maintain a course outline of record for associate degree credit courses, nondegree credit courses, and noncredit courses in the official college files that describe the course and make the outline available to each instructor.

   For associate degree credit courses and nondegree credit courses, the course outline shall specify the unit value, scope, objectives, and content of the course in terms of a specific body of knowledge. Also, the course outline shall specify types or provide examples of required reading and writing assignments, other outside-of-class assignments, instructional methodology, and methods of evaluation for determining whether the stated objectives have been met by students.

   For noncredit course, the course outline shall specify the scope, objectives, contents, instructional methodology, and methods of evaluation for determining whether the stated objectives have been met. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(3), (b)(3), and (c)(2) (Register 93, No. 42); and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55150, subd. (b) (Register 91, No. 23).)

8. Proposed noncredit courses must treat subject matter and use resource materials, teaching methods, and standards of attendance and achievement that is deemed appropriate for the enrolled students by the college or district curriculum committee in order to receive a recommendation by the college or district curriculum committee. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (c)(1) (Register 93, No. 42).)

9. Make available to students through college publications all of the following facts regarding each course offered before they enroll in the course: (1) whether the course is offered as a credit or noncredit course; (2) whether the course is transferable to four-year colleges and universities; and (3) whether the course fulfills a major or general education requirement. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55005 (Register 91, No. 23).)

10. Each community college must keep and submit such current records and reports concerning their total activities as may be required by the Chancellor to fulfill statutory responsibilities. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55006 and 55150, subd. (c) (Register 91, No. 23).)

11. Establish policies for and approve educational programs (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2)(A) (Stats. 1988, ch. 973).)

12. Adopt policies for the following in accordance with the Board of Governors regulations addressing faculty participation in district and college governance (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 53200-53204) when establishing prerequisites or corequisites for an associate degree credit course as required by California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, subdivisions (a)(2)(D) and (E) (e.g. a student is unlikely to receive a satisfactory grade in a course without the prerequisite or corequisite, or success in a course is dependent on communication or computation skills):

    a. The process for establishing prerequisites and corequisites. The policy for the process for establishing prerequisites or corequisites shall be based on content review with additional methods of scrutiny being applied depending on the type of prerequisite or corequisite established. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (b)(1) (Register 98, No. 7); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (b)(1) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

b. The procedures to assure that courses for which prerequisites or corequisites are established will be taught in accordance with the course outline that are the basis for the requirement to establish the prerequisite or corequisite. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (b)(2) (Register 98, No. 7); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (b)(2) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

c. The process, including levels of scrutiny, for reviewing prerequisites and corequisites to assure that they remain necessary and appropriate. The process shall provide that at least once each six years all prerequisites and corequisites established by the district shall be reviewed. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (b)(3) (Register 98, No. 7); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (b)(3) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

d. The bases and process for an individual student to challenge the application of a prerequisite or corequisite. The bases to challenge a prerequisite or corequisite are:

i. The prerequisite or corequisite was not established in accordance with the district's process for establishing prerequisites and corequisites;

ii. The prerequisite or corequisite violates California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55200-55202, which address the authority, requirements, and limitations on authority, when establishing prerequisites and corequisites;

iii. The prerequisite or corequisite are either unlawfully discriminatory or are being applied in an unlawfully discriminatory manner;

iv. The student has the knowledge or ability to succeed in the course or program despite not meeting the prerequisite or corequisite; and

v. The student will be subject to undue delay in attaining the goal of his or her educational plan because the prerequisite or corequisite course has not been made reasonably available. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subds. (b)(2) and (f)(1)-(5) (Register 98, No. 7); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (b)(2) and (m)(1)-(5) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

13. Gather data according to sound research practices and show that a student is highly unlikely to succeed in the course unless the student has met the proposed prerequisite or corequisite, in addition to conducting a content review, if the community college district seeks to establish a course in communication or computation skills as a prerequisite or corequisite for any non-communication or non-computation skills course.

This data gathering requirement does not apply when:

a. Four-year institutions will not grant credit for a course unless it has the particular communication or computation skill prerequisite; or

b. The prerequisite or corequisite is required for enrollment in a program that is subject to approval by a state agency other than the Chancellor's Office and both of the following conditions are satisfied:

i. Colleges in at least six different districts have previously satisfied the data collection requirement with respect to the same prerequisite or corequisite for the same program; and

ii. The district establishing the prerequisite or corequisite conducts an evaluation to determine whether the prerequisite or corequisite has a disproportionate impact on particular groups of students described in terms of race, ethnicity, gender, age or disability, as defined by the Chancellor, and if there is a disproportionate impact the district in consultation with the Chancellor develops and implements a plan setting forth the steps the district will take to correct the disproportionate impact. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (e) (Register 98, No. 7) ; for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (e) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

14. If a prerequisite or corequisite is challenged on the basis that it is either unlawfully discriminatory or applied in an unlawfully discriminatory manner (pursuant to Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (f)(3)), advise the student that he or she may file a formal complaint of unlawful discrimination pursuant to the title 5 regulations addressing discrimination complaint procedures (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 59300 et seq.). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (g) (Register 98, No. 7); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (n) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

15. Identify prerequisites and corequisites in college publications available to students as well as in the course outline of any course for which they are established. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (a) (Register 93, No. 42); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (f) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

16. Determine whether a student meets a prerequisite based on successful completion of an appropriate course. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (c) (Register 93, No. 42) ; for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (h) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

17. Ensure precollegiate basic skills courses designed to teach the required skills in reading, written expression, or mathematics, are offered with reasonable frequency and that the number of sections available is reasonable given the number of students who are required to meet the associated skills prerequisites and who diligently seek enrollment in the prerequisite course, if a prerequisite requires precollegiate skills in reading, written expression, or mathematics. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (d) (Register 93, No. 42); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (i) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

18. Offer sufficient sections of a corequisite course to reasonably accommodate all students who are required to take the corequisite. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (e) (Register 93, No. 42); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (j) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

19. Waive a corequisite for any student whom space in the corequisite course is not available. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (e) (Register 93, No. 42); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (j) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

20. Make a determination of whether a student meets a prerequisite prior to the student's enrollment in the course requiring the prerequisite. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (g) (Register 93, No. 42); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (l) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

(12) Degrees and Certificates (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55800, 55800.5, 55801, 55805, 55805.5, 55806, 55807, 55808, and 55809)

This section addresses regulations pertaining to the award of degrees, certificates, and diplomas by community college districts upon the completion of standards specified by the Board of Governors and the governing board of the community college district.

Prior to analyzing title 5, sections 55800, 55800.5, 55801, 55805, 55805.5, 55806, 55807, 55808, and 55809, it is necessary to review the authority, missions, and functions of California Community Colleges. As noted above, since 1976 community college districts have been given broad authority in the governance of community colleges. This authority known as the "permissive code" allows community college districts to initiate and carry on any program, activity, or to otherwise act in any manner which is not in conflict with or inconsistent with, or preempted by, any law and which is not in conflict with the purposes for which school districts are established.[301] Although local districts have been granted broad authority to govern community colleges, the Legislature has maintained general supervision of the governance of community colleges.[302] As part of this supervision the Legislature has defined the missions and functions of community colleges in Education Code section 66010.4, which provides in relevant part:

> The California Community Colleges shall, as a primary mission, offer academic and vocational instruction at the lower division level for both younger and older students, including those persons returning to school. Public community colleges shall offer instruction through but not beyond the second year of college. These institutions may grant the associate in arts and the associate in science degree.[303]

Taking this grant of authority to offer associate degrees further, the Board of Governors defined "'college' [to mean] a degree-granting institution intended to provide instruction through the fourteenth grade."[304] Thus, although the Education Code authorizes, but does not require, community college districts to grant associate degrees, as defined by the Board of Governors' regulations community colleges are required to grant degrees.[305]

a. California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55800, 55800.5, 55805, 55805.5, 55806, 55808, and 55809 impose state-mandated activities[306]

Policy Regarding Degrees and Certificates (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55800):

Section 55800 addresses the adoption of policy regarding the degrees and certificates awarded by the community college district. Section 55800 provides:

> The governing board of community college districts shall adopt policy consistent with the provisions of this [subchapter].[307] The policy shall be published in the college catalog under appropriate headings, and filed with the Chancellor's Office as required by section 51004 of this [division].[308]

The plain language of section 55800 requires community college districts to adopt policy consistent with the subchapter on "Degrees and Certificates" (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55800-55810). In addition, the policy is required to be published in the college catalog under appropriate headings.

Although the requirements of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 51004, do not independently impose state-mandated activities, section 55800 requires community college districts to file their district policies on degrees and certificates with the Chancellor's Office as required by section 51004. Section 51004, subdivision (b), requires districts to file a copy of their regulations, and any amendments, to the Chancellor's Office. As a result, community college districts are mandated to file a copy of their regulations, and any amendments thereto, adopted pursuant to section 55800 with the Chancellor's Office. Therefore, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55800 mandates community college districts to engage in the following activities:

1. Adopt policy consistent with the subchapter regarding degrees and certificates consisting of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55800 – 55810.[309] (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55800 (Register 91, No. 23).)

[305] In 2010, the Legislature added Education Code 66746 (Stats. 2010, ch. 428 (S.B. 1440)), which conditions receipt of state apportionment funding upon the development and granting of associate degrees for transfer to the California State University.

The claimants have pled the title 5 regulations in the "Degrees and Certificates" section of the test claim analysis as last amended in 1991, which coincides with Register 91, number 23. As a result, the language analyzed in this section will address the Register 91, number 23, version of the regulations.

[309] The language of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55750 provides, "… consistent with this chapter." However, see discussion regarding the Nomenclature Cross Reference in the "Minimum Conditions Entitling Community College Districts to State Aid" section above.

2. Publish the policy consistent with the subchapter regarding degrees and certificates in the college catalog under appropriate headings. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55800 (Register 91, No. 23).)

3. File a copy of the policy regarding degrees and certificates, and any amendments, with the Chancellor. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55800 (Register 91, No. 23).)

Philosophy and Criteria for Associate Degree and General Education (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55805 and 55805.5):

Sections 55805 and 55805.5 address the philosophies and criteria for associate degrees and general education of community college districts.

Section 55805, subdivision (a), provides, "[t]he governing board of a community college district shall adopt a policy which states its specific philosophy on General Education." When developing this policy the governing board is to consider the policy of the Board of Governors specified in subdivision (a) of section 55805 which generally states that an associate degree is more than just an accumulation of units, and that general education is central to an associate degree.[310] Subdivision (b) of section 55805 provides that the governing board of a community college district shall establish criteria to determine which courses may be used in implementing its philosophy on the associate degree and general education. Subdivision (c) of section 55805 provides that the governing board of a community college district shall, on a regular basis, review the policy and criteria.

Section 55805.5 defines the scope of the type of courses that may be permitted by the criteria established by the governing board of a community college district pursuant to section 55805, subdivision (b). Section 55805.5 provides:

> The criteria established by the governing board of a community college district to implement its philosophy on the associate degree shall permit only courses that conform to the standards specified in [California Code of Regulations, title 5,] section 55002 (a) and that fall into the following categories to be offered for associate degree credit:
>
> (a) All lower division courses accepted toward the baccalaureate degree by the California State University or University of California or designed to be offered for transfer.
>
> (b) Courses that apply to the major in non-baccalaureate occupational fields.
>
> (c) English courses not more than one level below the first transfer level composition course, typically known as English 1A. Each student may count only one such course as credit toward the associate degree.
> (d) All mathematics courses above and including Elementary Algebra.
> (e) Credit courses in English and mathematics taught in or on behalf of other departments and which, as determined by the local governing board require entrance skills at a level equivalent to those necessary for the courses specified in subsections (c) and (d) above.

As a result, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55805 and 55805.5 mandate community college districts to engage in the following activities:

[310] For the text of the Board of Governors' policy see California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55805, subdivision (a) (Register 91, No. 23).

1. Adopt a policy which states its specific philosophy on General Education. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55805, subd. (a) (Register 91, No. 23).)
2. Consider the General Education policy of the Board of Governors specified in California Code Regulations, title 5, section 55805, subdivision (a) (Register 91, No. 23), when developing the policy stating its specific philosophy on General Education. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55805, subd. (a) (Register 91, No. 23).)
3. Establish criteria, subject to the limitations in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55805.5 (Register 91, No. 23), to determine which courses may be used in implementing its philosophy on the associate degree and general education. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55805, subd. (b); and 55805.5 (Register 91, No. 23).)
4. Review the policy and criteria for General Education, established pursuant to California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55805, subdivisions (a) and (b), on a regular basis. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55805, subd. (c) (Register 91, No. 23).)

Duty to Grant a Degree or Certificate of Achievement and the Minimum Requirements for the Associate Degree (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55800.5, 55806, 55808, and 55809):

Title 5, sections 55800.5 and 55806, address the duty of community college districts to award an associate degree to students upon the successful completion of the course of study required by the students' majors and the criteria and minimum requirements that a student must satisfy as a condition to trigger the duty of community college districts. Section 55808 addresses the duty to issue a certificate of achievement when a student successfully completes a course of study for which a certificate of achievement is offered. Section 55809 clarifies that the duty to grant a diploma, degree, or certificate exists whenever a student has completed all requirements for the degree, diploma, or certificate without regard to length of time actually taken by the student to complete such requirements. Similarly, section 55809 clarifies that students who have satisfactorily completed the requirements of any course of study in less than the prescribed time are to receive credit for the full number of semester hours scheduled for such course.

When analyzing state mandate claims it is necessary for the Commission to look at the underlying program to determine if a claimant's participation in the underlying program is voluntary or legally compelled.[311] As discussed above, community colleges by definition are degree granting institutions. Thus, the requirements of title 5, sections 55800.5, 55806, and 55809, as they address and apply to associate degree standards or granting associate degrees constitute state-mandated activities.

However, absent from the regulatory definition of "colleges" and from the governing statutes and regulations, is a legal requirement to offer courses of study or curricula for which a certificate of achievement or diploma is offered. The duty to issue a certificate of achievement or diploma is triggered by the discretionary decision to offer a certificate of achievement or diploma. Thus, the requirements of title 5, sections 55808 and 55809, as they address and apply to certificates of achievement and diplomas, do not constitute state-mandated activities.

The claimants argue:

> The community college course offerings are mandated by law to the extent that they comply with the primary mission (Education Code Section 66010.4). The DSA has not stated a basis to distinguish courses that can lead to a certificate or diploma from those which lead to a degree. Sections 55800.5, 55805, and 55809 establish independent legal compulsion to award either a degree, certificate, or a diploma when a student completes the designated curriculum. The compulsion derives from the student's completion of course work that is part of an educational plan that complies with the primary mission of the community college.

Although, the discretionary decision of a community college district to offer a certificate of achievement or diploma is consistent with the primary mission of community colleges, the plain language of Education Code section 66010.4 does not require community colleges to offer courses that lead to a certificate or diploma, nor does any other code section or regulation. In contrast, as noted above, community colleges are defined as degree granting institutions. Degrees are distinguished from certificates and diplomas. In addition, under the claimants' argument any activity that is consistent or complies with the primary mission of community colleges would constitute a reimbursable activity under article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution, regardless of whether the activity was done at the discretion of a community college district. Finding in this manner would be inconsistent with article XIII B and the case law interpreting article XIII B.[312]

Pursuant to the above discussion, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55800.5, 55806, and 55809, mandate community college districts to engage in the following activities:

1. Confer a degree of associate in arts or associate in science upon a student who successfully completes the prescribed course of study for the degree while maintaining the requisite grade point average; demonstrated competence in reading, in written expression, and in mathematics. The degree shall be conferred to a student without regard to how long it takes for the student to complete the requirements. Credit for the full number of semester hours scheduled for a course shall be granted, even when the student has satisfactorily completed the requirements of any course of study in less than the prescribed time. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55800.5, 55806, and 55809 (Register 91, No. 23).)

2. Condition receipt of an associate degree upon a student who has satisfactorily completed at least 60 semester units or 90 quarter units of college work that is fulfilled in a curriculum accepted toward the degree by a college within the district (as shown in its catalog). This course work includes 18 semester or 27 quarter units in general education and at least 18 semester or 27 quarter units in a major, at least 12 semester or 18 quarter units completed in residence at the college granting the degree.

   The 18 semester or 27 quarter units in a major must be taken in a single discipline or related disciplines, as listed in the Community Colleges "Taxonomy of Programs."

   The 18 semester or 27 quarter units in general education requirements must include a minimum of three semester or four quarter units in each of the following areas: (1) Natural Sciences, (2) Social and Behavioral Sciences, (3) Humanities, (4) Language and Rationality – English Composition, and (5) Language and Rationality – Communication and Analytical Thinking.

The remainder of the unit requirement is also to be selected from among these five divisions of learning or as determined by local option. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806, subd. (a) and (b)(1) (Register 91, No. 23).)

3. Offer ethnic studies in at least one of the general education areas of learning listed in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55806, subdivision (b)(1)(A)-D) (i.e. Natural Sciences, Social and Behavioral Sciences, Humanities, Language and Rationality-English Composition, and Language and Rationality-Communication and Analytical Thinking) (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806, subd. (b)(3) ((Register 91, No. 23).)
4. Design a course to help students develop an appreciation and understanding of the scientific method, and encourage an understanding of the relationships between science and other human activities, in order to satisfy the general education requirement in natural sciences. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(A) (Register 91, No. 23).)
5. Design a course to develop an awareness of the method of inquiry used by the social and behavioral sciences and to stimulate critical thinking about the ways people act and have acted in response to their societies and should promote appreciation of how societies and social subgroups operate, in order to satisfy the general education requirement in social and behavioral sciences. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(B) (Register 91, No. 23).)
6. Design a course to help students to develop an awareness of the ways in which people throughout the ages and in different cultures have responded to themselves and the world around them in artistic and cultural creation and help the student develop aesthetic understanding and ability to make value judgments, in order to satisfy the general education requirement in humanities. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(C) (Register 91, No. 23).)
7. Design courses fulfilling the written composition (English composition) requirement to include both expository and argumentative writing. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(D)(1) (Register 91, No. 23).)
8. Design a course to fulfill the communication and analytical thinking requirement. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(D)(2) (Register 91, No. 23).)

Conversion of Noncredit Courses to Credit Counted Toward an Associate Degree (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55807):

Title 5, section 55807, addresses the conversion of noncredit courses to credit courses counted toward an associate degree. Section 55807 provides:

> Upon student petition to and certification by a governing board of credit-level achievement and prescribed academic rigor, and evidence of prescribed competence as approved by the faculty, noncredit courses may count toward associate degrees.

The claimants assert that section 55807 requires community colleges to establish and implement a process to respond to a student petition requesting that non credit courses be counted toward associate degrees.[313] However, the plain language of section 55807 does not require community colleges to engage in any activities, including those asserted by the claimants. Rather, the plain language of section 55807 provides community colleges the authority to count noncredit courses toward associate degrees upon the occurrence of specified actions by a student and the governing board of a community college. The language of section 55807 does not require a community college to allow the conversion of noncredit courses to credit courses counted toward an associate degree. As a result, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55807, does not impose any state-mandated activities upon community colleges.

(i) Summary of state-mandated activities

1. Adopt policy consistent with the subchapter regarding degrees and certificates consisting of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55800 – 55810. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55800 (Register 91, No. 23).)
2. Publish the policy consistent with the subchapter regarding degrees and certificates in the college catalog under appropriate headings. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55800 (Register 91, No. 23).)
3. File a copy of the policy regarding degrees and certificates, and any amendments, with the Chancellor. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55800 (Register 91, No. 23).)
4. Adopt a policy which states its specific philosophy on General Education. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55805, subd. (a) (Register 91, No. 23).)
5. Consider the policy of the Board of Governors specified in California Code Regulations, title 5, section 55805, subdivision (a) (Register 91, No. 23), when developing the policy stating its specific philosophy on General Education. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55805, subd. (a) (Register 91, No. 23).)
6. Establish criteria, subject to the limitations in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55805.5 (Register 91, No. 23), to determine which courses may be used in implementing its philosophy on the associate degree and general education. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55805, subd. (b); and 55805.5 (Register 91, No. 23).)
7. Review the policy and criteria for General Education, established pursuant to California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55805, subdivisions (a) and (b), on a regular basis. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55805, subd. (c) (Register 91, No. 23).)
8. Confer a degree of associate in arts or associate in science upon a student who successfully completes the prescribed course of study for the degree while maintaining the requisite grade point average; demonstrated competence in reading, in written expression, and in mathematics. The degree shall be conferred to a student without regard to how long it takes for the student to complete the requirements. Credit for the full number of semester hours scheduled for a course shall be granted, even when the student has satisfactorily completed the requirements of any course of study in less than the prescribed time. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55800.5, 55806, and 55809 (Register 91, No. 23).)
9. Condition receipt of an associate degree upon a student who has satisfactorily completed at least 60 semester units or 90 quarter units of college work that is fulfilled in a curriculum accepted toward the degree by a college within the district (as shown in its catalog). This course work includes 18 semester or 27 quarter units in general education and at least 18 semester or 27 quarter units in a major, at least 12 semester or 18 quarter units completed in residence at the college granting the degree.

   The 18 semester or 27 quarter units in a major must be taken in a single discipline or related disciplines, as listed in the Community Colleges "Taxonomy of Programs."

The 18 semester or 27 quarter units in general education requirements must include a minimum of three semester or four quarter units in each of the following areas: (1) Natural Sciences, (2) Social and Behavioral Sciences, (3) Humanities, (4) Language and Rationality – English Composition, and (5) Language and Rationality – Communication and Analytical Thinking.

The remainder of the unit requirement is also to be selected from among these five divisions of learning or as determined by local option. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806, subd. (a) and (b)(1) (Register 91, No. 23).)

10. Offer ethnic studies in at least one of the general education areas of learning listed in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55806, subdivision (b)(1)(A)-D) (i.e. Natural Sciences, Social and Behavioral Sciences, Humanities, Language and Rationality-English Composition, and Language and Rationality-Communication and Analytical Thinking) (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806, subd. (b)(3) ((Register 91, No. 23).)
11. Design a course to help students develop an appreciation and understanding of the scientific method, and encourage an understanding of the relationships between science and other human activities, in order to satisfy the general education requirement in natural sciences. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(A) (Register 91, No. 23).)
12. Design a course to develop an awareness of the method of inquiry used by the social and behavioral sciences and to stimulate critical thinking about the ways people act and have acted in response to their societies and should promote appreciation of how societies and social subgroups operate, in order to satisfy the general education requirement in social and behavioral sciences. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(B) (Register 91, No. 23).)
13. Design a course to help students to develop an awareness of the ways in which people throughout the ages and in different cultures have responded to themselves and the world around them in artistic and cultural creation and help the student develop aesthetic understanding and ability to make value judgments, in order to satisfy the general education requirement in humanities. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(C) (Register 91, No. 23).)
14. Design courses fulfilling the written composition (English composition) requirement to include both expository and argumentative writing. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(D)(1) (Register 91, No. 23).)
15. Design a course to fulfill the communication and analytical thinking requirement. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(D)(2) (Register 91, No. 23).)

b. The state-mandated activities imposed by California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55800, 55805, 55805.5, and 55806 (Register 83, No. 29; Register 88, No. 42; Register 91, No. 43) constitute a new program or higher level of service

The activities mandated by title 5, sections 55800, 55800.5, 55805, 55806, and 55809, carry out the governmental function of education, and as a result, the activities mandated by sections 55800, 55800.5, 55805, 55806, and 55809, constitute a “program” within the meaning of article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

The claimants have pled title 5, sections 55800, 55805, 55806, and 55809, as added in 1983 and last amended in 1991; section 55800.5, as added in 1991; and section 55805.5, as added in 1988.[314] Many of the activities mandated by these title 5 sections are derived from former title 5 regulations existing prior to 1983.[315] However, the former title 5 regulations were all part of former "Division 2" of the title 5 regulations, the provisions of which:

Thus, the pre-1983 title 5 regulations which contain the same requirements as the regulations pled in this section of the staff analysis did not legally require community college districts to engage in activities prior to 1983 for the same reasons that the regulations pled in the "Minimum Conditions" section of the staff analysis did not impose state-mandated activities. Specifically, the requirements of the pre-1983 title 5 regulations are downstream activities triggered by the discretionary decision to become entitled to receive state aid. In addition, with one exception, community college districts were not practically compelled to engage in the activities contained in the pre-1983 regulations, and thus constitute a new program or higher level of service.[317] In 2007, the title 5 regulations pled in this section of the analysis were repealed and renumbered to title 5, section 55060 et seq., without any substantive changes to the new program or higher level of service found above.[318]

The exception to the above finding of a new program or higher level of service is the requirement for community college districts to confer an associate degree. The court in Kern High School Dist. left open the possibility that a state mandate might be found in circumstances of practical compulsion, where a local entity faced certain and severe penalties such as double taxation or other draconian consequences as a result of noncompliance with a program that is not legally compelled.[319] In 1975, former title 5, section 51802, defined "colleges" as degree-

Staff notes that the claimants have pled title 5, sections 55806 and 55808, as added in 1988, and title 5, section 55805.5, as added in 1983. However, in 1983 title 5, section 55805.5 did not exist, instead it was added in 1988. In addition, both title 5, sections 55806 and 55808, were added in 1983. From the claimants' narrative, it is clear that the claimants have transposed the adoption dates for title 5, sections 55806 and 55808, with the adoption date of title 5, section 55805.5. Thus, staff will treat sections 55806 and 55808 as pled as added in 1983, and section 55805.5 as pled as added in 1988.

Title 5, sections 55800.5 and 55809, which addresses a district's duty to award an associate degree, was derived from former title 5, section 51626, as added in 1977 by Register 77, number 45. Title 5, section 55806, was derived from former title 5, section 55626, as amended in 1982 by Register 82, number 24. granting institutions.[320] In other words, to exist community colleges were required to grant degrees. Thus, community colleges districts were practically compelled to grant degrees, rather than face the draconian consequence of not existing, before and after 1983. As a result, the mandate to confer a degree does not constitute a new program or higher level of service subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

(i) Summary of state-mandated new program or higher level of service

Pursuant to the above discussion, staff finds that the following state-mandated activities constitute a new program or higher level of service subject to article XII B, section 6 of the California Constitution:

1. Adopt policy consistent with the subchapter regarding degrees and certificates consisting of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55800 – 55810. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55800 (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55060 (Register 2007, No. 35).)
2. Publish the policy consistent with the subchapter regarding degrees and certificates in the college catalog under appropriate headings. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55800 (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55060 (Register 2007, No. 35).)
3. File a copy of the policy regarding degrees and certificates, and any amendments, with the Chancellor. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55800 (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55060 (Register 2007, No. 35).)
4. Adopt a policy which states its specific philosophy on General Education. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55805, subd. (a) (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55061, subd. (a) (Register 2007, No. 35).)
5. Consider the policy of the Board of Governors specified in California Code Regulations, title 5, section 55805, subdivision (a) (Register 91, No. 23), when developing the policy stating its specific philosophy on General Education. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55805, subd. (a) (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55061, subd. (a) (Register 2007, No. 35).)
6. Establish criteria, subject to the limitations in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55805.5 (Register 91, No. 23), to determine which courses may be used in implementing its philosophy on the associate degree and general education. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55805, subd. (b); and 55805.5 (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55061, subd. (b), and 55062 (Register 2007, No. 35).)
7. Review the policy and criteria for General Education, established pursuant to California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55805, subdivisions (a) and (b), on a regular basis. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55805, subd. (c) (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55061, subd. (c) (Register 2007, No. 35).)
8. Condition receipt of an associate degree upon a student who has satisfactorily completed at least 60 semester units or 90 quarter units of college work that is fulfilled in a curriculum accepted toward the degree by a college within the district (as shown in its catalog). This course work includes 18 semester or 27 quarter units in general education and at least 18 semester or 27 quarter units in a major, at least 12 semester or 18 quarter units completed in residence at the college granting the degree.

The 18 semester or 27 quarter units in a major must be taken in a single discipline or related disciplines, as listed in the Community Colleges "Taxonomy of Programs."

The 18 semester or 27 quarter units in general education requirements must include a minimum of three semester or four quarter units in each of the following areas: (1) Natural Sciences, (2) Social and Behavioral Sciences, (3) Humanities, (4) Language and Rationality – English Composition, and (5) Language and Rationality – Communication and Analytical Thinking.

The remainder of the unit requirement is also to be selected from among these five divisions of learning or as determined by local option. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806, subd. (a) and (b)(1) (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55063, subd. (a) and (b) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

9. Offer ethnic studies in at least one of the general education areas of learning listed in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55806, subdivision (b)(1)(A)-D) (i.e. Natural Sciences, Social and Behavioral Sciences, Humanities, Language and Rationality-English Composition, and Language and Rationality-Communication and Analytical Thinking) (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806, subd. (b)(3) (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55063, subd. (b)(2) (Register 2007, No. 35).)
10. Design a course to help students develop an appreciation and understanding of the scientific method, and encourage an understanding of the relationships between science and other human activities, in order to satisfy the general education requirement in natural sciences. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(A) (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55063, subd. (b)(1)(A) (Register 2007, No. 35).)
11. Design a course to develop an awareness of the method of inquiry used by the social and behavioral sciences and to stimulate critical thinking about the ways people act and have acted in response to their societies and should promote appreciation of how societies and social subgroups operate, in order to satisfy the general education requirement in social and behavioral sciences. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(B) (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55063, subd. (b)(1)(B) (Register 2007, No. 35).)
12. Design a course to help students to develop an awareness of the ways in which people throughout the ages and in different cultures have responded to themselves and the world around them in artistic and cultural creation and help the student develop aesthetic understanding and ability to make value judgments, in order to satisfy the general education requirement in humanities. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(C) (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55063, subd. (b)(1)(C) (Register 2007, No. 35).)
13. Design courses fulfilling the written composition (English composition) requirement to include both expository and argumentative writing. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(D)(1) (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55063, subd. (b)(1)(D)(1) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

14. Design a course to fulfill the communication and analytical thinking requirement. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55806 (b)(1)(D)(2) (Register 91, No. 23); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55063, subd. (b)(1)(D)(2) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

(13) Open Courses (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 58102, 58104, 58106, 58107, and 58108)

This section addresses regulations that set forth standards regarding the provision of courses open to enrollment by any student admitted to the community college.

a. California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 58102 and 58104, impose state-mandated activities

Course Description and Dissemination of Information (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 58102 and 58104)

Section 58102 addresses the description of each course offered by a community college. Section 58102 provides:

> The description of each course shall be clear and understandable to the prospective student and shall be published in the official catalog, and/or schedule of classes, and/or addenda.
>
> A course description may indicate that the course is designed to meet certain specialized needs. If so indicated, the availability of the course to all qualified students must also be affirmed.

Section 58104 addresses the dissemination of the course descriptions. Specifically, section 58104 provides:

> All courses to be conducted shall be described in the official general catalog and/or addenda and listed in the schedules of classes.
>
> Courses which are established or conducted after publication of the general catalog or regular schedule of classes shall be reasonably well publicized.
> Announcements of course offerings shall not be limited to a specialized clientele, nor shall any group or individual receive notice prior to the general public for the purposes of preferential enrollment, limiting accessibility, or exclusion of qualified students.

Read together, the first paragraph of section 58102 and the first and second paragraphs of section 58104 require community college districts to publish each course to be conducted in the official catalogs, schedules of classes, and the addenda. In addition, the description is required to be clear and understandable to the prospective student.

The claimants assert that section 58102 also mandates community college districts to establish and implement procedures to ensure, if a course description indicates a course is designed to meet certain specialized needs, that the district affirms the availability of the course to all qualified students, pursuant to the second paragraph of section 58102.[321]

The plain language of the second paragraph of section 58102 does not mandate any activities on community college districts as alleged by the claimants. As quoted above, section 58102 provides that a "course description may indicate that the course is designed to meet specialized needs;" however, districts are not required to make this indication. Only when districts decide to indicate that a course meets specialized needs are the districts then required to affirm the availability of the course. Under Kern High School Dist., a requirement resulting from an underlying discretionary decision does not constitute a state-mandated activity. As a result, staff finds that the second paragraph of section 58102 does not mandate any activity on community college districts.

Thus, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 58102 imposes the following state-mandated activity:

> Publish a description of each course that is clear and understandable to the prospective student in the official catalog, schedule of classes, and addenda. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 58102 and 58104.)

Limitations on Enrollment (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106)

Section 58106 addresses the ability of community college districts to limit enrollment in courses offered by the district. Section 58106 provides:

> In order to be claimed for purposes of state apportionment, all courses shall be open to enrollment by any student who has been admitted to the college, provided that enrollment in specific courses or programs may be limited as follows:
>
> (a) Enrollment may be limited to students meeting prerequisites and corequisites established pursuant to Sections 55200-55202 of this Division,
>
> (b) Enrollment may be limited due to health and safety considerations, facility limitations, faculty workload, the availability of qualified instructors, funding limitations, the constraints of regional planning or legal requirements imposed by statutes, regulations, or contracts. The governing board shall adopt policies identifying any such limitations and requiring fair and equitable procedures for determining who may enroll in affected courses or programs. Such procedures shall be consistent with one or more of the following approaches:
>
> (1) limiting enrollment to a "first-come, first-served" basis or using other nonevaluative selection techniques to determine who may enroll; or
>
> (2) limiting enrollment using a registration procedure authorized by Section 58108; or
> (3) in the case of intercollegiate completion, honors courses, or public performance courses, allocating available seats to those students judged most qualified; or
>
> (4) limiting enrollment in one or more sections of a course to a cohort of students enrolled in one or more other courses, provided however, that a reasonable percentage of all sections of the course do not have such restrictions; or
> (5) with respect to students on probation or subject to dismissal, the governing board may, consistent with the provisions of Sections 55754-55755 of this Part, limit enrollment to a total number of units or to selected courses, or require students to follow a prescribed educational plan.
>
> (c) A student may challenge an enrollment limitation established pursuant to Subsection (b) of this Section on any of the following grounds:
> (1) the enrollment limitation is either unlawfully discriminatory or is being applied in an unlawfully discriminatory manner;

(2) the district is not following its policy on enrollment limitations;

(3) the basis upon which the district has established an enrollment limitation does not in fact exist; or

(4) any other criteria established by the district.

(d) The student shall bear the burden of showing that grounds exists for the challenge. Challenges shall be handled in a timely manner, and if the challenge is upheld, the district shall waive the enrollment limitation with respect to that student.

(e) In the case of a challenge under Subsection (c)(1) of this Section, the district shall, upon completion of the challenge procedure established pursuant to this Section, advise the student that he or she may file a formal complaint of unlawful discrimination pursuant to Subchapter 5 (commencing with Section 59300) of Chapter 10 of this Division. Completion of the challenge procedure shall be deemed to satisfy the requirement of Section 59328(b) that the district and the student attempt informal resolution of the complaint.

The language of section 58106 requires all courses to be open for enrollment to any student admitted by the community college, except in specified situations in which enrollment may be limited. If a district limits enrollment, students have the ability to challenge the enrollment limitation on specific grounds. Community college districts are then required to handle the challenges in a timely manner, and waive the limitation if the challenge is upheld.

The claimants allege that section 58106, requires community college districts "to permit enrollment to be limited."[322] However, the language of section 58106 does not require districts to permit enrollment to be limited, because the section 58106, itself, permits enrollment to be limited.

Staff finds that title 5, section 58106, requires community college districts to engage in the following activities:

1. Make all courses open to enrollment to any student that has been admitted to the college, except in the specified situations listed in title 5, section 58106, subdivisions (a) and (b), in which enrollment may be limited. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106.)
2. Handle challenges to enrollment limitations made by students pursuant to title 5, section 58106, subdivision (c), in a timely manner. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106.)
3. Waive the enrollment limitation with respect to a student that challenged an enrollment limitation, if the challenge is upheld. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106.)
4. Advise a student that he or she may file a formal complaint of unlawful discrimination pursuant to title 5, section 59300 et seq., upon completion of handling a challenge to an enrollment limitation made by a student alleging that an enrollment limitation is either unlawfully discriminatory or is being applied in an unlawfully discriminatory manner (pursuant to Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106, subd. (c)(1) (Register 93, No. 42)). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106.)

Although title 5, section 58106, requires the activities listed above, Article XIII B places spending limits on both the state and local governments; however, costs mandated by courts or federal law are expressly excluded from these spending limits. Article XIII B, section 9, subdivision (b), of the California Constitution excludes from either the state or local spending limit any "[a]ppropriations required to comply with mandates of the courts or the federal government which, without discretion, require an expenditure for additional services or which unavoidably make the providing of existing services more costly."

When analyzing federal law in the context of a test claim under article XIII B, section 6, the court in Hayes v. Commission on State Mandates held that "[w]hen the federal government imposes costs on local agencies those costs are not mandated by the state and thus would not require a state subvention. Instead, such costs are exempt from local agencies' taxing and spending limitations" under article XIII B.[323] Also, the court in San Diego Unified School Dist. found that "for purposes of ruling upon a request for reimbursement, challenged state rules or procedures that are intended to implement an applicable federal law—and whose costs are, in context, de minimis—should be treated as part and parcel of the underlying federal mandate."[324] However, the court in Hayes also found when federal law imposes a mandate on the state, and the state "freely [chooses] to impose the costs upon the local agency as a means of implementing a federal program, then the costs are the result of a reimbursable state mandate regardless whether the costs were imposed upon the state by the federal government."[325]

Under the Equal Protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution, "States [are denied] the power to legislate that different treatment be accorded to persons placed by a statute into different classes on the basis of criteria wholly unrelated to the objective of that statute."[326] In addition, a classification that does not involve fundamental rights or proceed along suspect lines is accorded a strong presumption of validity, such that it will not run afoul of the Equal Protection Clause "if there is a rational relationship between the disparity of treatment and some legitimate governmental purpose.[327]

As applicable here, the Equal Protection clause requires community college districts to provide enrollment in their courses on an equal basis, absent a rational relationship to a legitimate district interest.[328] Thus, under the Equal Protection clause districts are mandated to have courses open to enrollment to any student admitted to a college, except where a community college district has a legitimate interest to limit enrollment that is rationally related to the limitation.

As a result, the following activity imposed by title 5, section 58106, constitutes a federal mandate:

> Make all courses open to enrollment to any student that has been admitted to the college, except in the specified situations listed in title 5, section 58106, subdivisions (a) and (b), in which enrollment may be limited. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106)

[328] Because postsecondary education is not a fundamental right (Gurfinkel v. Los Angeles Community College Dist., supra, 121 Cal.App.3d 1, 5-7) the "rational basis" test applies.

However, under the Equal Protection Clause, community college districts are not required to have a complaint process for students to challenge limitations on enrollment. As a result, the following activities imposed by title 5, section 58106, constitute state-mandated activities:

1. Handle challenges to enrollment limitations made by students pursuant to title 5, section 58106, subdivision (c), in a timely manner. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106.)
2. Waive the enrollment limitation with respect to a student that challenged an enrollment limitation, if the challenge is upheld. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106.)

Facilities and Opportunities for Participation (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58107)

Section 58107 addresses the use of public funds for athletic programs and the provision of facilities and opportunities for participation in the programs. In relevant part, section 58107 provides:

> Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no public funds shall be used in connection with athletic programs conducted under the auspices of a community college district governing board or any student organization within the district, which do not provide facilities and opportunities for participation by both sexes on an equitable basis. … .

The claimants argue that the "language of the section is replete with words and phrases that require further description in order to determine compliance. It would seem reasonable and necessary for the district to adopt policies and implement procedures to avoid the prohibited use of funding."[329] However, the claimants are reading activities into section 58107 that are not present in the section. The plain language of section 58107 sets forth a prohibited activity, specifically the use of public funds in connection with athletic programs that do not provide facilities and opportunities to participate in the programs by both sexes on an equitable basis. As a result, section 58107 does not require any activities of community college districts. Rather, section 58107 prohibits community college districts from engaging in a specified activity. Thus, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 58107, does not impose any state-mandated activities.

Registration and Standards for Enrollment (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58108)

Section 58108 addresses the procedures for registration and standards for enrollment in courses offered by community colleges. Section 58108 provides:

> Procedures for registration and standards for enrollment in any course shall be only those which are consistent with these and other sections of Title 5 and uniformly administered by appropriately authorized employees of the district.
>
> Except as otherwise provided by state law, no student shall be required to confer or consult with or be required to receive permission to enroll in any class from any person other than those employed by the college in the district.

---

> Students will not be required to participate in any preregistration activity not uniformly required; nor shall the college or district allow anyone to place or enforce nonacademic requisites as barriers to enrollment in or the successful completion of a class.
>
> No registration procedures shall be used that result in restricting enrollment to a specialized clientele.
>
> The following registration procedures are permissible: special registration assistance to the handicapped or disadvantaged student as defined by statute, for the purpose of providing equalization of educational opportunity; and enrollment of students in accordance with a priority system established pursuant to legal authority by the local board of trustees.
> With respect to accessibility to off-campus sites and facilities, no student is to be required to make any special effort not required of all students to register in any class or course section. Once enrolled in the class, all students must have equal access to the site.

The claimants argue that the above language requires districts to take some affirmative action to avoid the prohibited activity.[330] However, the Commission cannot read a mandated activity into the section that is not present in the section. The plain language of section 58108 does not impose any state-mandated activities on community college districts. The first paragraph prohibits community college district procedures for registration and standards for enrollment from being in noncompliance with the Board of Governor's regulations, and from being inconsistently administered by unauthorized employees. The prohibitive nature of the first paragraph is indicated by the usage of the language "shall be only those" with reference to district procedures for registration and standards for enrollment. This language indicates intent to limit a district's authority in regard to establishing procedures for registration and standards for enrollment. Similarly, the remaining language of section 58108 prohibits community college districts from engaging in specified activities. As a result, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 58108 does not impose any state-mandated activities.

(i) Summary of state-mandated activity:

Pursuant to the above discussion, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 58102 and 58104, impose the following state-mandated activity:

1. Publish a description of each course that is clear and understandable to the prospective student in the official catalog, schedule of classes, and addenda. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 58102 and 58104.)
2. Handle challenges to enrollment limitations made by students pursuant to title 5, section 58106, subdivision (c), in a timely manner. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106.)
3. Waive the enrollment limitation with respect to a student that challenged an enrollment limitation, if the challenge is upheld. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106.)
4. Advise a student that he or she may file a formal complaint of unlawful discrimination pursuant to title 5, section 59300 et seq., upon completion of handling a challenge to an enrollment limitation made by a student alleging that an enrollment limitation is either unlawfully discriminatory or is being applied in an unlawfully discriminatory manner

(pursuant to Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106, subd. (c)(1) (Register 93, No. 42)). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106.)

b. California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 58102 and 58104, constitute a new program or higher level of service

To constitute a "new program or higher level of service" the activities must carry out the governmental function of providing a service to the public, or impose unique requirements on local governments that do not apply to all residents and entities in the state in order to implement a state policy.[331] In addition, the requirements must be new in comparison with the pre-existing scheme and must be intended to provide an enhanced service to the public.[332] To make this determination, the requirements must initially be compared with the legal requirements in effect immediately prior to its enactment.[333]

The activities mandated by sections 58102, 58104, and 58106, carry out the governmental function of education by assisting students in enrollment and registration. As a result, the activities mandated by sections 58102 and 58104 constitute a "program" within the meaning of article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

The claimants have pled sections 58102 and 58104 of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations, as added in 1982 and last amended in 1993.[334] Sections 58102 and 58104 mandate community college districts to engage in the following activities:

> Publish a description of each course that is clear and understandable to the prospective student in the official catalog, schedule of classes, and addenda. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 58102 and 58104 (Register 93, No. 25).)

The activities mandated by title 5, sections 58102 and 58104, are derived from former title 5, sections 51822 and 51824, as added in 1976 by Register 76, number 51. However, former title 5, sections 51822 and 51824, are part of former "Division 2" of the title 5 regulations, the provisions of which:

Thus, the former title 5 regulations which contain the same requirements as the regulations pled in this section of the staff analysis did not impose state-mandated activities prior to 1983 for the same reasons that the regulations pled in the "Minimum Conditions" section of the staff analysis did not impose state-mandated activities. Specifically, the requirements of the former title 5 regulations are downstream activities triggered by the discretionary decision to become entitled to receive state aid. As a result, immediately prior to the adoption of title 5, sections 51822 and 51824, community college districts were not required to engage in the activities mandated by the sections, and therefore, title 5, sections 58102 and 58104, constitute a "new program or higher level of service" subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

The claimants have pled section 58106 as added in 1993.[336] Immediately prior to the adoption of section 58106, community colleges were not required to engage in the activities mandated by section 58106. As a result, the activities mandated by title 5, section 58106, constitutes a "new program or higher level of service" subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

(i) Summary of state-mandated new program or higher level of service

1. Publish a description of each course that is clear and understandable to the prospective student in the official catalog, schedule of classes, and addenda. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 58102 and 58104 (Register 93, No. 25).)
2. Handle challenges to enrollment limitations made by students pursuant to title 5, section 58106, subdivision (c), in a timely manner. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106 (Register 93, No. 42).)
3. Waive the enrollment limitation with respect to a student that challenged an enrollment limitation, if the challenge is upheld. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106 (Register 93, No. 42).)
4. Advise a student that he or she may file a formal complaint of unlawful discrimination pursuant to title 5, section 59300 et seq., upon completion of handling a challenge to an enrollment limitation made by a student alleging that an enrollment limitation is either unlawfully discriminatory or is being applied in an unlawfully discriminatory manner (pursuant to Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106, subd. (c)(1) (Register 93, No. 42)). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106 (Register 93, No. 42).)

(14) Student Fees (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(9))

This section addresses Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(9), which addresses the establishment of student fees.

a. Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(9), does not impose any state-mandated activities

Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(9), provides that community college districts are to:

> Establish student fees as it is required to establish by law, and, in its discretion, fees as it is authorized to establish by law.

The language of Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(9), on its own does not require community college districts to engage in any activities. Instead, it provides that districts are required to establish fees as required by law. However, the claimants have not pled any statutes or regulations that require the establishment of any student fees. As a result, staff finds that Education Code section 70902, subdivision (b)(9), does not impose any state-mandated activities.

(15) Notice to Students (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 54626, 54805, 59404, and 59410)

This section addresses California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 54626, 54805, 59404, and 59410. These regulations address the adoption of policies or the provision of information or notices to students regarding various issues related to the operation and governing of community colleges and community college districts, including: (1) student directory information (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 54626); (2) student representation fees (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 54805); (3) the provision of instructional or other materials (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 59404); and (4) the possible consequences of failing to pay a proper financial obligation due to the district or college (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 59410).

a. Student Directory Information (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 54626 (Register 83, No. 18))

Title 5, section 54626, addresses the ability of community college districts to release student directory information and the steps that a community college district must take in order to so.

(i) California Code of Regulations, Title 5, Section 54626, imposes a requirement on community college districts

Section 54626 addresses the release of student directory information. Section 54626, subdivision (a), requires a community college district engage in the one-time activity of adopting a policy identifying, from a specified list provided in subdivision (a) of section 54626, categories of student directory information that the district's local governing board decides may be released.

Subdivision (b) provides in part:

> Directory information, as established by the local governing board, may be released as to any student or former student currently attending the community college, provided that public notice is given at least annually of the categories of information which the district plans to release and of the recipients. (Emphasis added.)

Subdivision (b) further provides that the notice must specify the period of time within which a student must inform the district in writing that such personally identifiable information is not to be designated as directory information with respect to that student. The plain language of subdivision (b) does not require community college districts to engage in any activity. Instead, the language of subdivision (b) authorizes community college districts to release directory information on the condition that it provides public notice. The language does not, however, require districts to use this authority, and thus, staff finds that subdivision (b) does not impose any requirements on community college districts.

Similarly, the plain language of subdivision (c) does not require community college districts to engage in any activities. Subdivision (c) provides that "[o]ther information may be added to the categories set forth in [Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 54626, subd. (a),] provided that release of such information shall be authorized in writing by the student." Thus, as indicated by the word "may" districts are authorized to add other information if the district receives authorization from the student. Districts, however, are not required to utilize this authority.

Subdivision (d) provides that the district has the discretion to limit or deny the release of specific information to specific organizations based on the best interest of students. In addition, the names and addresses of students may be provided to certain private schools or colleges. Thus, the plain language of subdivision (d) does not require community college districts to engage in any activities.

In summary, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 54626, requires community college districts to do the following:

> Adopt a policy identifying, from a specified list provided in California Code of Regulations, title 5, subdivision (a) (Register 83,subdivision (a), categories of student directory information that the district's local governing board decides may be released. (Cal. Code Regs., title 5, § 54626, subd. (a) (One-time activity.)
> (ii) The requirement of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 54626, subdivision (a), does not constitute a federal mandate

The Chancellor's Office asserts that the activities contained in section 54626 are federally mandated activities, and thus, not reimbursable pursuant to Government Code section 17556, subdivision (c). The Chancellor's Office argues that the claimant "undoubtedly receives federal funds and is therefore bound by [Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) and its implementing regulations."[337]

FERPA (20 U.S.C., § 1232g) and its implementing regulations (34 C.F.R. § 99.1 et seq.), as with many other federal laws, condition federal funding to educational agencies and institutions on compliance with the provisions of FERPA and its implementing regulations. Because the California Legislature adopted section 54626 with the intent that it conform to FERPA and its implementing regulations, the requirements of section 54626 generally contain the same requirements as FERPA and its implementing regulations.[338] The exception is that FERPA and its implementing regulations do not require educational agencies to specifically adopt a policy identifying what directory information it decides to release.

Government Code section 17556, subdivision (c), provides that the Commission shall not find costs mandated by the state if the test claim statute imposes a requirement that is mandated by a federal law or regulation and results in costs mandated by the federal government, unless the statute or executive order mandates costs that exceed the mandate in that federal law or regulation. In addition, in Hayes v. Commission on State Mandates, the court, while discussing the Education of the Handicapped Act, found:

> While the act includes certain substantive and procedural requirements which must be included in the state's plan for implementation of the act, it leaves primary responsibility for implementation to the state … In short, even though the state had no real choice in deciding whether to comply with the federal act, the act did not necessarily require the state to impose all of the costs of implementation upon local school districts. To the extent the state implemented the act by freely choosing to impose new programs or higher levels of service upon local school districts, the costs of such programs or higher levels of services are state mandated and subject to subvention."[339] (Citations omitted.)

Here, the state has chosen to require community college districts to specifically adopt a policy identifying what information it decides to release. Thus, the requirements of section 54626 exceed those of FERPA and its implementing regulations. As a result, the requirement of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 54626 is not federally mandated pursuant to Government Code section 17556, subdivision (c).

(iii) The requirement of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 54626, subdivision (a), constitutes a state mandate

Pursuant to the language of section 54626, community college districts are required to adopt a policy identifying student directory information that the district decides to release, if any. As a result, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 54626 imposes the following state-mandated activity on community college districts:

> Adopt a policy identifying, from a specified list provided in California Code of Regulations, title 5, subdivision (a) (Register 83,subdivision (a), categories of student directory information that the district's local governing board decides may be released (Cal. Code Regs., title 5, § 54626, subd. (a) (One-time activity).)

(iv) The mandate of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 54626, subdivision (a), does not constitute new program or higher level of service

The claimant has pled section 54626, as added in 1976 and last amended in 1983.[340] Section 54626 was filed on March 5, 1976 and effective on the 30th day thereafter (April 4, 1976).[341] Section 54626 was adopted to implement Education Code section 76240, which was originally enacted as former Education Code section 25430.12 in 1975.[342] Former Education Code section 25430.12, which was not pled by the claimants, required a community college district to adopt a policy identifying, from a specified list identical to section 54626, subdivision (a),[343] categories of student directory information that the district's local governing board decides may be released. The effective date of former Education Code section 25430.12 was January 1, 1976.[344] As a result, as compared to the statutes and regulations pled, pre-existing law already required community college districts to adopt a policy identifying categories of student directory information that the district's local governing board decides may be released. Therefore, the requirement of California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 54626 does not constitute a "new program or higher level of service" subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.[345]

In addition, any costs associated with the alleged state-mandated program incurred before July 1, 2001 are not reimbursable, as the reimbursement period begins with the 2001-2002 fiscal year. As a result, costs associated with one-time activities occurring before July 1, 2001, are not reimbursable. As noted above, the activity mandated by California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 54626, subdivision (a), is a one-time activity. As such, any policy adopted by a community college district, pursuant to California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 54626, subdivision (a), prior to July 1, 2001 would not be reimbursable.

b. Student Representation Fee (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 54805)

(i) California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 54805, does not impose state-mandated activities

Section 54805 addresses the "student representation fee" that is used to provide support for student organizations. Section 54805 provides:

> District governing boards shall include in the materials given to each student at registration, information pertaining to the representation fee. The form used by a college for the purpose of collecting the fee shall contain, at minimum, the following:
>
> (a) a statement indicating that the money collected pursuant to this article shall be expended to provide support for students or representatives who may be stating their positions and viewpoints before city, county, and district government, and before offices and agencies of the state and federal government;
>
> (b) the amount of the fee;
> (c) a statement informing the students of their right to refuse to pay the fee for religious, political, moral, or financial reasons.

The claimants assert that section 54805 requires community college districts to include in the materials given to each student at registration, information pertaining to the student representation fee which shall include the information set forth in subdivisions (a)-(c) of section 54805.[346] The claimants argue that a student representation fee is created by an independent action of a third party (the student body), which triggers the requirement of districts to give students information regarding the fee.[347]

The language of section 54805, however, must be read in context with the whole statutory and regulatory scheme surrounding section 54805.[348] In addition, pursuant to Kern High School Dist. a requirement resulting from an underlying discretionary decision does not constitute a state-mandated activity.[349] Section 54805 was adopted as part of "Article 1. Student Representation Fee" of title 5 of the California Code of Regulations, which consists of regulation sections 54801, 54803, and 54805. Section 54801 et seq., was adopted to implement Education Code sections 76060 and 76060.5. Education Code section 76060 provides, "the governing board of a community college district may authorize the students of a college to organize a student body association."[350] Education Code section 76060.5 provides, "If a student body association has been established at a community college as authorized by Section 76060, the governing body of the association may order that an election be held for the purpose of establishing a student representation fee of one dollar ($1) per semester."[351] California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 54801 and 54803 set forth the election procedures with which student body associations may establish and terminate a student representation fee. Thus, a student body association may establish a student representation fee only if a community college district decides to authorize students of a college to organize a student body association.

It is in the context of the community college district's discretion to authorize the formation of a student body association and subsequently the possible imposition of a student representation fee that California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 54801 and 54803, set forth procedures to hold an election to vote on the establishment and termination of a representation fee. It is also in this context that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 54805, provides that district governing boards are to include in the materials given to each student at registration, "information pertaining to the representation fee." In addition, it is in this context that the form used by a college for the purpose of collecting the fee is required to include specific information.[352] Without a community college district's authorization to organize a student body association, the subsequent activities of calling an election for the creation or termination of a student representation fee, the provision of information regarding the representation fee, and collection of the representation fee are not required. Thus, the activities required by section 54805 is triggered by a community college district's underlying decision to authorize the organization of a student body association, and therefore under Kern High School Dist., is not mandated by the state.

As a result, staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 54805, does not impose any state-mandated new program or higher level of service subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

c. District Policies and Regulations for Instructional and Other Materials (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 59404)

(i) California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 59404, does not impose state-mandated activities

Section 59404 addresses a district's policies or regulations regarding instructional and other materials that the district requires a student to provide. Subdivision (a) provides that when a student is required by the district to provide instructional and other materials, the district must adopt policies or regulations which specify the conditions under which such materials will be required. Subdivision (b) requires the policies or regulations to be adopted no later than January 1, 1986, forwarded to the Chancellor's Office upon adoption, and published in each college catalog developed after the date of adoption.

The plain language of section 59404 indicates that the requirements of section 59404 are only applicable to a "community college district which requires that students provide instructional or other materials… ." Education Code section 76365, which is implemented by section 59404, provides that "[t]hese regulations shall specify the conditions under which districts may require students to provide those materials…"[353] Thus, the requirements of section 59404 are downstream activities resulting from a community college district's decision to require students provide instructional and other materials.

Staff finds that California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 59404 does not impose any state-mandated new program or higher level of service subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

[353] Education Code section 76365. (Emphasis added.)

d. Withholding Grades, Transcripts, Diplomas, and Registration Privileges (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 59410)

(i) California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 59410, does not impose state-mandated activities

Section 59410 provides that a community college district may withhold the grades, transcripts, diplomas, and registration privileges of a student who has been provided with written notice of his or her failure to pay a financial obligation due to the district or college.

The plain language of section 59410 does not require community college districts to issue written notices to students regarding a failure to pay a financial obligation. Rather, the language of section 59410 authorizes, but does not require, community college districts to withhold grades, transcripts, diplomas, and registration privileges on the condition of providing a notice to students regarding their failure to pay a financial obligation. Thus, the provision of a notice is a downstream activity of a community college district's decision to seek to withhold the grades, transcripts, diplomas, and registration privileges from a student owing a financial obligation to the district or college.

As a result, staff finds that California Code Regulations, title 5, section 59410, does not impose any state-mandated new program or higher level of service subject to article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.

C. The state-mandated new program or higher level of service impose costs mandated by the state on community college districts within the meaning of article XIII B, section 6, and Government Code sections 17514 and 17556.

In order for the test claim statutes to impose a reimbursable state-mandated program under the California Constitution, the test claim statutes must impose costs mandated by the state.[354] Government Code section 17514 defines "cost mandated by the state" as follows:

> [A]ny increased costs which a local agency or school district is required to incur after July 1, 1980, as a result of any statute enacted on or after January 1, 1975, or any executive order implementing any statute enacted on or after January 1, 1975, which mandates a new program or higher level of service of an existing program within the meaning of Section 6 of Article XIII B of the California Constitution.

The claimants estimate that more than $1,000 in staffing and other costs in excess of any funding provided to districts was incurred between July 1, 2001 through June 30, 2002 to implement all the duties alleged by the claimants to be mandated by the state.[355] Thus, the claimants have met the minimum burden of showing costs necessary to file a test claim pursuant to Government Code section 17564.

However, the Chancellor's Office and Finance assert that the claimants are not entitled to reimbursement for the state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service found in this analysis. The Chancellor's Office and Finance argue that community college districts receive general apportionments found in Schedule (1) of line item 6870-101-0001 of the annual Budget Act and nothing prevents the districts from using these general purpose funds from satisfying the costs of the state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service found in this test claim analysis.[356] [357]

Each annual Budget Act provides for state aid to community college districts from the state General Fund in line item 6870-101-0001. This line item includes Schedule (1) "Apportionments" (general purpose funds) and categorical funding that must be spent for a variety of specific purposes and programs that are outside of the scope of the state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service found in this analysis. The general purpose funds are unrestricted and can be used for any purpose, unless otherwise provided by law.[358] One of the limitations for the state aid provided by line item 6870-101-0001, including general purpose funds, is provided in Education Code section 84362, which is better known as the "Fifty Percent Law." The Fifty Percent Law, which was not pled in this test claim, requires community college districts to spend at least 50 percent of their current expense of education on salaries and benefits of faculty and instructional aids engaged in direct classroom instruction.

As described above, community college districts are not required to use general purpose funds to fund the costs of the state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service found in this analysis, nor is there evidence that the general purpose funds were specifically intended to fund the costs. Moreover, the full amount of the general purpose funds is not available to fund the costs imposed by the state-mandated new programs or higher levels of service found in this test claim, because the general purpose funds are restricted by state law not pled in this test claim. As a result, staff finds that the new programs or higher levels of service imposed by the test claim statutes and regulations addressing "faculty participation in district and college governance," "transfer centers," "vocational education," "standards of scholarship," "curriculum," "degrees and certificates," and "open courses,"[359] impose costs mandated by the state the meaning of article XIII B, section 6, and Government Code sections 17514 and 17556.

In the Budget Act of 2003 (Stats. 2003, ch. 157 (AB 1765)) this amount was decreased to about $1.4 billion. In the Budget Act of 2004 (Stats. 2004, ch. 208 (SB 1113)) the amount was increased to about $1.9 billion. In the Budget Act of 2005 (Stats. 2005, ch. 38 (SB 77)) the amount was increased again to about $2.4 billion.

Portions of the following test claim statutes regarding "transfer centers" constitute a state-mandated new program or higher level of service: Education Code sections 66721.5, 66731, 66732, 66736, 66738, 66740, and 66742. Portions of the following test claim regulations regarding "standards of scholarship" constitute a state-mandated new program or higher level of service: California

III. Conclusion

For the reasons discussed above, staff finds that the following activities constitute a reimbursable state-mandated new program or higher level of service within the meaning of article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution and Government Code section 17514. Staff notes that some of the activities found to be reimbursable are broad and could be interpreted as including a wide range of activities in order to be implemented. However, these broad activities do not include activities that have been specifically denied in this analysis. Where necessary, the scope of the approved activities will be limited in the parameters and guidelines.

In instances where the governing board elects to rely primarily upon the advice and judgment of the academic senate, the recommendations of the senate will normally be accepted, and only in exceptional circumstances and for compelling reasons will the recommendation not be accepted. If a recommendation is not accepted, the governing board or its designee, upon request of the academic senate, shall promptly communicate its reasons in writing to the academic senate. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53203, subd. (d)(1) (Register 94, No. 38).)

b. In instances where the governing board elects to provide for mutual agreement with the academic senate, and agreement has not been reached, existing policy shall remain in effect unless continuing with such policy exposes the district to legal liability or causes substantial fiscal hardship. In cases where there is no existing policy, or in cases where the exposure to legal liability or substantial fiscal hardship requires existing policy to be changed, the governing board may act, after a good faith effort to reach agreement, only for compelling legal, fiscal, or organizational reasons. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53203, subd. (d)(2) (Register 94, No. 38).)

6. Grant faculty members elected to serve as president and vice president of the Academic Senate of the California Community Colleges release or reassigned time from their terms of office. This activity is subject to offsetting revenue from reimbursement of release or reassigned time and administrative costs for hiring faculty to replace the faculty serving as president or vice president pursuant to title 5 section 53207, subdivision (b) (Register 2003, No. 18). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53207, subd. (a) (Register 2003, No. 18).)

7. Identify release or reassigned time prior to September of each year for employees elected to serve as president and vice president of the Academic Senate of the California Community Colleges for reimbursement at the part-time replacement cost. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53207, subd. (c) (Register 2003, No. 18).)

8. If the release or reassigned time need identified by the district is 100 percent and the position is in a hard to replace discipline area, certify this to the Chancellor by August 1 for reimbursement at the full-time temporary replacement cost of the employee released. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 53207, subd. (c) (Register 2003, No. 18).)

2. Distribute a copy of the current transfer core curriculum to each community college student who is enrolled in a degree or certification program and is physically in attendance at the institution (Ed. Code § 66721.5, subd. (b) (Stats. 2000, ch. 187).)

3. Including the text of the current transfer core curriculum in the published class schedule for each academic term, or distribute the transfer core curriculum during the registration process, or by mail, or during the issuance of student identification cards, or during student orientation programs (Ed. Code § 66721.5, subd. (c) and (d) (Stats. 2000, ch. 187).)

4. Recognize student matriculation from community colleges through the University and California State University as a central institutional priority of all segments of higher education. (Ed. Code, § 66731 (Stats. 1991, ch. 1188).)

5. Declare as policy that the student transfer agreement program shall constitute a significant role in achieving the goal of student diversity within their segments, and in ensuring that all students, particularly those currently underrepresented in higher education, have access to a university education. (Ed. Code, § 66732 (Stats. 1991, ch. 1188).)
6. Design, adopt, and implement policies intended to facilitate successful movement of students from community colleges through the University of California and the California State University. (Ed. Code, § 66732(Stats. 1991, ch. 1188).)
7. Ensure that its college or colleges maintain student transfer counseling centers or other counseling and student services designed and implemented to affirmatively seek out, counsel, advise, and monitor the progress of potential and identified community college transfer students. All policies and procedures adopted for this purpose must give preference and emphasis toward enhancing the transfer of students from economically disadvantaged families and students from traditionally underrepresented minorities, to the fullest extent possible under state and federal statutes and regulations. (Ed. Code, § 66736 (Stats. 1991, ch. 1188).)
8. Be accountable for the development and implementation of formal system wide articulation agreements and transfer agreement programs, including those for general education or a transfer core curriculum, and other appropriate procedures to support and enhance the transfer function. (Ed. Code, § 66738, subds. (a) (Stats. 1991, ch. 1188).)
9. Expand existing practices related to concurrent enrollment, in which community college students are provided the opportunity to take courses at University of California and California State University campuses, as space is available, and to expand opportunities for potential transfer students to participate in activities that familiarize them with the university campus. (Ed. Code, § 66738, subd. (c) (Stats. 1991, ch. 1188).)
10. Act in conjunction with each department, school, major in the University of California and California State University to develop discipline-specific articulation agreements and transfer program agreements for those majors that have lower division prerequisites. In doing so, faculty from community colleges and university campuses are to participate in discipline-specific curriculum development to coordinate course content and expected levels of student competency. (Ed. Code, § 66740, first paragraph (Stats. 1991, ch. 1188).)
11. Develop discipline-based agreements in conjunction with the California State University and the University of California with as many campuses of the two university segments as feasible, but no fewer than three University of California campuses and five California State University campuses. No one segment should bear the organizational or financial responsibility for accomplishing these goals. (Ed. Code, § 66740, third paragraph (Stats. 1991, ch. 1188).)
12. Present annual statistical reports with the California Community Colleges, California State University, and the University of California on transfer patterns to the Governor and Legislature via the California Postsecondary Education Commission. Include in these reports statistics and information as described in Education Code section 66742. (Education Code section 66742 (Stats. 1991, ch. 1188).)

Vocational Education (Ed. Code, §§ 78015 and 78016)

1. Conduct a job market study of the labor market area, as defined by Education Code section 52301.5, in which it proposes to establish the program prior to establishing the program.[360]

   The labor market study must use the State-Local Cooperative Labor Market Information Program established by Unemployment Insurance Code section 10533, or if this program is not available for the labor market area, the study must use other sources of labor market information.

   The study must include a California Occupational Information System supply analysis of existing vocational and occupational education or training programs for adults maintained by high schools, community colleges, and private postsecondary schools in the area to ensure that the anticipated employment demand for students in the proposed programs justifies the establishment of the proposed courses of instruction. (Ed. Code, § 78015, subd. (a)(1) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

2. Make copies of each job market study available to the public. (Ed. Code, § 78015, subd. (a)(2) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

3. Determine whether or not the job market study justifies the proposed vocational education program. (Ed. Code, § 78015, subd. (b) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

4. Determine by resolution whether the program will be offered through the district's own facilities or through a contract with an approved private postsecondary school pursuant to Education Code section 8092, if the district determines that the job market study justifies the initiation of the proposed program. (Ed. Code, § 78015, subd. (c) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

5. Review every vocational or occupational training program offered by the district and commenced subsequent to July 28, 1983, every two years to ensure that each program: (1) meets a documented labor market demand; (2) does not represent unnecessary duplication of other manpower training programs in the area; and (3) is of demonstrated effectiveness as measured by the employment and completion success of its students.

   These three requirements are to be demonstrated by the California Occupational Information System, including State-Local Cooperative Labor Market Information Program established in Unemployment Insurance Code section 10533, or if this program is not available in the labor market area, other available sources of labor market information. (Ed. Code, § 78016, subd. (a) (Stats. 1998, ch. 365).)

7. Include the review and comments by the local Private Industry Council, established pursuant to Unemployment Insurance Code section 15000 et seq., in the review process of every vocational or occupational training program offered by the district and commenced subsequent to July 28, 1983, the review and comments by the Private

5. Proposed associate degree credit courses and nondegree credit courses must meet the following requirements found in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, subdivisions (a)(2) and (b)(2), in order to receive a recommendation by the college or district curriculum committee:
    a. Grading policy: The course provides for measurement of student performance in terms of the stated course objectives and culminates in a formal, permanently recorded grade based upon uniform standards in accordance with California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55758 (Register 2000, No. 50), which details the academic record symbols and associated grade points to be used by community colleges.

The grade is based on demonstrated proficiency in subject matter and the ability to demonstrate that proficiency, at least in part, by means of essays for associate degree credit courses or written expression for nondegree credit courses, or in courses where the curriculum committee deems them to be appropriate, by problem-solving exercises or skills demonstrations by students. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(2)(A) and (b)(2)(A) (Register 93, No. 42).)

b. Units: The course grants units of credit based upon a relationship specified by the governing board between the number of units assigned to the course and the number of lecture and/or laboratory hours or performance criteria specified in the course outline.

The course also requires a minimum of three hours of work per week, including class time (and/or demonstrated competency for nondegree credit courses) for each unit of credit, prorated for short-term, laboratory and activity courses. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(2)(B) and (b)(2)(B) (Register 93, No. 42).)

c. Intensity: For associate degree credit course, the course must treat subject matter with a scope and intensity that requires students to study independently outside of class time. For nondegree credit courses, the course must provide instruction in critical thinking and generally treats subject matter with a scope and intensity that prepares students to study independently outside of class time and includes reading and writing assignments and homework. In particular, the assignments will be sufficiently rigorous that students completing each such course successfully will have acquired the skills necessary to successfully complete college-level work upon completion of the required sequence of such courses. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(2)(C) and (b)(2)(C) (Register 93, No. 42).)

6. Proposed associate degree credit courses must also meet the following requirements found in California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, subdivisions (a)(2), in order to receive a recommendation by the college or district curriculum committee:

   a. Prerequisites and Corequisites: Require prerequisites or corequisites when: (a) the college and/or district curriculum committee determines, based on a review of the course outline of record, that a student would be highly unlikely to receive a satisfactory grade unless the student has knowledge or skills not taught in the course; or (b) success in the course is dependent upon communication or computation skills, then the course shall require as prerequisites or corequisites eligibility for enrollment in associate degree credit courses in English and/or mathematics. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(2)(D) and (E) (Register 93, No. 42).)

   b. Difficulty: The course work calls for critical thinking and the understanding and application of concepts determined by the curriculum committee to be at college level. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(2)(F) (Register 93, No. 42).)

   c. Level: The course work calls for critical thinking and the understanding and application of concepts determined by the curriculum committee to be at college level. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (a)(2)(G) (Register 93, No. 42).)

7. Maintain a course outline of record for associate degree credit courses, nondegree credit courses, and noncredit courses in the official college files that describe the course and make the outline available to each instructor.

   For associate degree credit courses and nondegree credit courses, the course outline shall specify the unit value, scope, objectives, and content of the course in terms of a specific body of knowledge. Also, the course outline shall specify types or provide examples of required reading and writing assignments, other outside-of-class assignments, instructional methodology, and methods of evaluation for determining whether the stated objectives have been met by students.

   For noncredit course, the course outline shall specify the scope, objectives, contents, instructional methodology, and methods of evaluation for determining whether the stated objectives have been met. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subds. (a)(3), (b)(3), and (c)(2) (Register 93, No. 42); and Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55150, subd. (b) (Register 91, No. 23).)

8. Proposed noncredit courses must treat subject matter and use resource materials, teaching methods, and standards of attendance and achievement that is deemed appropriate for the enrolled students by the college or district curriculum committee in order to receive a recommendation by the college or district curriculum committee. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55002, subd. (c)(1) (Register 93, No. 42).)

9. Make available to students through college publications all of the following facts regarding each course offered before they enroll in the course: (1) whether the course is offered as a credit or noncredit course; (2) whether the course is transferable to four-year colleges and universities; and (3) whether the course fulfills a major or general education requirement. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55005 (Register 91, No. 23).)

10. Each community college must keep and submit such current records and reports concerning their total activities as may be required by the Chancellor to fulfill statutory responsibilities. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 55006 and 55150, subd. (c) (Register 91, No. 23).)

11. Establish policies for and approve educational programs (Ed. Code, § 70902, subd. (b)(2)(A) (Stats. 1988, ch. 973).)

12. Adopt policies for the following in accordance with the Board of Governors regulations addressing faculty participation in district and college governance (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, §§ 53200-53204) when establishing prerequisites or corequisites for an associate degree credit course as required by California Code of Regulations, title 5, section 55002, subdivisions (a)(2)(D) and (E) (e.g. a student is unlikely to receive a satisfactory grade in a course without the prerequisite or corequisite, or success in a course is dependent on communication or computation skills):

    a. The process for establishing prerequisites and corequisites. The policy for the process for establishing prerequisites or corequisites shall be based on content review with additional methods of scrutiny being applied depending on the type of prerequisite or corequisite established. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (b)(1) (Register 98, No. 7); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (b)(1) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

    b. The procedures to assure that courses for which prerequisites or corequisites are established will be taught in accordance with the course outline that are the basis for the requirement to establish the prerequisite or corequisite. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (b)(2) (Register 98, No. 7); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (b)(2) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

c. The process, including levels of scrutiny, for reviewing prerequisites and corequisites to assure that they remain necessary and appropriate. The process shall provide that at least once each six years all prerequisites and corequisites established by the district shall be reviewed. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (b)(3) (Register 98, No. 7); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (b)(3) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

d. The bases and process for an individual student to challenge the application of a prerequisite or corequisite. The bases to challenge a prerequisite or corequisite are:

i. The prerequisite or corequisite was not established in accordance with the district's process for establishing prerequisites and corequisites;

ii. The prerequisite or corequisite violates California Code of Regulations, title 5, sections 55200-55202, which address the authority, requirements, and limitations on authority, when establishing prerequisites and corequisites;

iii. The prerequisite or corequisite are either unlawfully discriminatory or are being applied in an unlawfully discriminatory manner;

iv. The student has the knowledge or ability to succeed in the course or program despite not meeting the prerequisite or corequisite; and

v. The student will be subject to undue delay in attaining the goal of his or her educational plan because the prerequisite or corequisite course has not been made reasonably available. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subds. (b)(2) and (f)(1)-(5) (Register 98, No. 7); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (b)(2) and (m)(1)-(5) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

13. Gather data according to sound research practices and show that a student is highly unlikely to succeed in the course unless the student has met the proposed prerequisite or corequisite, in addition to conducting a content review, if the community college district seeks to establish a course in communication or computation skills as a prerequisite or corequisite for any non-communication or non-computation skills course.

This data gathering requirement does not apply when:

a. Four-year institutions will not grant credit for a course unless it has the particular communication or computation skill prerequisite; or

b. The prerequisite or corequisite is required for enrollment in a program that is subject to approval by a state agency other than the Chancellor's Office and both of the following conditions are satisfied:

i. Colleges in at least six different districts have previously satisfied the data collection requirement with respect to the same prerequisite or corequisite for the same program; and

ii. The district establishing the prerequisite or corequisite conducts an evaluation to determine whether the prerequisite or corequisite has a disproportionate impact on particular groups of students described in terms of race, ethnicity, gender, age or disability, as defined by the

Chancellor, and if there is a disproportionate impact the district in consultation with the Chancellor develops and implements a plan setting forth the steps the district will take to correct the disproportionate impact. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (e) (Register 98, No. 7) ; for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (e) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

14. If a prerequisite or corequisite is challenged on the basis that it is either unlawfully discriminatory or applied in an unlawfully discriminatory manner (pursuant to Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (f)(3)), advise the student that he or she may file a formal complaint of unlawful discrimination pursuant to the title 5 regulations addressing discrimination complaint procedures (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 59300 et seq.). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55201, subd. (g) (Register 98, No. 7); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (n) (Register 2007, No. 35).)
15. Identify prerequisites and corequisites in college publications available to students as well as in the course outline of any course for which they are established. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (a) (Register 93, No. 42); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (f) (Register 2007, No. 35).)
16. Determine whether a student meets a prerequisite based on successful completion of an appropriate course. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (c) (Register 93, No. 42) ; for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (h) (Register 2007, No. 35).)
17. Ensure precollegiate basic skills courses designed to teach the required skills in reading, written expression, or mathematics, are offered with reasonable frequency and that the number of sections available is reasonable given the number of students who are required to meet the associated skills prerequisites and who diligently seek enrollment in the prerequisite course, if a prerequisite requires precollegiate skills in reading, written expression, or mathematics. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (d) (Register 93, No. 42); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (i) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

(e) (Register 93, No. 42); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (j) (Register 2007, No. 35).)
19. Waive a corequisite for any student whom space in the corequisite course is not available. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (e) (Register 93, No. 42); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (j) (Register 2007, No. 35).)
20. Make a determination of whether a student meets a prerequisite prior to the student's enrollment in the course requiring the prerequisite. (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55202, subd. (g) (Register 93, No. 42); for current requirement see Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 55003, subd. (l) (Register 2007, No. 35).)

This course work includes 18 semester or 27 quarter units in general education and at least 18 semester or 27 quarter units in a major, at least 12 semester or 18 quarter units completed in residence at the college granting the degree.

Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106, subd. (c)(1) (Register 93, No. 42)). (Cal. Code Regs., tit. 5, § 58106 (Register 93, No. 42).)

In addition, staff finds that all other test claim statutes, regulations, and alleged executive orders do not constitute a reimbursable state-mandated program because they either do not require any activities on community college districts, are voluntary or are downstream of a voluntary activity, or are not new as compared to the legal requirements in effect immediately prior to their enactment.

IV. Recommendation

POSTSECONDARY EDUCATION—COMMUNITY COLLEGE STUDENTS —ACCESS TO TRANSFER INFORMATION

CHAPTER 187

A.B. No. 1918

AN ACT to add Section 66721.5 to the Education Code, relating to public postsecondary education.

[Filed with Secretary of State July 24, 2000.]

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S DIGEST

AB 1918, Romero. Public postsecondary education: Access to Transfer Information for Community College Students Act.

(1) Existing law establishes the various segments of the higher education system in the state. These segments include the University of California, which is administered by the Regents of the University of California, the California State University, which is administered by the Trustees of the California State University, the California Community Colleges, which are administered by the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, and various private institutions of higher learning.

This bill would enact the Access to Transfer Information for Community College Students Act. The bill would impose a state-mandated local program by requiring the governing board of each community college district to direct the appropriate officials at their respective campuses to provide students with copies of the transfer core curriculum, as defined to mean the lower-division, general education transfer curriculum that is fully articulated between the California Community Colleges and the California State University and the University of California. The bill would require that a copy of the current transfer core curriculum be distributed to each newly admitted community college student, as prescribed, and that the text of the current transfer core curriculum be included in the published class schedule. The bill would authorize copies of the curriculum to be available at prescribed locations on community college campuses.

(2) The California Constitution requires the state to reimburse local agencies and school districts for certain costs mandated by the state. Statutory provisions establish procedures for making that reimbursement, including the creation of a State Mandates Claims Fund to pay the costs of mandates that do not exceed $1,000,000 statewide and other procedures for claims whose statewide costs exceed $1,000,000.

This bill would provide that, if the Commission on State Mandates determines that the bill contains costs mandated by the state, reimbursement for those costs shall be made pursuant to these statutory provisions.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. This act shall be known, and may be cited as, the "Access to Transfer Information for Community College Students Act."

SEC. 2. The Legislature finds and declares all of the following:

(a) Student matriculation, from community colleges through the University of California and the California State University, is recognized by the Governor, Legislature, and the governing boards of each of the segments of California's system of public postsecondary education as a central institutional priority of all segments of higher education.

(b) The Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, with the cooperation of the Regents of the University of California and Trustees of the California State University, should ensure that all students are clearly and fully informed as to which community college courses and units are transferable.

(c) Knowledge of transfer agreements will improve a community college student's opportunity to transfer.

(d) The Master Plan for Higher Education establishes transfers as a priority. The California Community Colleges and the University of California established the goal of a 33 percent increase in transfers between the 1995–96 and the 2004–05 academic years.

(e) According to recent reports by the California Postsecondary Education Commission, the transfer rate to the University of California system has decreased every year since 1995. Given the decreased transfer rates, there is no possibility of achieving the goal of 33 percent.

SEC. 3. Section 66721.5 is added to the Education Code, to read:

66721.5. (a)(1) The governing board of each community college district shall direct the appropriate officials at their respective campuses to provide each of their students with a copy of the current transfer core curriculum.

(2) As used in this section, "transfer core curriculum" means the lower-division, general education transfer curriculum that, pursuant to Section 66720, is fully articulated between the California Community Colleges and the California State University and University of California.

(b) A copy of the current transfer core curriculum shall be distributed to each newly admitted community college student who is enrolled in a degree or certification program and is physically in attendance at the institution.

(c) The governing board of a community college district shall ensure that the text of the current transfer core curriculum is included in the published class schedule for each academic term. Copies of the transfer core curriculum may also be made available in other locations on each campus, including, but not necessarily limited to, all of the following:

(1) The admissions office.

(2) The bookstore.

(3) The career counseling center.

(4) The veteran's affairs office.

(d) Notwithstanding subdivision (c), the governing board of a community college may, as an alternative to the methods of distribution set forth in subdivision (c), distribute copies of the current transfer core curriculum by any of the following means:

(1) During the registration process.

(2) By mail, with the registration materials or the enrollment materials, or both, or with other items sent to students.

(3) During the issuance of student identification cards.

(4) During student orientation programs.

(e) Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the distribution of the transfer core curriculum to community college students.

SEC. 4. Notwithstanding Section 17610 of the Government Code, if the Commission on State Mandates determines that this act contains costs mandated by the state, reimbursement to local agencies and school districts for those costs shall be made pursuant to Part 7 (commencing with Section 17500) of Division 4 of Title 2 of the Government Code. If the statewide cost of the claim for reimbursement does not exceed one million dollars ($1,000,000), reimbursement shall be made from the State Mandates Claims Fund.

Article 5. Compliance and Enforcement

66290. Prior to receipt of any state financial assistance or state student financial aid, a postsecondary educational institution shall provide assurance to the agency administering the funds, in the manner required by the funding agency, that each program or activity conducted by the postsecondary educational institution will be conducted in compliance with this chapter and all other applicable provisions of state law prohibiting discrimination on the basis of sex. A single assurance, not more than one page in length and signed by an appropriate responsible official of the postsecondary educational institution, may be provided for all the programs and activities conducted by a postsecondary educational institution.

66291. (a) A community college district shall submit timely, complete, and accurate compliance reports to the chancellor's office, as that entity may require.

(b) All reports submitted pursuant to this section shall be made available by the educational institution for public inspection during regular business hours.

66292.3. (a) A party to a written complaint of prohibited discrimination may appeal the action taken by the governing board of a community college district or the president of a campus of the California State University, pursuant to this article, to the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges or the Chancellor of the California State University, as applicable.

(b) Persons who have filed a complaint, pursuant to this chapter, with an educational institution shall be advised by the educational institution that civil law remedies, including, but not limited to, injunctions, restraining orders, or other remedies or orders, may also be available to complainants. The educational institution shall make this information available by publication in appropriate informational materials.

(c) Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to require an exhaustion of the appeal to the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges or to the Chancellor of the California State University pursuant to subdivision (a), before civil law remedies may be purchased.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a person who alleges that he or she is a victim of discrimination may not seek civil remedies pursuant to this section until at least 90 days have elapsed from the filing of a discrimination complaint with the local educational agency. The 90-day moratorium imposed by this subdivision does not apply to injunctive relief and is applicable only if the local educational agency has appropriately, and in a timely manner, apprised the complainant of his or her right to file a complaint.

66292.4. This chapter may be enforced through a civil action.

SEC. 50. Section 72012 of the Education Code is amended to read:

72012. Every community college shall comply with * * * Sections 221.5, 221.7, and 66016, relating to sex discrimination.

SEC. 51. Section 72015 of the Education Code is amended and renumbered to read:

66271.7. (a) It is the policy of the state that community college classes and courses, including nonacademic and elective classes and courses, shall be conducted without regard to the sex of the student enrolled in these classes and courses.

(b) No community college district shall prohibit any student from enrolling in any class or course on the basis of the sex of the student.

(c) No community college district shall require students of one sex to enroll in a particular class or course, unless the same class or course is also required of students of the opposite sex.

(d) No school counselor, teacher, instructor, administrator, or aide shall, on the basis of the sex of a student, offer vocational or school program guidance to students of one sex which is different from that offered to students of the opposite sex or, in counseling students, differentiate career, vocational or higher education opportunities on the basis of the sex of the student counseled. Any school personnel acting in a career counseling or course selection capacity to any pupil shall affirmatively explore with the pupil the possibility of careers, or courses leading to careers, that are nontraditional for that pupil's sex.

(e) Participation in a particular physical education activity or sport, if required of students of one sex, shall be available to students of each sex.

(f) The Legislature finds and declares that female students are not accorded opportunities for participation in community college athletic programs equal to those accorded male students. It is the intent of the Legislature that opportunities for participation in community college athletics be provided equally to male and female students and on an equitable basis to all students.

(g) Insofar as practicable, in apportioning public funds, community college district governing boards shall apportion amounts available for athletics to ensure that equitable amounts will be allocated for all students, except that allowances may be made for differences in the costs of various athletic programs. Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, no public funds shall be used in connection with any athletic program conducted under the auspices of the governing board of a community college district, or any student organization within the district, which does not provide equal opportunity to both sexes for participation and for use of facilities. Facilities and opportunities for participation shall include, but are not limited to, equipment and supplies, scheduling of games and practice time, compensation for coaches, travel arrangements, per diem, locker rooms, and medical services.

(h) It is the further intent of the Legislature that females be given the same opportunity to participate in athletics and compete with other females in individual and team sports as is available to males who compete with other males in individual and team sports. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require a community college to require competition between male and female students in school-sponsored athletic programs.

Article 2. Approval of Courses, Programs and Classes

§ 55100. Course Approval.

Except as provided in subsection (b) and section 55160, each course to be offered by a community college shall be approved by the Chancellor before the course is offered by the college. The course shall be submitted to the Chancellor on forms provided by the Chancellor's Office.

(b) If an educational program has been approved by the Chancellor, the governing board of a district shall establish policies for, and may approve individual courses which are offered as part of an approved program. Such courses need not be approved by the Chancellor, but shall be reported in the manner provided in subsection (c).

(c) For each course approved by a district, whether or not approval by the Chancellor is required, the district shall designate the appropriate classification of the course or activity in accordance with section 55001.

NOTE: Authority cited: Sections 66700 and 70901, Education Code. Reference: Sections 70901 and 78401, Education Code.

(1) it was established prior to July 6, 1990, and is part of a sequence of degree–applicable courses within a given discipline; or

(2) it was established between July 6, 1990, and the effective date of this regulation, in accordance with regulations in effect during this period of time; or

(3) it is required by statute or regulation; or

(4) it is part of a closely–related lecture–laboratory course pairing within a discipline; or

(5) it is required by four–year institutions.

(e) A course in communication or computation skills may be established as a prerequisite or corequisite for any course other than another course in communication or computation skills only if, in addition to conducting a content review, the district gathers data according to sound research practices and shows that a student is highly unlikely to succeed in the course unless the student has met the proposed prerequisite or corequisite. If the curriculum committee initially determines, pursuant to Section 55002(a)(2)(E), that a new course needs to have a communication or computation skill prerequisite or corequisite, then, despite Subsection (d) of this Section, the prerequisite or corequisite may be established for a single period of not more than two years while the research is being conducted and the final determination is being made, provided that all other requirements for establishing the prerequisite or corequisite have been met. The requirements of this subdivision related to collection of data shall not apply when:

(1) four–year institutions will not grant credit for a course unless it has the particular communication or computation skill prerequisite; or

(2) the prerequisite or corequisite is required for enrollment in a program, that program is subject to approval by a state agency other than the Chancellor's Office and both of the following conditions are satisfied:

(A) colleges in at least six different districts have previously satisfied the data collection requirements of this subdivision with respect to the same prerequisite or corequisite for the same program; and

(B) the district establishing the prerequisite or corequisite conducts an evaluation to determine whether the prerequisite or corequisite has a disproportionate impact on particular groups of students described in terms of race, ethnicity, gender, age or disability, as defined by the Chancellor. When there is a disproportionate impact on any such group of students, the district shall, in consultation with the Chancellor, develop and implement a plan setting forth the steps the district will take to correct the disproportionate impact.

(f) Any prerequisite or corequisite may be challenged by a student on one or more of the grounds listed below. The student shall bear the initial burden of showing that grounds exist for the challenge. Challenges shall be resolved in a timely manner and, if the challenge is upheld, the student shall be permitted to enroll in the course or program in question. Grounds for challenge are:

(1) The prerequisite or corequisite has not been established in accordance with the district's process for establishing prerequisites and corequisites;

(2) The prerequisite or corequisite is in violation of this Article;

(3) The prerequisite or corequisite is either unlawfully discriminatory or is being applied in an unlawfully discriminatory manner;

(4) The student has the knowledge or ability to succeed in the course or program despite not meeting the prerequisite or corequisite;

(5) The student will be subject to undue delay in attaining the goal of his or her educational plan because the prerequisite or corequisite course has not been made reasonably available; and

(6) Such other grounds for challenge as may be established by the district governing board.

(g) In the case of a challenge under Subsection (f)(3) of this Section, the district shall, upon completion of the challenge procedure established pursuant to this Section, advise the student that he or she may file a formal complaint of unlawful discrimination pursuant to Subchapter 5 (commencing with Section 59300) of Chapter 10 of this Division. Completion of the challenge procedure shall be deemed to satisfy the requirement of Section 59328(b) that the district and the student attempt informal resolution of the complaint.

(h) District policies adopted pursuant to this section shall be submitted to the Chancellor as part of the district's matriculation plan pursuant to Section 55510 of Subchapter 6 of Chapter 6 of this Division.

§ 55202. Additional Rules.

The following additional rules apply to the establishment of prerequisites and corequisites:

(a) Prerequisites, corequisites, and advisories on recommended preparation must be identified in college publications available to students as well as the course outline of any course for which they are established.

(b) Prerequisites establishing communication or computational skill requirements may not be established across the entire curriculum unless established on a course–by–course basis.

(c) The determination of whether a student meets a prerequisite shall be based on successful completion of an appropriate course or on an assessment using multiple measures. Any assessment instrument used shall be selected and used in accordance with the provisions of Subchapter 6 (commencing with Section 55500) of Chapter 6 of this Division.

(d) If a prerequisite requires precollegiate skills in reading, written expression, or mathematics, the governing board of a district shall ensure that precollegiate basic skills courses designed to teach the required skills are offered with reasonable frequency and that the number of sections available is reasonable given the number of students who are required to meet the associated skills prerequisites and who diligently seek enrollment in the prerequisite course.

(e) Whenever a corequisite course is established, sufficient sections shall be offered to reasonably accommodate all students who are required to take the corequisite. A Corequisite shall be waived as to any student for whom space in the corequisite course is not available.

(f) No exit test may be required to satisfy a prerequisite or corequisite unless it is incorporated into the grading for the prerequisite or corequisite course.

(g) The determination of whether a student meets a prerequisite shall be made prior to his or her enrollment in the course requiring the prerequisite, provided, however, that enrollment may be permitted pending verification that the student has met the prerequisite or corequisite. If the verification shows that the student has failed to meet the prerequisite, the student may be involuntarily dropped from the course if the applicable enrollment fees are promptly refunded. Otherwise a student may only be involuntarily removed from a course due to excessive absences or as a result of disciplinary action taken pursuant to law or to the student code of conduct.

Article 4. Appeals, Waivers, Student Rights and Responsibilities

§ 55530. Student Rights and Responsibilities.

(a) Nothing in this Subchapter shall be construed to interfere with the right of a student admitted to a community college in accord with district admission policies adopted pursuant to Education Code Section 76000, et seq. to enroll in any course for which he or she can meet necessary and appropriate prerequisites, if any, which have been established pursuant to the requirements of Article 2.5 (commencing with Section 55200) of Subchapter 1 of Chapter 6 of this Division.

Once the student has developed a specific educational goal, the district must provide the student with an opportunity to develop a student educational plan pursuant to Section 55525. Student responsibilities shall also be identified in the student's educational plan developed pursuant to Section 55525. If a student fails to fulfill the responsibilities listed in this Subsection, fails to cooperate with the district in the development of a student educational plan within 90 days after declaring his or her specific educational goal, or fails to abide by the terms of his or her student educational plan, the district may, subject to the requirements of this Chapter, suspend or terminate the provision of services authorized in Section 55520, provided however, that nothing in this Section shall be construed to permit a district to suspend or terminate any service to which a student is otherwise entitled under any other provision of law.

The adjusted units of full–time equivalent student shall be computed by multiplying the actual units of full–time equivalent student in the academic year, exclusive of any intersessions, computed pursuant to Section 58003.1, by a factor which does not change the full–time equivalent student which would have otherwise been generated if the time for the improvement activities had not been permitted and scheduled instruction had instead taken place.

(b) For courses other than those described in Subsection (b) of Section 58003.1, the multiplier factor shall equal the sum of the following:

(1) 1.0; and

(2) the total of all the actual hours of flexible time of all instructors pursuant to Section 55720 in the fiscal year, divided by the total of all the actual hours of classroom instruction of all instructors in the academic year, exclusive of any intersessions.

(a) The governing board of each community college district shall adopt and publish procedures and regulations pertaining to credit by examination in accordance with the provisions of this Subchapter.

(b) The governing board may grant credit to any student who satisfactorily passes an examination approved or conducted by proper authorities of the college. Such credit may be granted only to a student who is registered at the college and in good standing and only for a course listed in the catalog of the community college.

(c) The nature and content of the examination shall be determined solely by faculty in the discipline that normally teaches the course for which credit is to be granted in accordance with policies and procedures approved by the curriculum committee established pursuant to Section 55002. The faculty shall determine that the examination adequately measures mastery of the course content as set forth in the outline of record. The faculty may accept an examination conducted at a location other than the community college for this purpose.

(d) A separate examination shall be conducted for each course for which credit is to be granted. Credit may be awarded for prior experience or prior learning only in terms of individually identified courses for which examinations are conducted pursuant to this section.

(e) The student's academic record shall be clearly annotated to reflect that credit was earned by examination.

(f) Grading shall be according to the regular grading scale approved by the governing board pursuant to Section 55758, except that students shall be offered a credit–no credit option if that option is ordinarily available for the course.

(a) For purposes of this section, the term "articulated high school course" means a high school course or courses that the faculty in the appropriate discipline, using policies and procedures approved by the curriculum committee established pursuant to Section 55002, have determined to be comparable to a specific community college course.

(b) The governing board of a community college district may adopt policies to permit articulated high school courses to be applied to community college requirements in accordance with this Section. Articulated high school courses may be accepted in lieu of comparable community college courses to partially satisfy:

(1) requirements for a certificate program, including the total number of units required for the certificate; or,

(2) the major requirements in a degree program.

(c) Articulated high school courses used to partially satisfy certificate or major requirements shall be clearly noted as such on the student's academic record. Notations of community college course credit shall be made only if community college courses are successfully completed or if credit is earned via credit by examination.

(d) Except through credit by examination, as defined in Section 55753, high school courses may not be used to satisfy:

(1) the requirement of Section 55806 that students complete at least 60 semester or 90 quarter units in order to receive an associate degree; or, § 55758. Academic Record Symbols and Grade Point Average.

(a) Grades from a grading scale shall be averaged on the basis of the point equivalencies to determine a student's grade point average using only the following evaluative symbols, except as provided in subsections (b) and (c):

Symbol	Definition	Grade Point
A	Excellent	4
B	Good	3
C	Satisfactory	2
D	Passing, less than satisfactory	1
F	Failing	0
CR	Credit (at least satisfactory—units awarded not counted in GPA)
NC	No Credit (less than satisfactory, or failing—units not counted in GPA)

(b) The governing board of a community college district may use "plus" and "minus" designations in combination with letter grades, except that the grade of C minus shall not be used. If pluses and minuses are used, the grade point value of a plus shall be computed by adding 0.3 to the value assigned to the letter grade with which it is combined, and the grade point value of a minus shall be computed by subtracting 0.3 from the value assigned to the letter grade with which it is combined, except that no grade point value shall be less than 0 or greater than 4.0.

(c) Regardless of whether the governing board elects to use plus and minus grading, it may provide for the use of the "FW" grade symbol to indicate that a student has both ceased participating in a course some time after the last day to officially withdraw from the course without having achieved a final passing grade, and that the student has not received district authorization to withdraw from the course under extenuating circumstances. The "FW" symbol may not be used if a student has qualified for and been granted military withdrawal. If "FW" is used, its grade point value shall be zero (0).

(d) The governing board for each community college district shall publish the point equivalencies for the grades used in subsection (a) or subsections (a) and (b) (if pluses and minuses are used) in the catalog or catalogs of that community college district as a part of its grading practices. In the event the governing board chooses to use the "FW" described in subsection (c), it shall be included in the grading scale and point equivalencies published in the catalog.

(e) The governing board of each community college district may authorize the use under specified controls and conditions of only the following nonevaluative symbols:

Symbol	Definition
I	Incomplete: Incomplete academic work for unforeseeable, emergency and justifiable reasons at the end of the term may result in an "I" symbol being entered in the student's record. The condition for the removal of the "I" shall be stated by the instructor in a written record. This record shall contain the conditions for the removal of the "I" and the grade assigned in lieu of its removal. This record must be given to the student with a copy on file with the registrar until the "I" is made up or the time limit has passed. A final grade shall be assigned when the work stipulated has been completed and evaluated, or when the time limit for completing the work has passed. The "I" may be made up no later than one year following the end of the term in which it was assigned. The "I" Symbol shall not be used in calculating units attempted nor for grade points. The governing board shall provide a process whereby a student may petition for a time extension due to unusual circumstances.
IP	In progress: The "IP" symbol shall be used only in those courses which extend beyond the normal end of an academic term. It indicates that work is "in progress," but that assignment of an evaluative symbol (grade) must await its completion. The "IP" symbol shall remain on the student's permanent record in order to satisfy enrollment documentation. The appropriate evaluative symbol (grade) and unit credit shall be assigned and appear on the student's permanent record for the term in which the course is completed. The "IP" shall not be used in calculating grade point averages. If a student enrolled in an "open–entry, open–exit" course is assigned an "IP" at the end of an attendance period and does not re–enroll in that course during the subsequent attendance period, the appropriate faculty will assign an evaluative symbol (grade) in accordance with subsection (a) of this part to be recorded on the student's permanent record for the course.
RD	Report Delayed: The "RD" symbol may be assigned by the registrar only. It is to be used when there is a delay in reporting the grade of a student due to circumstances beyond the control of the student. It is a temporary notation to be replaced by a permanent symbol as soon as possible. "RD" shall not be used in calculating grade point averages.
W	Withdrawal: The governing board of a district which decides to provide a withdrawal procedure shall adopt a policy consistent with the following: Withdrawal from a class or classes shall be authorized through the last day of the fourteenth week of instruction (or 75% of a term, whichever is less). The governing board, however, may establish a final withdrawal date which prohibits withdrawal after a designated point in time between the end of the fourth week of instruction (or 30% of a term, whichever is less) and the last day of the fourteenth week of instruction (or 75% of a term, whichever is less). The academic record of a student who remains in a class beyond the time allowed by district policy must reflect a symbol as authorized in this Section other than a "W."

	The governing board may by regulation authorize withdrawal from a class or classes in extenuating circumstances after the last day of the fourteenth week (or 75% of the term, whichever is less) upon petition of the student or his or her representative and after consultation with the instructor(s) or appropriate faculty. Extenuating circumstances are verified cases of accidents, illnesses or other circumstances beyond the control of the student. No notation ("W" or other) shall be made on the academic record of the student who withdraws during the first four weeks or 30% of a term, whichever is less. The governing board may establish a period of time shorter than the first four weeks or 30% of a term, during which no notation shall be made. Withdrawal between the end of the fourth week (or such time as established by the district) and the last day of the fourteenth week of instruction (or 75% of a term, whichever is less) shall be authorized after informing the appropriate faculty. Withdrawal after the end of the fourteenth week (or 75% of a term, whichever is less) when the district has authorized such withdrawal in extenuating circumstances, after consultation with appropriate faculty, shall be recorded as a "W." For purposes of withdrawal policies, the term "appropriate faculty" means the instructor of each course in question or, in the event the instructor cannot be contacted, the department chair or equivalent faculty officer. The "W" shall not be used in calculating grade point averages, but excessive "W"s (as defined in Sections 55754 and 55756 of this part) shall be used as factors in probation and dismissal procedures. Within these guidelines, criteria for withdrawal and the procedures to accomplish it shall be established by governing boards and published in college catalogs. A district's responsibilities with respect to enrollment or attendance accounting shall not be modified or superseded in any way by adoption of a withdrawal policy.
MW	Military Withdrawal: The governing board of a district which decides to provide a withdrawal policy shall also adopt military withdrawal procedures consistent with the following: "Military Withdrawal" occurs when a student who is a member of an active or reserve United States military service receives orders compelling a withdrawal from courses. Upon verification of such orders, a withdrawal symbol may be assigned at any time after the period established by the governing board during which no notation is made for withdrawals. The withdrawal symbol so assigned may be a "W" or, if necessary to distinguish military withdrawals, may be a "MW." Military withdrawals shall not be counted in progress probation and dismissal calculations. "W"s incurred during the period between January 1, 1990 and the effective date of this paragraph, which meet the definition of military withdrawal herein, shall not be counted in progress probation and dismissal calculations and may be changed to "MW"s. In no case would a military withdrawal result in a student being assigned an "FW" grade.

58056. Immediate Supervision and Control.

(a) Subdivision (a)(1) of section 58051 requires, as a condition for claiming attendance for apportionment purposes, the immediate supervision and control of an academic employee authorized to render service in a capacity and during the period in which he or she served. Immediate supervision and control requires the presence of the authorized employee. More specifically, immediate supervision or presence is characterized by all of the following:

(1) The authorized employee is able, in terms of physical proximity and range of communication, to provide immediate instructional supervision and control; and

(2) The authorized employee is in a position to provide the supervision and control necessary for the protection of the health and safety of students; and

(3) The authorized employee is not to have any other assigned duty during the instructional activity for which attendance is being claimed. The criteria specified above are to be applied in recognition of the fact that the need for immediate supervision will vary according to the course being offered, as well as with the design or mode of instruction of such course or program.

(b) Under the following limited circumstances, attendance of students enrolled in a course or program which does not meet the requirements of subdivision (a) shall qualify for apportionment purposes if:

(c) Attendance generated solely under an instructional assistant or aide does not qualify for apportionment. In addition, instructional aides shall not be used to increase the number of students in relation to the number of classroom instructors in the district. However, attendance may qualify for apportionment under the following limited circumstances:

(1) The assistant or aide functions under the exclusive direction of the authorized employee assigned to that educational activity, and not independently; and

(2) The assistant or aide performs only those duties specifically authorized by law, including, but not limited to, sections 88240–88249 of the Education Code; and,

(3) The authorized employee is able, in terms of physical proximity and range of communication, to provide necessary supervision and control of students, so that by working in conjunction with the assistant or aide, the requirements of subsection (a) of this section are met.

In addition, the district shall enter into a written contract with each person furnished by the public or private agency; and said contracts shall meet the requirements of subsection (a)(1) and (2) of this section. (b) Enrollment may be limited due to health and safety considerations, facility limitations, faculty workload, the availability of qualified instructors, funding limitations, the constraints of regional planning or legal requirements imposed by statutes, regulations, or contracts. The governing board shall adopt policies identifying any such limitations and requiring fair and equitable procedures for determining who may enroll in affected courses or programs. Such procedures shall be consistent with one or more of the following approaches:

(1) limiting enrollment to a "first–come, first–served" basis or using other nonevaluative selection techniques to determine who may enroll; or

(2) limiting enrollment using a registration procedure authorized by Section 58108; or

(e) In the case of a challenge under Subsection (c)(1) of this Section, the district shall, upon completion of the challenge procedure established pursuant to this Section, advise the student that he or she may file a formal complaint of unlawful discrimination pursuant to Subchapter 5 (commencing with Section 59300) of Chapter 10 of this Division. Title 5 Enforcement of Minimum Conditions for State Aid

In furtherance of the Education Code sections 70901 and 70902 requirements to establish minimum conditions for the receipt of state aid, the State Board of Governors adopted Title 5, California Code of Regulations, sections 51000 through 51027, and for the enforcement of these regulations, sections 51100 and 51102.

For purposes of this test claim, the program costs subject to state reimbursement for community college districts to comply with the minimum conditions are presented in nineteen separate subject matter conditions, with the compliance duty presented as condition 20.

PART II. LEGISLATIVE HISTORY OF THE CLAIM

CONDITION 1 STANDARDS OF SCHOLARSHIP

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to adopt and comply with regulations pertaining to the standards of scholarship required of students in each district.

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

Title 5, Section 51002 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1994) requires the governing board of a community college district to: (a) adopt regulations consistent with the standards of scholarship contained in Subchapter 9 (commencing with Section 55750) of Chapter 6; (b) file a copy of its regulations, and any amendments thereto, with the Chancellor; and (c) substantially comply with its regulations and the regulations of the Board of Governors pertaining to standards of scholarship.

Section 55750 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991), requires the district to adopt "regulations" for standards of scholarship and publish those policies and procedures in the college catalog and file them with the Chancellor's Office.

Section 55751 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991), requires each district to establish a uniform grading practice that is based on sound academic principles and includes a grading scale for degree, certificate, and licenses and credit-no credit options for other courses.

Section 55752 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991), permits a district to offer specified courses on a credit-no credit basis. Subdivision (a) requires that if such credit-no credit courses are offered, the community college must specify so in its catalog. Units earned on this basis must be counted in satisfaction of curriculum requirements and considered in probation and dismissal procedures, but must not be used to calculate grade point averages, pursuant to subdivisions (b) and (c). The credit-no credit basis may be used for independent study courses and must be used for courses in which there is a single standard of performance for which unit credit is assigned, pursuant to subdivisions (d) and (e).

Section 55753 (added in 1983 and last amended in 2002) requires the governing board of each community college district to adopt and publish procedures and regulations pertaining to credit by examination. Subdivision (b) permits the governing board to grant credit to any student who passes an examination for a course listed in the school catalog, so long as that student is registered and in good standing with the college. Subdivision (c) requires the nature and content of an examination to be determined solely by faculty in the discipline that normally teaches in that subject, to be in accordance with the curriculum committee's established policies and procedures, and to adequately measure mastery of the course content. Subdivision (d) requires a separate examination to be conducted for each course for which credit is to be granted. Subdivision (e) requires a student's academic record to be clearly annotated to reflect that credit was earned by examination. Subdivision (f) requires grading to be in according to the regular, approved grading scale unless a credit-no credit option is ordinarily available for a certain course. Subdivision (g) prohibits counting the units for which credit is given under this section toward the determination of residence credit hours.

Section 55753.5 (added in 2002), subdivision (b), permits the governing board of each community college district to adopt and publish procedures and regulations to permit articulated high school courses to be accepted in lieu of comparable community college courses to partially satisfy requirements for certificate programs or the major requirements of a degree program. Subdivision (c) requires that any credits earned in this manner be clearly noted on the student's academic record as such. Subdivision (d) prohibits these type of credits from being used to bypass any general education requirements or minimum credit units required to earn an associates degree. Subdivision (e) requires all community college district-high school articulation agreements to be subject to this section unless a student has successfully completed a similar course under a previous agreement prior to the date this Section takes effect.

Section 55753.7 (added in 2002) permits the governing board of each community college district to adopt and publish procedures and regulations which grant credit for satisfactory completion of advanced placement examinations as approved by relevant faculty. Any credit earned through an advanced placement examination must be clearly annotated on a student's academic record as such.

Section 55754 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) requires the governing board of each community college district to adopt statewide standards for academic probation or adopt local standards which exceed the statewide standard. The statewide standards require a student to be placed on "academic probation" if the student has attempted at least 12 semester units and has earned a grade point average of below 2.0 for units graded based on the regular grading scale. A student must be placed on "progress probation" if the number of classes for which a student has earned a "withdraw", "incomplete" or "no credit" on his or her record, reaches or exceeds fifty percent in relation to all units in which a student has enrolled.

Section 55755 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) requires the governing board of each community college district to adopt statewide standards for removal from academic probation or adopt local standards which exceed the statewide standard. The statewide standard requires a student on academic probation to be removed from probation when his or her grade point average is 2.0 or higher. A student on progress probation must be removed when the percentage of units for which a "withdraw", "incomplete" or "no credit" has been recorded, drops below 50 percent.

Section 55756 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) requires the governing board of each community college district to adopt statewide standards for dismissal or to adopt local standards which exceed the statewide standard. The statewide standard requires a student who is on academic probation to be subject to dismissal if the student earned a cumulative grade point average of less than 1.75 in all units attempted in each of 3 consecutive semesters. A student on progress probation will be subject to dismissal if the percentage of units for which a "withdraw", "incomplete" or "no credit" has been recorded in at least 3 consecutive semesters, reaches or exceeds 50 percent. Section 55756 also requires the district board to adopt rules outlining exceptions to the standards for dismissal and to file those rules with the Chancellor.

Section 55756.5 (added in 1990) provides the limits of remedial coursework a student may take; requires that the need for remedial coursework be determined using appropriate assessment instruments, methods, or procedures provided by matriculation procedures; allows dismissed students to reapply for reinstatement; and requires remedial education statistics regarding success rates of the program and the effect on students by sex, age, and ethnicity, to be reported as part of the Management Information System. Students enrolled in at least one course of English as a Second Language or who have been identified as having a learning disability, will be exempted form the limitation on remedial coursework.

Section 55757 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) requires the governing board of each community college district to adopt rules governing the inclusion in or exclusion of the number of "units attempted" in which a student did not receive a grade or "credit-no credit" or from which the student withdrew in accordance with rules adopted by the district governing board.

Section 55758 (added in 1983 and last amended in 2001), subdivision (a), requires the governing board to utilize a statewide grading scale established on the basis of point equivalencies and to notify students of these standards by publication. Subdivision (b) permits a community college district governing board to use "plus" and "minus" designations in combination with letter grades, with some limitations. Subdivision (e) authorizes the use of the following non-symbols and provides guidelines for the use of each: "I": Incomplete, "IP": In Progress, "RD": Report Delayed: "W": Withdrawal, and "MW": Military Withdrawal.

Section 55758.5 (added in 1991) requires that when calculating students' degree applicable grade point averages, grades earned in nondegree credit courses shall not be included.

Section 55759 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) requires the district to publish probation and dismissal policies and procedures in the college catalog; to make reasonable efforts to notify a student subject to academic probation or dismissal at or near the beginning of the semester or quarter in which it will take effect; make a reasonable effort to provide counseling and other support services to a student on probation to help the student overcome any academic difficulties; and make reasonable efforts to notify a student of removal from probation or reinstatement after dismissal within timelines established by the district.

Section 55760 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) provides that grades shall be determined by the instructor and shall be final in the absence of mistake and requires that the governing board adopt policies and publish the procedures for the repetition of courses.

Section 55761 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) requires the district governing board to adopt and publish procedures or regulations pertaining to course repetition for those courses in which a student has earned a grade of "D", "F", and/or "NC".

Section 55762 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1998) provides guidelines for the implementation of any procedures or regulations adopted by the community college governing board pertaining to course repetition. Such policies must comply with existing law, indicate any courses which are exempt, provide for indication on a student's permanent record of any courses repeated, be published, and provide for maintenance of a record of any actions taken under such course repetition procedures that have been adopted.

Section 55763 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1998) establishes special circumstances for course repetition. A district governing board is permitted to adopt procedures or regulations pertaining to the repetition of courses for which substandard work has not been recorded upon a petition of the student and with the written permission of the governing board based on just cause. If such policies are adopted, subdivision (c) requires course repetition to be granted, without petition, if necessary for a student to meet a legally mandated training requirement as a condition of continued employment. Subdivision (d) requires that when course repetition under this section occurs, the student's permanent academic record must be annotated as such.

Section 55764 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) requires that the governing board to adopt and publish procedures or regulations pertaining to the alleviation of previously recorded substandard academic performance which is not reflective of a student's demonstrated ability. Any changes made to a student's grade pursuant to such "academic renewal regulations" must be annotated on the student's permanent record as such.

Section 55765 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) provides the statewide criteria for implementing academic renewal without course repetition.

CONDITION 2 DEGREES AND CERTIFICATES

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to adopt and comply with regulations for awarding degrees and certificates.

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

Section 51004 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1994), requires the governing board of a community college district to: (a) adopt regulations consistent with regulations contained in Subchapter 10 (commencing with Section 55800) of Chapter 6, regarding degrees and certificates; (b) file a copy of its regulations and any amendments thereto with the Chancellor; and (c) substantially comply with its regulations and the regulations of the Board of Governors pertaining to degrees and certificates.

Section 55800 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991), requires the governing board of a community college district to adopt policies and procedures for awarding degrees and certificates, to publish the policy and to provide a copy to the Chancellor's Office.

Section 55800.5 (added in 1991), requires the governing board of a community college district to award an associate degree to any student who successfully completes the prescribed course of study for the degree while maintaining the requisite grade point average, the course of study required for the student's major, and any required academic elective courses.

Section 55801 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991), defines the term "satisfactorily completed" as "either credit earned on a "credit-no credit" basis or a grade point average of 2.0 or better in community college credit courses in the curriculum upon which the degree is based. The term "satisfactorily completed" is used in Section 55806, pertaining to the minimum requirements for an Associate Degree, and in Section 55809, pertaining to the district governing board's duty to grant a diploma.

Sections 55802 and 55803 (both added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) provide the associate degree requirements that were in effect until July 1, 1983.

Section 55805 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991), requires the governing board of a community college district to adopt and review on a regular basis policies and implementation criteria for its specific philosophy on General Education. The district's adopted philosophy is required to be consistent with the stated philosophy of the State Board of Governors. Some of the goals stated in the Board of Governors' philosophy include: encouraging students' abilities to think and communicate clearly and effectively both orally and in writing; to use mathematics; to understand the modes of inquiry of the major disciplines; to be aware of other cultures and times; to achieve insights gained through experience in thinking about ethical problems; and to develop the capacity for self-understanding.

Section 55805.5 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991), provides that the criteria established by the district governing board to implement its philosophy on the associate degree must permit only courses that conform to the standards specified in section 55002(a) (which outlines the curriculum standards and criteria for associate degree courses) and that fall into the following four categories to be offered for associate degree credit: (a) all lower division courses accepted toward the baccalaureate degree by the California State University or University of California or designed to be offered for transfer; (b) courses that apply to the major in non-baccalaureate occupational fields; (c) English courses not more than one level below the first transfer level composition course, typically known as English 1A; (d) all mathematics courses above and including Elementary Algebra; and (e) credit courses in English and mathematics taught in or on behalf of other departments and which, as determined by the local governing board require entrance skills at a level equivalent to those necessary for the courses specified in subdivisions.

Section 55806 (added in 1988 and last amended 1991) provides the associate degree requirements, effective from July 1, 1983 to the present. A district governing board is required to confer the degree of Associate in Arts or Associate in Science upon a student who has demonstrated competence in reading, written expression, and mathematics, and who has satisfactorily completed at least 60 semester units or 90 quarter units of college work in a curriculum accepted toward the degree by a college within the district. Such course work must include at least 18 semester or 27 quarter units in General Education and at least 18 semester or 27 quarter units in a recognized major. Of the required units, at least 12 semester or 18 quarter units must be completed in residence at the college granting the degree. Subdivision (a) requires that, for a student to fulfill the requirements for his or her Major, the student must take at least 18 semester or 27 quarter units of study in a single discipline or related disciplines, as listed in the Community Colleges "Taxonomy of Programs". Subdivision (b) outlines the General Education requirements for an Associate Degree. Subdivision (b)(1) provides that, to earn an Associate Degree, students are required to complete a minimum of 18 semester or 27 quarter units of general education, including a minimum of three semester or four quarter units in each of the following five areas: natural sciences; social and behavioral sciences; humanities; English composition; communication and analytical thinking. Courses that fulfill the Natural Sciences requirement must be designed in a manner that helps the student develop an appreciation and understanding of the scientific method, and encourages an understanding of the relationships between science and other human activities. Courses that fulfill the Social and Behavioral Sciences requirement must be designed to develop an awareness of the method of inquiry used by the social and behavioral sciences and also to stimulate critical thinking about the ways people act and have acted in response to their societies. Courses that fulfill the Humanities requirement must be designed to help the student develop an awareness of the ways in which people throughout the ages and in different cultures have responded to themselves and the world around them in artistic and cultural creation and help the student develop aesthetic understanding and an ability to make value judgments. Qualifying English Composition courses must be designed to include both expository and argumentative writing. Finally, courses that fulfill the Communication and Analytical Thinking requirement include oral communication, mathematics, logic, statistics, computer languages and programming, and related disciplines. Subdivision (b)(2) prohibits courses from being counted more than once to satisfy a general education requirement. Subdivision (b)(3) requires districts to offer Ethnic Studies in at least one of the required areas.

Section 55807 (added in 1983 and last amended 1991), provides for the conversion of noncredit courses to academic credit. Such conversion may be permitted only upon student petition and subsequent certification by a governing board, based upon evidence of prescribed credit-level competence as approved by the faculty.

Section 55808 (added in 1988 and last amended 1991), requires the governing board of a community college district to issue a certificate of achievement to any student whom the governing board determines has completed successfully any course of study or curriculum for which a certificate of achievement is offered.

Section 55809 (added in 1983 and last amended 1991) requires the governing board of a community college district to award the appropriate diploma, degree or certificate whenever a student has completed all requirements for the degree, diploma or certificate without regard to the length of time actually taken by the student to complete such requirements.

Section 55810 (added in 1983, last amended 1991) requires the governing board of a community college district to adopt necessary policies and procedures to implement the transition between degree requirements applicable until July 1, 1983 and requirements applicable on or after July 1, 1983.

CONDITION 3 OPEN COURSES

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to adopt and comply with policies and procedures ensuring open enrollment to all students as a minimum condition of receipt of state aid.

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

Section 51006 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1994) requires the governing board of a community college district to adopt by resolution and publish in the college catalog and schedule of classes the following or a comparable statement: "The policy of this district is that, unless specifically exempted by statute or regulation, every course, course section, or class, reported for state aid, wherever offered and maintained by the district, shall be fully open to enrollment and participation by any person who has been admitted to the college(s) and who meets such prerequisites as may be established pursuant to regulations contained in Article 2.5 (commencing with Section 55200) of Subchapter 1 of Chapter 6 of Division 6 of Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations."

Section 58100, pertaining to open enrollment, was repealed in 1992.

Section 58102 (added in 1982 and last amended in 1993) requires the description of each course to be clear and understandable to the prospective student and to be published in the official catalog, and/or schedule of classes, and/or addenda.

Section 58104 (added in 1982 and last amended in 1993) requires community colleges to describe all prospective course offerings in the official general catalog and/or addenda and to list such courses in the schedules of classes. Courses which are established or conducted after publication of the general catalog or regular schedule of classes are required to be reasonably well publicized. Districts are prohibited from issuing any course offering announcements to only a limited, specialized clientele, or from giving notice of course offerings to any group or individual prior to issuing the notice to the general public for the purposes of preferential enrollment, limiting accessibility, or exclusion of qualified students.

Section 58106 (added in 1993) requires that, in order to be claimed by a community college for purposes of state apportionment, all courses must be open to enrollment by any student who has been admitted to the college, unless a limitation applies. Subdivision (a) permits enrollment to be limited by use of properly established prerequisites and corequisites and subdivision (b) outlines other acceptable limitations a community college may use to restrict course enrollment. Such acceptable limitations include those based on: prerequisite requirements, health and safety considerations, faculty limitations, faculty workload, the availability of qualified instructors, funding issues, or constraints of legal requirements. Any limitations must be identified in advance by governing board policy and may be challenged by any student. In the case of a student challenge to an enrollment limitation due to discriminatory basis, the district must, upon completion of the established challenge procedure, advise the student that he or she may file a formal complaint of unlawful discrimination pursuant to Sections 59300-59362 of Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations.

Section 58107 (added in 1991 and last amended in 1991) requires that any public funds used in connection with athletic programs conducted under the auspices of a community college district governing board or any student organization within the district, must only be used for programs which provide facilities and opportunities for participation by both sexes on an equitable basis.

Section 58108 (added in 1982 and last amended in 1993) requires all procedures for registration and standards for enrollment in any course to be consistent with law and to be uniformly administered by authorized district employees. Districts are prohibited from doing any of the following to restrict student access to classes: requiring preregistration activities that are not uniformly required; enforcing nonacademic requisites as barriers to enrollment in or completion of a class; or restricting enrollment to a specialized clientele. Finally, districts are prohibited from requiring any student to make any special effort not required of all students to register in a class or course selection. Once enrolled in a class, all students must have equal access to all off-campus sites and facilities.

Section 58110, regarding enrollment limitations, was repealed in 1992.

CONDITION 4 COMPREHENSIVE (MASTER) PLANS

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to annually prepare and submit to the Chancellor both educational and capital construction master plans that cover current and long-range plans.

CONDITION 5 EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

SECTION 1. LEGISLATIVE HISTORY PRIOR TO JANUARY 1, 1975

Mandated duties regarding equal employment opportunity as a minimum condition for receipt of state aid did not exist prior to January 1, 1975.

SECTION 2. LEGISLATIVE HISTORY AFTER DECEMBER 31, 1974

Chapter 766, Statutes of 1978, Section 1 added Education Code Sections 87100-87107, entitled "Affirmative Action Hiring"

2001 Repealer of Affirmative Action Code and Regulations

On September 4, 2001, the California Court of Appeal, in Connerly v. State Personnel Board (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 16, invalidated Education Code sections 87100 - 87107, which were the basis of the Community College affirmative action program. In addition, these Education Code Sections served as the substantive basis for the affirmative action program regulations contained in Title 5, California Code of Regulations, Sections 53000-53012, which were a minimum condition for state aid, pursuant to Section 51010.

In response to the holding in Connerly, Chapter 1169, Statutes of 2002, Section 1 repealed Education Code Sections 87100 - 87107. Chapter 1169, Statutes of 2002, Section 2 then replaced the repealed sections with new Education Code Sections 87100 - 87107, and entitled the article "Equal Employment Opportunity Hiring".

Education Code Section 87100[20] outlines the intent of the Legislature in enacting Education Code Sections 87100 - 87107, specifically, that community college districts adopt and implement programs and plans for ensuring equal employment opportunity in their employment practices so that a community of nondiscrimination and equal

"The Legislature finds and declares all of the following:
(a) In fulfilling its mission within California's system of public higher education, the California Community Colleges are committed to academic excellence and to providing all students with the opportunity to succeed in their chosen educational pursuits.
(b) Academic excellence can best be sustained in a climate of acceptance and with the inclusion of persons from a wide variety of backgrounds and preparations to provide service to an increasingly diverse student population.
(c) A workforce that is continually responsive to the needs of a diverse student population may be achieved by ensuring that all persons receive an equal opportunity to compete for employment and promotion within the community college districts and by eliminating barriers to equal employment opportunity.
(d) It is the intent of the Legislature to establish and maintain, within the California Community College districts, a policy of equal opportunity in employment for all persons, and to prohibit discrimination or preferential treatment based on ethnic group identification, race, color, national origin, religion, age, gender, disability, ancestry, or sexual orientation. Every aspect of personnel policy and practice in the community college districts should advance the realization of inclusion through a continuing program of equal employment opportunity.
(e) The Legislature recognizes that it is not enough to proclaim that community college districts must not discriminate and must not grant preferential treatment on impermissible bases. The Legislature declares that efforts must also be made to build a community in which nondiscrimination and equal opportunity are realized. It is the intent of the Legislature to require community college districts to adopt and implement programs and plans for ensuring equal employment opportunity in their employment practices."

opportunity may be attained in community college districts.

Education Code Section 87101[21] provides definitions for terms pertaining to equal employment opportunity. Subdivision (a) states that "Equal Employment Opportunity" means that "all qualified individuals have a full and fair opportunity to compete for hiring and promotion and fully enjoy the benefits of employment by a community college district". Subdivision (b) defines an "Equal employment opportunity plan" as "a document that includes specific procedures for achieving equal employment opportunity". Finally, subdivision (c) states that an "Equal employment opportunity program" means "all the various methods by which equal employment opportunity is ensured". District employers are required to continually work to devise recruiting, training, and advancement opportunities that will result in equal employment opportunities for all qualified applicants and employees.

"For the purposes of this article:
(a) "Equal employment opportunity" means that all qualified individuals have a full and fair opportunity to compete for hiring and promotion and fully enjoy the benefits of employment by a community college district. Ensuring equal employment opportunity is advanced in an inclusive environment that fosters cooperation, acceptance, democracy, and the free expression of ideas. An inclusive environment is welcoming to men and women, persons with disabilities, individuals from all ethnic groups, and individuals from all other groups protected from discrimination by this article.
(b) "Equal employment opportunity plan" means a document that includes specific procedures for achieving equal employment opportunity.
(c) "Equal employment opportunity program" means all the various methods by which equal employment opportunity is ensured. These methods include, but are not necessarily limited to, actively recruiting, using nondiscriminatory employment practices, and monitoring employment practices to ensure equality of opportunity. Each district employer shall commit to sustained action to devise recruiting, training, and advancement opportunities that will result in equal employment opportunities for all qualified applicants and employees."

Education Code Section 87102[22] requires community college districts to prepare and submit to the board of governors an affirmation of compliance with the equal employment opportunity article as a condition for receipt of state aid. Each district's equal opportunity program must include the following: an assurance of district commitment to the program; a list of steps the district will take to eliminate improper discrimination; and the district's plan for achieving the 75% ratio of full-time to part-time faculty hiring, as indicated in Section 87482.6, while still ensuring equal employment opportunity.

Education Code Section 87103[23] requires the board of governors to assist the community colleges in developing and implementing equal employment opportunity programs.

"(a) As a condition for the receipt of funds pursuant to Section 87107, the governing board of community college district that opts to participate under the article shall periodically submit to the board of governors an affirmation of compliance with this article. Each participating district's equal employment opportunity program shall ensure participation in, and commitment to, the program by district personnel. Each participating district's equal employment opportunity plan shall include steps that the district will take in eliminating improper discrimination or preferences in its hiring and employment practices. Each plan shall address how the district will make progress in achieving the ratio of full-time to part-time faculty hiring, as indicated in Section 87482.6, while still ensuring equal employment opportunity.

(b) Each participating district's equal employment opportunity plan is a public record within the meaning of the California Public Records Act (Chapter 3.5 (commencing with Section 6250) of Division 7 of Title 1 of the Government Code)."

"The board of governors shall render assistance in developing and implementing equal employment opportunity programs in the community college districts."

Education Code Section 87105[24] requires the board of governors to adopt and implement all regulations necessary to accomplish equal employment opportunity in community college districts and to ensure that each participating community college district implements processes for ensuring equal employment opportunities.

Education Code Section 87106[25], subdivision (a), requires that the board of governors develop and implement systemwide strategies for encouraging community college students to become qualified for, and seek, employment as community college faculty or administrators. Subdivision (b) requires the board of governors to develop, implement and disseminate to community college districts a model equal employment opportunity plan that accomplishes at least all of the following: compliance with the

"The board of governors shall adopt all necessary regulations to carry out the intent of this article and to ensure that each participating community college district implements processes for ensuring equal employment opportunities. Nothing in this act shall be construed to require any community college to incur any costs in excess of the funds allocated by the state for the purposes of this act."

"(a) The board of governors shall develop systemwide strategies for encouraging community college students to become qualified for, and seek, employment as community college faculty or administrators.

(b) The board of governors shall develop and disseminate to community college districts a model equal employment opportunity plan that accomplishes at least all of the following:

(2) Compliance with the other applicable state and federal nondiscrimination statutes.

(3) Implementation of the best practices for improving the equality of opportunity.

(4) Encouragement of districts to take steps reasonably calculated to inform their students about the opportunity to participate in the Graduate Assumption Program of Loans for Education authorized by Article 5.5 (commencing with Section 69618) of Chapter 2 of Part 42 and to participate in other programs developed by the board of governors pursuant to subdivision (a)."

adopted equal employment opportunity regulations; compliance with applicable state and federal nondiscrimination statutes; implementation of the best practices for improving the equality of opportunity; encouragement of districts to take steps to inform their students about the opportunity to participate in the Graduate Assumption Program of Loans for Education and in programs pertaining to encouraging students to seek employment as faculty or administrators in the community college districts.

Education Code Section 87107[26] created Employment Opportunity Fund to support the activities authorized by the article. The board of governors is to administer the fund to promote equal employment opportunity in community college districts.

Education Code Section 87108[27] requires the board of governors to adopt and

"In order to support the activities required and authorized by this article, the Employment Opportunity Fund is hereby established. The fund shall include moneys appropriated in the annual Budget Act or provided, pursuant to Section 87482.7, through transfer. The moneys in the fund shall be administered by the board of governors for the purpose of promoting equal employment opportunities in hiring and promotion at community college districts."

[27]Education Code Section 87108, as added by Chapter 1109, Statutes of 2002, Section 2:

"(a) The board of governors shall adopt regulations for the use of the fund. Those uses may include, but need not be limited to, all of the following:
(1) Activities designed to encourage community college students to become qualified for, and seek, employment as community college faculty or administrators.
(2) Outreach and recruitment.
(3) In-service training on equal employment opportunities.
(4) Accommodations for applicants and employees with disabilities.
(5) Activities to promote equal employment opportunities and implement the requirements of this article.
(b) The Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges may use not more than 25 percent of the revenues in the fund to provide technical assistance, service, monitoring, and compliance functions. Service functions under this subdivision may include, but are not necessarily limited to, the provision of a clearinghouse for advertising community college district job opportunities and for allowing persons seeking jobs to make known their interest in community college employment. This clearinghouse shall include a special emphasis on faculty internship employment opportunities and on reaching students who are qualified for faculty internship programs. The remaining balance in the fund may be allocated to implement regulations for the use of the Employment Opportunity Fund and lists the types of services such regulations may include, such as outreach and recruitment and in-service training on equal employment opportunities. Subdivision (b) prohibits the Board of Governors from using more than 25 percent of the revenues in the fund to provide technical assistance, service, monitoring, and compliance functions. The section states that providing a community college job opportunity clearinghouse qualifies a "service function" that comes within the 25% restriction. Any such clearinghouse must include a special emphasis on internship opportunities.

SECTION 3. TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

In response to the holding of the 2001 Connerly case, the repealer of Education Code Sections 87100 - 87107 and replacement with new Education Code sections 87100 - 87107 in 2002, new regulations were adopted effective August 11, 2002. These new regulations updated, amended, or repealed the previous program regulations (which are provided in an endnote[1]), relying upon several other Government Code and Education Code sections as authority for the amended regulations.

Effective August 11, 2002, Title 5, Section 51010 requires as a minimum condition for state aid that community college districts adopt a policy which describes its equal opportunity employment program (subdivision a); develop and adopt an equal employment opportunity plan (subdivision b); ensure that the district employment patterns are annually surveyed (subdivision c); ensure that recruitment (subdivision d), screening and selection (subdivision e), additional steps (subdivision f) are taken, and that hiring and retention over time (subdivision g) are consistent with the plan; and, to comply with the provisions of Sections 53300 - 53063 (thus making all of the subchapter minimum conditions).

Scope of District Plan

Section 53000 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002), in subdivision (a), requires the subchapter (Sections 53000-53064) "to be read in conjunction with" specified Government Code and Education Code sections, specified federal laws, and states that it is not intended to conflict with the California Constitution. Subdivision (b) states that the subchapter is intended to promote equal employment opportunities which are in addition to and consistent with state or federal law, and that compliance with the subchapter should not be construed to mean compliance with all other applicable laws, thus indicating that the requirements of the subchapter exceed other applicable laws.

Section 53001 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002), provides the definitions applicable to the implementation of the subchapter. The following terms are defined in this section: "adverse impact"; "business necessity"; "equal employment opportunity"; "equal employment opportunity plan"; "equal employment opportunity programs"; "ethnic minorities"; "ethnic group identification"; "goals for persons with disabilities"; "in-house of promotional only hiring"; "monitored group"; "person with a disability"; "projected representation"; "reasonable accommodation"; "screening or selection procedure"; "significantly underrepresented group"; "target date" and "timetable".

Section 53002 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002) requires the governing board to adopt a policy statement regarding its commitment to equal employment opportunities.

Section 53003 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002) describes the requirements for the district's equal employment opportunity plan. Subdivision (b) requires the plan to be reviewed every three years and to be submitted to the Chancellor. Subdivision (c) requires the plan to include the following: a designation of the district employees who will implement the plan and assure compliance; the procedure for filing complaints; the process for notifying employees of the provisions of the plan; a training program; the process for providing notice to the community concerning the district's plan; an analysis of the number of persons from monitored groups who are employed by the district; an analysis of the degree of underrepresentation of persons from monitored groups; methods for addressing underrepresentation; additional steps to be taken to remedy underrepresentation; and other measures to further equal employment opportunity. Subdivision (d) requires the plan to include goals for hiring persons with disabilities. Subdivision (e) states that the plans shall be public records. Subdivision (f) requires the district to make a good faith effort to comply with the requirements of this Section. Subdivision (g) requires that the criteria for the determination of underrepresentation shall be established by the statewide Consultation Process.

Section 53004 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002) requires, at subdivision (a), that the district annually survey its employees and monitor applicants for employment to evaluate the implementation of its equal employment opportunity plan and to provide the source of data needed for specified reports, and to annually provide this information to the Chancellor. Subdivision (b) requires districts to permit each employee to self-identify his or her gender, ethnicity and/or disability, if applicable.

Section 53005 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002) requires the district to establish an Equal Employment Opportunity Advisory Committee, comprising a diverse membership if possible, to assist the district in implementing the district plan.

Section 53006 (added in 1996 and last amended in 2002), at subdivision (a), requires any district which determines that a particular monitored group is underrepresented to take additional steps to try to rectify the situation. At a minimum, these additional steps are to include the following: a review of the district's recruitment procedures; consideration and implementation of other means of reducing underrepresentation, without taking the status of the monitored group into account; a determination of the effectiveness of other additional remedies; and, where significant underrepresentation persists, monitoring the staffing rate for specific job categories until underrepresentation has been reduced. Subdivision (b) requires that if chronic underrepresentation persists for a particular group or job category, the district shall: review the qualifications for the job category; discontinue the use of locally established qualifications that are inconsistent with state or federal law; and utilize qualification standards that have less exclusionary effect. Subdivision (c) establishes three years as a reasonable period to measure the success of the plan. Subdivision (d) allows districts to take other steps to mitigate and ensure equal employment opportunities.

Sections 53010, 53011, and 53012 were repealed in 1992.

Recruitment and Screening

Section 53020 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002), at subdivision (a), states that the governing board is responsible for the implementation of the equal employment opportunity program and shall designate an equal employment opportunity officer to operate the program. Subdivision (b) states that the designated officer must be included in the plan and that complaints must be properly investigated. Subdivision (c) extends liability for the program to any person, whether or not an employee, who acts on behalf of the governing board with regard to recruitment and screening.

Section 53021 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002), at subdivision (a), requires districts to actively recruit from within and outside the district workforce for all job openings, some of which require statewide recruitment. Subdivisions (b), (c), and (d) prevent "in-house only" recruitment except for interim positions of less than one-year, with some exceptions. Subdivision (e) provides a list of five types of personnel actions which do not constitute a new "job opening."

Section 53022 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002), specifies the content requirements for job announcements. Such announcements must state clearly job specifications setting forth the knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary to job performance. Any job specifications required for the open position that exceed the state minimum requirements must be reviewed for conformity with the equal employment opportunity regulations and state and federal nondiscrimination laws, prior to announcement of the position.

Section 53023 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002) subdivision (a), requires that the application process allow applicants to voluntarily self-identify their demographic and other personal data. Such data, once revealed, must be kept confidential and be used only for data analysis type reasons. Subdivision (b) requires the applications to be evaluated to ensure that potential applicants from monitored groups have not been excluded due to discriminatory recruitment procedures. Subdivision (c) lists the remedial steps to be taken when a monitored group has been adversely impacted. The listed steps include a deadline extension coupled with outreach efforts targeted toward members of any adversely impacted group, and a reevaluation of all applicants on a basis that does not include any non-job related qualifications more stringent than the state and federal minimum qualifications for the particular job.

Section 53024 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002) provides for a screening process which does not adversely impact monitored groups, and provides mitigation procedures for underrepresentation. Subdivision (c) prohibits districts from designating any positions to be filled by members of any particular group or from engaging in any practice which would result in unlawful discriminatory or preferential treatment. Subdivision (d) requires that seniority may only be taken into consideration if for job related reasons, if not used as the sole hiring criterion, and if included in the job announcement. Subdivision (e) states that any required applicant selection testing must be in compliance with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission's "Uniform Guidelines on Employee Selection Procedures". Subdivision (g) vests the governing board with the authority to make all final hiring decisions, which includes the power to amend the screening process so that equal employment opportunity is accomplished.

Section 53025 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002) requires districts to ensure that applicants and employees with disabilities receive reasonable accommodations in order foster success in the workplace. Districts must establish reasonable goals for hiring applicants with disabilities and establish and implement methods to mitigate underrepresentation.

Section 53026 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002) requires the district to establish a procedure to respond to complaints alleging that the equal employment opportunity plan has been violated. A copy of any filed complaints must be forwarded to the Chancellor, and the district must prepare and submit an investigative report of the incident within 90 days, if the Chancellor so requests.

Section 53027 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002) states that the plan is not intended to conflict with any provisions of the Education Code pertaining to merit system districts.

Sections 53028 and 53029 were repealed in 1992.

Faculty and Staff Diversity Fund

Section 53030 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002) describes how state funds provided for the purpose of promoting equal employment opportunities are to be utilized, including amounts allocated to districts to implement the recruitment plan. Such resources are to be placed in an Equal Employment Opportunity Fund. A portion of this fund, not to exceed twenty-five percent, must be set aside for technical assistance and compliance type functions, and the balance may be allocated to the districts for activities intended to promote equal employment opportunity.

Section 53031 and 59032 were repealed in 1996.

Section 53033 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002) states that districts which fail to report the district's compliance to the Chancellor will have their funds withheld, unless the district supplies the required data by March 31st of the preceding fiscal year or the district receives an extension from the Chancellor.

Section 53034 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2002) requires districts to prepare and submit a report to the Chancellor, by September 30th of each year, regarding the district's use of Equal Employment Opportunity funds.

Sections 53040 through 53064 were repealed in 1992.

CONDITION 6 STUDENT FEES

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to establish and implement policies and procedures to ensure that the collection of student fees complies with the law (generally, Education Code sections 76300 through 76395).

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

Title 5, Section 51012 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) states that the governing board of a community college district may only establish such mandatory student fees as it is expressly authorized to establish by law.

CONDITION 7 APPROVAL OF NEW COLLEGES & EDUCATIONAL CENTERS

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to establish and comply with policies and procedures for approval of new colleges and educational centers, as a minimum condition for receipt of state aid.

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

Title 5, Section 51014, (added in 1983 and last amended in 1994), requires the governing board of a community college district planning the formation of a new college or educational center to obtain approval for such college or educational center from the Board of Governors prior to the commencement of classes.

Section 55825 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) requires the governing board of a community college district planning the formation of a new college or educational center to comply with the standards contained in sections 55829 (Assessment of Needs and Preferences), 55830 (Identification of Objectives) and 55831(Analysis of Alternative Delivery System).

Section 55827 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1994) provides the definitions relative to the approval process. A "college" is defined as a degree-granting institution intended to provide instruction through the second year of college. At least one of the following types of courses are to be offered at such institutions: standard courses suitable for transfer to higher institutions, vocational courses leading to employment, and general liberal arts courses intended for district accreditation. An "educational center" is defined as a postsecondary operation, intended to last at least three years and to enroll at least 500 students, that is established and administered by an existing college or district at a location away from the parent institution's campus.

Section 55828 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) subdivisions (a) and (b), describe the review and approval function of the Chancellor's Office to include an inventory of all off-campus programs and facilities in the community college, to be updated annually and distributed to each community college district, and development of procedures to identify and review plans for new colleges and new educational centers within the district's Five-Year Academic and Capital Outlay Master Plans. Subdivision (c) specifies the content of proposals by community college districts for new colleges and new educational centers. All such proposals must be submitted to the Chancellor and should contain an assessment of needs and preferences, an identification of objectives, and an analysis of alternative delivery systems, as outlined in Sections 55829 - 55831 of Title 5, respectively. Subdivision (d) requires the Chancellor's Office to review each proposed new college or educational center, prepare an analysis of each proposal and recommend approval or disapproval to the Board of Governors. Subdivision (e) requires the Board of Governors to approve or disapprove each new college or educational center and transmit its findings to the community college district initiating the proposal and to the California Postsecondary Education Commission.

Section 55829 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) specifies the following types of data as those to be included in the assessment of needs and preferences section of the district's proposal: (a) the community area and characteristics of individuals to be served; (b) projections of potential enrollment demand in the service area; (c) significant community support or opposition; (d) the preferences for community college programs and services of individuals in the service; (e) present and future labor market requirements; and, (f) projected labor market requirements and community program preferences.

Section 55830 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) requires the proposed college or educational center programs and services to be directed to the identified educational needs and preferences of the community to be served and to the specific objectives which fulfill the needs and preferences.

Section 55831 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) requires the district to ensure that the proposed new college or education center is the most effective and equitable of the feasible delivery system alternatives for providing intended programs and services. In selecting the proposed system, the district must consider the accessibility, content, quality and cost of programs and services in the area. In addition, districts must identify any feasible alternatives and both short and long term sources of prospective funding for the proposed program.

CONDITION 8 ACCREDITATION

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to establish and implement policies and procedures to ensure compliance with the accreditation standards and requirements established by the Accrediting Commission for Community and Junior Colleges (ACCJAC) and to pay the actual costs of the accreditation process.

The mandate for community college districts to establish and implement policies to ensure compliance with the standards set forth by the ACCJAC was first established in 1983 by Title 5, California Code of Regulations, Section 51016. Previous Education Code sections 78050 and 78051, repealed by Statutes of 1990, Chapter 1372, Section 458, authorized but did not require the district to pay the cost of accreditation by the regional authority serving California.

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

Title 5, Section 51016 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1994) requires each community college within a district to be accredited by the ACCJAC. Therefore, by reference, the costs incurred by districts to implement procedures to comply with the accreditation standards and requirements established by the ACCJAC are mandated costs subject to reimbursement. The ACCJAC has published and promulgated a document entitled, the "Handbook of Accreditation and Policy Manual" (Revised, Summer 2002, hereinafter "Handbook"), which contains sections setting forth the organization's Eligibility Requirements for Accreditation (hereinafter "Eligibility Requirements") and Standards of Accreditation (hereinafter "Standards"), a copy of which is attached hereto as an Exhibit. The Handbook, as well as any succeeding accreditation standards adopted by the ACCJAC or any board succeeding the ACCJAC, are incorporated herein by reference.

CONDITION 9 COUNSELING PROGRAMS

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to adopt regulations and procedures regarding the implementation of counseling programs for students, to provide these counseling programs for students, including those with special needs, and to publicize the counseling programs.

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

Title 5, Section 51018 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1994) requires the governing board of a community college to adopt regulations and implement procedures to provide counseling programs for students and to file a copy with the Chancellor's Office. The district must provide and publicize an organized and functioning counseling program in each college within the district which includes academic counseling, career counseling, personal counseling, and other services for students with special needs, skills testing programs, financial assistance programs, and job placement services.

CONDITION 10 INSTRUCTIONAL OBJECTIVES

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to establish and implement objectives for its instructional programs and all other district functions.

The Education Code provides a mission statement for higher education institutes beginning at Section 66010 which is the Legislative basis for the district statement of objectives.

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

Title 5, Section 51020 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) requires the governing board to adopt stated objectives for its instructional program and all other district functions.

CONDITION 11 CURRICULUM

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to establish and implement educational programs and courses that will further the objectives and functions of the community college and meet the approval of the Chancellor.

Previous Education Code Sections (78200 through 78208) discussed the requirements of the community college as it relates to implementing their programs and courses but these sections were repealed by various statutes up to and including Statutes of 1990, Chapter 1372, at Section 459.5.

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

Section 51021 (added in 1983, last amended in 1994) requires each community college to establish educational programs and courses that will further the objectives and functions of the community college and provides that all such courses must be approved by the Chancellor. The Chancellor's Office has issued a comprehensive Manual, entitled "Program and Course Approval Handbook" (hereinafter "Handbook"), that details its course approval requirements. The most recent issue of the Handbook was last published in 2001, a copy of which is attached hereto as an Exhibit and is incorporated herein by reference. The introduction of the Handbook contains the following statement: "...colleges are expected to follow the procedures and instruction in this handbook and to have curriculum approved by the Chancellor's Office." Therefore, the Handbook is incorporated in total into this test claim as an Executive Order, and by reference, the costs of district compliance with the standards and requirements set forth in the Handbook are mandated costs subject to reimbursement.

Program Classification and Standards

Section 55000 (added in 1981, last amended in 1991) provides the following definitions for terms pertinent to the course approval process: (a) "course" means an organized pattern of instruction on a specified subject offered by community colleges; (b) "educational program" means an organized sequence of courses leading to a defined objective, a degree, a certificate, a diploma, a license, or transfer to another institution of higher education; and (c) "class" means a community services offering.

Section 55000.5 (added in 1991) requires the Chancellor to prepare, distribute and maintain a detailed handbook ("Handbook") specifying course approval criteria, implementation plans for administrative regulations, and procedures for securing course and program approvals, for use by local educational agencies in complying with curriculum requirements.

Section 55001 (added in 1981, last amended in 1994) outlines and defines the types of educational programs that community colleges are authorized to provide. Subdivision (a) states that the instructional services of a community college include both liberal arts and sciences education and also occupational education. Subdivision (b) states that the community services (non FTES generating) of a community college include both classes (avocational, recreational, seminar-type, and professional in-service classes) and also activities (Civic Center Act, cultural, community development and recreational activities). Subdivisions (c) and (d) require districts to report the classification of all courses, classes and activities offered in accordance with the course classification system detailed in subdivisions (a) and (b) and the standards for district courses contained in Section 55002. When reporting such course classification, districts are required to transmit all of the following information to the Chancellor's Office: (1) the unique static course identifier and the course title for all courses regardless of whether they are for credit or noncredit; (2) the classification of each credit and noncredit course in accordance with its primary objective; (3) whether the course is credit or noncredit; (4) whether the course transfers to the California State University or the University of California or both; and (5) the number of community service classes and activities in each category and its participants.

Section 55002, (added in 1988, last amended in 1993) sets forth the standards and criteria for all district courses and classes. Different course standards are detailed for each of the following four main categories of courses offered by community college districts: (a) associate degree credit courses; (b) nondegree credit courses; (c) noncredit courses; and (d) community services courses. Subdivision (a)(1) requires the establishment, by each college and/or district, of a curriculum committee to evaluate and recommend all associate degree credit, nondegree credit and noncredit courses.

Subdivision (a)(2) sets forth the following standards that associate degree courses must meet to gain approval by the curriculum committee: (A) the grading policy must measure the student's proficiency in the subject matter by administering grades based upon uniform standards; (B) the units designated to a course must be based upon the number of hours a student spends in lecture or lab which must be at least three hours of work per week; (C) the course treats the subject matter with an intensity that requires independent study outside of the classroom; (D) prerequisites or corequisites must be required if the curriculum committee determines that students would be unable to obtain a satisfactory grade in the course without certain knowledge or skills not taught in the course; (E) if students need specific communication or computation skills to succeed in the course, the course must require the student to enroll in English or mathematics as a prerequisite; (F) the course work must command critical thinking and the understanding and application of concepts determined to be at college level; and (G) the course must require college level learning skills and vocabulary. Subdivision (a)(3) requires associate degree credit courses to be described in a detailed course outline that is maintained in the official college files and made available to each instructor. Subdivision (a)(4) requires each section of an associate degree credit course to be taught by a qualified instructor, and Subdivision (a)(5) sets forth the criteria for course repetition.

Subdivision (b) pertains to nondegree credit courses (courses that are not applicable to the associate degree). Pursuant to subdivision (b)(1), such courses include precollegiate basic skills courses, courses designed to enable students to succeed in college-level work, precollegiate occupational preparation courses designed to provide foundation skills, and essential occupational instruction. Subdivision (b)(2) sets forth the standards for which the curriculum committee must recommend approval of nondegree credit courses. Nondegree credit courses must meet the same grading policy, unit and intensity standards required of associate degree credit courses. Subdivisions (b)(3), (b)(4), and (b)(5) require the same policies regarding course outlines, course instructors, and course repetition that are required of associate degree credit classes. Subdivision (b)(2)(D) provides that prerequisites and corequisites may be required whenever the college deems them to be appropriate.

Subdivision (c) pertains to noncredit courses (courses recommended by the college and/or curriculum committee and approved by the district governing board as a course meeting the needs of enrolled students). Subdivision (c)(1) requires the college and/or district curriculum committee to recommend approval of such courses if the course treats subject matter and follows procedures that the committee deems to be appropriate for the enrolled students. Subdivision (c)(2) and (c)(3) require the same policies regarding course outlines and course instructors that are required of associate degree credit courses.

Subdivision (d) pertains to community services classes. Such classes must meet the following minimum requirements: the class must be approved by the local district governing board; the class must be designed for the physical, mental, moral, economic, or civic development of the people enrolled; the class must provide teaching methods deemed appropriate by the district governing board; the class must be conducted in accordance with a predetermined plan; the class must be open to all members of the community; and the class must not be claimed for apportionment purposes.

Section 55002.5 (added in 1991) establishes one credit hour of community college work to be approximately three hours of recitation, study, or laboratory work per week throughout a term of 16 weeks.

Section 55004 (added in 1991) specifies the scope of study for social sciences instruction. Such courses must include a study of the role, participation and contribution of both men and women, black Americans, Mexicans, American Indians, Asians, Pacific Island people, and other ethic groups of the economic, political and the social development of California and the United States of America.

Section 55005 (added in 1981, last amended in 1991) requires community colleges to determine and publish the following information for each course offered, prior to the student course enrollment period: (a) whether the course is for credit or noncredit or a community service class, (b) whether the course is transferrable to four year colleges or universities, (c) whether the course meets a major or general education requirement, and (d) whether the course is offered for credit or no credit and which provision of section 51302(a) is applicable.

Section 55006 (added in 1981, last amended in 1991) requires community college "authorities" to maintain and submit to the Chancellor any records and reports on district credit and non-credit courses and community service classes that the Chancellor may require to fulfill statutory responsibilities.

Section 55008, regarding the appointment of a vocational education advisory committee by school districts participating in vocational education programs, was repealed in 1993.

Approval of Courses

Section 55100 (added in 1981, last amended in 1991) requires the Chancellor to approve all courses offered by a community college before the course can be offered by the college. The course must be submitted to the Chancellor for approval on forms provided by the Chancellor's Office. Subdivision (b) provides that once an educational program has been approved by the Chancellor, the governing board of a district must establish policies for, and may approve individual courses which are offered as part of an approved program. Subdivision (c) requires the district to classify all courses or activities in accordance with section 55001, regardless of whether or not approval by the Chancellor is required.

Section 55101, regarding the Chancellor's Report, was repealed in 1985.

Section 55130 (added in 1981, last amended in 1991) provides that, prior to offering any course as part of an educational program at a college, district governing boards must obtain approval of the educational program from the Chancellor. Subdivision (b) requires the application for approval to include the following information: (1) the name of the program; (2) a description of the program; (3) the purposes and objectives of the program; (4) the location of the program in the district master plan; (5) an explanation of whether the program is appropriate to the objectives of higher education; (6) the need for the proposed program in relation to area, job market and enrollment projections, and (7) the need for and present adequacy of library and media center resources, facilities and equipment, financial support and available faculty. Subdivision (c) requires the faculty to be involved in the development, establishment and evaluation of all educational programs. Subdivision (d) provides that an approved program will remain effective unless it has been substantially modified by the district or terminated by the Chancellor, and subdivision (e) pertains to program approval in multicollege districts.

Section 55150 (added in 1981, last amended in 1991) requires all noncredit courses or programs offered by a district to be approved by the Chancellor. Subdivision

(b) requires outlines describing the course to be kept on file and Subdivision (c) requires authorities of each community college to keep all such current records and reports of the noncredit courses and that the Chancellor may require.

Section 55160 (added in 1981, last amended in 1991) authorizes districts to approve and conduct community service classes without the approval of the Chancellor. Subdivision (b) prohibits community services classes from being classified as noncredit classes.

Section 55170 (added in 1981, last amended in 1991) authorizes districts to approve and conduct "contract classes" without the Chancellor's approval if the district does not claim state support for the class. Subdivision (a) defines "contract classes" as those classes offered by a community college district which fulfill a contract with a public or private agency, corporation, association or other body or person.

Section 55180, regarding a Chancellor's Report, was repealed in 1991.

Section 55182 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) authorizes the governing board to reinstate any course which was removed from the credit or noncredit curriculum during the 1982-83 fiscal year, in response to provision Number 11 of Item 6870-101-001 of the Budget Act of 1982. The following procedures must be followed to reinstate such courses: (a) the governing board must only reinstate courses in a manner that is consistent with the Board of Governors policy that courses which are primarily avocational, or recreational must be offered as community services classes and not as credit or noncredit courses; (b) the governing board must determine that the course meets the criteria and standards for courses specified in section 55002; (c) a course may be reinstated only after it has been reviewed by the district board through the district's established procedures for approving new courses; (d) the course must be submitted to the Chancellor for approval; (e) the governing board must determine that the course, if reinstated, will be congruent with the mission of the community college and local needs; and (f) any course reinstated to the curriculum pursuant to a separate authorization of the Board of Governors shall be exempt from the requirements of this section.

Prerequisites and Corequisites

Section 55200 (added in 1993) provides the following terms and definitions pertinent to the prerequisite and corequisite approval process: (a)"prerequisite" means a requirement students must meet in order to determine their readiness to enroll in a course; (b) "corequiste" means a condition of enrollment consisting of a course a student is required to simultaneously take in order to enroll in another course; (c) "advisory on recommended preparation" means a condition of enrollment that a student is advised, but not required, to meet before or in conjunction with enrollment in a course or educational program; (d) "satisfactory grade" means that, for a specific course, the student's academic record contains the symbols A, B, C or "CR" as they are defined in Section 55758 of Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations; (e) "necessary and appropriate" means a strong rational basis exists for concluding that a prerequisite or corequisite is reasonably needed to achieve the purpose that it purports to serve; and

(f) "content review" means a rigorous, systematic process conducted by faculty to identify the necessary and appropriate body of knowledge or skills students need to possess prior to enrolling in a course, or which students need to acquire through concurrent enrollment in a corequisite course.

Section 55201 (added in 1983, last amended in 1998), in subdivision (a), authorizes the governing board to establish prerequisites, corequisites, and advisories on recommended preparation and requires prerequisites or corequisites if a course is to be offered for associate degree credit and the curriculum committee finds that either are necessary pursuant to Section 55002(a)(2)(D) or 55002(a)(2)(E).

Pursuant to subdivision (a), all prerequisites, corequisites, or advisories on recommended preparation must be established in accordance with the provisions of this Article and, pursuant to Subdivision (b), the district must adopt policies for all of the following: (1) the process for establishing such courses, in accordance with various specified guidelines; (2) procedures to assure that courses for which prerequisites or corequisites are established will be taught in accordance with the course outline; (3) the process, including levels of scrutiny, for review to assure that such preparatory courses remain necessary and appropriate; and (4) the bases and process for student challenge to a prerequisite or corequisite.

Subdivision (c) provides that prerequisites or corequisites may only be established for the following four purposes: (1) if expressly required or expressly authorized by statute or regulation; (2) if the prerequisite course will assure that a student has the skills, concepts, and/or information necessary to achieve a satisfactory grade in the course or program for which it is being established; (3) if the corequisite course will assure that a student acquires the necessary skills, concepts, and/or information, such that a student who has not enrolled in the corequisite is highly unlikely to receive a satisfactory grade in the course or program for which the corequisite is being established; or (4) if necessary to protect the health and safety of a student or others.

Subdivision (d) provides the following five exceptions to the requirement that a prerequisite or corequisite be scrutinized to determine if it is necessary and appropriate to achieve the purpose for which is has been established: (1) if established prior to July 6, 1990, and as part of a sequence of degree-applicable courses within a given discipline; (2) if established between July 6, 1990, and November 4, 1993, in accordance with regulations in effect during this period of time; (3) if required by statute or regulation; (4) if part of a closely-related lecture-laboratory course pairing within a discipline; or (5) if required by four-year institutions.

Subdivision (e) imposes an additional duty on districts seeking to require a communication or computation skills course as a prerequisite or corequisite for non-communication/computation classes. In such cases, a district must gather data to show that a student is highly unlikely to succeed in the course without the proposed prerequisite or corequisite. The Subdivision provides an exception to this data gathering requirement in either of the following two situations: (1) if the particular communication or computation skill prerequisite is required by four-year institutions in order to receive credit for the particular course; (2) if the prerequisite or corequisite is required for enrollment in a program that is subject to approval by a state agency other than the Chancellor's Office, colleges in at least six different districts have previously satisfied the data collection requirements for the same prerequisite or corequisite pertaining to the same program, and the district establishing the prerequisite or corequisite conducts an evaluation to determine whether it has a disproportionate impact on particular groups of students.

Subdivision (f) permits students to challenge any prerequisite or corequisite on any of the following six grounds: (1) if not properly established in accordance with district procedure; (2) if in violation of this Article; (3) if unlawfully discriminatory on its face or in its application; (4) if the student has the knowledge or ability to succeed in the course or program without the prerequisite or corequisite; (5) if the student will be subject to undue delay in attaining his or her educational goal because the prerequisite or corequisite course has not been made reasonably available; and (6) if any other grounds for challenge may be established by the district governing board.

Subdivision (g) requires districts to advise any student issuing a challenge to a prerequisite or corequisite that he or she may also file a formal complaint of unlawful discrimination.

Subdivision (h) requires that any district policies adopted pursuant to this section must be submitted to the Chancellor as part of the district's matriculation plan.

Section 55202 (added in 1993) outlines additional rules that apply to the establishment of prerequisites and corequisites. Subdivision (a) requires any such courses to be identified in college publications that are available to students as well as in the course outline of any course for which they are established. Subdivision (b) requires that prerequisites establishing communication or computational skill requirements be established on a course-by-course basis rather than across the entire curriculum. Subdivision (c) provides that the determination of whether a student meets a prerequisite shall be based either on successful completion of an appropriate course or on an assessment using multiple measures. Subdivision (d) provides that if a prerequisite requires precollegiate skills in reading, written expression, or mathematics, the governing board of a district must ensure that precollegiate basic skills courses designed to teach the required skills are offered with reasonable frequency and number. Subdivision (e) requires sufficient sections of any established corequisite to be offered to reasonably accommodate all students who are required to take the corequisite. If the sections are insufficient, the corequisite it is to be waived. Subdivision (f) prohibits districts from requiring an exit test to satisfy a prerequisite or corequisite unless it is incorporated into the grading for the prerequisite or corequisite course. Subdivision (g) requires the district to determine whether a student has met a prerequisite prior to that student's enrollment in the course requiring the prerequisite.

Distance Education Courses

Course approval standards are similarly applicable to distance education courses. The Title 5 regulations for distance education, previously numbered at Sections 55370 et seq., are now contained in Sections 55205 through 55219.

Section 55205 (added in 2002, former section 55370 repealed) defines "distance education" as instruction in which the instructor and student are separated by distance and interact through the assistance of communication technology. All distance education is subject to the general course approval requirements and the requirements that may be imposed by the Americans with Disabilities Act (42 U.S.C. Sec. 12100 et seq.).

Section 55207 (added in 2002, former section 55372 repealed) requires the same standards of course quality to be applied to distance education as are applied to traditional classroom courses, in regard to the course quality judgments and any local course quality determination or review process.

Section 55209 (added in 2002, former section 55374 repealed) requires determinations and judgments about the quality of distance education to be made with the full involvement of faculty in accordance with the provisions commencing with Section 53200 of Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations.

Section 55211 (added in 2002, former section 55376 repealed) requires district governing boards to ensure that all approved courses offered as distance education include regular effective contact between instructors and students and that all distance education courses are delivered consistently with guidelines issued by the Chancellor pursuant to Section 409 of the Procedures and Standing Orders of the Board of Governors (pertaining to a report from a committee on distance learning).

Section 55213 (added in 2002, former section 55378 repealed) requires each distance learning course to be separately reviewed and approved, according to the district's certified course approval procedures.

Section 55215 (added in 2002, former section 55380 repealed) requires that instructors of sections delivered via distance education technology must be selected by the same procedures used to determine all instructional assignments.

Section 55217 (added in 2002) requires the determination of the number of students assigned to any one course offered by distance learning to be consistent with other district procedures related to faculty assignments, including curriculum committee review and collective bargaining methods.

Section 55219 (added in 2002) requires the district to comply with certain recordkeeping and reporting requirements for noncredit and nontransferable distance learning courses, including an annual report to the district governing board, and compliance with Section 409 of the Procedures and Standing Orders of the Board of Governors (pertaining to a report from a committee on distance learning).

Independent Study Courses

Sections 55300 (added in 1978, last amended 1992) and 55310 (added in 1978, last amended 1991) require the college district to report approved independent study courses to the Chancellor in the manner specified by the Chancellor.

Section 55316 (added in 1978, last amended in 1994) requires independent study courses to be accepted for the purpose of awarding associate degrees and to be recognized by the California State College and University systems.

Section 55316.5 (added in 1994, last amended June 19, 2002) allows independent study courses to include nontransferable courses and non credit courses if offered as distance learning.

Section 55320 (added in 1978, last amended in 1991) states that the academic standards for independent study courses will be the same as those applied to credit courses.

Section 55321 (added in 1978, last amended in 1991) requires the district to establish student progress evaluation procedures and requires instructors of Independent Study courses to prepare a report which certifies the satisfactory progress of each student toward course objectives, for state apportionment purposes.

Section 55322 (added in 1978, last amended in 1991) requires the college to provide independent study students the same access to their course instructor as that available for other courses.

Section 55340 (added in 1978, last amended in 1994) requires independent study courses to meet all the requirements of curriculum approval and standards in order to be eligible for state funds.

Section 55350 (added in 1978, last amended in 1991) requires instructors of independent study courses to be qualified for the services provided; be responsible for the supervision and control of the course and enrolled students; provide orientation and guidance to each student; and provide a schedule of office hours.

CONDITION 12 VOCATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAMS

Chapter 977, Statutes of 1979, Section 7 added Education Code Section 78015,[28] effective September 22, 1979, to require at subdivision (a), that the governing board of a community college district, prior to establishing a vocational or occupational training program, shall conduct a job market study of the standard metropolitan statistical area, to insure that the anticipated employment demand for students in the proposed programs justifies the establishment of the proposed courses of instruction. The study must be conducted by the district's advisory committee on vocational

To the extent possible, the study shall use the California Occupational Information System, as defined in Section 52301.5, and other available sources of labor market information. The study shall be conducted in cooperation with the Employment Development Department, prospective employers, and the district's advisory committee on vocational education. The Employment Development Department may cooperate in the study, to the extent possible, within existing resources. The study shall include an analysis of existing vocational and occupational education or training programs for adults maintained by high schools, community colleges, and private postsecondary schools in the area to insure that the anticipated employment demand for students in the proposed programs justifies the establishment of the proposed courses of instruction.

(b) Subsequent to completing the study required by this section and prior to establishing the program, the governing board of the community college district shall determine whether or not the study justifies the proposed vocational education program.

(c) If the governing board of the community college district determines that the job market study justifies the initiation of the proposed program, it shall, by resolution, determine whether the program shall be offered through the district's own facilities or through a contract with an approved private postsecondary school pursuant to the provisions of Section 8092."

Subdivision (b) requires that after completing the study the district shall determine whether or not the study justifies the proposed vocational education program. If so, pursuant to subdivision (c), the governing board of the community college district shall determine by resolution whether the program shall be offered through the district's own facilities or through a contract with an approved private post secondary school pursuant to Section 8092.

Chapter 977, Statutes of 1979, Section 8, effective September 22, 1979, added Education Code Section 78016[29] to require at subdivision (a) that beginning in 1979, every vocational or occupational training program offered by a community college district shall be reviewed every two years by the governing board of the district to ensure it meets a documented labor market demand, does not unnecessarily duplicate other manpower training programs in the area and it is effective in obtaining employment for students and ensuring they complete the program.

The study shall include a California Occupational Information System supply analysis of existing vocational and occupational education or training programs for adults maintained by high schools, community colleges, and private postsecondary schools in the area to ensure that the anticipated employment demand for students in the proposed programs justifies the establishment of the proposed courses of instruction.

(2) The governing board of the community college district shall make copies of each job market study available to the public.

(b) Subsequent to completing the study required by this section and prior to establishing the program, the governing board of the community college district shall determine whether or not the study justifies the proposed vocational education program.

(c) If the governing board of the community college district determines that the job market study district must make copies of each job market study available to the public.

Chapter 365, Statutes of 1998, Section 2 amended Education Code Section 78016[36] to require, for the first time, that a written summary of the findings of each review must be made available to the public.

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

Section 51022, subdivision (a) (added in 1984 and last amended in 1991) requires the governing board of each community college district to, by July 1, 1984, develop and implement policies for the establishment, modification, or discontinuance of courses or programs, including responsibilities regarding vocational training programs pursuant to Education Code Section 78016.

(3) Is of demonstrated effectiveness as measured by the employment and completion success of its students.

(b) Any program that does not meet the requirements of subdivision (a) and the standards promulgated by the governing board shall be terminated within one year.

(c) The review process required by this section shall include the review and comments by the local Private Industry Council established pursuant to Division 8 (commencing with Section 15000) of the Unemployment Insurance Code, which review and comments shall occur prior to any decision by the appropriate governing body.

Contracts

Section 55600 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1993), in subdivision (a), defines "vocational education contracts" as agreements between any community college district and a contractor that meet the standards prescribed herein to provide vocational instruction for community college students. Subdivision (b) defines "The California State Plan for Vocational Education" as an agreement between the California State Board of Education and the United States Commissioner of Education that provides policies, procedures and standards that must apply to the operation of various phases of vocational education to qualify for financial support. Subdivision (c) defines a "contractor" as any private post secondary school authorized or approved pursuant to provisions of chapter 3 which has been in operation not less than 2 full calendar years prior to the effective date of the contract. Subdivision (d) defines "eligible costs" as all direct and indirect related instructional costs excluding capital outlay.

Section 55601 (added in 1993) requires the governing board of each community college district participating in a vocational education program to appoint a vocational education advisory committee to develop recommendations on the program and to provide a liaison between the district and potential employers.

Section 55602 (added in 1991) states that any community college district or districts may contract with approved private post secondary schools or with an activity center, work activity center, or sheltered work shop to provide vocational skill training provided that the amount contracted for per student does not exceed the total cost it would to provide the same training in the community college or the tuition the private post secondary school charges its students. In addition, the community college student receiving training pursuant to the contract must not be charged additional tuition and all programs, courses, and classes of instruction shall meet the standards set forth in the California State Plan for Vocational Education. All such contracts must be approved by the Chancellor who may audit the accounts of both the district and the private party involved in these contracts to the extent necessary to assure the integrity of the public funds involved.

Section 55602.5 (added in 1991 and last amended in 1994) authorizes the governing board of a community college district to enter into a contract with a public or private entity for the education of students who are impaired by a physical deficiency or injury in vocational education classes to be conducted for such students by the contract agency. All classes shall be approved and supervised by the governing board of the community college and shall be taught by academic employees.

Section 55603 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) requires contractors to provide technical, vocational or occupational instruction that will prepare students for gainful employment, occupational upgrading, or enrollment in more advanced training programs.

Section 55604, regarding the application for approval, was repealed in 1983.

Section 55605 (added in 1977 and last amended in 1991) provides that vocational education contracts shall not exceed one year, be approved by the Chancellor, and include such details to explain and justify intended offerings. The contracts are to be "maintained in conformity" with applicable provisions of the Education Code, Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations, California Community Colleges Budget and Accounting Manual, and the California State Plan for Vocational Education, and administered by community college districts in such a manner that there will be separate accounts for all income and expenditures applicable to the contract.

Section 55606, regarding administration, was repealed in 1983.

Section 55607 (added in 1977 and last amended in 1991) requires each district that has entered into a contract with a contractor to submit annually to the Chancellor statistical and evaluative reports on forms provided by the Chancellor. All records related to income and expenditures applicable to the contract are to be made available for an audit by the state or federal government for five (5) years or one year after audited, whichever comes first.

Section 55608, regarding accounting procedures, was repealed in 1983.

Contracting Standards

Section 55620 (added in 1977 and last amended in 1991) provides that the following conditions must be used to determine the appropriateness of vocational education contracts with contractors: (a) manpower needs and job opportunities are identified for the instruction program; (b) the program or courses are not already available in the region served; (c) the program or courses provide vocational education opportunities that are not already available; (d) the program or courses shall not reduce or supplant the vocational education efforts of any district; (e) eligible costs shall not exceed the same cost to provide the same training in the public entity or the tuition the private postsecondary school charges its private citizens; (f) the community college student may not be charged additional tuition for any training included in the contract; (g) students are eligible to enroll under a contract if they are sixteen years of age and are enrolled in a community college; and (h) the contractor must be accredited by an accrediting agency recognized by the United States Office of Education or conform to guidelines on contractual relationships with nonaccredited organizations established by the agency accrediting the community college.

Contract Provisions

Section 55630 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1991) requires contracts to include the following provisions: (a) that the governing board of the community college district has determined by resolution the appropriateness of offering the program; (b) methods for identifying eligible costs and payment procedures; (c) procedures and conditions relating to enrollment period, student transfer, class hours required to meet performance objectives, supervision of staff and withdrawal of students prior to completion of a course or program; (d) that the contractor and community college district will insure students receive additional support services; (e) qualified faculty will provide instruction; (f) performance objectives for each class and a report regarding accomplishments of the objectives at the end of each contract period; (g) the contractor will maintain records of student attendance and achievement; (h) terms and condition relating to termination of the contract; (i) the contractor is in compliance with Civil Rights Act of 1964; (j) the contractor provides workers' compensation insurance coverage for any student; and (k) the contractor provides indemnity and defense for the state and community college district against any and all claims and liability.

CONDITION 13 COURSE ARTICULATION-LOCAL

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to develop and implement policies and procedures to provide that district courses and programs are articulated with proximate four-year colleges and high schools.

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

Section 51022, Subdivision (b) (added in 1984 and last amended in 1991) requires the governing board of each community college district to by July 1, 1984 to develop, file with the Chancellor, and carry out its policies and procedures to ensure that its courses and programs are articulated with proximate four-year colleges and high schools. It is reasonable to conclude that the articulation agreements would need to be updated on an ongoing basis to remain useful. The scope of this articulation mandate appears to separate and distinct of the transfer center requirements, discussed below.

CONDITION 14 ACADEMIC FREEDOM

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to adopt, implement and comply with policies and procedures pertaining to faculty academic freedom as a minimum condition for receipt of state aid.

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

Section 51023 (added in 1984 and last amended in 1994), at subdivision (a), requires the governing board of a community college district to adopt and implement a policy statement on academic freedom which shall be made available to faculty and be filed with the Chancellor. Subdivision (c) requires the district to substantially comply with the policy and procedures adopted pursuant to subdivision (a).

CONDITION 15 SHARED GOVERNANCE

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to adopt, implement and comply with policies and procedures pertaining to a system of shared governance with faculty, staff and students, as a minimum condition for receipt of state aid.

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

The regulations implementing the shared governance minimum conditions for state aid are found in three Title 5 sections, 51023, 51023.5, and 51023.7.

Faculty Shared Governance: Academic Senates

Section 51023 (added in 1984 and last amended in 1994), in subdivision (b), requires the governing board of a community college district to adopt procedures which are consistent with the provisions of Sections 53000-53206[37], regarding the role of academic senates and faculty councils and to file such procedures with the Chancellor. Subdivision (c) requires the district to substantially comply with the policies and procedures adopted pursuant to subdivision (b).

Section 53200 (last amended in 1994) establishes definitions for the establishment and operation of the district academic senate. Subdivision (a) defines the term "faculty" as those employees who are employed in non-supervisory or management positions and for which minimum qualifications for hire is specified by the Board of Governors. Subdivision (b) defines an "academic senate" as an organization whose purpose is to make recommendations to the college and district administration with respect to academic and professional matters. Subdivision (c) defines the phrase "academic and professional matters" as any of the following policy development and implementation matters: curriculum; degree and certificate requirements; grading policies; educational program development; standards or policies regarding student preparation and success; district and college governance structures; involvement in accreditation processes; policies for faculty professional development activities; processes for program review; processes for institutional planning and budget [37] Sections 53000 through 53064 were the subject of affirmative action and equal employment requirements until 2002, at which time the sections were completely replaced by new "post-Connerly" regulations, which are the subject of another part of this test claim. Sections 53100-53102 were repealed in May 1993. Section 53125 pertains to the transfer of accumulated sick leave, which is not the subject of this test claim.

Section 53130 (new section filed) requires the governing board to publish and make available to each academic employee reasonable rules and regulations pertaining to performance evaluations.

development; and any other academic and professional matters mutually agreed upon between the governing board and the academic senate. Finally, subdivision (d) defines the phrase "consult collegially" as the requirement that districts develop and implement policies on academic and professional matters providing for a collegial consultation process with the academic senate. Such policies may allow the district to rely primarily upon the advice and judgment of the academic senate, require mutual agreement by the district and academic senate, or provide for the use of both methods.

Section 53201 (last amended in 1990) provides that academic senates may be established at the college and/or district level so that the faculty may participate in the formation and implementation of district policies on academic and professional matters.

Section 53202 (last amended in 1990) establishes the procedures for the establishment and operation of an academic senate. Subdivision (a) requires that the full-time faculty of a community college must vote by secret ballot to form an academic senate. Subdivision (c) requires the district governing board to authorize the faculty to fix the composition, structure and procedures of the academic senates and provide for the selection of members by democratic election procedures.

Section 53203 (added in 1990 and last amended in 1994) delineates the powers of the governing board and academic senate within the context of the consultation process. Subdivision (a) requires the district governing board to adopt policies for delegation of authority to its academic senate and procedures for responding to recommendations of the academic senate. Subdivision (b) requires the governing board to consult collegially with representatives of the academic senate when adopting such policies and procedures. Subdivision (f) requires an academic senate to consult with the chief executive officer prior to the appointment of faculty members to serve on any district groups dealing with academic and professional matters.

Section 53204 (added in 1990 and last amended in 1994) states that the academic senate consultation process is not intended to modify the scope nor to detract from any negotiated agreements between collective bargaining representatives and district governing boards.

Section 53206 (added in 1978 and last amended in 1994) establishes the Academic Senate for California Community Colleges, which is the subject of another test claim.

Section 53207 (added in 2003) requires community college districts to grant release or reassigned time to the faculty members who have been elected to serve as president and vice president of the Academic Senate of the California Community Colleges (ASCCC). Subdivision (b) provides that the ASCCC will determine and report to the district employing such faculty members the amount of release or reassigned time which will be required. Subdivision (c) provides for district reimbursement by the ASCCC for the reasonable and documented administrative costs associated with hiring faculty to replace the faculty serving as president and vice president of the ASCCC. Subdivision (d) permits a district to refuse to grant such release or reassigned time in cases where the faculty member is in a position for which a qualified temporary replacement cannot be found to meet the needs of the students. Subdivision (e) provides that no district shall be required to grant release or reassigned time for an individual serving as president or vice president of the ASCCC for a period exceeding four years.

Staff Shared Governance

Section 51023.5 (added in 1991 and last amended in 1994) requires community college districts to provide a process whereby non-academic district staff members are given an opportunity to participate in college governance. The governing board must, pursuant to subdivision (a), adopt and pursuant to subdivision (d), substantially comply with polices and procedures to provide a shared governance process for its district and college non-academic staff. Such policies and procedures must provide district staff with the opportunity to participate in the formulation of all district polices and procedures which have significant effect on staff. District staff must also be permitted to select members of the boards and organizations established for the consultation process. In addition, the policies and procedures are required to include the following: definitions of non-faculty staff positions that the governing board is required to recognize; participation structures and procedures; a mandate for the governing board to consult with the representatives of existing staff organizations when developing the above-mentioned staff definitions and participation structures; opportunities for staff to participate in the development of district policies and procedures; an opportunity for staff to participate in the development of any matter having a "significant affect" on staff, prior to any action being taken on such matters; an assurance that staff opinions will be given every reasonable consideration; and a provision that the selection of any staff representatives are to be made from the category that they represent and by those organizations that the governing board has officially recognized, when required by law. Districts are prohibited from allowing the consultation process to encroach upon either the collective bargaining process, pursuant to subdivision (b), or the academic faculty process, pursuant to subdivision (c).

Student Shared Governance

Section 51023.7 (added in 1991 and last amended in 1994), requires community college districts to provide a process whereby its students are given an opportunity to participate in college governance. The governing board must, pursuant to subdivision (a), adopt and pursuant to subdivision (e), substantially comply with polices and procedures to provide a shared governance process for the student body and its student organizations. Such policies and procedures must provide students with the opportunity to participate in the formulation of any district polices and procedures that have significant effect on students, as defined in subdivisions (b) and (c), and for students to participate in the selection of representatives of the bodies that participate in the process. The district is to give reasonable consideration to the student's recommendations and positions relating to college governance. As outlined in subdivision (b), the district policies and procedures that are considered to have a "significant effect on students" include the following: grading policies; codes of student conduct; academic disciplinary policies; curriculum development; courses or programs which should be initiated or discontinued; processes for institutional planning and budget development; standards and policies regarding student preparation and success; student services planning and development; student fees within the authority of the district to adopt; and any other district and college matter that the district governing board determines will have a significant effect on students. Subdivision (d) prohibits the student consultation process from encroaching upon the shared governance, due process, or collective bargaining rights granted to the district faculty or staff.

CONDITION 16 MATRICULATION SERVICES

Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act of 1986

Chapter 1467, Statutes of 1986, Section 1, added Education Code sections 78210 -78218, and thereby established the community college matriculation program entitled the "Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act of 1986".

Chapter 1467, Statutes of 1986, Section 1, added Section 78211[38], to state that the intent of the Legislature in enacting the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act was to accomplish the following goals: to ensure equal education opportunity for all Californians; to ensure that students receive the educational services necessary to optimize their opportunities for success; to provide students with the information to establish realistic educational goals; and to ensure that the matriculation process does not exclude students from receiving appropriate educational services at community colleges.

Chapter 1467, Statutes of 1986, Section 1, added Section 78211.5[39] to require the Chancellor to provide for full implementation of the matriculation services specified in Section 78212 in as many community colleges as the funds appropriated for the purpose allow. In addition, the section required that any college or district receiving funding must agree to carry out the provisions of the article, as specified, for the period during which funding is received pursuant to the article. The college or district was required to expend the funds received pursuant to the article only for those matriculation services approved by the Chancellor or for the contribution of matching funds toward the purposes of the article as may be required by the Chancellor pursuant to Section 78216.

"(a) The Chancellor of the California Community Colleges shall initially provide for full implementation of the matriculation services specified in Section 78212 in as many community colleges as the funds appropriated for this purpose allow.
(b) Because of the need to develop and evaluate data on a standard statewide basis concerning the implementation and effectiveness of the matriculation services described in this article, any college or district receiving funding under this article shall agree to carry out its provisions as specified, but shall be bound to that agreement only for the period during which funding is received pursuant to this article. The obligations of the college or district under the agreement shall include, but not be limited to, the expenditure of funds received pursuant to this article for only those matriculation services approved by the chancellor and the contribution toward the purposes of this article of such matching funds as the chancellor may require pursuant to Section 78216."

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

As a minimum condition for receipt of state aid, Title 5, Section 51024 (added in 1990 and last amended in 1992) requires the governing board of each community college district to: (a) adopt and submit to the Chancellor a matriculation plan; (b) evaluate its matriculation program and participate in statewide evaluation activities; (c) provide matriculation services to its students; (d) establish procedures for waivers and appeals in connection with its matriculation program; and to (e) substantially comply with all other provisions of Sections 55500 through 55534.

Scope of Matriculation Programs

Title 5, Section 55500 begins the regulatory requirements established in 1990 for the matriculation programs. This section (added in 1990 and last amended in 1992) requires that the regulations be "read in conjunction with the provisions of the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act of 1986." The section provides that the matriculation program requirements apply only to districts receiving funds pursuant to Education Code Section 78216 for the period of time during which such funds are received.

Section 55502 (added in 1990 and last amended in 1994) provides definitions for the implementation of the programs which supplement those in the Education Code. As detailed in this section, the following definitions apply: a) "matriculation" means a process that brings a college and a student who enrolls for credit into an agreement for the purpose of realizing the student's educational goal through the college's established programs, policies, and requirements; b) "assessment" means the process of gathering information about individual students to facilitate student success, including information regarding the student's study skills, English language proficiency, computational skills, aptitudes, goals, learning skills, career aspirations, academic performance, and need for special services. Only after a grade has been assigned and recorded in the student's transcript can it be used in the assessment process; c) "assessment instruments, methods, or procedures" include interviews, standardized tests, holistic scoring processes, attitude surveys, vocational or career aptitude and interest inventories, high school or college transcripts, specialized certificates or licenses, educational histories and other measures of performance; d) "pre-collegiate basic skills courses" are those courses in reading, writing, computation, and English as a Second Language which are designated by the community college district as nondegree credit courses pursuant to Section 55002(b); e) "disproportionate impact" occurs when the percentage of persons from a particular racial, ethnic, gender, age or disability group who are directed to a particular service or placement based on an assessment procedure is significantly different from the representation of that group in the population of persons being assessed, and that discrepancy is not justified by empirical evidence demonstrating that the assessment procedure is a valid and reliable predictor of performance in the relevant educational setting; f) "exemption" means waiving or deferring a student's participation in any required orientation, assessment, counseling, or advisement activities; g) "matriculation services" are those services listed in Section 55520; h) "matriculation practices" means one or more instruments, methods, or procedures used in providing any of the matriculation services listed in Section 55520; i) "student" means a person enrolled in at least one credit course; j) "orientation" is a process which acquaints students and potential students with college programs, services, facilities and grounds, academic expectations, and institutional procedures; and k) "student follow-up" is the process of monitoring a student's progress toward his or her educational goals and providing the student with appropriate advice based on the results of such monitoring.

Planning and Administration of Matriculation Programs

Section 55510 (added in 1990 and last amended in 1994) requires each community college district adopt, as specified in subdivision (a), a matriculation plan describing the services to be provided to its students. Subdivision (b) requires that the plan be developed through consultation with representatives of the academic senate, students, and staff. Subdivision (c) requires the plans to conform to law, and to be submitted to the Chancellor for initial and periodic review and approval.

Section 55512 (added in 1990) requires each community college district to establish a program of institutional research for ongoing evaluation of its matriculation process. All assessment instruments, methods or procedures must be evaluated to determine whether any assessment instrument, method or procedure has a disproportionate impact on particular groups of students, in which case the district will, in consultation with the Chancellor, develop and implement a plan setting forth the steps the district will take to correct the disproportionate impact. The Chancellor is required to establish a system for evaluation of the matriculation program on a statewide basis.

Section 55514 (added in 1990) requires each community college district to submit an annual report describing the district's efforts to implement its matriculation plan and expenditures made for that purpose. The report must include specified program outcome data on students from various ethnic, gender, age or disability groups.

Section 55516 (added in 1990) requires each community college district to develop and implement a program for providing all faculty and staff with training on the provision of matriculation services. The training must be appropriate to faculty needs and include the following information: the proper purpose, design, evaluation, and use of assessment instruments, methods or procedures, as well as their limitations and possible misuse.

Section 55518 (added in 1990) requires the Chancellor to adopt a funding formula for allocating matriculation funds to community college districts complying with the requirements of this chapter which requires that each dollar of state matriculation funding shall be matched by three dollars of other district resources devoted to the matriculation program.

Required Matriculation Services

Section 55520 (added in 1990) provides the list of required matriculation services, which essentially restates the statutory enumeration. The list includes the following mandated services: processing of admission applications; orientation; assessment; counseling; assistance in developing an educational plan; post enrollment evaluation; and referral to both support services and specialized curriculum offerings.

Section 55521 (added in 1990 and last amended in 1992) provides a statement of prohibited and discriminatory matriculation assessment practices. The following practices are listed as prohibited uses of assessment instruments: any use that has not been approved by the Chancellor; use in a manner or for a purpose other than that for which it was developed or validated for; use of any single instrument by itself for student placement, evaluation or referral purposes; to exclude any person from admission; to mandatorily place a student in or exclude from any educational program, unless as an established prerequisite; to subject any person to unlawful discrimination. Pursuant to subdivision (b), assessment instruments may be used to determine "ability to benefit" in evaluating a student's eligibility for financial aid.

Section 55522 (added in 1990) requires that appropriate modifications be made in the matriculation process for ethnic and language minority students and students with disabilities so that their needs are accommodated.

Section 55523 (added in 1990) requires Community College districts to make reasonable efforts to provide counseling and advisement services for all nonexempt students who: are on probation; have not declared a specific educational goal; or are enrolled in pre-collegiate basic skills courses. Also, counseling services must be made available for all students to advise them on general academic requirements and the selection of specific courses.

Section 55524 (added in 1990) requires the Chancellor to establish and provide to community college districts an annual list of approved assessment instruments and guidelines for their use. Such guidelines must identify any special modifications approved for compliance with section 55522 (Special Accommodations) and also describe the procedure by which districts may seek to have assessment instruments approved and added to the list.

Section 55525 (added in 1990 and last amended in 1994) requires the district to establish a process for assisting students to select a specific educational goal and for affording students with an opportunity to develop a written educational plan. Any such educational plan that has been developed must be recorded and reviewed as necessary by the district to ensure that the plan continues to accurately reflect the needs and goals of the student. The district must also afford a student the right to file a complaint pursuant to Section 55534(a) if that student believes the district has violated the requirements of this Section.

Section 55526 (added in 1990) requires the district to establish a follow-up process to assist the student in achieving his or her educational goal which includes regular monitoring to detect early signs of academic difficulty and advice or referral to specialized services where necessary. In addition, students who have not declared a specific educational goal, who are enrolled in pre-collegiate basic skills courses, or who are on probation shall be identified and referred to advisement.

Student Rights, Appeals, and Waivers

Section 55530 (added in 1990 and last amended in 1993) provides a list of student rights and responsibilities. Districts must ensure that information is available in written form to all students during or prior to enrollment (e.g., during orientation) and is included in class schedules, catalogs or other appropriate publications, describing their rights and responsibilities. Districts must also take steps to ensure that the matriculation process is efficient and avoids additional student testing by permitting students to submit scores on recently taken tests that correlate with those used by the district. The governing board of each community college district must adopt clear written policies that are not inconsistent with law and that specifically define these student responsibilities and the consequences of failure to fulfill such responsibilities. Once the student has developed a specific educational goal, the district must provide the student with an opportunity to develop a student educational plan.

Section 55532 (added in 1990) requires districts that elect to exempt certain students from participation in orientation, assessment, counseling or advisement to establish policies and procedures for doing so. Such policies must specify the grounds for exemption, be identified in the matriculation plan and be reported to the Chancellor. Any student exempted pursuant to this section must be notified that he or she is covered by an exemption and must be given the opportunity to choose whether or not to participate in that part of the matriculation process. The Chancellor is required to analyze and recommend necessary changes regarding the impact on the matriculation program of any exemption policies adopted by the districts.

Section 55534 (added in 1990 and last amended in 1993) requires the district to establish written procedures by which students may challenge any alleged violation of the matriculation program. Districts are required to investigate and attempt to resolve any such complaints in a timely manner. Records of all such complaints must be retained for at least three years after the complaint has been resolved and will be subject to review by the Chancellor. When a challenge contains an allegation that a community college district has been discriminatory, the district must, upon completion of the challenge procedure established pursuant to this Section, advise the student that he or she may file a formal complaint of unlawful discrimination pursuant to Subchapter 5 (commencing with Section 59300) of Chapter 10 of this Division. Completion of the challenge procedure shall be deemed to satisfy the requirement of Section 59328(b) that the district and the student attempt informal resolution of the complaint.

CONDITION 17 FULL-TIME / PART-TIME FACULTY

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to ensure that their faculty pool consists of 75% full-time faculty ratio.

Chapter 973, Statutes of 1988, Section 35, added Education Code Section 87482.6[50]. Subdivision (a) required Community Colleges to apply a portion of any

[50]Education Code Section 87482.6, as added by Chapter 973, Statutes of 1988, Section 35:

"(a) Until the provisions of Section 84750 regarding program-based funding are implemented by a standard adopted by the board of governors that establishes the appropriate percentage of hours of credit instruction that should be taught by full-time instructors, the Legislature wishes to recognize and make efforts to address longstanding policy of the board of governors that at least 75 percent of the hours of credit instruction in the California Community Colleges, as a system, should be taught by full-time instructors. To this end, community college districts which have less than 75 percent of their hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors shall apply a portion of the program improvement allocation received pursuant to Section 84755 as follows:

(1) Districts which, in the prior fiscal year, had between 67 percent and 75 percent of their

"program improvement" funds received pursuant to Education Code Section 84755, according to certain guidelines to ensure that at least 75 percent of credit instruction hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors shall apply up to 33 percent of their program improvement allocation as necessary to reach the 75 percent standard. If a district in this category chooses instead not to improve its percentage, the board of governors shall withhold 33 percent of the district's program improvement allocation.

(2) Districts which, in the prior fiscal year, had less than 67 percent of their hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors shall apply up to 40 percent of their program improvement allocation as necessary to reach the 75 percent standard. If a district in this category chooses instead not to improve its percentage, the board of governors shall withhold 40 percent of the district's program improvement allocation.

Districts which maintain 75 percent or more of their hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors shall otherwise be free to use their program improvement allocation for any of the purposes specified in Section 84755.

(b) The board of governors shall adopt regulations for the effective administration of this section. Unless and until amended by the board of governors, the regulations shall provide as follows:

(1) In computing the percentage of hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors, the hours of overload teaching by full-time instructors shall be excluded from both the total hours of credit instruction taught by full-time and part-time instructors and the total hours of instruction taught by full-time instructors.

(2) A full-time instructor shall be defined as any regular and contract faculty member teaching credit instruction.

(3) The chancellor shall compute and report to each community college district the number of full-time faculty (FF.) which are to be secured through the use of the prescribed portion of program improvement revenue allocated to each district. This computation shall be made by dividing the applicable portion of program improvement revenue (0 percent, 33 percent, or 40 percent of the program improvement allocation), by the statewide average "replacement cost" (a figure which represents the statewide average faculty salary plus benefits, minus the statewide average hourly rate of compensation for part-time instructors times the statewide average full-time teaching load). If the quotient is not a whole number, then the quotient shall be rounded down to the nearest whole number. If this quotient, once applied, will result in the district exceeding the 75 percent standard, the chancellor shall further reduce the quotient to a whole number that will leave the district as close as possible to, but in excess of, the 75 percent standard.

By March 15th of each year, the chancellor shall report to each district an estimate of the number of FTF to be secured based upon the appropriation of revenues contained in the annual Budget Bill.

(4) On or before December 31, 1991, the chancellor shall determine the extent to which each district, by September 30, 1991, has hired the number of FTF determined pursuant to paragraph (3) for the 1989-90 and 1990-91 fiscal years. To the extent that the cumulative number of FTF have not been retained, the chancellor shall reduce the district's base budget for 1991-92 and subsequent fiscal years by an amount equivalent to the average replacement cost times the deficiency in the number of FTF."

hours would be taught by full-time instructors in Community College Districts. Districts which had between 67 percent and 75 percent of credit instruction hours taught by full-time instructors in the previous fiscal year, were required to apply up to 33 percent of their program improvement allocation toward the goal of attaining the 75 percent standard. If a district in this category chose not to improve its percentage, the board of governors was required to withhold 33 percent of that district's program improvement allocation for that year. Those districts with less than 67 percent of credit instruction hours taught by full-time instructors, were required to apply up to 40 percent of their program improvement allocation to reach the 75 percent standard. If a district in this category chose not to improve its percentage, the board of governors was required to withhold 40 percent of that district's program improvement allocation for the year. Finally, districts which successfully met or surpassed the 75 percent standard in the previous year, were to be free to use their program improvement allocation for any of the purposes specified in Section 84755. Subdivision (b) required the Board of Governors to adopt regulations administering this section. Such regulations were to adhere to the following specifications unless and until amended by the Board of Governors at a later date: (1) the hours of overload teaching by full-time instructors were required to be excluded when computing the percentage of hours of credit instruction taught; (2) the definition of a full-time instructor would be "any regular and contract faculty member teaching credit instruction"; (3) the Chancellor was required to compute, according to specified computation methods, the number of full-time faculty (FTF) to be secured through the use of the prescribed portion of program improvement revenue allocated to each district. By March 15th of each year, the Chancellor would be required to report to each district an estimate of the number of FTF to be secured based upon the appropriation of revenues contained in the annual Budget Bill; (4) On or before December 31, 1991, the Chancellor was required to determine the extent to which each district, by September 30, 1991, had hired the number of FTF (as determined pursuant to 87482.6(b)(3)) for the 1989-90 and 1990-91 fiscal years. To the extent that the cumulative number of FTF had not been retained, the Chancellor was required to reduce the district's base budget for 1991-92 and subsequent fiscal years by an amount equivalent to the average replacement cost times the deficiency in the number of FTF.

Chapter 1038, Statutes of 1991, Section 12.3, added Education Code Section 87482.7[51] to require the board of governors to adopt regulations to establish minimum standards regarding the percentage of hours of credit instruction that must be taught by full-time instructors. The section also authorized the Department of Finance to transfer any funds deducted from district apportionments, pursuant to any such regulations adopted, to the Faculty and Staff Diversity Fund.

"(a) The board of governors shall, pursuant to paragraph (6) of subdivision (b) of Section 70901, adopt regulations that establish minimum standards regarding the percentage of hours of credit instruction that shall be taught by full-time instructors.

(b) Upon notice by the board of governors, the Department of Finance shall transfer any money deducted from district apportionments pursuant to the regulations adopted under this section. This money shall be transferred to the Faculty and Staff Diversity Fund pursuant to Section 87107."

75% Standard

The regulations implementing full-time faculty requirements established by Education Code section 87482.7, as a condition for state aid are found in Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations, Section 51025, which relates to and should be read in conjunction with Sections 53300-53320.

Section 51025 (added in 1991 and last amended in 2000), subdivision (a), requires that if a district's full-time faculty percentage, as calculated pursuant to Section 53308, is less than 75 percent, the district must increase the base full-time faculty obligation whenever the Board of Governors determines, pursuant to subdivision (e), that adequate funds ("growth revenues" and "program improvement funds") have been provided. Districts that fail to meet or maintain the full-time faculty ratios shall have their revenues reduced by the amount computed by the Chancellor, and those funds shall be utilized by the district, pursuant to subdivision (d), for the purposes of faculty and staff diversity, pursuant to Education Code section 87107 (which has since been ruled unconstitutional by Connerly.)

Full-Time Equivalent Faculty

Section 53300 (added in 1990 and last amended in 1998) requires Sections 53300 - 53320 be read in conjunction with Section 51025.

Section 53301 (added in 2000) defines the term "part-time faculty" as any faculty member who is not a regular employee or contract employee of the district.

Section 53302 (added in 1990 and last amended in 2000) defines the term "full-time faculty" as any faculty member who is a regular or contract employee of the district.

Section 53308 (added in 2000), outlines the calculation method to be used when determining a district's full-time faculty percentage.

Section 53309 (added in 2000 and last amended in 2001), outlines certain rules to be followed when calculating full-time equivalent faculty attributable to full-time faculty. Different calculation methods are described for the following areas: instruction; non-instructional activities; regular assignment; overload; sabbatical; released-reassigned time; unpaid leave; teaching by others; and late retirement.

Computation of the Ratio

Section 53310 (added in 2000 and last amended in 2001), outlines rules for calculating full-time equivalent faculty attributable to part-time faculty. Different calculation methods are described for instructional and for non-instructional activities.

Subdivision (c) requires that all activities of part-time faculty be included in such calculations except those attributable to replacing full-time faculty on sabbatical leave, released or reassigned time, unpaid leave, or who resigned or retired late.

Section 53311 (added in 1990, last amended in 2000), defines "base data" as both the district's base full-time faculty percentage and its base full-time faculty obligation.

Section 53312 (added in 1990, last amended in 2000) requires the Chancellor to compute the number of full-time faculty which each district is to secure in accordance with Sections 51025 and 53308. Subdivisions (b), (c), and (d) describe the methods the Chancellor is to use in making the computations.

Section 53314 (added in 1992 and last amended in 2000), as the result of applying additional FTES growth and program improvement revenue allotments, requires the Chancellor to report to districts the estimated number of full-time faculty each district must secure by the following Fall term. The Chancellor's report must be made by the Spring term of each year.

Section 53320, regarding enforcement, was repealed in 1994.

CONDITION 18 STUDENT EQUITY

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to develop policies and procedures to establish and implement a student equity plan as a minimum condition for the receipt of state aid.

SECTION 1. LEGISLATIVE HISTORY PRIOR TO JANUARY 1, 1975

Education Code Section 91[53], as added by Chapter 182, Statutes of 1974, Section 1, required all community college classes and courses, both academic and nonacademic, to be conducted without regard to the sex of the pupils enrolled. Subdivision (d) prohibited school counselors from offering vocational or career opportunity guidance to pupils on the basis of that pupil's sex. Subdivision (e) required the same physical education activities or sports to be offered to pupils of both sexes.

Education Code Section 22504.7[54], as added by Chapter 1526, Statutes of 1974, Section 1, required community college districts to provide opportunities for participation in intercollegiate athletic programs on as equal a basis as is practicable to both male and female students.

Section 54220 (added in 1993 and last amended in 1998) requires, at subdivision (a), the district to adopt, by July 1, 1993, a student equity plan which includes the following for each college in the district: (1) Campus-based research as to the extent of student equity in the five areas described in paragraph (2) and the determination of what activities are most likely to be effective; (2) Goals for access, retention, degree and certificate completion, ESL and basic skills completion, and transfer; for the overall student population and for each population group of students, as appropriate. Where significant underrepresentation is found to exist, the student equity plan must include race-neutral, or, when legally appropriate, race-conscious measures for addressing the disparity, in accordance with standards adopted by the Board of Governors; (3) Implementation activities designed to attain the goals, including a means of coordinating existing student equity related programs; (4) Sources of funds for the activities in the plan; (5) Schedule and process for evaluation; and, (6) An executive summary that includes, at a minimum, the groups for whom goals have been set, the goals, the initiatives that the college or district will undertake to achieve these goals, the resources that have been budgeted for that purpose, and the district official to contact for further information. Subdivision (b) requires that these plans be developed with the active involvement of all groups on campus as required by law, and with the involvement of appropriate people from the community. Subdivision (c) requires the Board-adopted plan to be submitted to the Office of the Chancellor, and for the Office of the Chancellor to publish all executive summaries, and to send copies to every college and district, the chair of each consultation group that so requests, and such additional individuals and organizations as deemed appropriate.

SECTION 4. CHANCELLOR'S REVISED GUIDELINES AND INFORMATION

The Chancellor of the California Community Colleges has also promulgated Revised Guidelines and Information, 2002, entitled "Student Equity: Regulations and Guidelines", a copy of which is attached hereto as an Exhibit and is incorporated herein by reference. These guidelines impose additional duties on community colleges in implementing Sections 51026 and 54220 of Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations.

The introduction of the Chancellor's Revised Guidelines and Information, 2002, states that districts should establish a success/equity advisory committee comprised of members representative of all groups on campus and of the surrounding community to assist in development of the student equity plan when implementing Section 54220 of Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations.

The guideline for 54220(a)(1) states that when compiling data to determine the extent to which equity issues are revealed, districts should periodically review such data and make efforts to address any problems that are identified.

The guideline for 54220(a)(2) states that when goals for student equity are adopted, they should meet the following standards: be written; include specific measures for determining progress towards achieving the desired outcomes; identify the baseline data findings that forms the bases for noting an equity issue; identify the amount and direction of change expected to reflect the desired outcome or amount of progress to be achieved; and include target dates and/or timetables to establish a time frame for assessing the effectiveness in achieving expected outcomes. If establishing goals to eliminate any noted underrepresentation, any methods used must be race/gender neutral. When evidence of significant underrepresentation is found (below the 70% level of expected representation), community colleges must go beyond complying with the nondiscrimination laws and take active steps to promote student equity. Specifically, such colleges shall: (1) review its practices and procedures and identify and implement any additional measures which might reasonably be expected to address the needs of significantly underrepresented groups in the success indicator areas in question; (2) consider various other means of reducing the underrepresentation, which do not involve taking underrepresented group status into account, and implement any such techniques which are determined to be feasible and potentially effective; and (3) establish target dates for achieving expected outcomes. The Chancellor's Office recommends that race/gender neutral methods of rectifying underrepresentation be tried for at least 3 years before consideration is given to mechanisms that take race or gender into account.

The guideline for 54220(a)(5) states that the data collection component of any student equity plan should be a continuing process. Each district is expected to conduct an annual survey of its student population and gather ethnicity, gender and disability data for use in evaluating its progress in implementing the goals set forth in its plan. The evaluation schedule that a community college adopts should contain specific information about who is doing what and when and how often the plan itself will be evaluated.

The guideline for 54220(a)(6) states that the contact person designated pursuant to this subdivision is to be responsible for the monitoring, review, and evaluation of student success for all students and for guiding the planning and development process to promote student success. In addition, this person should compile the results of the periodic review process to determine effective success strategies, report these findings to the success/equity advisory committee on an annual basis, and submit a copy of this report along with any resulting committee board action to the Chancellor's Office.

CONDITION 19 TRANSFER CENTERS

This condition alleges mandated costs reimbursable by the state for community college districts to implement and comply with policies and procedures to recognize transfer as one of its primary missions, and adopt a transfer center plan as a minimum condition for receipt of state aid.

Chapter 973, Statutes of 1988, Section 7 added Education Code Sections 66720-66723.

Education Code Section 66720[97] required the Board of Governors of the

Any person who has successfully completed the transfer core curriculum, shall be deemed to have thereby completed all lower division general education requirements for the University of California and the California State University."

California Community Colleges, the Regents of the University of California, and the Trustees of the California State University, with appropriate consultation with the Academic Senates of the respective segments, to jointly develop, maintain, and disseminate a common core curriculum in general education courses for the purposes of transfer.

Education Code Section 66721[98] required that, upon development of the transfer core curriculum pursuant to Section 66720, and upon any subsequent joint revision of that curriculum, the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, the Regents of the University of California, and the Trustees of the California State University jointly cause the curriculum to be published and distributed to each public school in the state that provides instruction in any of the grades 7 to 12, inclusive, and to each community college in the state, with an emphasis on the communication of that information to each school or college having a high proportion of students who are members of one or more ethnic minorities.

[98]Education Code Section 66721, as added by Chapter 973, Statutes of 1988, Section 7:

In addition, the Board of Governors shall distribute that transfer core curriculum to the State Board of Education, which shall apply that information to ensure, through its curriculum development activities, that public school pupils enrolled in any of the grades 9 to 12, inclusive, are aware of the academic requirements for preparation for higher education and may receive any necessary academic remediation in a timely manner."

Education Code Section 66723[99] stated that chapter 9.2, regarding student transfer, did not apply to the University of California unless specifically provided for by appropriate resolution by the Regents of the University of California.

"(a) The Regents of the University of California, the Trustees of the California State University, and the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges shall have as a fundamental policy the maintenance of a healthy and expanded student transfer system. Both the University of California and the California State University shall have as a basic enrollment policy the maintenance of upper division enrollment, which are students who have attained upper division status, at 60 percent of total undergraduate enrollment. This goal shall be met through programs aimed at increasing the numbers of qualified transfer students from the community colleges without denying eligible freshmen applicants.

(1) The California State University shall maintain its upper division enrollment, which are students who have attained upper division status, at approximately 60 percent of total undergraduate enrollment. Its planning documents shall reflect this policy.

This shall be accomplished through increases in the numbers of community college transfer students admitted to upper division standing at the university without denying eligible freshmen applicants. Planning documents shall reflect these expected increases.

(b) The governing board of each segment shall ensure that individual university and college campus enrollment plans include adequate upper division places for community college transfer students in all undergraduate colleges or schools, and that each undergraduate college or school on each campus participates in developing articulation and transfer agreement programs with community colleges. The governing boards shall meet this goal within their respective general statewide planning framework used to attain and maintain the state's goal of a 60/40 ratio of upper to lower division students, their segmental enrollment planning processes, and campus planning regarding program balance, educational quality, and other relevant goals."

"The Regents of the University of California, the Trustees of the California State University, and the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges are expected to develop new programs of outreach, recruitment, and cooperation between and among the three segments of public higher education to facilitate the successful transfer of students between the community colleges and the universities. Every community college student who successfully completes the transfer agreement programs, as defined in Section 66738, in a community college shall have an appropriate place in an upper division university program."

[106]Education Code Section 66738, as added by Chapter 1188, Statutes of 1991, Section 5:

"(a) The governing board of each public postsecondary education segment shall be accountable for the development and implementation of formal systemwide articulation agreements and transfer agreement programs, including those for general education or a transfer core curriculum, and other appropriate procedures to support and enhance the transfer function.

(b) The elements in a comprehensive transfer system shall include, but not be limited to, the following:

(1) Enrollment and resource planning; intersegmental faculty curricular efforts.

(2) Coordinated counseling.

(3) Financial aid and transfer services.

(4) Transfer articulation agreements and programs.

(5) Specific efforts to improve diversity.

(6) Early outreach activities.

(7) Expansion of current practices relating to concurrent enrollment of community college students in appropriate university courses.

(c) The governing board of each segment shall expand existing practices related to concurrent enrollment, in which community college students are provided the opportunity to take courses at University of California and California State University campuses, as space is available; and to expand opportunities for potential transfer students to participate in activities that familiarize them with the university campus."

postsecondary education segment to be accountable for the development and implementation of formal systemwide articulation agreements and transfer agreement programs. In addition, the governing board of each segment was required to expand existing practices related to concurrent enrollment, to provide community college students with the opportunity to take courses at the University of California and California State University campuses, as space is available; and to expand opportunities for potential transfer students to participate in activities that familiarize them with the university campus.

Education Code Section 66740[107] required each department, school, and major in

"Each department, school, and major in the University of California and California State University shall develop, in conjunction with community college faculty in appropriate and associated departments, discipline-specific articulation agreements and transfer program agreements for those majors that have lower division prerequisites. Faculty from the community colleges and university campuses shall participate in discipline-specific curriculum development to coordinate course content and expected levels of student competency.

Where specific majors are impacted or over-subscribed, the prescribed course of study and minimum grade point average required for consideration for upper division admission to all of these majors shall be made readily available to community college counselors, faculty, and students on an annual basis. In cases where the prescribed course of study is altered by the university department, notice of the modification shall be communicated to appropriate community college faculty and counselors at least one year prior to the deadline for application to that major and implementation by the department responsible for teaching that major.

Community college districts, in conjunction with the California State University and the University of California, shall develop discipline-based agreements with as many campuses of the two university segments as feasible, and no fewer than three University of California campuses and five California State University campuses. The development of these agreements shall be the mutual responsibility of all three segments, and no one segment should bear the organizational or financial responsibility for accomplishing these goals.

The Chancellor of the California Community Colleges and the President of the University of California shall begin the process of setting priorities to determine which community colleges will receive first attention for the development of agreements. Criteria for priority determination shall include, but not be limited to, the percentage and number of students from economically disadvantaged families and underrepresented racial and ethnic minorities, and community colleges which traditionally have not

Faculty from the community colleges and university campuses were also required to participate in discipline-specific curriculum development to coordinate course content and expected levels of student competency. Community college districts, in conjunction with the California State University and the University of California, were required to develop discipline-based agreements with as many campuses of the two university segments as feasible, and no fewer than three University of California campuses and five California State University campuses.

Education Code Section 66741[108] required that each community college student

The Chancellor of the California Community Colleges and the Chancellor of the California State University system shall begin the process of setting priorities to determine which community colleges will receive first attention for the development of agreements. Criteria for priority determination shall include, but not be limited to, the percentage and number of students from economically disadvantaged families and underrepresented racial and ethnic minorities, and community colleges which traditionally have not transferred many students to California State Universities. The priority list shall be completed by March 1, 1992. These considerations shall not be used in any way to displace current agreements between any community college and the University of California or the California State University."

[108]Education Code Section 66741, as added by Chapter 1188, Statutes of 1991, Section 5:

"As a result of systemwide and interinstitutional agreements, each community college student shall be assured of the opportunity to enter into a transfer agreement program enabling a student to receive high priority consideration, attain equivalent special treatment, or enter into a contract when applying for university admission at the advanced standing level. It is recognized that eligibility for transfer agreement programs will require completion of certain requirements as defined in interinstitutional agreements. It is also recognized that access to majors of choice will, in most cases, require completion of additional requirements, such as specialized coursework and attainment of a specialized grade point average.

have the opportunity to enter into a transfer agreement program which would enable the student to receive high priority consideration, attain equivalent special treatment, or enter into a contract when applying for university admission at the advanced standing level. Transfer agreement programs were also required to carry high priority access to majors of choice. The University of California and the California State University were required to ensure that continuing undergraduate students and community college transfer students would be assessed against a common set of criteria for upper division standing to a specific major even though access to such programs would generally require such transfer students to meet qualifications above the minimum standard for general admission. Alternatively, students would be permitted to apply directly for admission at the advanced standing level, by meeting the University of California or California State University requirements for admission at that level. All students meeting these admission requirements were required to be guaranteed a place somewhere in the University of California or California State University system, as appropriate.

Transfer agreement programs also shall carry high priority access to majors of choice. The University of California and the California State University shall require that continuing undergraduate students and community college transfer students are assessed against a common set of criteria for upper division standing to a specific major. However, generally speaking, access to these programs shall require completion of specialized coursework and attainment of a grade point average above the minimums defined in general admission requirements, such as those used in supplementary admission criteria for impacted or over-subscribed programs.

Alternatively, students may also, by meeting the University of California or California State University requirements for admission at the advanced standing level, simply wish to apply as required. All students meeting these admission requirements shall be guaranteed a place somewhere in the University of California or California State University system, as appropriate."

Education Code Section 66742[109] required the governing boards of the three segments of public higher education to present annual statistical reports on transfer patterns via the California Postsecondary Education Commission to the Governor and Legislature.

"The governing boards of the three public segments of higher education shall present annual statistical reports on transfer patterns via the California Postsecondary Education Commission to the Governor and Legislature. The reports shall include recent statistics on student enrollments by campus, segment, gender, ethnicity, and the ratio of upper division to lower division, including information on both freshman and transfer student access to the system. These reports should include, to the extent that data are available or become available, data on application, admission and enrollment information for all students by sex, ethnicity, and campus. For transfer students, this data shall indicate the segment of origin for all students. In addition, data shall be separately identified for transfer students from California Community Colleges, and shall identify the subset of applications which are completed together with admission, enrollment, and declared major information for that group. The reports shall describe the number of transfer agreements, if any, whose terms and conditions were not satisfied by either the California State University or the University of California, the number of California Community College transfer students denied either admission to the student's first choice of a particular campus of the California State University or the University of California or the student's first choice of a major field of study, and, among those students, the number of students who, upon denial of either of the student's first choices, immediately enrolled at another campus of the California State University or the University of California. The reports shall also include information by sex and ethnicity on retention and degree completion for transfer students as well as for native students, and the number and percentage of baccalaureate degree recipients who transferred from a community college."

"The California Postsecondary Education Commission is requested to convene an intersegmental advisory committee on transfer access and performance for the purposes of presenting biennial reports to the Governor and the Legislature on the status of transfer policies and programs, the diligence of each segment's board, and the effectiveness of these programs in meeting the state's goals for transfer. The report shall include information about all of the following:

(a) The effectiveness of transfer agreement programs and activities in enhancing the transfer function overall as well as the extent to which transfer program activities have been directed at students who have been historically underrepresented in the University of California and the California State University.

(b) The status of the implementation of the transfer core curriculum as described in Section 66720 for each community college, including information about the extent to which sophomore level courses needed for transfer are available on all community college campuses.

The report was required to include information regarding the effectiveness of transfer agreement programs in enhancing the overall transfer function, the status of the implementation of the transfer core curriculum, and the progress made in achieving articulation agreements in specific majors. The California Postsecondary Education Commission was required to report to the Governor and the Legislature on the overall success of chapter 9.2, regarding student transfer, no later that April 1994. Finally, the code section required that any finding of a substantial failure in achieving improved transfer enrollment or to implement reform in the transfer system in the University of California and the California State University, would result in the commencement of

The committee shall also address ways in which sharing of information about transfer students among the segments can be improved, including early identification of potential transfer students for intensive recruitment purposes.

No later than April 1994, the California Postsecondary Education Commission shall report to the Governor and the Legislature on the overall success of this chapter in expediting the goals of transfer, including recommendations about a common definition of transfer rates, including the identification of campuses and positions of employment that prevent progress toward a more effective transfer program, with specific recommendations about resource, program, or other incentives to encourage an effective intersegmental transfer or other incentives to encourage an effective intersegmental transfer program. The Governor and the Legislature shall monitor the success of the University of California and the California State University in achieving their targeted enrollment levels and in implementing these reforms. TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

In furtherance of the Education Code requirements, Title 5 Section 51027 (new section filed 1991 and last amended 1994) the governing board of each community college district is required, at subdivision (a), to recognize transfer as one of its primary missions, and to place priority emphasis on the preparation and transfer of underrepresented students, including African-American, Chicano/Latino, American Indian, disabled, low-income and other students historically and currently underrepresented in the transfer process. Subdivision (b) requires each community college district governing board, in consultation with baccalaureate college and university personnel, to direct the development and adoption of a transfer center plan that instruction in any of the grades 7 to 12, inclusive, and to each community college in this state, with an emphasis on the communication of that information to each school or college having a high proportion of students who are members of one or more ethnic minorities. In addition, the Board of Governors shall distribute that transfer core curriculum to the State Board of Education, which shall apply that information to ensure, through its curriculum development activities, that public school pupils enrolled in any of the grades 9 to 12, inclusive, are aware of the academic requirements for preparation for higher education and may receive any necessary academic remediation in a timely manner."

identifies target student populations and establishes target increases in the number of applicants to baccalaureate institutions. Plan components shall: (A) identify, contact, and provide transfer support services to targeted student populations; (B) ensure the provision of academic planning for transfer, the development and use of transfer admission agreements with baccalaureate institutions where available and as appropriate, and the development and use of course-to-course and major articulation agreements; (C) ensure that students receive accurate and up-to-date academic and transfer information through coordinated transfer counseling services; (D) monitor the progress of transfer students to the point of transfer; (E) support the progress of transfer students through referral as necessary, to such services as ability and diagnostic testing, tutoring, financial assistance, counseling, and to other instructional and student services on campus as appropriate; (F) assist students in the transition process, including timely completion and submittal of necessary forms and applications; (G) include a schedule of services for transfer students to be provided by baccalaureate institution staff; and (H) provide a resource library of college catalogs, transfer guides, articulation information and agreements, applications to baccalaureate institutions, and related transfer information. Districts are required to provide: space and facilities adequate to support the transfer center and its activities; clerical support for the transfer center and assign college staff to coordinate the activities of the transfer center; an advisory committee to plan the development, implementation, and ongoing operations of the transfer center: a plan of institutional research for ongoing internal evaluation of the effectiveness of the college's transfer efforts, and the achievement of its transfer center plan; and, an annual report to the Chancellor describing the status of the district's efforts to implement its transfer center plan.

CONDITION 20 COMPLIANCE ENFORCEMENT

TITLE 5, CALIFORNIA CODE OF REGULATIONS

In furtherance of the Education Code sections 70901 and 70902 requirements to establish minimum conditions for the receipt of state aid, the State Board of Governors adopted Title 5, California Code of Regulations, sections 51000 through 51027, and for the enforcement of these regulations, sections 51100 and 51102.

Section 51000 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1984) specifically references Education Code section 70901, subdivision (b), paragraph (6) as the authority to establish the rules and regulations "affirming the minimum conditions, satisfaction of which entitles a district maintaining community colleges to received state aid for the support of its community colleges."

Section 51100 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1984) requires the State Chancellor to, at least once every seven years, to review each college to determine whether it has met the minimum conditions established by Title 5 sections 51000 - 51027.

Section 51102 (added in 1983 and last amended in 1984) states that If the Chancellor's review indicates any area of noncompliance, the Chancellor is required to provide a written notice to the college, to which the college must respond. The Chancellor then must either accept the response, require the district to adopt and follow a plan for compliance in order to continue to receive state aid, or withhold the district's state aid. If the Chancellor's review indicates any area of noncompliance, the Chancellor is required to provide a written notice to the college, to which the college must respond. The Chancellor then must either accept the response, require the district to adopt and follow a plan for compliance in order to continue to receive state aid, or withhold the district's state aid.

PART III. STATEMENT OF THE CLAIM

SECTION 1. REQUIREMENT FOR STATE REIMBURSEMENT

The statues, code sections, regulations, and executive orders described in this document result in community college districts incurring costs mandated by the state, as defined in Government Code section 17514[119], by creating new state-mandated duties related to the uniquely governmental function of providing public services and these statutes apply only to public schools and do not apply generally to all residents and entities in the state.[120]

[119]Government Code section 17514, as last amended by Chapter 1459/84:

"Costs mandated by the state" means any increased costs which a local agency or school district is required to incur after July 1, 1980, as a result of any statute enacted on or after January 1, 1975, or any executive order implementing any statute enacted on or after January 1, 1975, which mandates a new program or higher level of service of an existing program within the meaning of Section 6 of Article XIII B of the California Constitution."

[120]Public schools are a Article XIII B, Section 6 "program," pursuant to Long Beach Unified School District v. State of California, (1990) 275 Cal.Rptr. 449, 225 Cal.App.3d 155:

SECTION 2. EXCEPTIONS TO MANDATE REIMBURSEMENT

None of the Government Code Section 17556[121] statutory exceptions to a finding

[121]Government Code section 17556 as last amended by Chapter 589/89:

"The commission shall not find costs mandated by the state, as defined in Section 17514, in any claim submitted by a local agency or school district, if after a hearing, the commission finds that:
(a) The claim is submitted by a local agency or school district which requested legislative authority for that local agency or school district to implement the program specified in the statute, and that statute imposes costs upon that local agency or school district requesting the legislative authority. A resolution from the governing body or a letter from a delegated representative of the governing body of a local agency or school district which requests authorization for that local agency or school district to of costs mandated by the state apply to this statute. Note that to the extent community colleges may have previously performed functions similar to those mandated by the referenced code section, such efforts did not establish a preexisting duty that would relieve the state of its constitutional requirement to later reimburse districts when these activities became mandated.[122]

SECTION 3. FUNDING FOR THE STATE MANDATE

No funds were appropriated by the statute, regulation, or executive orders which establish the programs which result in costs mandated by the state.

"AB 1725," Statutes of 1988, Chapter 973 Programs

Several of the activities included in this test claim were initially established by "AB 1725," Statutes of 1988, Chapter 973. At Section 70 (an uncodified section), implement a given program shall constitute a request within the meaning of this paragraph.

(b) The statute or executive order affirmed for the state that which had been declared existing law or regulation by action of the courts.

(c) The statute or executive order implemented a federal law or regulation and resulted in costs mandated by the federal government, unless the statute or executive order mandates costs which exceed the mandate in that federal law or regulation.

(d) The local agency or school district has the authority to levy service charges, fees, or assessments sufficient to pay for the mandated program or increased level of service.

(e) The statute or executive order provides for offsetting savings to local agencies or school districts which result in no net costs to the local agencies or school districts, or includes additional revenue that was specifically intended to fund the costs of the state mandate in an amount sufficient to fund the cost of the state mandate.

(f) The statute or executive order imposed duties which were expressly included in a ballot measure approved by the voters in a statewide election.

(g) The statute created a new crime or infraction, eliminated a crime or infraction, or changed the penalty for a crime or infraction, but only for that portion of the statute relating directly to the enforcement of the crime or infraction."

[122]Government Code section 17565, as added by Chapter 879/86:

If a local agency or school district, at its option, has been incurring costs which are subsequently mandated by the state, the state shall reimburse the local agency or school district for those costs incurred after the operative date of the mandate.

subdivision (b) (2), states: "It is the intent of the Legislature that moneys appropriated during Phase II fully fund any state mandate created pursuant to this section." At subdivision (e): "Based on estimates provided . . . , the Legislature finds and declares that its estimate of this funding amount is seventy million dollars ($70,000,000), in addition to the seventy million dollars ($70,000,000) estimated under subdivision (d) [for Phase I]."

The appropriations referenced in the Section 70 intent language are assigned to specific priorities in Education Code section 84755[123] (added by Statutes of 1988,

[123]Education Code section 84755, as added by Chapter 973/88, Section 21.7

(a) The Legislature finds and declares that program-based funding, once implemented, will more adequately and accountably fund the costs of providing quality community college education. Given that program-based funding will not be implemented until fiscal year 1991-92, given that community colleges will be entering a period of major reform and incurrence of new state mandates commencing in January 1989, and given that community colleges will be entering this period of reform having lost purchasing power since the 1977-78 fiscal year, the Legislature recognizes the need to create a transitional funding mechanism for program improvement and mandate funding that can operate until program-based funding is implemented.

(b) For the purpose of improving the quality of community college educational programs and services, for the purpose of reimbursing state-mandated local program costs imposed by this act, and for the purposes of initially implementing specified reforms, the board of governors shall, from amounts appropriated for purposes of this section, allocate program improvement revenues to each district on the basis of an amount per unit of average daily attendance funded in the prior fiscal year. However, this amount shall be increased or decreased to provide for equalization in a manner determined by the Board of Governors, consistent with Sections 84703 to 84705, inclusive.

Each community college district shall use its allocation to initially reimburse state-mandated local program costs, and then to implement specified reforms and make authorized program and service improvements as follows:

(1) Developing articulated programs provided for in Section 69 of Chapter 973 of the Statutes of 1988 with school districts and campuses of the University of California and California State University.

(2) Applying minimum qualifications to all newly hired faculty and administrators, including candidates for these positions as required by Section 87356.

(3) Developing and administering a process for waiver of minimum qualifications as required by Section 87359.

(4) Establishing and applying local hiring criteria as required by Section 87360.

(5) Establishing and applying faculty service areas and competency criteria as required by Sections 87743 to 87743.5, inclusive.

Chapter 973, Section 21.7), including Section 87610.1 which is referenced at subdivision (b), items (7) and (8). However, in a preamble, subdivision (b) states that the new funds will be allocated to "each district on the basis of an amount per unit of

(6) Evaluating temporary employees, instituting peer review evaluation, and widely distributing evaluation procedures as required by Section 87663.

(7) Establishing and applying new processes for tenure evaluation required by Section 87610.1.

(8) Establishing and applying the tenure denial grievance procedure required by Section 87610.1.

(9) Establishing and applying a process for moving administrators into faculty positions as required by Sections 87454 to 87458, inclusive.

(10) Publishing and distributing a report on the affirmative action success rate as required by Section 87102.

(11) Improving instruction by reducing the ratio of full-time equivalent students to full-time equivalent instructors.

(12) Improving instruction by increasing the hiring of full-time instructors and limiting the practice of hiring part-time instructors.

(13) Augmenting budgets for college libraries and learning resources.

(14) Augmenting budgets for plant maintenance and operations.

(15) Adding new courses or programs to serve community need.

(16) Making progress towards affirmative action goals and timetables established by the district.

(17) Developing and maintaining programs and services authorized by Section 78212.5.

(18) Augmenting budgets for student services in the areas of greatest need.

(19) Providing for release time for faculty and staff as deemed appropriate by the governing board of each community college district, to enable faculty and staff participation in implementing reforms.

(c) Except as provided by Section 87482.6, and except as necessary to reimburse the costs of new state mandates, district governing boards shall have full authority to expend program improvement allocations for any or all of the authorized purposes specified in subdivision (b).

(d) As required by the board of governors, the governing board of each community college district shall submit to the board of governors a plan for using the resources allocated pursuant to this section. The board of governors shall review each plan to ensure that proposed expenditures are consistent with the listing of authorized expenditures provided in this section, and the board of governors shall approve all plans to the full extent that expenditures are authorized by this section. To the extent that a community college district expends its program improvement allocation consistent with its plan, the board of governors shall include the district's allocation as part of the district's base budget for subsequent years.

(e) The board of governors, through the annual systemwide budget submitted pursuant to paragraph (5) of subdivision (b) of Section 70901, shall request necessary resources for the purposes of this section. It is the intent of the Legislature that the appropriation and allocation of program improvement money not otherwise provided pursuant to subdivision (b) shall be accomplished through the annual state budget process beginning with the 1989-90 fiscal year. After June 30, 1991, if Section 84750 is implemented, it is the intent of the Legislature to fund the ongoing operations of community college districts pursuant to Section 84750.

average daily attendance funded in the prior fiscal year," but only after the amount is "increased or decreased to provide for equalization." This effectively negates any concept of cost reimbursement, which is the actual cost of the increased level of service, it is merely a general funding device disguised as a mandate reimbursement apportionment.

Notwithstanding, this funding scenario, to the extent actually implemented, it does not meet the Government Code section 17556, subdivision (e) exception to a finding of "costs mandated by the state," since the statute (Chapter 973/88) did not provide for offsetting savings to local agencies or school districts which result in no net costs to the local agencies or school districts, or include additional revenue that was specifically intended to fund the costs of the state mandate in an amount sufficient to fund the cost of the state mandate. The funding, to the extent it actually was later provided, was provided by subsequent legislation, and the sufficiency of the funding remains a question of fact (note that Section 70 declares that it is an "estimate"). More to the point, at Section 67 of Chapter 973, Statutes of 1988, the Legislature leaves it to the Commission on State Mandates to determine if there are any reimbursable mandated costs.

To the extent that funding was made available, and continues to be made available each subsequent year, such funding might reduce the reimbursable costs, but does not preclude an initial determination of whether a reimbursable mandate exists. The test claimant is informed and believes that the Chancellor of the California Community Colleges on or about 1991 prepared an AB 1725 cost questionnaire to obtain from each community college the cost of implementing the provisions of AB 1725, that the cost data was specific to each new program enacted, that most of the community colleges provided this data to the Chancellor, and that the Chancellor is in possession of this information. This information can be utilized to establish base-period cost and revenue information.

Special Purpose Funding

Community colleges received dedicated grant and categorical funding for some of the activities included in this test claim (e.g., Matriculation Services). To the extent that the funding is provided each year, and to the extent that the dedicated funds are applied to activities mandated by the state, the amounts received and applicable to mandated activities will reduce the amount of cost mandated by the state. The test claimant is informed and believes that the Chancellor of the California Community Colleges has the documentation necessary to determine the amounts of these special purpose funds allocated to each college year, and the purposes for which the funds were intended. This information can be utilized to determine the revenue offset amounts each year.

(b) No community college district shall prohibit any student from enrolling in any class or course on the basis of the sex of the student.

(c) No community college district shall require students of one sex to enroll in a particular class or course, unless the same class or course is also required of students of the opposite sex.

(d) No school counselor, teacher, instructor, administrator, or aide shall, on the basis of the sex of a student, offer vocational or school program guidance to students of one sex which is different from that offered to students of the opposite sex or, in counseling students, differentiate career, vocational or higher education opportunities on the basis of the sex of the student counseled. Any school personnel acting in a career counseling or course selection capacity to any pupil shall affirmatively explore with the pupil the possibility of careers, or courses leading to careers, that are nontraditional for that pupil's sex.

(e) Participation in a particular physical education activity or sport, if required of students of one sex, shall be available to students of each sex.

(g) Insofar as practicable, in apportioning public funds, community college district governing boards shall apportion amounts available for athletics to ensure that equitable amounts will be allocated for all students, except that allowances may be made for differences in the costs of various athletic programs. Facilities and opportunities for participation shall include, but are not limited to, equipment and supplies, scheduling of games and practice time, compensation for coaches, travel arrangements, per diem, locker rooms, and medical services.

(h) It is the further intent of the Legislature that females be given the same opportunity to participate in athletics and compete with other females in individual and team sports as is available to males who compete with other males in individual and team sports. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require a community college to require competition between male and female students in school-sponsored athletic programs.

A.B. No. 2329

AN ACT to amend Section 70901 of the Education Code, and to amend Sections 10295, 10430, 12100.5, and 12120 of, and to add Sections 20661 and 20662 to, the Public Contract Code, relating to community colleges.

[Approved by Governor September 30, 1998.]

AB 2329, Firestone. Community colleges: contracts.

Under existing law, the Regents of the University of California and the Trustees of the California State University are not subject to laws governing contracts for the state procurement of materials, goods, supplies, or services, or for the acquisition of electronic data-processing and telecommunications goods and services, with certain exceptions. Under existing law, the trustees are required to develop policies and procedures that further expressed legislative policies for procurement without the involvement of the Department of Finance or the Department of General Services.

This bill would provide that the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges is not subject to the laws described above, but would require the board to develop policies and procedures that further express legislative policies for procurement without the involvement of the Department of Finance or the Department of General Services.

Under existing law, Section 8 of Article XVI of the California Constitution (Proposition 98) sets forth a formula for computing the minimum amount of General Fund revenues that the state is required to appropriate for the support of school districts, as defined, and community college districts for each fiscal year.

The bill would authorize the Chancellor of the California Community Colleges to enter into a contract on behalf of one or more community college districts, subject to certain restrictions. The bill would require the chancellor to report to the Legislature and the Governor by

January 1, 2001, on contracts entered into pursuant to these provisions and any resultant cost savings. The bill would authorize the chancellor to enter into a contract with a community college district whereby the district performs services or acts as a fiscal agent on behalf of the California Community Colleges when the funds for the contract or agreement are in satisfaction of the state obligation to provide funding pursuant to Section 8 of Article XVI of the California Constitution. The bill would authorize the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges to adopt regulations to implement the provisions of this paragraph.

This bill would incorporate additional changes in Section 10430 of the Public Contract Code proposed by SB 412, to be operative if SB 412 and this bill are both enacted and become effective on or before January 1, 1999, and this bill is enacted last.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Section 70901 of the Education Code is amended to read:

70901. (a) The Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges shall provide leadership and direction in the continuing development of the California Community Colleges as an integral and effective element in the structure of public higher education in the state. (b) Subject to, and in furtherance of, subdivision (a), and in consultation with community college districts and other interested parties as specified in subdivision (e), the board of governors shall provide general supervision over community college districts, and shall, in furtherance thereof, perform the following functions:

(1) Establish minimum standards as required by law, including, but not limited to, the following:

(A) Minimum standards to govern student academic standards relating to graduation requirements and probation, dismissal, and readmission policies.

(B) Minimum standards for the employment of academic and administrative staff in community colleges.

(C) Minimum standards for the formation of community colleges and districts.

(D) Minimum standards for credit and noncredit classes.

(E) Minimum standards governing procedures established by governing boards of community college districts to ensure faculty, staff, and students the right to participate effectively in district and college governance, and the opportunity to express their opinions at the campus level and to ensure that these opinions are given every reasonable consideration, and the right of academic senates to assume primary responsibility for making recommendations in the areas of curriculum and academic standards.

(4) Provide representation, advocacy, and accountability for the California Community Colleges before state and national legislative and executive agencies.

(5) Administer state support programs, both operational and capital outlay, and those federally supported programs for which the board of governors has responsibility pursuant to state or federal law. In so doing, the board of governors shall do the following:

(A) Annually prepare and adopt a proposed budget for the California Community Colleges. The proposed budget shall, at a minimum, identify the total revenue needs for serving educational needs within the mission, the amount to be expended for the state general apportionment, the amounts requested for various categorical programs established by law, the amounts requested for new programs and budget improvements, and the amount requested for systemwide administration.

The proposed budget for the California Community Colleges shall be submitted to the Department of Finance in accordance with established timelines for development of the annual Budget Bill.

(B) To the extent authorized by law, establish the method for determining and allocating the state general apportionment.

(C) Establish space and utilization standards for facility planning in order to determine eligibility for state funds for construction purposes.

(6) Establish minimum conditions entitling districts to receive state aid for support of community colleges. In so doing, the board of governors shall establish and carry out a periodic review of each community college district to determine whether it has met the minimum conditions prescribed by the board of governors.

(7) Coordinate and encourage interdistrict, regional, and statewide development of community college programs, facilities, and services.

(8) Facilitate articulation with other segments of higher education with secondary education.

(9) Review and approve comprehensive plans for each community college district. The plans shall be submitted to the board of governors by the governing board of each community college district.

(10) Review and approve all educational programs offered by community college districts, and all courses that are not offered as part of an educational program approved by the board of governors.

(11) Exercise general supervision over the formation of new community college districts and the reorganization of existing community college districts, including the approval or disapproval of plans therefor.

(12) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, be solely responsible for establishing, maintaining, revising, and updating, as necessary, the uniform budgeting and accounting structures and procedures for the California Community Colleges.

(13) Establish policies regarding interdistrict attendance of students.

(14) Advise and assist governing boards of community college districts on the implementation and interpretation of state and federal laws affecting community colleges.

(15) Contract for the procurement of goods and services, as necessary.

(16) Carry out other functions as expressly provided by law.

(c) Subject to, and in furtherance of, subdivision (a), the board of governors shall have full authority to adopt rules and regulations necessary and proper to execute the functions specified in this section as well as other functions that the board of governors is expressly authorized by statute to regulate.

(d) Wherever in this section or any other statute a power is vested in the board of governors, the board of governors, by a majority vote, may adopt a rule delegating that power to the chancellor, or any officer, employee, or committee of the California Community Colleges, or community college district, as the board of governors may designate. However, the board of governors shall not delegate any power that is expressly made nondelegable by statute. Any rule delegating authority shall prescribe the limits of delegation.

(e) In performing the functions specified in this section, the board of governors shall establish and carry out a process for consultation with institutional representatives of community college districts so as to ensure their participation in the development and review of policy proposals. The consultation process shall also afford community college organizations, as well as interested individuals and parties, an opportunity to review and comment on proposed policy before it is adopted by the board of governors.

EDUCATION—CALIFORNIA STUDENT SAFETY AND VIOLENCE PREVENTION ACT

CHAPTER 587

A.B. No. 537

AN ACT to amend Sections 200, 220, 66251, and 66270 of, to add Section 241 to, and to amend and renumber Sections 221 and 66271 of, the Education Code, relating to discrimination.

[Filed with Secretary of State October 10, 1999.]

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S DIGEST

AB 537, Kuehl. Discrimination.

(1) Existing law provides that it is the policy of the State of California to afford all persons in public schools and postsecondary institutions, regardless of their sex, ethnic group identification, race, national origin, religion, or mental or physical disability, equal rights and opportunities in the educational institutions of the state.

Existing law makes it a crime for a person, whether or not acting under color of law, to willfully injure, intimidate, interfere with, oppress, or threaten any other person, by force or threat of force, in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him or her by the Constitution or laws of this state or by the Constitution or laws of the United States because of the other person's race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, disability, gender, or sexual orientation, or because he or she perceives that the other person has one or more of those characteristics.

This bill would also provide that it is the policy of the state to afford all persons in public school and postsecondary institutions equal rights and opportunities in the educational institutions of the state, regardless of any basis referred to in the aforementioned paragraph.

(2) Existing law prohibits a person from being subjected to discrimination on the basis of sex, ethnic group identification, race, national origin, religion, color, or mental or physical disability in any program or activity conducted by any educational institution or postsecondary educational institution that receives, or benefits from, state financial assistance or enrolls students who receive state student financial aid.

This bill would also prohibit a person from being subjected to discrimination on the basis of any basis referred to in paragraph (1) in any program or activity conducted by any educational institution or postsecondary educational institution that receives, or benefits from, state financial assistance or enrolls students who receive state student financial aid.

(3) This bill would state that it does not require the inclusion of any curriculum, textbook, presentation, or other material in any program or activity conducted by an educational institution or a postsecondary educational institution and would prohibit this bill from being deemed to be violated by the omission of any curriculum, textbook, presentation, or other material in any program or activity conducted by an educational institution or a postsecondary educational institution.

To the extent that this bill would impose new duties on school districts and community college districts, it would impose a state-mandated local program.

(4) The California Constitution requires the state to reimburse local agencies and school districts for certain costs mandated by the state. Statutory provisions establish procedures for making that reimbursement, including the creation of a State Mandates Claims Fund to pay the costs of mandates that do not exceed $1,000,000 statewide and other procedures for claims whose statewide costs exceed $1,000,000.

This bill would provide that, if the Commission on State Mandates determines that the bill contains costs mandated by the state, reimbursement for those costs shall be made pursuant to these statutory provisions.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. This bill shall be known, and may be cited, as the California Student Safety and Violence Prevention Act of 2000.

SEC. 2. (a) The Legislature finds and declares all of the following:

(1) Under the California Constitution, all students of public schools have the inalienable right to attend campuses that are safe, secure, and peaceful. Violence is the number one cause of death for young people in California and has become a public health problem of epidemic proportion. One of the Legislature's highest priorities must be to prevent our children from the plague of violence.

(2) The fastest growing, violent crime in California is hate crime, and it is incumbent upon us to ensure that all students attending public school in California are protected from potentially violent discrimination. Educators see how violence affects youth every day; they know first hand that youth cannot learn if they are concerned about their safety. This legislation is designed to protect the institution of learning as well as our students.

(3) Not only do we need to address the issue of school violence but also we must strive to reverse the increase in teen suicide. The number of teens who attempt suicide, as well as the number who actually kill themselves, has risen substantially in recent years. Teen suicides in the United States have doubled in number since 1960 and every year over a quarter of a million adolescents in the United States attempt suicide. Sadly, approximately 4,000 of these attempts every year are completed. Suicide is the third leading cause of death for youths 15 through 24 years of age. To combat this problem we must seriously examine these grim statistics and take immediate action to ensure all students are offered equal protection from discrimination under California law.

SEC. 3. Section 200 of the Education Code is amended to read:

SEC. 7. Section 66251 of the Education Code is amended to read:

POSTSECONDARY EDUCATION—COMMUNITY COLLEGE STUDENTS —ACCESS TO TRANSFER INFORMATION

CHAPTER 187

A.B. No. 1918

AN ACT to add Section 66721.5 to the Education Code, relating to public postsecondary education.

[Filed with Secretary of State July 24, 2000.]

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S DIGEST

AB 1918, Romero. Public postsecondary education: Access to Transfer Information for Community College Students Act.

(1) Existing law establishes the various segments of the higher education system in the state. These segments include the University of California, which is administered by the Regents of the University of California, the California State University, which is administered by the Trustees of the California State University, the California Community Colleges, which are administered by the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, and various private institutions of higher learning.

This bill would enact the Access to Transfer Information for Community College Students Act. The bill would impose a state-mandated local program by requiring the governing board of each community college district to direct the appropriate officials at their respective campuses to provide students with copies of the transfer core curriculum, as defined to mean the lower-division, general education transfer curriculum that is fully articulated between the California Community Colleges and the California State University and the University of California. The bill would require that a copy of the current transfer core curriculum be distributed to each newly admitted community college student, as prescribed, and that the text of the current transfer core curriculum be included in the published class schedule. The bill would authorize copies of the curriculum to be available at prescribed locations on community college campuses.

(2) The California Constitution requires the state to reimburse local agencies and school districts for certain costs mandated by the state. Statutory provisions establish procedures for making that reimbursement, including the creation of a State Mandates Claims Fund to pay the costs of mandates that do not exceed $1,000,000 statewide and other procedures for claims whose statewide costs exceed $1,000,000.

This bill would provide that, if the Commission on State Mandates determines that the bill contains costs mandated by the state, reimbursement for those costs shall be made pursuant to these statutory provisions.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. This act shall be known, and may be cited as, the "Access to Transfer Information for Community College Students Act."

SEC. 2. The Legislature finds and declares all of the following:

(a) Student matriculation, from community colleges through the University of California and the California State University, is recognized by the Governor, Legislature, and the governing boards of each of the segments of California's system of public postsecondary education as a central institutional priority of all segments of higher education.

(b) The Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, with the cooperation of the Regents of the University of California and Trustees of the California State University, should ensure that all students are clearly and fully informed as to which community college courses and units are transferable.

(c) Knowledge of transfer agreements will improve a community college student's opportunity to transfer.

(d) The Master Plan for Higher Education establishes transfers as a priority. The California Community Colleges and the University of California established the goal of a 33 percent increase in transfers between the 1995–96 and the 2004–05 academic years.

(e) According to recent reports by the California Postsecondary Education Commission, the transfer rate to the University of California system has decreased every year since 1995. Given the decreased transfer rates, there is no possibility of achieving the goal of 33 percent.

SEC. 3. Section 66721.5 is added to the Education Code, to read:

66721.5. (a)(1) The governing board of each community college district shall direct the appropriate officials at their respective campuses to provide each of their students with a copy of the current transfer core curriculum.

(2) As used in this section, "transfer core curriculum" means the lower-division, general education transfer curriculum that, pursuant to Section 66720, is fully articulated between the California Community Colleges and the California State University and University of California.

(b) A copy of the current transfer core curriculum shall be distributed to each newly admitted community college student who is enrolled in a degree or certification program and is physically in attendance at the institution.

(c) The governing board of a community college district shall ensure that the text of the current transfer core curriculum is included in the published class schedule for each academic term. Copies of the transfer core curriculum may also be made available in other locations on each campus, including, but not necessarily limited to, all of the following:

(1) The admissions office.

(2) The bookstore.

(3) The career counseling center.

(4) The veteran's affairs office.

(d) Notwithstanding subdivision (c), the governing board of a community college may, as an alternative to the methods of distribution set forth in subdivision (c), distribute copies of the current transfer core curriculum by any of the following means:

(1) During the registration process.

(2) By mail, with the registration materials or the enrollment materials, or both, or with other items sent to students.

(3) During the issuance of student identification cards.

(4) During student orientation programs.

(e) Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the distribution of the transfer core curriculum to community college students.

SEC. 4. Notwithstanding Section 17610 of the Government Code, if the Commission on State Mandates determines that this act contains costs mandated by the state, reimbursement to local agencies and school districts for those costs shall be made pursuant to Part 7 (commencing with Section 17500) of Division 4 of Title 2 of the Government Code. If the statewide cost of the claim for reimbursement does not exceed one million dollars ($1,000,000), reimbursement shall be made from the State Mandates Claims Fund.

COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES—COMMUNITY COLLEGES—EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

CHAPTER 1169

S.B. No. 2028

AN ACT to amend Section 87482.7 of, and to repeal and add Article 4 (commencing with Section 87100) of Chapter 1 of Part 51 of, the Education Code, relating to community colleges.

[Filed with Secretary of State September 30, 2002.]

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S DIGEST

SB 2028, Vasconcellos. Community colleges: equal employment opportunity hiring.

Existing law establishes the California Community Colleges under the administration of the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges. Existing law authorizes the establishment of community college districts under the administration of community college governing boards, and authorizes these districts to provide instruction at community college campuses throughout the state.

Existing statutes, relating to affirmative action hiring by the community colleges, that have been invalidated by order of the California Court of Appeal, require the board of governors, out of funds appropriated for that purpose, to provide assistance to local community colleges in maintaining high-quality affirmative action programs. The invalidated statutes also established the Faculty and Staff Diversity Fund in the State Treasury. Money in this fund was available to the board of governors, upon appropriation by the Legislature, for the purpose of enabling the community colleges as a system to address a goal of making the system's workforce reflect proportionately the adult population of the state.

This bill would repeal these invalidated provisions. The bill would instead enact provisions relating to equal employment opportunity hiring by the community colleges, and establish the Employment Opportunity Fund, to be administered by the board of governors, upon appropriation by the Legislature, for the purpose of promoting equal employment opportunities in hiring and promotion at the community colleges. The bill would make conforming changes.

The bill would require the governing board of each community college district that opts to participate under the bill to periodically submit to the board of governors an affirmation of compliance with the article. The bill would require the board of governors to adopt regulations to ensure that each participating community college district implements processes for ensuring equal employment opportunities. The bill would require the board of governors to develop systemwide strategies for encouraging community college students to become qualified for, and seek, employment as community college faculty or administrators. The bill would require the board of governors to develop and disseminate to community college districts a model equal employment opportunity plan.

The bill would require the board of governors to adopt regulations for the use of the fund, including outreach and recruitment, in-service training on equal employment opportunities, accommodations for applicants and employees with disabilities, and other activities to promote equal employment opportunities. The bill would prohibit the board of governors from using more than 25% of the revenues in the fund to provide technical assistance, service, monitoring, and compliance functions. The bill would authorize the board of governors to allocate the remaining balance in the fund to the individual community college districts.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Article 4 (commencing with Section 87100) of Chapter 1 of Part 51 of the Education Code is repealed.

SEC. 2. Article 4 (commencing with Section 87100) is added to Chapter 1 of Part 51 of the Education Code, to read:

Article 4. Equal Employment Opportunity Hiring

87100. The Legislature finds and declares all of the following:

(a) In fulfilling its mission within California's system of public higher education, the California Community Colleges are committed to academic excellence and to providing all students with the opportunity to succeed in their chosen educational pursuits.

(b) Academic excellence can best be sustained in a climate of acceptance and with the inclusion of persons from a wide variety of backgrounds and preparations to provide service to an increasingly diverse student population.

(c) A workforce that is continually responsive to the needs of a diverse student population may be achieved by ensuring that all persons receive an equal opportunity to compete for employment and promotion within the community college districts and by eliminating barriers to equal employment opportunity.

(d) It is the intent of the Legislature to establish and maintain, within the California Community College districts, a policy of equal opportunity in employment for all persons, and to prohibit discrimination or preferential treatment based on ethnic group identification, race, color, national origin, religion, age, gender, disability, ancestry, or sexual orientation. Every aspect of personnel policy and practice in the community college districts should advance the realization of inclusion through a continuing program of equal employment opportunity.

(e) The Legislature recognizes that it is not enough to proclaim that community college districts must not discriminate and must not grant preferential treatment on impermissible bases. The Legislature declares that efforts must also be made to build a community in which nondiscrimination and equal opportunity are realized. It is the intent of the Legislature to require community college districts to adopt and implement programs and plans for ensuring equal employment opportunity in their employment practices.

87101. For the purposes of this article:

(a) "Equal employment opportunity" means that all qualified individuals have a full and fair opportunity to compete for hiring and promotion and fully enjoy the benefits of employment by a community college district. Ensuring equal employment opportunity is advanced in an inclusive environment that fosters cooperation, acceptance, democracy, and the free expression of ideas. An inclusive environment is welcoming to men and women, persons with disabilities, individuals from all ethnic groups, and individuals from all other groups protected from discrimination by this article.

(b) "Equal employment opportunity plan" means a document that includes specific procedures for achieving equal employment opportunity.

(c) "Equal employment opportunity program" means all the various methods by which equal employment opportunity is ensured. These methods include, but are not necessarily limited to, actively recruiting, using nondiscriminatory employment practices, and monitoring employment practices to ensure equality of opportunity. Each district employer shall commit to sustained action to devise recruiting, training, and advancement opportunities that will result in equal employment opportunities for all qualified applicants and employees.

87102. (a) As a condition for the receipt of funds pursuant to Section 87107, the governing board of community college district that opts to participate under the article shall periodically submit to the board of governors an affirmation of compliance with this article. Each participating district's equal employment opportunity program shall ensure participation in, and commitment to, the program by district personnel. Each participating district's equal employment opportunity plan shall include steps that the district will take in eliminating improper discrimination or preferences in its hiring and employment practices. Each plan shall address how the district will make progress in achieving the ratio of full-time to part-time faculty hiring, as indicated in Section 87482.6, while still ensuring equal employment opportunity.

(b) Each participating district's equal employment opportunity plan is a public record within the meaning of the California Public Records Act (Chapter 3.5 (commencing with Section 6250) of Division 7 of Title 1 of the Government Code).

87105. The board of governors shall adopt all necessary regulations to carry out the intent of this article and to ensure that each participating community college district implements processes for ensuring equal employment opportunities. Nothing in this act shall be construed to require any community college to incur any costs in excess of the funds allocated by the state for the purposes of this act.

87106. (a) The board of governors shall develop systemwide strategies for encouraging community college students to become qualified for, and seek, employment as community college faculty or administrators.

(b) The board of governors shall develop and disseminate to community college districts a model equal employment opportunity plan that accomplishes at least all of the following:

(1) Compliance with the regulations adopted by the board of governors to implement this article.

(2) Compliance with the other applicable state and federal nondiscrimination statutes.

(3) Implementation of the best practices for improving the equality of opportunity.

(4) Encouragement of districts to take steps reasonably calculated to inform their students about the opportunity to participate in the Graduate Assumption Program of Loans for Education authorized by Article 5.5 (commencing with Section 69618) of Chapter 2 of Part 42 and to participate in other programs developed by the board of governors pursuant to subdivision (a).

87107. In order to support the activities required and authorized by this article, the Employment Opportunity Fund is hereby established. The fund shall include moneys appropriated in the annual Budget Act or provided, pursuant to Section 87482.7, through transfer. The moneys in the fund shall be administered by the board of governors for the purpose of promoting equal employment opportunities in hiring and promotion at community college districts.

87108. (a) The board of governors shall adopt regulations for the use of the fund. Those uses may include, but need not be limited to, all of the following:

(1) Activities designed to encourage community college students to become qualified for, and seek, employment as community college faculty or administrators.

(2) Outreach and recruitment.

(3) In-service training on equal employment opportunities.

(4) Accommodations for applicants and employees with disabilities.

(5) Activities to promote equal employment opportunities and implement the requirements of this article.

(b) The Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges may use not more than 25 percent of the revenues in the fund to provide technical assistance, service, monitoring, and compliance functions. Service functions under this subdivision may include, but are not necessarily limited to, the provision of a clearinghouse for advertising community college district job opportunities and for allowing persons seeking jobs to make known their interest in community college employment. This clearinghouse shall include a special emphasis on faculty internship employment opportunities and on reaching students who are qualified for faculty internship programs. The remaining balance in the fund may be allocated to the individual community college districts as prescribed by the board of governors.

SEC. 3. Section 87482.7 of the Education Code is amended to read:

87482.7. (a) The board of governors shall, pursuant to paragraph (6) of subdivision (b) of Section 70901, adopt regulations that establish minimum standards regarding the percentage of hours of credit instruction that shall be taught by full-time instructors.

(b) Upon notification by the board of governors, the Department of Finance shall transfer any money deducted from district apportionments pursuant to the regulations adopted under this section. This money shall be transferred to the * * * Employment Opportunity Fund pursuant to Section 87107.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S DIGEST

AB 1725, Vasconcellos. California Community Colleges.

This bill would make various changes, as summarized below, in provisions governing the California Community Colleges, in the following general subject areas:

GOVERNANCE:

(1) Under existing law, the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges (hereafter board of governors) is created, with specified membership, to administer and govern the statewide system of community colleges.

This bill would expressly designate the system as the California Community Colleges, and would make various legislative findings and declarations concerning the system. It would repeal and recast provisions of law relating to the board of governors and the governing boards of community college districts. The bill would revise the membership of the board of governors, to provide that of the 13 members appointed by the Governor under existing law, 2 shall be current or former elected members of local community college district governing boards. It would change the number of voting tenured faculty members on the board of governors from one to 2. It would provide that the 2 current or former elected members of the governing board of a community college appointed to the board under the provisions of this bill shall occupy the 1st and 3rd seats made available, as specified.

It would also provide that the additional voting tenured faculty member appointed to the board under the provisions of this bill shall occupy the 2nd seat made available, as specified. Commencing with appointments made on or after January 1, 1990, the bill would lengthen the terms of board members from 4 to 6 years, except that the faculty member of the board would have a 2-year term, and the student member a one-year term.

The bill would expressly establish certain responsibilities of the board of governors in various areas, including the monitoring of community college districts, fiscal management review, and development and submission to the Governor of a position paper regarding affirmative action. The bill would require the Governor to appoint up to 6 deputy and vice chancellors of the California Community Colleges, as specified.

(2) The bill would require the board to conduct a thorough review of all statutes affecting the administration and operation of the California Community Colleges, with recommendations for amendment and repeal, and submit the review to the Legislature no later than January 31, 1989.

(3) Under existing law, there are no express requirements that the board of governors develop guidelines or plans with respect to the academic senate, and the role of students in governance, or that the board clarify and define particular matters with respect to executive officers, in the community colleges.

This bill would require the board of governors to develop policies and guidelines concerning the academic senate, and standards regarding the role of students in governance.

(4) Under existing law, the board of governors, in adopting, amending, and repealing its regulations, is subject to existing procedures, administered by the Office of Administrative Law.

This bill would exclude the board from these existing procedures, and instead authorize the board of governors to establish its own regulatory procedure, subject to specified existing standards. The board would be required to consult with community college districts, as specified, as a part of this process.

MISSION AND FUNCTIONS:

(5) Existing law provides that the course of study for the California Community Colleges includes, as primary objectives, instruction designed to prepare students for admission to the upper division of 4-year educational institutions, and in vocational and technical fields leading to employment, general or liberal arts courses, and community services.

This bill would revise the missions and goals of the community colleges. The bill would also direct the board of governors, the Regents of the University of California (at their option), and the Trustees of the California State University to jointly develop, maintain, and disseminate, as specified, a common core curriculum in general education courses and lower division major preparation curricula for purposes of transfer. This bill would impose a state-mandated local program by requiring that the community colleges award an associate degree to each student who successfully meets certain requirements, including the transfer core curriculum as described.

(6) Under existing law, vocational education is one of the statutory purposes of the community college system.

This bill would direct the board of governors to provide certain information to the community college districts relative to vocational education programs and to work with community college districts, the State Board of Education, and the Trustees of the California State University to coordinate community college vocational education with vocational education programs, as specified.

The bill would direct the board of governors and the State Board of Education to determine the extent to which students are underrepresented in vocational education programs in the community colleges and in public schools, respectively, on the basis of gender or ethnic origin and to jointly file a report with the education policy committees of the Legislature on their findings.

The bill would make the provisions summarized in the preceding 2 paragraphs operative only to the extent funds are appropriated for their specific purposes. The bill would require the California Postsecondary Education Commission to conduct a study for the use of the associate of applied sciences degree in community colleges in other states and to report its findings to the Legislature, as specified.

(7) Existing law provides for certain matriculation services in the California Community Colleges, including procedures for the academic assessment and counseling of students upon enrollment.

This bill would authorize each community college district to develop and maintain, as specified, career resource and placement centers, programs to instruct staff and faculty in the performance of matriculation services, orientation programs, and publicity programs. This bill would also require the board of governors to adopt regulations which substantially incorporates a policy that limits the total number of units of course credit that may be assigned to any student in remedial coursework to 30 semester units, or 45 quarter units, except pursuant to a specified waiver procedure.

(8) Under existing law, the community college system offers instruction in English as a second language.

This bill would direct the California Postsecondary Education Commission and the State Department of Education to jointly agree on a coordinated research framework to be utilized by each agency in a review of those programs in the California Community Colleges, the University of California, the California State University, and adult education programs, and of future educational needs in this area. The bill would state the purpose of the study as assessing the ongoing role of the California Community Colleges in this area, in relation to the respective roles of the University of California and the California State University. The bill would require that the results of the review, together with any recommendations for programs of cooperation, be reported to the Legislature no later than January 1, 1990, as specified.

FACULTY, ADMINISTRATORS, AND STAFF:

(9) Existing law requires the governing board of each community college district to establish an affirmative action employment program. Existing law requires that the governing board of each community college district submit to the board of governors, on or before January 1, 1980, an affirmation of compliance with existing law in this respect.

This bill would require the governing board of each district to submit the affirmation periodically, to meet certain requirements in conjunction with goals and timetables, and to publish and distribute, as specified, a record of the success rate of hiring employees through its affirmative action program, and thus, impose a state-mandated local program.

(10) Existing law requires the office of the Chancellor of the California Community Colleges to develop guidelines to assist community college districts in developing and implementing affirmative action employment programs.

This bill would require the office of the chancellor to establish a technical assistance team to review the affirmative action plan of each district that fails to comply with its plan and to take appropriate measures to effect compliance. The bill would require the board of governors to establish, by July 1, 1989, within the chancellor's office, or through other means, as necessary, a major service function to assist community college districts in specified matters relating to affirmative action. The bill would create the Faculty and Staff Diversity Fund, for allocation by the board of governors, upon appropriation by the Legislature, to districts for various affirmative action purposes. The bill would prescribe allocation standards applicable to the fund, and state the overall goal of the fund as addressing the goal that the system's workforce reflect proportionately the adult population of the state by the year 2005.

(11) The bill would create the Community College Faculty and Staff Development Fund, available upon appropriation by the Legislature, for district faculty and staff development, as specified.

(12) The bill would impose a state-mandated local program by requiring the governing board of each community college district to determine whether it would be beneficial to enter into specified agreements to provide part-time temporary teachers for the district. The bill would require that these teachers not displace persons currently teaching full or part time.

(13) This bill would require the Student Aid Commission to conduct, and, on or before January 1, 1990, to report to the Legislature and the California Postsecondary Education Commission the results of, a study of community college programs whose purpose is to increase the number of students entering into the teaching profession at the community college level. The bill would require the California Postsecondary Education Commission, on or before March 15, 1990, to review and comment on this report to the Legislature, as specified.

(14) Existing law includes provisions relating to the requirements for, and issuance, revocation, or suspension of, teaching credentials, and credentials for librarians, counselors, student personnel workers, supervisors, administrators, and chief administrative officers, for community college personnel.

This bill would repeal those provisions.

This bill would provide that any person employed under a credential as of June 30, 1990, is entitled to serve under the terms of the credential until it terminates, and that during that period the person is not required to meet the minimum qualifications until June 30, 1990.

The bill would require the board of governors to adopt regulations, with prior consultation, as specified, to establish prescribed minimum qualifications for these categories, and would institute a procedure for waiver of the qualifications. In addition, the bill would require that the board of governors adopt, subject to enumerated requirements, regulations authorizing governing boards to establish a process for employment of persons who do not meet the minimum qualifications. The bill would require that, among other things, the regulations require that the process, as well as the standards and criteria under which the governing board reaches its determinations, be developed and jointly agreed upon by the representatives of the governing board and the academic senate, and approved by the governing board. The bill would require that the existing process remain in place until the joint agreement is reached and approved. The provisions summarized in this paragraph would impose a state-mandated local program.

The bill would require that, with specified consultation, the board of governors establish a process to review minimum qualifications every 3 years.

This bill would require that the plan for new faculty qualifications being developed by the Chancellor of the California Community Colleges include a specified transition provision, consideration of projected California demographics, and consideration of affirmative action policies and programs.

The bill would require that community college districts, in establishing hiring criteria for faculty and administrators, identify criteria which address specified matters. It would also require that hiring criteria, policies, and procedures for new faculty members be developed and agreed upon jointly by representatives of the governing board and the academic senate, and approved by the governing board, and that until the joint agreement is reached and approved, that the existing process remain in effect. The changes summarized in this paragraph would impose a state-mandated local program.

(15) Under existing law, the Community College Fund for Instructional Improvement is established to support alternative educational programs and services, as specified.

This bill would include programs for the improvement of the intellectual development of faculty and staff, as specified, within the scope of programs covered by the fund.

(16) Existing law authorizes each community college district to employ temporary employees in positions requiring certification qualifications.

This bill would require the board of governors to develop a 2-year pilot program regarding the employment of part-time temporary faculty by option-rollover contracts, as specified, in selected areas of specialization. This bill would require the board of governors to select 3 community college districts for participation in the program, thereby imposing a state-mandated local program upon those districts. If the board of governors deems this pilot program to be beneficial, this bill would require the board of governors, in consultation with the faculty, to establish policy and develop standards for employing part-time temporary faculty under option-rollover contracts.

(17) Existing law requires that a person, employed in an administrative or supervisory position requiring certification qualifications, upon completing a contract period, including any time served as a classroom instructor, in the same district, be classified as and become a regular employee as a classroom teacher.

This bill would repeal that provision, and impose a state-mandated local program by providing, instead, that a person employed in an administrative position that is not part of the classified service, who has not previously acquired tenured status as a faculty member in the same district, has the right, pursuant to a process developed and agreed upon jointly by representatives of the governing board and the academic senate, to become a 1st year probationary faculty member once his or her administrative assignment expires or is terminated, subject to specified conditions. The bill would require that the existing process remain in place until the joint agreement is reached and approved.

(18) Existing law requires that the governing board of a community college district employ persons in positions requiring certification qualifications by contract during their first academic year of employment, as defined.

This bill would require employment by contract during the 1st, 2nd, or 3rd year of employment, as specified, of those employees, and would make other related changes. This change would impose a state-mandated local program.

(19) Existing law provides that, if a contract employee is working under his or her 2nd consecutive contract, the governing board shall either hire the employee as a regular employee for all subsequent academic years, or shall not employ the contract employee as a regular employee.

This bill would, instead, require that the governing board make an election when the employee is employed under his or her 2nd consecutive contract to not enter into a contract for 2 academic years, enter into a contract for 2 academic years, or employ the contract employee as a regular employee for all subsequent academic years. If a contract employee is working under his or her 3rd consecutive contract pursuant to this provision, the bill would require that the governing board elect to employ the probationary employee as a tenured employee for all subsequent academic years, or not employ the probationary employee as a tenured employee. The changes summarized in this paragraph would become operative on July 1, 1990, and would impose a state-mandated local program.

The bill would make related changes to existing provisions governing mandatory written notice to a contract employee, thereby imposing a state-mandated local program.

(20) Existing law grants a right to a hearing to any contract employee who objects to an employment decision of the board, as specified.

This bill would, instead, grant those rights to 2nd- or 3rd-year contract employees. The bill would establish an appeal process regarding tenure decisions, including procedures for grievance and arbitration. This provision would impose a state-mandated local program.

(21) Existing law requires that contract employees of a community college district be evaluated at least once every academic year, and that regular employees be evaluated at least once in every 2 academic years.

This bill would change the required evaluation of regular employees to once every 3 years, and would require that temporary employees be evaluated within the 1st year of employment, and thereafter, at least once every 6 semesters or 9 quarters. This bill, in addition, would require that the evaluation include a peer review process, as specified, and that the peer review process address affirmative action concerns, as specified, and would revise the procedures and standards of evaluation. The changes described in this paragraph would impose a state-mandated local program.

In those districts in which evaluation procedures are collectively bargained, this bill would require that the faculty's representative consult with the academic senate before engaging in collective bargaining on those procedures.

(22) The bill would establish the minimum degree for tenure as a bachelor's degree or the equivalent from an accredited institution, or an equivalent foreign degree. This requirement would not apply to vocational faculty until January 1, 1994. The bill would also provide for the granting of waivers from the degree requirement, under enumerated conditions, and pursuant to a process developed and agreed upon jointly by representatives of the governing board and the academic senate, and approved by the governing board. The bill would require that the existing process remain in place until the joint agreement is reached and approved. The changes summarized in this paragraph would impose a state-mandated local program.

(23) The bill also would impose a state-mandated local program by requiring each district to establish faculty service areas, as defined, that mandate faculty qualification for one or more of these areas, as specified.

(24) Existing law requires that the Chancellor of the California Community Colleges convene 2 short-term task forces to make recommendations regarding changes in community college financing, as specified, and in faculty and administrator, qualification, peer review, hiring, and retention, as specified.

This bill would require that the board of governors review the Education Employment Relations Act, as specified, and report to the Legislature as specified, not later than January 1, 1993. In conducting the review, the board would be required to convene a review committee, with specified representatives.

ACCESS TO PROGRAMS, AND THE SUCCESS OF PARTICIPANTS:

(25) Existing law authorizes the Chancellor of the California Community Colleges to adopt a list of authorized student assessment instruments.

This bill would require the chancellor, pursuant to consultation with appropriate community college personnel, to adopt that list.

This bill would also direct the chancellor, as specified, to report to the Legislature on the effectiveness of community college programs in the 1988–89 and 1989–90 fiscal years, on student retention, transfer, completion of vocational education programs, and skill level improvement, and on the impact of the matriculation process on community college student populations.

(26) The bill would require the chancellor to conduct a specified study regarding the feasibility of establishing, on a pilot basis, "interdisciplinary colleges" with a special concern for the integration of vocational and academic study.

RELATED PROVISIONS:

(27) The bill would revise the procedures and criteria for allocation of funds to community college districts by the board of governors. In accordance with specified criteria, standards, and requirements, the bill would require the board of governors to adopt regulations implementing a system of program-based funding, commencing in the 1991–92 fiscal year. In this connection, the bill would extend the operation of existing community college apportionment provisions from July 1, 1989, the date those provisions would become inoperative under existing law, to July 1, 1991. The bill also would require the board of governors and organizational representatives of the California Community Colleges to develop and implement a comprehensive community college educational and fiscal accountability system, as specified.

(28) This bill would appropriate $7,250,000 to the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges and would allocate that appropriation for enumerated purposes of the bill, in specified amounts and under specified conditions. Based upon specified legislative findings and declarations, the bill would authorize the implementation of certain enumerated provisions only upon the provision of adequate funding, as defined.

(29) The bill would make numerous legislative findings, declarations, and statements of intent concerning these changes to existing law.

(30) The California Constitution requires the state to reimburse local agencies and school districts for certain costs mandated by the state. Statutory provisions establish procedures for making that reimbursement, including the creation of a State Mandates Claims Fund to pay the costs of mandates which do not exceed $500,000 statewide and other procedures for claims whose statewide costs exceed $500,000.

This bill would provide that, if the Commission on State Mandates determines that this bill contains costs mandated by the state, reimbursement for those costs shall be made pursuant to those statutory procedures and, if the statewide cost does not exceed $500,000, shall be made from the State Mandates Claims Fund.

Appropriation: yes.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. The Legislature finds and declares as follows, with regard to the general background and intent of this act:

(a) The California Community Colleges face an unprecedented challenge in the coming two decades, as California undergoes a major demographic, social, and economic transformation. The community colleges are at the center of this change, and the state's future as a healthy and free, diverse, and creative society depends in major part upon the commitments expressed through and in the community colleges.

(b) The community colleges educate hundreds of thousands of Californians every year, are the route to higher education for the majority of our people, provide access to language and citizenship for tens of thousands of immigrants annually, retrain workers in an economy changing more rapidly than any in history, and are the last hope for older citizens seeking skills and involvement in their communities. To do these things well, to bring excitement and power into the lives of students so diverse and needing so much, to serve the economy and society through its service of these students, requires a deep commitment from all who teach and learn, from those who administer and counsel, from those who fund and regulate.

(c) The community colleges embody an historic commitment to provide an opportunity for college instruction for all Californians capable of benefiting from instruction. The community colleges have historically found their mission in the statewide scheme for higher education, the Master Plan for Higher Education, and in local commitments to meet the needs of different communities—urban and rural, middle class and poor. From these sources have come the conviction, and the fact, that the community colleges ought to provide high quality lower division instruction for purposes of transfer to baccalaureate institutions, and a wide range of courses and programs to meet vocational and basic education needs. The community colleges have been notable because they are local and accessible, diverse in their responsiveness to local needs, and yet have maintained standards capable of placing students in any of the state's universities or in any of the state's industries.

(d) Since the development of the original master plan, there has been a significant change in the populations served by the community colleges, and in the anticipated needs of the state as we move into the 21st century. The state's population will grow by 22 percent between 1986 and 2000, from 27 million to roughly 33 million. By the turn of the century, California will have a cultural and ethnic pluralism unknown elsewhere in the mainland United States. Fifty-one percent of the schoolage children in 1989 will be minorities; the majority of the population will be nonwhite in the following decade. However, there is no one "minority community;" rather there will be recent immigrants from Asia and Central America, the children of today's urban ghettos, and members of the "working poor." These communities of Californians will turn increasingly to the community colleges for language training, job reskilling, technical education, or the liberal arts.

(e) By the year 2000, California will be proportionally older; 20 percent will be senior citizens. California will have more elderly citizens than any other state in the nation. These citizens will turn, as they have already, to the community colleges for continuing education and job skills.

(f) By the turn of the century, increasingly more working men and women will come to the community colleges to acquire job skills and retraining. In an economy of rapid change and intense international competition, there will be much job displacement, sometimes on a massive scale. The periodic recessions and the unpredictable collapse of one or more markets, or industries will cause new students to matriculate to the community colleges. But inside the economic center—not just at its margins—the workers of the future will need new literacy skills, and more ability to communicate and learn on their own. When analysts predict a labor shortage in California by 2000, the real issue will not be numbers but quality. The important questions will be whether working men and women will have the skills required for jobs of rapid transformation, and whether California will be able to compete economically with other states now making massive investment in their educational systems.

(g) The convergence of these tendencies—both demographic and economic—lead to the possibility of an increasingly stratified society. This can include what has been called a "permanent underclass;" mostly minority, and a semipermanent, semiemployable stratum of low-skilled workers. The consequences of this development would be dire: the permanent underutilization of the energies and talents of our people, the deepening of racial resentments and fears, and the constant anxiety among more and more of us that the future has no place for us.

(h) The Legislature is committed to an alternative vision in which California remains a place of opportunity and hope—where innovation and creativity mark our economy and our culture, and where the minds and spirits of all our communities contribute to our common future. The community colleges will be at the heart of whatever effort we make to insure that the future is equitable and open, that California's economy remains healthy and growing, and that both rural towns and rapidly expanding urban centers have educational resources close at hand. The community colleges are not the only place in which Californians will make their investment for an expansive and decent future, but they will have to be one such essential place.

(i) The community colleges—once envisaged as "junior colleges" devoted primarily to providing middle-class youth with a local option to the lower-division years of college—will be called upon for the tasks of retraining workers, teaching English to those recently among us, providing skills and opportunities for the elderly, providing a second chance to those who were failed by our secondary schools, and still providing lower division transfer education of quality and integrity for all who want it.

(j) The majority of people in California welcome this new epoch as a challenge of unprecedented opportunity. The Legislature shares this view, and expresses the intent that sufficient funding and resources of this state be provided to forge into a new range of educational engagements for our people. It is important in this regard to honor those who teach basic skills and literacy, as well as those who teach Shakespeare and Plato, to facilitate effective communication between "vocational" and "liberal arts" departments in an epoch where all vocations will require deeper and more subtle forms of literacy, and to build a new and diverse curriculum which engages all our diverse students, and demands the best of their minds and spirits.

(k) The people of California should have the opportunity to be proud of a system of community colleges which instills pride among its students and faculty, where rigor and standards are an assumed part of a shared effort to educate, where the hugely diverse needs of students are a challenge rather than a threat, where the community colleges serve as models for the new curricula and innovative teaching, where learning is what we care about most.

(l) It is the intent of the Legislature in enacting this act, to strengthen the capacity of the community colleges to meet the emerging needs of our state, and in particular, to better ensure that all Californians are offered a chance, challenged and taught with imagination and inspiration, offered assistance and counseling, and held to honest standards.

SEC. 2. The Legislature finds and declares the following with regard to the problems facing the California Community Colleges, and their mission and functions in resolving those problems:

(a) As the Commission for the Review of the Master Plan for Higher Education noted in its report, and as others have noted, the decline in the number of students seeking to transfer from the California Community Colleges to four-year educational institutions is attributable to a variety of factors, including, but not limited to, a decreased number of high school graduates, a lack of coordination among postsecondary segments and between postsecondary and secondary institutions, and the inadequate provision of student financial aid. This decline represents a serious threat to the historical objective of the community college system to provide access to quality education regardless of personal circumstance. The Legislature finds and declares that transfer between the California Community Colleges and California's four-year public universities is a matter of statewide concern.

(b) If the community college system is to fulfill its role in meeting the educational needs of this state in future years, there is a need for a reinvigorated transfer program in that system, involving a closer articulation between the community colleges and the other segments of public postsecondary education as to educational programs, expectations, and responsibilities, and involving the communication of the respective educational expectations of those segments to the high schools. The provision of quality transfer education is a primary mission of the community colleges.

(c) There is also a growing need in this state for quality courses and programs of baccalaureate program quality in the community college system for students who either do not desire to transfer to a four-year educational institution or who already possess a baccalaureate degree.

(d) Vocational and technical education is a primary mission of the California Community Colleges, and programs of study leading to employment meet the needs of both students and society. The dramatic changes in California's economy will require, however, an ongoing and thorough review of the relevance and responsiveness of current vocational education programs, as well as the relationship between those programs throughout the state.

(e) It is necessary that the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges initiate, through the chancellor's office, a detailed examination of the implications of current economic developments and trends for the development of vocational education programs. In the agriculture, manufacturing, and services sectors, new technologies, the reorganization of production, and the shifting international context require that review.

(f) Current vocational programs in the California Community Colleges appropriately include both academic certificate or degree programs and short-term jobs skills and retraining programs. Both are essential to meet the rapidly shifting needs within the economy. Within many of those programs, however, there is a need for greater continuity between the high schools, the community colleges, and the four-year colleges or universities.

(g) Vocational "tracks" should have as much connection as possible with courses in the liberal arts and general education. This ensures the greatest variety of career options for students, and addresses a growing conviction on the part of industry that vocational training must include a broad variety of literacy skills beyond technical expertise. The chancellor's office should initiate a review of the curricular relationships between vocational and general education programs.

(h) As indicated by the Commission for the Review of the Master Plan for Higher Education, there exist patterns of gender and ethnic underrepresentation in a number of vocational education programs. For example, in 15 of the 30 largest community college vocational education programs, over 80 percent of the students are of the same gender.

(i) There is a massive and growing demand in this state for remedial education, resulting from a decline in high school academic standards, the increasing dropout rate, restrictions on funding of adult education programs in the public schools, and the growing number of adults seeking basic skills, language, and literacy training. This need exists in all ethnic groups, and affects students from all socioeconomic backgrounds, whether or not high school graduates. The provision of remedial education is an essential and important mission of the community colleges.

(j) The success of the assessment, counseling, and placement system in the community colleges depends upon the ability of community college districts to provide a full range of courses of remedial instruction and related support services.

(k) The effectiveness of a program of remedial instruction in offering educational opportunity to underprepared students requires better coordination between adult education programs and community college programs, based upon locally negotiated agreements between those institutions for the provision of remedial instruction.

(l) Courses in English as a second language are vital to California's transition to a future as a multicultural society in which men and women of diverse backgrounds can share a common language, and to the opportunity for hundreds of thousands of recent immigrants to become participants in our society. The provision of English as a second language is an essential and important mission of the community colleges.

(m) English as a second language is needed by students having enormously varied backgrounds as to place of origin and level of preexisting educational skills, and is therefore necessary as a means of applying their abilities in an English-speaking culture, rather than as an effort to provide remediation or retraining.

(n) Because the programs in English as a second language currently offered in the California Community Colleges and the adult schools are inadequate to meet the growing need in this state for those programs, it is essential that the community colleges seek to coordinate those programs with local adult education schools, if any.

(o) Adult literacy training and basic skills education are among the most difficult challenges facing California education in the next 15 years, based upon 1980 census figures showing that over four million adults in this state, and perhaps up to 25 percent of California's adult population, may be illiterate.

(p) Illiteracy prevents those Californians from reading newspapers, work manuals, and labels on cans of poison, and results in incalculable costs to this state in terms of lost economic productivity, higher welfare and public assistance expenditures, unemployment, crime, social isolation, and personal exclusion.

(q) Whereas democracy depends upon an informed and engaged population, the percentage of our citizens voting in elections is among the lowest of any democracy in the entire world, a fact that may be related to our rate of literacy, which is lower than that of any other industrial democracy.

(r) Programs in noncredit adult education, including adult literacy and citizenship programs conducted in the California Community Colleges are important and essential functions of that system. The relationship between those programs and similar programs offered by other institutions, governed by a variety of authorities, requires clarification.

(s) The Legislature should require that local agreements be entered into between various educational entities for the provision of adult literacy training and basic skills education.

SEC. 3. It is the intent of the Legislature that the California Community Colleges be governed under an efficient and flexible system, providing adequate fiscal oversight and development of educational standards at the state level, and incentive to design programs meeting the particular needs of each district at the local level. The Legislature recognizes that the California Community Colleges is a statewide system with common standards and practices governing local initiative and control. The Legislature therefore finds and declares that clarifying and strengthening the respective roles of the Board of Governors and the Chancellor of the California Community Colleges will enhance the efficiency and flexibility of the system.

SEC. 4. The Legislature finds and declares the following with regard to faculty, administrators, and staff of the California Community Colleges:

(a) The California Community Colleges will face a severe hiring crisis in the next 15 years. It is estimated that fully 55 percent of the current full-time faculty will retire in that period. In this regard there are three major interlocking issues which must be considered:

(1) There must be guarantees that the full-time positions which become open because of the retirement of these faculty members not be divided into part-time positions that are less expensive to fill than the full-time positions. The division of full-time positions that become vacant into part-time positions is currently occurring all too frequently. The maintenance of a fully staffed, full-time faculty is an essential element of a coherent program.

(2) Competition for qualified persons is intense, from both other sectors of education and private business.

(3) Given the emerging turnover in faculty vacancies, the next 15 years represent the last major "window of opportunity" to significantly change the ethnic mix of the faculty during the next 30 years. It will be imperative for the faculty to be sympathetic and sensitive to cultural diversity in the colleges especially when the student body is continually changing. One means of ensuring this is for the faculty to be culturally balanced and more representative of the state's diversity.

(b) If the community colleges are to respond creatively to the challenges of the coming decades, they must have a strong and stable core of full-time faculty with long-term commitments to their colleges. There is proper concern about the effect of an overreliance upon part-time faculty, particularly in the core transfer curricula. Under current conditions, part-time faculty, no matter how talented as teachers, rarely participate in college programs, design departmental curricula, or advise and counsel students. Even if they were invited to do so by their colleagues, it may be impossible if they are simultaneously teaching at other colleges in order to make a decent living.

(c) However, in many areas the employment of part-time temporary faculty is both appropriate and necessary, especially in vocational programs where part-time faculty members may be practicing professionals in the field.

(d) Decisions regarding the appropriateness of part-time faculty should be made on the basis of academic and program needs, however, and not for financial savings. The Legislature's concern about abuses in this regard led to the establishment of the current statutory cap on part-time employment.

(e) There is widespread concern about the current tendency to fill "retiring" full-time positions with multiple part-time positions, and that there is a financial incentive to do so. Under current formulae, part-time faculty receive less money than do full-time faculty, and do not receive benefits. Thus, proposals concerning the status and conditions of part-time faculty will depend upon changes in the pay structure as well as the overall financing of the colleges.

(f) Changes in the governance of the California Community Colleges will affect, and be affected by, current collective bargaining agreements and the statutes governing those agreements, and that with regard to jurisdictional matters and questions of process, there can be considerable confusion regarding the relationship between collective bargaining agents, academic units organized through the colleges including departments and schools, and the academic senates.

(g) Community college instructors, recruited directly from graduate school or from some form of employment other than teaching, may not be prepared to deal effectively with the wide range of student abilities and attitudes found in community college classrooms. As larger numbers of students from many different cultural backgrounds and with significant English language and other deficiencies are enrolled, the problem will become more serious for both administrators and faculty. The proposed establishment of a student assessment, counseling, and placement program on each campus will also require additional training and assistance for both faculty and administrators.

(h) Professional development for faculty, support staff, student services staff, and administrators is vital. Further, the success of the assessment, counseling, and placement programs will depend upon the effectiveness of this training.

(i) The recruitment of faculty into the community colleges, and the maintaining of morale and enthusiasm among the faculty depends in large part upon the intellectual and personal environment within which faculty work. Much of that environment is created by their own authority over the substantive direction of the programs and courses in which they work, through the quality of their relationship with the college administration, and in the quality of their interactions with the communities of students they teach. At the same time, it is apparent that faculty morale comes from their engagement in the development of new and innovative programs, from their engagement in professional and discipline-based associations, and from an active, intellectual life as scholars and teachers.

(j) Community colleges have less resources available for faculty professional and intellectual development than do other segments of the system of higher education, and this disparity may become a substantial barrier to the future recruitment of quality faculty. Yet, faculty in the community colleges should be no less intellectually engaged than their colleagues in the other segments. Their primary commitment to teaching makes it imperative that they have a vibrant and rich intellectual life.

(k) The success of the assessment, counseling, and placement system in the California Community Colleges will depend upon the commitment and dedication of trained student services staff. The importance of their role stretches across all aspects of community college life—including: counseling, reading and computational assessment and evaluation, financial aid assistance, providing and directing tutorial services, providing outreach into the local community, providing information to continuing students, and assisting the faculty in designing and providing courses of study which meet the particular needs of very different students. It is essential that the college have adequate service staff, and that they be superbly trained, especially in view of the current diversity of student educational needs in the community colleges.

(l) The tenure system is an important prerequisite for the maintenance of academic freedom, continuity in academic and vocational programs, and development of a faculty committed to the long-term health of the community colleges. At the same time, the tenure system is a central part of the governance of the colleges. Thus, the determination of standards for tenure, procedures governing tenure, and the actual granting of tenure determine in large part the substantive direction of the colleges.

(m) The current tenure system lacks adequate participation by the faculty, provides an inadequate probationary period for the evaluation of permanent faculty, and does not provide uniform systemwide procedures for due process and grievance.

(n) It is a general purpose of this act to improve academic quality, and to that end the Legislature specifically intends to authorize more responsibility for faculty members in duties that are incidental to their primary professional duties. It is the intent of the Legislature that, in exercising these increased responsibilities, faculty members are not deprived of their status as employees under Chapter 10.7 (commencing with Section 3540) of Division 4 of Title 1 of the Government Code. It is also the intent of the Legislature that the exercise of this increased responsibility shall not make these faculty members managerial or supervisory employees, as those terms are defined in that chapter.

There has been a great deal of uncertainty as a result of the decision of the United States Supreme Court in National Labor Relations Board v. Yeshiva University, 444 U.S. 672, 63 L.Ed.2d 115, regarding whether increased faculty involvement in institutional governance and decisionmaking might subject the faculty members to legal challenges in connection with their rights of collective bargaining. This act is intended to enable faculty members who perform the duties described in subdivision (e) of Section 87610.1 of the Education Code to avoid having to choose between collective bargaining and greater participation in these functions by ensuring that increased participation in the tenure system, which occurs as an outgrowth of this act, shall not subject faculty members to losing their status as employees under Chapter 10.7 (commencing with Section 3540) of Division 4 of Title 1 of the Government Code.

(o) Any set of laws, regulations, directives, or guidelines regarding community college faculty and administrator qualifications, evaluation, hiring, or retention should promote the efforts of local community colleges to ensure that their faculty and administration consists of:

(1) Teachers who can teach and who are experts in the subject matter of their curriculum.

(2) Counselors, librarians, and other instructional and student service faculty who can foster college effectiveness and who are experts in the subject matter of their specialty.

(3) Administrators who can lead, organize, plan, and supervise; who understand the needs of faculty and the learning process; and who value institutional governance based upon a genuine sharing of responsibility with faculty colleagues.

(p) (1) The laws, regulations, directives, or guidelines should help the community colleges ensure that the faculty and administrators they hire and retain are people who are sympathetic and sensitive to the racial and cultural diversity in the colleges, are themselves representative of that diversity, and are well prepared by training and temperament to respond effectively to the educational needs of all the special populations served by community colleges.

(2) All state and local policies, rules, and regulations regarding community college faculty and administrator qualifications, evaluation, hiring, or retention should strengthen faculty, administration, and board cooperation in matters related to those topics. They should also strengthen the role of the faculty as an authoritative, professional collegiate body.

(q) (1) In general, the appropriate focus of minimum qualifications is in helping the colleges to ensure that they will select faculty who are competent in subject matter and possess the basic academic preparation needed to work effectively at the college level. The minimum qualifications for all faculty should be the same except where the application of qualifications without differentiation would be clearly unreasonable or impractical.

(2) The minimum qualifications for administrators should help the colleges to ensure that they will select individuals who are competent to perform the kind of administrative responsibilities that administrators are normally required to assume, such as supervision, organizational planning, and budget development and administration, and who understand the needs of faculty and the learning process.

(r) (1) The pool of underrepresented individuals interested in faculty and administrative positions in the community colleges should be increased. Furthermore, practical and effective ways of finding and recruiting those individuals should be developed and maintained. The state's leadership in this effort is appropriate and urgently needed.

(2) The hiring process for administrators and faculty (both temporary and permanent) should be designed so that both faculty and administrators take real responsibility for meeting affirmative action goals and ensuring that affirmative action considerations effectively influence hiring decisions.

(s) (1) No single approach to hiring faculty can guarantee attainment of the colleges' affirmative action goals and consistent selection of qualified individuals. Nevertheless, any hiring process adopted by a college should require the joint and cooperative exercise of responsibility by the faculty, administration, and board and should reflect the differing source of each participant's authority and the kind of responsibility that authority conveys.

(2) The governing board of a community college district derives its authority from statute and from its status as the entity holding the institution in trust for the benefit of the public. As a result, the governing board and the administrators it appoints have the principal legal and public responsibility for ensuring an effective hiring process.

(3) Faculty members derive their authority from their expertise as teachers and subject matter specialists and from their status as professionals. As a result, the faculty has an inherent professional responsibility in the development and implementation of policies and procedures governing the hiring process.

(4) Beyond requiring a joint and cooperative exercise of responsibility, the hiring process should be focused on ensuring that the community colleges will select teachers who can teach and who are experts in the subject matter of their curriculum; and counselors, librarians, and other instructional and student services faculty who can foster community college effectiveness and who are experts in the subject matter of their specialty. This means that the colleges may establish criteria for hiring that go well beyond the minimum qualifications set by regulation. The establishment of additional criteria of this sort should be expected and encouraged.

(5) The focus of the hiring process for administrators is slightly different from the focus in hiring teachers. In hiring teachers, the goal is to find people who can teach, but in hiring administrators the goal is to ensure that the community colleges will select administrators who are competent to perform the kind of administrative responsibilities that administrators are normally required to assume in the context of the operation and programs of the community colleges.

(t) The state should provide the community colleges with enough resources and a sufficiently stable funding environment to enable them to predict their staffing needs and to establish highly effective hiring processes. While the precise nature of the hiring process for faculty should be subject to local definition and control, each community college should, in a way that is appropriate to its circumstances, establish a hiring process that ensures that:

(1) Emphasis is placed on the responsibility of the faculty to ensure the quality of their faculty peers.

(2) Both faculty members and administrators participate effectively in all appropriate phases of the process.

(3) Positions to be filled are normally identified through a well defined, thoughtful, planning process.

(4) The time between the announcement of each position and the selection of a candidate for hire is long enough to allow a thorough, complete, and thoughtful search.

(5) Clear and complete job descriptions, including all job-related skills requirements and any additional qualifications recommended by the faculty when appropriate, are prepared for each position, and these job descriptions are reviewed before each position is announced, to ensure conformity with the community college's affirmative action and nondiscrimination commitments.

(6) All participants in the process are given appropriate training in affirmative action procedures and the affirmative action goals and timetables of the community college so that success in reaching those goals is better assured.

(7) Individuals, preferably minorities or women, who are knowledgeable about and responsible to the community college's affirmative action goals are included on all selection committees or similar groups.

(8) Final hiring decisions are, whenever reasonably possible, made during the regular academic year and promptly communicated to the faculty; the expectation that faculty recommendations regarding the hiring of faculty will normally be accepted is reinforced; and only in exceptional circumstances, and for compelling reasons communicated to the selection committee and to the president of the academic senate of the college, will someone be hired as a faculty member who has not been found to be among the best qualified by the faculty.

(u) The state should provide the community colleges with enough resources and a sufficiently stable funding environment to enable them to predict their staffing needs and to establish highly effective hiring processes. While the precise nature of the hiring process for administrators should be subject to local definition and control, each community college should, in a way that is appropriate to its circumstances, establish a hiring process which ensures that:

(1) Representatives of the faculty and other employees whose circumstances at work will be directly affected by the employment of the administrator participate effectively in all appropriate phases of the process.

(2) Positions to be filled are normally identified through a well defined, thoughtful, planning process.

(3) The time between the announcement of each position and the selection of a candidate for hire is long enough to allow a thorough, complete, and thoughtful search.

(4) Clear and complete job descriptions that include all job-related skills requirements are prepared for each position and these job descriptions are reviewed before each position is announced, to ensure conformity with the community college's affirmative action and nondiscrimination commitments.

(5) All participants in the process are given appropriate training in affirmative action procedures and goals and timetables of the community college, so that success in reaching those goals is better assured.

(6) Individuals, preferably minorities or women, who are knowledgeable about and responsive to the college's affirmative action goals are included on all selection committees or similar groups.

(7) Final hiring decisions are, whenever reasonably possible, made during the regular academic year and promptly communicated to the faculty and staff.

(v) (1) The evaluation process should promote professionalism, enhance performance, and be closely linked with staff development efforts.

(2) The evaluation process should be effective in yielding a genuinely useful and substantive assessment of performance. Among other things, this requires an articulation of clear, relevant criteria on which evaluations will be based.

(3) The evaluation process should be timely. This requires that evaluations be performed regularly at reasonable intervals.

(4) The specific purposes for which evaluations are conducted should be clear to everyone involved. This requires recognition that the principal purposes of the evaluation process are to recognize and acknowledge good performance, to enhance satisfactory performance and help employees who are performing satisfactorily further their own growth, to identify weak performance and assist employees in achieving needed improvement, and to document unsatisfactory performance.

(5) A faculty member's students, administrators, and peers should all contribute to his or her evaluation, but the faculty should, in the usual case, play a central role in the evaluation process and, together with appropriate administrators, assume principal responsibility for the effectiveness of the process.

(6) The procedures defined by negotiations should foster a joint and cooperative exercise of responsibility by the faculty, administration, and governing board of the community college and should reflect faculty and administrator expertise and authority in evaluating professional work as well as the governing board's legal and public responsibility for the process.

(w) Faculty tenure fosters academic freedom and should be maintained. For administrators, the need for job security justifies appointments of reasonable duration, but no one should obtain tenure or permanent status in an administrative position. A person should be granted tenure as a faculty member only after it has been determined through a process of evaluation that he or she is, and will likely continue to be, a positive asset to the community college. In other words, the award of tenure should be an affirmative act, rather than the result of default. The faculty's inherent professional responsibility to ensure the quality of their faculty peers requires faculty review to be at the heart of the evaluation process leading to tenure decisions.

SEC. 4.5. It is the intent of the Legislature that the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges be broadly and equitably representative of the general public and that appointments to the board of governors include adequate representation on the basis of sex and on the basis of the major racial, ethnic, and economic groups in the state.

SEC. 5. The Legislature finds and declares the following with regard to access to the California Community Colleges, and the importance and value of success to those who participate in the system:

(a) It is the responsibility of this state to provide to every Californian the opportunity to realize his or her intellectual, emotional, and vocational potential. To fulfill this responsibility, and to ensure that California enjoys a healthy economy and society, open access to a quality community college system must be affirmed for a diverse student population, which includes, but is not limited to, recent high school graduates, senior citizens, persons who are Caucasian, Black, Asian, and Hispanic, disabled men and women, persons at a variety of income levels, businessmen and businesswomen, single parents, women reentering the work force, high school dropouts, and persons with baccalaureate degrees.

(b) It is the joint responsibility of the student and the community college to realize the student's goals and aspirations, which often change during the educational experience and which include such diverse purposes as literacy training, English acquisition and development both for persons whose primary language is English and persons having other primary languages, vocational training, job reskilling, skills enhancement, and education oriented toward transfer to a four-year college or university.

(c) Open access to community colleges must be assured for all adults who can benefit from instruction, which access is meaningful only if supported by a system of assessment, counseling, and placement that assists students in identifying their talents and abilities, directs them to courses that meet their needs, and maintains standards designed to ensure their success.

SEC. 6. Section 66701 of the Education Code is amended to read:

66701. (a) Public community colleges shall offer instruction through but not beyond the second year of college. These institutions may grant the associate in arts and the associate in science degree.

(b) Authorized instruction in the community colleges shall include * * * standard collegiate courses for transfer to other institutions, vocational and technical courses leading to or upgrading, or leading to and upgrading, employment, general or liberal arts courses, adult noncredit courses, and community services programs and courses. However, priorities in the instructional programs shall be as follows:

(1) The primary mission of the community colleges is the provision of rigorous, high quality degree and certificate curricula in lower division arts and sciences and in vocational and occupational fields.

(2) The provision of remedial instruction, English as a second language instruction, and support services which help students succeed at the postsecondary level are essential and important functions of the community colleges.

(3) The provision of adult noncredit education curricula in areas defined as being in the state's interest is an essential and important function of the community colleges.

(4) The provision of community services courses and programs is an authorized function of the community colleges so long as their provision is compatible with an institution's ability to meet its obligations in its primary missions.

SEC. 7. Chapter 9.2 (commencing with Section 66720) is added to Part 40 of the Education Code, to read:

CHAPTER 9.2. STUDENT TRANSFER

66720. The Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, the Regents of the University of California, and the Trustees of the California State University, with appropriate consultation with the Academic Senates of the respective segments, shall jointly develop, maintain, and disseminate a common core curriculum in general education courses for the purposes of transfer. Any person who has successfully completed the transfer core curriculum, shall be deemed to have thereby completed all lower division general education requirements for the University of California and the California State University.

66721. Upon development of the transfer core curriculum pursuant to Section 66720, and upon any subsequent joint revision of that curriculum, the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, the Regents of the University of California, and the Trustees of the California State University shall jointly cause the curriculum to be published and distributed to each public school in this state that provides instruction in any of the grades 7 to 12, inclusive, and to each community college in this state, with an emphasis on the communication of that information to each school or college having a high proportion of students who are members of one or more ethnic minorities. In addition, the Board of Governors shall distribute that transfer core curriculum to the State Board of Education, which shall apply that information to ensure, through its curriculum development activities, that public school pupils enrolled in any of the grades 9 to 12, inclusive, are aware of the academic requirements for preparation for higher education and may receive any necessary academic remediation in a timely manner.

66723. No provision of this chapter shall apply to the University of California except to the extent that the Regents of the University of California, by appropriate resolution, makes that provision applicable.

SEC. 8. Part 43.5 (commencing with Section 70900) is added to Division 7 of the Education Code, to read:

PART 43.5. THE CALIFORNIA COMMUNITY COLLEGES

70900. (A) Annually prepare and adopt a proposed budget for the California Community Colleges. The proposed budget shall, at a minimum, identify the total revenue needs for serving educational needs within the mission, the amount to be expended for the state general apportionment, the amounts requested for various categorical programs established by law, the amounts requested for new programs and budget improvements, and the amount requested for systemwide administration.

The proposed budget for the California Community Colleges shall be submitted to the Department of Finance in accordance with established timelines for development of the annual Budget Bill.

(C) Establish space and utilization standards for facility planning in order to determine eligibility for state funds for construction purposes.

(14) Advise and assist governing boards of community college districts on the implementation and interpretation of state and federal laws affecting community colleges.

(15) Carry out other functions as expressly provided by law.

(c) Subject to, and in furtherance of, subdivision (a), the board of governors shall have full authority to adopt rules and regulations necessary and proper to execute the functions specified in this section as well as other functions that the board of governors is expressly authorized by statute to regulate.

(d) Wherever in this section or any other statute a power is vested in the board of governors, the board of governors, by a majority vote, may adopt a rule delegating that power to the chancellor, or any officer, employee, or committee of the California Community Colleges, or community college district, as the board of governors may designate. However, the board of governors shall not delegate any power that is expressly made nondelegable by statute. Any rule delegating authority shall prescribe the limits of delegation.

(e) In performing the functions specified in this section, the board of governors shall establish and carry out a process for consultation with institutional representatives of community college districts so as to ensure their participation in the development and review of policy proposals. The consultation process shall also afford community college organizations, as well as interested individuals and parties, an opportunity to review and comment on proposed policy before it is adopted by the board of governors.

70901.5. (a) The board of governors shall establish procedures for the adoption of rules and regulations governing the California Community Colleges. Among other matters, the procedures shall implement the following requirements:

(1) Written notice of a proposed action shall be provided to each community college district and to all other interested parties and individuals, including the educational policy and fiscal committees of the Legislature and the Department of Finance, at least 45 days in advance of adoption. The regulations shall become effective no earlier than 30 days after adoption.

(2) The proposed regulations shall be accompanied by an estimate, prepared in accordance with instructions adopted by the Department of Finance, of the effect of the proposed regulations with regard to the costs or savings to any state agency, the cost of any state-mandated local program as governed by Part 7 (commencing with Section 17500) of Division 4 of Title 2 of the Government Code, any other costs or savings of local agencies, and the costs or savings in federal funding provided to state agencies.

(3) The board of governors shall ensure that all proposed regulations of the board meet the standards of "necessity," "authority," "clarity," "consistency," "reference," and "nonduplication," as those terms are defined in Section 11349 of the Government Code. A district governing board or any other interested party may challenge any proposed regulatory action regarding the application of these standards.

(4) Prior to the adoption of regulations, the board of governors shall consider and respond to all written and oral comments received during the comment period.

(5) The effective date for a regulation shall be suspended if, within 30 days after adoption by the board of governors, at least two-thirds of all governing boards vote, in open session, to disapprove the regulation. With respect to any regulation so disapproved, the board of governors shall provide at least 45 additional days for review, comment, and hearing, including at least one hearing before the board itself. After the additional period of review, comment, and hearing, the board may do any of the following:

(A) Reject or withdraw the regulation.

(B) Substantially amend the regulation to address the concerns raised during the additional review period, and then adopt the revised regulation. The regulation shall be treated as a newly adopted regulation, and shall go into effect in accordance with those procedures.

(C) Readopt the regulation as originally adopted, or with those nonsubstantive, technical amendments deemed necessary to clarify the intent of the original regulation. If the board of governors decides to readopt a regulation, with or without technical amendments, it shall also adopt a written declaration and determination regarding the specific state interests it has found necessary to protect by means of the specific language or requirements of the regulation. A readopted regulation may then be challenged pursuant to existing law in a court of competent jurisdiction, and shall not be subject to any further appeal within the California Community Colleges.

(6) As to any regulation which the Department of Finance determines would create a state-mandated local program cost, the board of governors shall not adopt the regulation until the Department of Finance has certified to the board of governors and to the Legislature that a source of funds is available to reimburse that cost.

(7) Any district or other interested party may propose a new regulation or challenge any existing regulation.

(b) Except as expressly provided by this section, and except as provided by resolution of the board of governors, the provisions of Chapter 3.5 (commencing with Section 11340) of Part 1 of Division 3 of Title 2 of the Government Code shall not apply to regulations adopted by the board of governors.

70902. (a) Every community college district shall be under the control of a board of trustees, which is referred to herein as the "governing board." The governing board of each community college district shall establish, maintain, operate, and govern one or more community colleges in accordance with law. In so doing, the governing board may initiate and carry on any program, activity, or may otherwise act in any manner that is not in conflict with or inconsistent with, or preempted by, any law and that is not in conflict with the purposes for which community college districts are established.

The governing board of each community college district shall establish rules and regulations not inconsistent with the regulations of the board of governors and the laws of this state for the government and operation of one or more community colleges in the district.

(b) In furtherance of the provisions of subdivision (a), the governing board of each community college district shall do all of the following:

(1) Establish policies for, and approve, current and long-range academic and facilities plans and programs and promote orderly growth and development of the community colleges within the district. In so doing, the governing board shall, as required by law, establish policies for, develop, and approve, comprehensive plans. The governing board shall submit the comprehensive plans to the board of governors for review and approval.

Courses of instruction that are not offered in approved educational programs shall be submitted to the board of governors for approval. The governing board shall establish policies for, and approve, individual courses that are offered in approved educational programs without referral to the board of governors.

(3) Establish academic standards, probation and dismissal and readmission policies, and graduation requirements not inconsistent with the minimum standards adopted by the board of governors.

(4) Employ and assign all personnel not inconsistent with the minimum standards adopted by the board of governors and establish employment practices, salaries, and benefits for all employees not inconsistent with the laws of this state.

(5) To the extent authorized by law, determine and control the district's operational and capital outlay budgets. The district governing board shall determine the need for elections for override tax levies and bond measures and request that those elections be called.

(6) Manage and control district property. The governing board may contract for the procurement of goods and services as authorized by law.

(7) Establish procedures not inconsistent with minimum standards established by the board of governors to ensure faculty, staff, and students the opportunity to express their opinions at the campus level and to ensure that these opinions are given every reasonable consideration, and the right to participate effectively in district and college governance, and the right of academic senates to assume primary responsibility for making recommendations in the areas of curriculum and academic standards.

(8) Establish rules and regulations governing student conduct.

(9) Establish student fees as it is required to establish by law, and, in its discretion, fees as it is authorized to establish by law.

(10) In its discretion, receive and administer gifts, grants, and scholarships.

(12) Within the framework provided by law, determine the district's academic calendar, including the holidays it will observe.

(13) Hold and convey property for the use and benefit of the district. The governing board may acquire by eminent domain any property necessary to carry out the powers or functions of the district.

(14) Participate in the consultation process established by the board of governors for the development and review of policy proposals.

(c) In carrying out the powers and duties specified in subdivision (b) or other provisions of statute, the governing board of each community college district shall have full authority to adopt rules and regulations, not inconsistent with the regulations of the board of governors and the laws of this state, that are necessary and proper to executing these prescribed functions.

(d) Wherever in this section or any other statute a power is vested in the governing board, the governing board of a community college district, by majority vote, may adopt a rule delegating the power to the district's chief executive officer or any other employee or committee as the governing board may designate; provided, however, that the governing board shall not delegate any power that is expressly made nondelegable by statute. Any rule delegating authority shall prescribe the limits of the delegation.

SEC. 9. Section 71000 of the Education Code is amended to read:

71020. The board of governors shall develop and submit to the Governor, every three years, commencing July 1, 1989, an affirmative action paper concerning its own membership, providing the board's assessment of its role in statewide representation of minorities, women, and the disabled.

In developing and implementing this system, the board of governors shall solicit consultation from institutional and organizational representatives of the California Community Colleges, including statewide faculty and staff organizations. (7) Produce a published report of community college accountability.

(c) The Legislature finds and declares that successful implementation of a comprehensive educational and fiscal accountability system is, in part, dependent upon an adequate data collection and reporting system. The accountability system developed and implemented pursuant to this section shall be phased in, to the extent necessary, with the funding and local implementation of the community college management information system.

(d) The chancellor shall provide a written report on the accountability system developed pursuant to this section to the Legislature and Governor on or before July 1, 1990. This report shall not only delineate the accountability system and how it would be phased in, but shall differentiate between those portions of the system which can be implemented without imposing additional mandates on community college districts and those which can be implemented when additional funds are provided to reimburse the mandates on districts.

It is the intent of the Legislature that the accountability system be implemented over a three-year period, beginning not later than the 1991–92 academic year, which will provide student performance, program effectiveness, and institutional effectiveness information so that the accountability system, when fully implemented, will encompass the full range of information for effective decisionmaking, planning and budgeting.

SEC. 21. Section 84750 is added to the Education Code, to read:

84750. The board of governors, in accordance with the statewide requirements contained in subdivisions (a) to (j), inclusive, and in consultation with institutional representatives of the California Community Colleges and statewide faculty and staff organizations, so as to ensure their participation in the development and review of policy proposals, shall develop criteria and standards for the purposes of making the annual budget request for the California Community Colleges to the Governor and the Legislature, and for the purpose of allocating the state general apportionment revenues, beginning with the budget request for the 1991–92 fiscal year.

In developing the criteria and standards, the board of governors shall utilize and strongly consider the guidelines and work products of the Task Force on Community College Financing as established pursuant to Chapter 1465 of the Statutes of 1986, and shall complete the development of these criteria and standards, accompanied by the necessary procedures, processes, and formulas for utilizing its criteria and standards, by

March 1, 1990, and shall submit on or before that date a report on these items to the Legislature and the Governor.

The board of governors shall develop the criteria and standards within the following statewide minimum requirements:

(a) The calculations of each community college district's revenue level for each fiscal year shall be based on the level of general apportionment revenues (state and local) the district received for the prior year plus any amount attributed to a deficit of minimum workload growth, with revenue adjustments being made for increases or decreases in workload, for program improvement as authorized by this section or by any other provision of law, for inflation, and for other purposes authorized by law.

(b) (1) For credit instruction, the funding mechanism developed pursuant to this section shall recognize the needs among the major categories of operation of community colleges, with categories established for instruction, instructional services and libraries, student services, maintenance and operations, and institutional support.

(2) The board of governors may propose to the Legislature, for enactment by statute, other cost categories when adequate data exist.

(3) Funding for noncredit classes shall be determined as follows:

(A) The preliminary amount per noncredit full-time equivalent student (FTES) for 1991–92 shall be equal to the comparable amount for 1990–91 with increases corresponding to the cost of living adjustment (COLA) specified in subdivision (e) and corresponding to any program improvement provided to the maintenance and operations category for 1991–92.

(B) Funds for maintenance and operations shall be included in the funds derived under paragraph (4) of subdivision (c).

(C) Funds for institutional support will be derived as part of the computation under paragraph (5) of subdivision (c).

(D) From the preliminary amount described in subparagraph (A), a deduction shall be made corresponding to the amounts derived in subparagraphs (B) and (C), and the remainder shall be the funded amount per noncredit FTES for 1991–92.

(E) Changes in noncredit FTES shall result in adjustments to revenues as follows:

(i) Increases in noncredit FTES shall result in an increase in revenues in the year of the increase and at the average rate per noncredit FTES.

(ii) Decreases in noncredit FTES shall result in a revenue reduction as follows:

(I) District revenue shall be adjusted at the average rate per noncredit FTES.

(II) Revenue adjustments shall be over a three-year period beginning in the year following the initial year of decrease in noncredit FTES.

(iii) Districts shall be entitled to restore any reductions in apportionment revenue due to decrease in noncredit FTES during the three years following the initial year of decrease in noncredit FTES if there is a subsequent increase in FTES.

(4) Except as otherwise provided by statute, current categorical programs providing direct services to students, including extended opportunity programs and services, and disabled students programs and services, shall continue to be funded separately through the annual Budget Act, and shall not be assumed under budget formulas of program-based funding.

(5) District revenues shall be determined based on systemwide funding standards within the categories, and revenue adjustments shall occur based on distinct measures of workload applicable to each category.

(c) Workload measures applicable to each category shall be established with the following measures to be provided:

(1) For credit instruction, the workload measure shall be the credit FTES. Changes in credit FTES shall result in adjustments in revenues as follows:

(A) Increases in FTES shall result in an increase in revenues in the year of the increase and at the statewide average per FTES.

(B) Decreases in FTES shall result in a revenue reduction as follows:

(i) High revenue districts (those at the statewide average or higher) shall be adjusted at the statewide average per FTES.

(ii) Low revenue districts (those below the statewide average) shall be adjusted at one-half of the district's average per FTES.

(iii) Revenue adjustments shall be made over a three-year period beginning in the year following the initial year of decrease in FTES.

(C) Districts shall be entitled to restore any reductions in apportionment revenue due to decrease in FTES during the three years following the initial year of decrease in FTES if there is a subsequent increase in FTES.

(2) For instructional services and libraries, the workload measure shall be the credit FTES. Changes in credit FTES with respect to instructional services and libraries shall result in adjustments to revenues as follows:

(A) Increases in FTES shall result in an increase in revenues in the year of the increase and at the statewide average rate per FTES.

(B) Decreases in FTES shall result in a revenue reduction as follows:

(i) High revenue districts (those at the statewide average or higher) shall be adjusted at the full amount of the statewide average per FTES.

(ii) Low revenue districts (those below the statewide average) shall be adjusted at one-half of the district's average per FTES.

(iii) Revenue adjustments shall be made over a three-year period beginning in the year following the initial year of decrease in FTES.

(C) Districts shall be entitled to restore any reductions in apportionment revenue due to decreases in FTES during the three years following the initial year of decreases in FTES if there is a subsequent increase in FTES.

(3) For student services, the workload measure shall be based on the numbers of credit students enrolled (headcount).

Changes in headcount shall result in adjustments to revenues as follows:

(A) Increases in headcount shall result in an increase in revenues in the year of the increase at the statewide average per headcount.

(B) Decreases in headcount shall result in a revenue reduction as follows:

(i) High revenue districts (those at the statewide average or higher) shall be adjusted at the full amount of the statewide average per headcount.

(ii) Low revenue districts (those below the statewide average) shall be adjusted at one-half of the district's average per headcount.

(iii) Revenue adjustments shall be made over a three-year period beginning in the year following the initial year of decrease in headcount.

(C) Districts shall be entitled to restore any reductions in apportionment revenue due to decrease in headcount during the three years following the initial year of decrease in headcount if there is a subsequent increase in headcount.

(4) For maintenance and operations, the workload measure shall be based on the number of square feet of owned or leased facilities. Changes in the number of square feet shall be adjusted as follows:

(A) Increases in the number of square feet shall result in an increase in revenue in the year that the increase occurs and at the average per square foot.

(B) Decreases in the number of square feet shall result in a decrease in revenue beginning July 1 of the first full year in which the square feet are no longer owned or leased and at the average rate per square foot.

(5) For institutional support, a single fixed percentage which shall apply to all districts shall be established based on the pattern from the most recent data. The percentage shall be obtained from statewide data by comparing expenditures for this category with the total revenue for all five categories.

(d) Funding standards, subject to the conditions and criteria of this section, shall be established by the board for the various categories of operation established pursuant to subdivision (b). In consultation as required by subdivision (e) of Section 70901, the board of governors shall annually request program improvement moneys to assist districts in meeting these standards.

(e) Annual revenue adjustments shall be made to reflect cost changes, using the Implicit Price Deflator for State and Local Government Purchases of Goods and Services for the United States as published by the United States Department of Commerce, and using the ratio for the fourth calendar quarter of the latest available year to the fourth calendar quarter of the prior year rounded up to the next hundredth.

(f) An adjustment for economies of scale for districts and colleges shall be provided.

(g) The statewide increase in workload of FTES and headcount shall be, at a minimum, the rate of change of the adult population as determined by the Department of Finance, and may be increased through the budget process to reflect such other factors as statewide priorities, the unemployment rate, and the number of students graduating from California high schools. The allocation of changes on a district-by-district basis shall be determined by the board of governors.

(h) For fiscal year 1991–92, all districts shall receive at least the amount of revenue to which they would have been entitled pursuant to Article 1 (commencing with Section 84700) of Chapter 5 of Part 50. Thereafter, allocations shall be made pursuant to this section, as implemented by the board of governors pursuant to the annual State Budget.

(i) Except as specifically provided by statute, regulations of the board of governors for determining and allocating the state general apportionment to the community colleges shall not require district governing boards to expend the allocated revenues in specified categories of operation or according to the workload measures developed by the board of governors.

(j) As used in this section:

(1) "Criteria" means the definitions of elements of institutional practice or activity to be included in the categories of operation of community college districts.

(2) "Program improvement" means an increase in revenue which is allocated to all districts to fund standards adopted pursuant to subdivision (d). Program improvement also means an increase in revenue allocated to low revenue districts to bring them closer to the statewide average.

(3) "Standard" means the appropriate level of service in a category of operation of the community college districts.

SEC. 21.7. Section 84755 is added to the Education Code, to read:

84755. (a) The Legislature finds and declares that program-based funding, once implemented, will more adequately and accountably fund the costs of providing quality community college education. Given that program-based funding will not be implemented until fiscal year 1991–92, given that community colleges will be entering a period of major reform and incurrence of new state mandates commencing in January 1989, and given that community colleges will be entering this period of reform having lost purchasing power since the 1977–78 fiscal year, the Legislature recognizes the need to create a transitional funding mechanism for program improvement and mandate funding that can operate until program-based funding is implemented.

(b) For the purpose of improving the quality of community college educational programs and services, for the purpose of reimbursing state-mandated local program costs imposed by this act, and for the purposes of initially implementing specified reforms, the board of governors shall, from amounts appropriated for purposes of this section, allocate program improvement revenues to each district on the basis of an amount per unit of average daily attendance generated in the 1987–88 fiscal year. However, this amount shall be increased or decreased to provide for equalization in a manner determined by the Board of Governors, consistent with the provisions of Sections 84703 to 84705, inclusive.

Each community college district shall use its allocation to initially reimburse state-mandated local program costs, and then to implement specified reforms and make authorized program and service improvements as follows:

(1) Developing articulated programs provided for in Section 70 of Assembly Bill 1725 of the 1987–88 Regular Session of the Legislature with school districts and campuses of the University of California and California State University.

(2) Applying minimum qualifications to all newly hired faculty and administrators, including candidates for these positions as required by Section 87356.

(3) Developing and administering a process for waiver of minimum qualifications as required by Section 87359.

(4) Establishing and applying local hiring criteria as required by Section 87360.

(5) Establishing and applying faculty service areas and competency criteria as required by Sections 87743 to 87743.5, inclusive.

(6) Evaluating temporary employees, instituting peer review evaluation, and widely distributing evaluation procedures as required by Section 87663.

(7) Establishing and applying new processes for tenure evaluation required by Section 87610.1.

(8) Establishing and applying the tenure denial grievance procedure required by Section 87610.1.

(9) Establishing and applying a process for moving administrators into faculty positions as required by Sections 87454 to 87458, inclusive.

(10) Publishing and distributing a report on the affirmative action success rate as required by Section 87102.

(11) Improving instruction by reducing the ratio of full-time equivalent students to full-time equivalent instructors.

(12) Improving instruction by increasing the hiring of full-time instructors and limiting the practice of hiring part-time instructors.

(13) Augmenting budgets for college libraries and learning resources.

(14) Augmenting budgets for plant maintenance and operations.

(15) Adding new courses or programs to serve community need.

(16) Making progress towards affirmative action goals and timetables established by the district.

(17) Developing and maintaining programs and services authorized by Section 78212.5.

(18) Augmenting budgets for student services in the areas of greatest need.

(19) Providing for release time for faculty and staff as deemed appropriate by community college district governing boards, to enable faculty and staff participation in implementing reforms.

(c) Except as provided by Section 87482.6, and except as necessary to reimburse the costs of new state mandates, district governing boards shall have full authority to expend program improvement allocations for any or all of the authorized purposes specified in subdivision (b).

(d) As required by the board of governors, the governing board of each community college district shall submit to the board of governors a plan for using the resources allocated pursuant to this section. The board of governors shall review each plan to ensure that proposed expenditures are consistent with the listing of authorized expenditures provided in this section, and the board of governors shall approve all plans to the full extent that expenditures are authorized by this section. To the extent that a community college district expends its program improvement allocation consistent with its plan, the board of governors shall include the district's allocation as part of the district's base budget for subsequent years.

(e) The board of governors, through the annual systemwide budget submitted pursuant to paragraph (5) of subdivision (b) of Section 70901, shall request necessary resources for the purposes of this section. It is the intent of the Legislature that the appropriation and allocation of program improvement money not otherwise provided pursuant to subdivision (b) of this section shall be accomplished through the annual state budget process beginning with the 1989–90 fiscal year. After June 30, 1991, if Section 84750 is implemented, it is the intent of the Legislature to fund the ongoing operations of community college districts pursuant to the provisions of Section 84750.

SEC. 22. Section 87001 is added to the Education Code, to read:

Faculty include, but are not limited to, instructors, librarians, counselors, community college health services professionals, handicapped student programs and services professionals, extended opportunity programs and services professionals, and individuals employed to perform a service that, before July 1, 1990, required nonsupervisorial, nonmanagement certification qualifications.

The governing board of each community college district shall be held accountable pursuant to this article and other applicable provisions of law for the success or failure of its affirmative action employment program. The plans shall be a public record within the meaning of the California Public Records Act (Chapter 3.5 (commencing with Section 6250) of Division 7 of Title 1 of the Government Code).

(b) The governing board of each community college district shall publish and distribute a record of the success rate of measurable progress, with respect to its goals and timetables, in hiring employees through its affirmative action employment program. This publication shall be a public record within the meaning of the California Public Records Act, and shall include data and information specified by the board of governors.

SEC. 24. Section 87104 of the Education Code is amended to read:

ing affirmative action programs, including the effectiveness of the programs in meeting the intent of this article; * * * (3) develop and disseminate to public community college districts guidelines to assist these agencies in developing and implementing affirmative action employment programs; and (4) shall establish a technical assistance team to review the affirmative action plan of each community college district which fails to make measurable progress in meeting the goals and timetables of its adopted plan. The technical assistance team shall recommend appropriate actions to assure reasonable progress in improving success rates. The board of governors shall prescribe those conditions necessary to assure reasonable progress and otherwise meet the legal requirements of affirmative action. The conditions may include the withholding of allowances made pursuant to Sections 87482.6 and 87107.

(b) The board of governors shall establish, by July 1, 1989, within the chancellor's office or through other means as deemed necessary, a major service function to assist community college districts in identifying, locating, and recruiting qualified members of underrepresented groups, and in establishing and maintaining effective affirmative action hiring procedures.

For the purpose of administering this fund, the board of governors shall develop and apply availability data and factors for measuring district progress in contributing to this goal for the system. Also for the purpose of administering this fund, it is the intent of the Legislature that the board of governors take the steps which are necessary to reach the goal that by fiscal year 1992–93, 30 percent of all new hires in the California Community Colleges as a system will be ethnic minorities.

(b) By December 1, 1993, the board of governors shall report upon and assess the extent to which the California Community Colleges as a system have met or begun to meet the goals specified in this section. The report shall include conclusions regarding any necessary revisions to these goals. (2) The board of governors shall establish a process to review at least every three years the continued appropriateness of the minimum qualifications, and the adequacy of the means by which they are administered. The process shall provide for the appointment of a representative group of community college faculty, administrators, students, and trustees to conduct or otherwise assist in the review, including particularly, representatives of academic senates, collective bargaining organizations, and statewide faculty associations. In addition, the group shall be broadly representative of academic and vocational programs in the curriculum from both urban and rural districts, and representative of ethnic minority communities.

(b) The board of governors, relying primarily upon the advice and judgment of the statewide Academic Senate, shall prescribe by regulation a working definition of the term "discipline" and shall prepare and maintain a list of disciplines that are "reasonably related" to one another, as that phrase is used in the minimum qualifications. The initial list shall be distributed to the community college districts by July 1, 1989, for their use in applying the minimum qualifications for hire.

In formulating advice and recommendations to the board of governors regarding the definition of the term "discipline," the statewide Academic Senate shall consult with appropriate statewide organizations representing administrators and faculty collective bargaining agents. The statewide Academic Senate shall incorporate the advice of those groups into its recommendations to the board of governors, particularly as it relates to the practical ramifications of any proposed definition of the term "discipline" on issues of reassignment, transfer, and reduction in force.

The board of governors, relying primarily upon the advice and judgment of the statewide Academic Senate, shall prepare and maintain a list of disciplines in which the master's degree is not generally expected or available. The initial list shall be distributed to the community college districts by July 1, 1989, for their use in applying the minimum qualifications for hire.

87358. The board of governors shall periodically designate a team of community college faculty, administrators, and trustees to review each community college district's application of minimum qualifications to faculty and administrators.

87359. The board of governors shall adopt regulations setting forth a process authorizing local governing boards to employ faculty members, instructional administrators, and student services administrators who do not meet the applicable minimum qualifications specified in the regulations adopted by the board pursuant to Section 87356. Unless and until amended pursuant to the process described in Section 87357, the regulations shall require all of the following:

(a) No one may be hired to serve as a community college faculty member, instructional administrator, or student services administrator under the authority granted by the regulations unless the governing board determines that he or she possesses qualifications that are at least equivalent to the minimum qualifications specified in regulations of the board adopted pursuant to Section 87356. The criteria used by the governing board in making the determination shall be reflected in the governing board's action employing the individual.

(b) The process, as well as criteria and standards by which the governing board reaches its determinations, shall be developed and agreed upon jointly by representatives of the governing board and the academic senate, and approved by the governing board. The agreed upon process shall include reasonable procedures to ensure that the governing board relies primarily upon the advice and judgment of the academic senate to determine that each individual employed under the authority granted by the regulations possesses qualifications that are at least equivalent to the applicable minimum qualifications specified in regulations adopted by the board of governors. The process shall further require that the governing board provide the academic senate with an opportunity to present its views to the governing board before the board makes a determination; and that the written record of the decision, including the views of the academic senate, shall be available for review pursuant to Section 87358.

(c) Until a joint agreement is reached and approved pursuant to subdivision (b), the district process in existence on January 1, 1989, shall remain in effect.

87359.5. By May 1, 1989, the board of governors shall have reviewed or contracted for review of, the job relevance of the requirements of Sections 87408, 87408.5, 87408.6, and any other physical fitness tests or examinations, and other conditions of employment, applicable to community college personnel.

Article 3. Hiring Criteria

87360. (b) No later than July 1, 1990, hiring criteria, policies, and procedures for new faculty members shall be developed and agreed upon jointly by representatives of the governing board, and the academic senate, and approved by the governing board.

A person employed in an administrative position that is not part of the classified service, who has not previously acquired tenured status as a faculty member in the same district, shall have the right to become a first year probationary faculty member once his or her administrative assignment expires or is terminated if all of the following apply:

(a) The process by which the governing board reaches the determination shall be developed and agreed upon jointly by representatives of the governing board and the academic senate, and approved by the governing board. The agreed upon process shall include reasonable procedures to ensure that the governing board relies primarily upon the advice and judgment of the academic senate to determine that the administrator possesses the minimum qualifications for employment as a faculty member. The process shall further require that the governing board provide the academic senate with an opportunity to present its views to the governing board before the board makes a determination; and that the written record of the decision, including the views of the academic senate, shall be available for review pursuant to Section 87358.

(b) Until a joint agreement is reached pursuant to subdivision (a), the district process in existence on January 1, 1989, shall remain in effect.

(c) The administrator has completed at least two years of satisfactory service, including any time previously served as a faculty member, in the district.

(d) The termination of the administrative assignment is for any reason other than dismissal for cause.

SEC. 35. Section 87482.6 is added to the Education Code, to read:

87482.6. (a) Until the provisions of Section 84750 regarding program-based funding are implemented by a standard adopted by the board of governors that establishes the appropriate percentage of hours of credit instruction that should be taught by full-time instructors, the Legislature wishes to recognize and make efforts to address longstanding policy of the board of governors that at least 75 percent of the hours of credit instruction in the California Community Colleges, as a system, should be taught by full-time instructors. To this end, community college districts which have less than 75 percent of their hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors shall apply a portion of the program improvement allocation received pursuant to Section 84755 as follows:

(1) Districts which, in the prior fiscal year, had between 67 percent and 75 percent of their hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors shall apply up to 33 percent of their program improvement allocation as necessary to reach the 75 percent standard. If a district in this category chooses instead not to improve its percentage, the board of governors shall withhold 33 percent of the district's program improvement allocation.

(2) Districts which, in the prior fiscal year, had less than 67 percent of their hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors shall apply up to 40 percent of their program improvement allocation as necessary to reach the 75 percent standard. If a district in this category chooses instead not to improve its percentage, the board of governors shall withhold 40 percent of the district's program improvement allocation.

Districts which maintain 75 percent or more of their hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors shall otherwise be free to use their program improvement allocation for any of the purposes specified in Section 84755.

(b) The board of governors shall adopt regulations for the effective administration of this section. Unless and until amended by the board of governors, the regulations shall provide as follows:

(1) In computing the percentage of hours of credit instruction taught by full-time instructors, the hours of overload teaching by full-time instructors shall be excluded from both the total hours of credit instruction taught by full-time and part-time instructors and the total hours of instruction taught by full-time instructors.

(2) A full-time instructor shall be defined as any regular and contract faculty member teaching credit instruction.

(3) The chancellor shall compute and report to each community college district the number of full-time faculty (FTF) which are to be secured through the use of the prescribed portion of program improvement revenue allocated to each district. This computation shall be made by dividing the applicable portion of program improvement revenue (0 percent, 33 percent, or 40 percent of the program improvement allocation), by the statewide average "replacement cost" (a figure which represents the statewide average faculty salary plus benefits, minus the statewide average hourly rate of compensation for part-time instructors times the statewide average full-time teaching load). If the quotient is not a whole number, then the quotient shall be rounded down to the nearest whole number. If this quotient, once applied, will result in the district exceeding the 75 percent standard, the chancellor shall further reduce the quotient to a whole number that will leave the district as close as possible to, but in excess of, the 75 percent standard.

By March 15th of each year, the chancellor shall report to each district an estimate of the number of FTF to be secured based upon the appropriation of revenues contained in the annual Budget Bill.

(4) On or before December 31, 1991, the chancellor shall determine the extent to which each district, by September 30, 1991, has hired the number of FTF determined pursuant to paragraph (3) for the 1989–90 and 1990–91 fiscal years. To the extent that the cumulative number of FTF have not been retained, the chancellor shall reduce the district's base budget for 1991–92 and subsequent fiscal years by an amount equivalent to the average replacement cost times the deficiency in the number of FTF.

(e) If the pilot program is deemed to be beneficial to the community college and its students, the board of governors, in consultation with the faculty, shall establish policy directed at, and shall develop standards for, employing part-time temporary faculty under option-rollover contracts for periods ranging from two to five years. At the conclusion of the contractual period, the employing community college district shall have the option of retaining the employee for a period equal to the duration of the original contract by rolling over the contract for the stated period.

(f) It is the intent of the Legislature that the development of option-rollover contracts for part-time temporary employees not frustrate the policy of the community colleges to strengthen the core of their full-time faculty, including the recruitment and hiring of full-time faculty members.

(g) The board of governors shall develop standards requiring part-time temporary employees who have contractual status under an option-rollover contract to participate in student advisement and curriculum-related development, in addition to classroom instruction. Part-time temporary employees shall be compensated according to these standards.

This section shall become operative only if funds are specifically appropriated for purposes of this section.

SEC. 66. (a) The governing board of each district may determine whether it would be beneficial for various community college departments to enter into agreements with the analogous graduate department at the University of California or California State University campus closest in proximity to the community college, to provide part-time temporary teaching positions in the district for advanced university graduate students.

(b) In determining whether the development of part-time temporary teaching positions would be beneficial for the district, the governing board shall consider that the part-time temporary teaching positions, if implemented, would be limited to the following individuals:

(1) Advanced graduate students with prior proven teaching experience.

(2) Advanced graduate students teaching in areas consistent with the subject area of their graduate program.

(3) Advanced graduate students who qualify for employment in positions requiring certification.

(4) Advanced graduate students selected by the pertinent community college department and administrators from among a list of candidates provided by the University of California or the California State University graduate department.

(c) The governing board shall also consider whether the following intended purposes would be served by the development of part-time temporary teaching positions:

(1) Be a form of financial aid to the graduate students, especially for minority and disadvantaged students.

(2) Provide access to graduate students who wish to enter into the teaching profession at the community college level.

(3) Guarantee community college departments one or two part-time positions each year.

(d) In the event that part-time temporary teaching positions are established, graduate students who would teach on a temporary part-time basis shall not displace persons then currently teaching part-time or full-time.

SEC. 67. Notwithstanding Section 17610 of the Government Code, if the Commission on State Mandates determines that this act contains costs mandated by the state, reimbursement to local agencies and school districts for those costs shall be made pursuant to Part 7 (commencing with Section 17500) of Division 4 of Title 2 of the Government Code. If the statewide cost of the claim for reimbursement does not exceed five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000), reimbursement shall be made from the State Mandates Claims Fund.

SEC. 68. On or before January 1, 1990, the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges shall adopt regulations which substantially incorporate the following policy:

No more than 30 semester units, or 45 quarter units, in course credit may be assigned to any student for remedial coursework, except as to any student who is enrolled in one or more courses in English as a second language or who is identified as having a learning disability. This limit may be waived by the community college district pursuant to regulations of the board of governors, based upon the student's showing of significant, measurable progress toward the development of skills appropriate to his or her enrollment in college level courses. Students needing remedial instruction beyond the course credit restrictions set forth in this section shall be referred to appropriate noncredit adult basic education programs conducted by the community college or an adult school, or to appropriate community services.

The board of governors shall examine and review the effects of the limit under this regulation on the students taking remedial courses, including their success rates, attrition rates, and movement into other programs of study or employment. The review shall include an analysis of the composition by ethnicity and gender of the students reaching this limit, as well as a review of district efforts to use faculty and support service personnel to promote the success rate of students in remedial courses. A report concerning this review shall be delivered to the education policy committees of the Senate and Assembly on or before December 31, 1991.

SEC. 69. Pursuant to paragraph (8) of subdivision (b) of Section 70901 of the Education Code:

(a) The board of governors and the State Board of Education shall jointly assist school districts and community college districts in the development and maintenance of articulated programs that coordinate vocational education over the final two years in high school and two years in community college to effectively meet student and employer needs.

(b) The Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges and the Trustees of the California State University, shall jointly develop and maintain articulated programs that expand upon the articulated programs developed pursuant to subdivision (a) to include the attainment of the baccalaureate degree where appropriate. These programs shall provide for the transfer of students in vocational education programs in community colleges to the California State University.

(c) Plans for the implementation of these programs shall be completed by July 1, 1991.

(d) This section shall become operative only if funds are specifically appropriated for purposes of this section.

SEC. 70. (a) The Legislature finds and declares that the reforms enacted through this act form a mutually dependent and related set of provisions. While some few provisions could be enacted independently, other sections of this act depend upon adequate support for the programs of the community colleges. There is a direct linkage between those sections of this act which constitute the further professionalization of the faculty and the moneys required to enhance the programs of the community colleges for "transitional program improvement," as specified in Section 84755 of the Education Code.

For instance, the elimination of credentials must be accompanied by the establishment of minimum qualifications by the board of governors. Minimum qualifications in turn must be implemented by districts through the establishment of faculty service areas, competency criteria, and various waiver processes. The extension of the tenure probationary period to four years as well as the revisions to layoff procedures also depend upon the establishment of tenure denial grievance processes as well as the establishment of faculty service areas and competency criteria. Similarly, because so many of the reforms call for faculty involvement in the determination and implementation of policy, and because the quality, quantity, and composition of full-time faculty have the most immediate and direct impact on the quality of instruction, overall reform cannot succeed without sufficient members of full-time faculty with sufficient opportunities for continued staff development, and with sufficient opportunity for participation in institutional governance.

The Legislature further finds that, absent resources to reimburse the state-mandated costs of this act, new full-time faculty to replace part-time faculty, and expanded programs for staff development, the viability or success, or both, of many of the reforms in this act will be jeopardized. The Legislature recognizes that due to unanticipated fiscal conditions the State cannot immediately fund all of the reforms contained in this act. The Legislature also recognizes, however, that if minimal funding is not soon provided that it would be inappropriate to proceed with many reforms.

(b) The Legislature finds and declares that the California Community Colleges are entering a period of major reform, but require further assistance in regaining prior purchasing power in order to fully carry out major reforms. The Legislature intends that the reform process be phased in over a reasonable and logical period of time, and that the institution of major reform be based upon the community colleges' ability to deliver enhanced quality in their programs. Pursuant to this act, the Legislature finds and declares that the transitional stage of reform process shall consist of two phases:

(1) "Phase I of transitional program improvement," as used in this section, means a period of reform during which community college programs are improved and enhanced to prepare an appropriate environment for the subsequent professionalization of faculty. In this connection, the Legislature finds and declares that it would be an unsound and wasteful policy to expend moneys to professionalize faculty without first making the program changes necessary to enable that faculty to assume a more effective role in the educational process. It is the intent of the Legislature that those changes, combined in proper sequence with the professional improvement of faculty, will improve the overall quality of education within the system. It is the intent of the Legislature that moneys appropriated during Phase I fully fund any state-mandates created pursuant to this section.

(2) "Phase II of transitional program improvement" means a period of reform following initial program improvement and professionalization of faculty. During that period, the new educational environment created under Phase I, including such reforms as innovative training programs, evaluation procedures, and minimum qualifications, may be utilized to the fullest extent in hiring new full-time faculty. The Legislature finds that this latter step is a major component of successful reform and the eventual attainment of the highest possible quality in the educational programs of the California Community Colleges. It is the intent of the Legislature that moneys appropriated during Phase II fully fund any state-mandate created pursuant to this section.

(c) The Legislature finds and declares that the provisions of subdivisions (d) and (e) address an essential policy issue at the core of the system created by this act. The reforms with delayed operative dates pursuant to subdivisions (d) and (e) will be fiscally and substantively meaningful only if other enumerated reforms, on which the reforms with delayed operative dates depend, are adequately funded as an initial step in the process of improving the structure and quality of the California Community Colleges.

(d) Sections 27 to 34, inclusive, and Sections 51 to 56, inclusive, of this act shall be implemented by the board of governors and be mandatory with regard to implementation by community college districts only if the board of governors certifies in writing to the Governor and to the Legislature that adequate funding has been provided for Phase I of transitional program improvement and for any applicable state mandates, as authorized in Section 84755 of the Education Code. If the board of governors so certifies, each of these sections shall be implemented on the date of certification, or upon any operative date specified for the particular section in this act, whichever is later. For purposes of this subdivision, "adequate funding" means those moneys required to provide an increased quality of instruction and programs, and to carry out applicable mandates of this act, within the California Community Colleges. Based upon estimates provided by the board of governors and exhaustive review of the community colleges' operations by the Joint Committee for the Review of the Master Plan for Higher Education, the Legislature finds and declares that its estimate of this funding amount is seventy million dollars ($70,000,000).

(e) Sections 21, and 36 to 49, inclusive, of this act shall be implemented by the board of governors and be mandatory with regard to implementation by community college districts only if the board of governors certifies in writing to the Governor and to the Legislature that adequate funding has been provided for Phase II of transitional program improvement and for any applicable state mandates, as authorized in Section 84755. If the board of governors so certifies, each of these sections shall be implemented on the date of certification, or upon any operative date specified for the particular section in this act, whichever is later. For purposes of this subdivision, "adequate funding" means those moneys required to provide an increased quality of instruction and programs, and to carry out applicable state mandates of this act, within the California Community Colleges. Based upon estimates provided by the board of governors and exhaustive review of the community colleges' operations by the Joint Committee for the Review of the Master Plan for Higher Education, the Legislature finds and declares that its estimate of this funding amount is seventy million dollars ($70,000,000), in addition to the seventy million dollars ($70,000,000) estimated under subdivision (d).

(f) Notwithstanding this section, the board of governors, commencing January 1, 1989, may develop criteria and standards, as may be necessary to prepare for implementation of Section 84750 of the Education Code. However, the board of governors may not implement that section until the terms of this section have been met.

SEC. 71. Section 70901.5 of the Education Code, as added by Section 8 of this act, shall become operative on January 1, 1990.

SEC. 72. The sum of seven million two hundred fifty thousand dollars ($7,250,000) is hereby appropriated from the General Fund to the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges for expenditure pursuant to this act in the 1988–89 fiscal year in accordance with the following schedule:

(a) For expenditure pursuant to Article 5 (commencing with Section 87150) of Chapter 1 of Part 51 of the Education Code. Notwithstanding subdivision (a) of Section 87152, the board of governors shall allocate these funds to community college districts on a per average daily attendance (ADA) basis, using the funded ADA levels for the 1987–88 fiscal year, so that seven dollars ($7) per ADA, or as near thereto as possible, is allocated, and so that each district receives at least five thousand dollars ($5,000). Before computing the per ADA amount the board of governors may set aside up to 2 percent of the allocation of this subdivision for statewide administration	$5,000,000
(b) For expenditure pursuant to Section 87107 of the Education Code	$1,000,000
(c) For purposes of the administration of this act, including the administration of Section 84755 of the Education Code, the adoption of regulations as required by Sections 70901.5, 87356, 87359, 87107, and 87482.6 of the Education Code and Section 69 of this act, the development of a list of disciplines, as required by Section 87357 of the Education Code, and the review required by Section 87359.5 of the Education Code	$ 300,000
(d) For purposes of commencing implementation of Section 84750 of the Education Code, during the period of January 1, 1989, through June 30, 1990	$ 300,000
(e) For purposes of subdivision (b) of Section 87104 of the Education Code	$ 300,000

(f) For purposes of Section 71020.5 of the Education Code ..... $ 150,000
(g) To the Community College Fund for instructional improvement pursuant to Section 84381 of the Education Code ..... $ 200,000

[Approved by Governor October 14, 1991. Filed with Secretary of State October 14, 1991.]

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. The Legislature hereby finds and declares all of the following:

(a) A viable and effective student transfer system is one of the accommodated. It is the intent of the Legislature to fund programs designed to accomplish the purposes of this subdivision through appropriations made in the Budget Act to the public institutions of higher education, and the annual Budget shall contain appropriations necessary to accommodate all students from all of the categories designated in subdivision (a) of Section 66202.

The segments may, in implementing these enrollment plans and admissions practice priorities, consider the overall needs of students in maintaining a balanced program and a quality curriculum, and are expected to consider the state's goals of educational equity and racial and ethnic diversity of students and faculty in the planning and management of their admissions practices. It is further the intent of the Legislature that campus enrollment planning processes provide for the equitable treatment of the following: (1) all eligible entering freshmen; (2) continuing students in good standing; and (3) eligible community college transfer students with regard to accommodation in majors.

This part shall supersede any other law which conflicts with this part.

SEC. 4. An article heading is added to Chapter 9.2 (commencing with Section 66720) of Part 40 of the Education Code, to read:

Article 1. Transfer System

SEC. 5. Article 2 (commencing with Section 66730) is added to Chapter 9.2 of Part 40 of the Education Code, to read:

Article 2. Transfer Functions

66730. (a) The Regents of the University of California, the Trustees of the California State University, and the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges shall have as a fundamental policy the maintenance of a healthy and expanded student transfer system. Both the University of California and the California State University shall have as a basic enrollment policy the maintenance of upper division enrollment, which are students who have attained upper division status, at 60 percent of total undergraduate enrollment. This goal shall be met through programs aimed at increasing the numbers of qualified transfer students from the community colleges without denying eligible freshmen applicants.

(1) The California State University shall maintain its upper division enrollment, which are students who have attained upper division status, at approximately 60 percent of total undergraduate enrollment. Its planning documents shall reflect this policy.

(2) Commencing in the 1991–92 academic year, the University of California shall progressively increase the percentage that upper division enrollment systemwide is of total undergraduate enrollment through the 1995 –96 academic year until that percentage reaches approximately 60 percent. This shall be accomplished through increases in the numbers of community college transfer students admitted to upper division standing at the university without denying eligible freshmen applicants. Planning documents shall reflect these expected increases.

(b) The governing board of each segment shall ensure that individual university and college campus enrollment plans include adequate upper division places for community college transfer students in all undergraduate colleges or schools, and that each undergraduate college or school on each campus participates in developing articulation and transfer agreement programs with community colleges. The governing boards shall meet this goal within their respective general statewide planning framework used to attain and maintain the state's goal of a 60/40 ratio of upper to lower division students, their segmental enrollment planning processes, and campus planning regarding program balance, educational quality, and other relevant goals.

66731. Student matriculation from community colleges through the University of California and the California State University shall be recognized by the Governor, Legislature, and the governing boards of each of California's public postsecondary education segments as a central institutional priority of all segments of higher education.

66732. The governing boards of each segment shall declare as policy that the student transfer agreement program shall constitute a significant role in achieving the goal of student diversity within their segments, and in ensuring that all students, particularly those currently underrepresented in higher education, have access to a university education. The governing boards of each segment shall design, adopt, and implement policies intended to facilitate successful movement of students from community colleges through the University of California and the California State University.

66734. The Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges shall have the authority and responsibility to guarantee that all community college students have access to courses that meet the lower division baccalaureate degree requirements of the California public universities. The Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, with the cooperation of the Regents of the University of California and the Trustees of the California State University, shall ensure that all students are clearly and fully informed as to which community college courses and units are transferable and meet the general education and lower division major requirements at the California State University and the University of California.

66736. Each community college district governing board shall ensure that its college or colleges maintain student transfer counseling centers or other counseling and student services designed and implemented to affirmatively seek out, counsel, advise, and monitor the progress of potential and identified community college transfer students.

All policies and procedures shall give preference and emphasis toward enhancing the transfer of students from economically disadvantaged families and students from traditionally underrepresented minorities, to the fullest extent possible under state and federal statutes and regulations.

66737. The Regents of the University of California, the Trustees of the California State University, and the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges are expected to develop new programs of outreach, recruitment, and cooperation between and among the three segments of public higher education to facilitate the successful transfer of students between the community colleges and the universities. Every community college student who successfully completes the transfer agreement programs, as defined in Section 66738, in a community college shall have an appropriate place in an upper division university program.

66738. (a) The governing board of each public postsecondary education segment shall be accountable for the development and implementation of formal systemwide articulation agreements and transfer agreement programs, including those for general education or a transfer core curriculum, and other appropriate procedures to support and enhance the transfer function.

(b) The elements in a comprehensive transfer system shall include, but not be limited to, the following:

(1) Enrollment and resource planning; intersegmental faculty curricular efforts.

(2) Coordinated counseling.

(3) Financial aid and transfer services.

(4) Transfer articulation agreements and programs.

(5) Specific efforts to improve diversity.

(6) Early outreach activities.

(7) Expansion of current practices relating to concurrent enrollment of community college students in appropriate university courses.

(8) Centers.

(c) The governing board of each segment shall expand existing practices related to concurrent enrollment, in which community college students are provided the opportunity to take courses at University of California and California State University campuses, as space is available; and to expand opportunities for potential transfer students to participate in activities that familiarize them with the university campus.

66740. Each department, school, and major in the University of California and California State University shall develop, in conjunction with community college faculty in appropriate and associated departments, discipline-specific articulation agreements and transfer program agreements for those majors that have lower division prerequisites. Faculty from the community colleges and university campuses shall participate in discipline-specific curriculum development to coordinate course content and expected levels of student competency.

Where specific majors are impacted or over-subscribed, the prescribed course of study and minimum grade point average required for consideration for upper division admission to all of these majors shall be made readily available to community college counselors, faculty, and students on an annual basis. In cases where the prescribed course of study is altered by the university department, notice of the modification shall be communicated to appropriate community college faculty and counselors at least one year prior to the deadline for application to that major and implementation by the department responsible for teaching that major.

Community college districts, in conjunction with the California State University and the University of California, shall develop discipline-based agreements with as many campuses of the two university segments as feasible, and no fewer than three University of California campuses and five California State University campuses. The development of these agreements shall be the mutual responsibility of all three segments, and no one segment should bear the organizational or financial responsibility for accomplishing these goals.

The Chancellor of the California Community Colleges and the President of the University of California shall begin the process of setting priorities to determine which community colleges will receive first attention for the development of agreements. Criteria for priority determination shall include, but not be limited to, the percentage and number of students from economically disadvantaged families and underrepresented racial and ethnic minorities, and community colleges which traditionally have not transferred many students to the University of California. The priority list shall be completed by March 1, 1992. These considerations shall not be used in any way to displace current agreements between any community college and the University of California or the California State University.

The Chancellor of the California Community Colleges and the Chancellor of the California State University system shall begin the process of setting priorities to determine which community colleges will receive first attention for the development of agreements. Criteria for priority determination shall include, but not be limited to, the percentage and number of students from economically disadvantaged families and underrepresented racial and ethnic minorities, and community colleges which traditionally have not transferred many students to California State Universities. The priority list shall be completed by March 1, 1992. These considerations shall not be used in any way to displace current agreements between any community college and the University of California or the California State University.

66741. As a result of systemwide and interinstitutional agreements, each community college student shall be assured of the opportunity to enter into a transfer agreement program enabling a student to receive high priority consideration, attain equivalent special treatment, or enter into a contract when applying for university admission at the advanced standing level. It is recognized that eligibility for transfer agreement programs will require completion of certain requirements as defined in interinstitutional agreements. It is also recognized that access to majors of choice will, in most cases, require completion of additional requirements, such as specialized coursework and attainment of a specialized grade point average.

Transfer agreement programs also shall carry high priority access to majors of choice. The University of California and the California State University shall require that continuing undergraduate students and community college transfer students are assessed against a common set of criteria for upper division standing to a specific major. However, generally speaking, access to these programs shall require completion of specialized coursework and attainment of a grade point average above the minimums defined in general admission requirements, such as those used in supplementary admission criteria for impacted or over-subscribed programs.

Alternatively, students may also, by meeting the University of California or California State University requirements for admission at the advanced standing level, simply wish to apply as required. All students meeting these admission requirements shall be guaranteed a place somewhere in the University of California or California State University system, as appropriate.

66742. The governing boards of the three public segments of higher education shall present annual statistical reports on transfer patterns via the California Postsecondary Education Commission to the Governor and Legislature. The reports shall include recent statistics on student enrollments by campus, segment, gender, ethnicity, and the ratio of upper division to lower division, including information on both freshman and transfer student access to the system. These reports should include, to the extent that data are available or become available, data on application, admission and enrollment information for all students by sex, ethnicity, and campus. For transfer students, this data shall indicate the segment of origin for all students. In addition, data shall be separately identified for transfer students from California Community Colleges, and shall identify the subset of applications which are completed together with admission, enrollment, and declared major information for that group. The reports shall describe the number of transfer agreements, if any, whose terms and conditions were not satisfied by either the California State University or the University of California, the number of California Community College transfer students denied either admission to the student's first choice of a particular campus of the California State University or the University of California or the student's first choice of a major field of study, and, among those students, the number of students who, upon denial of either of the student's first choices, immediately enrolled at another campus of the California State University or the University of California. The reports shall also include information by sex and ethnicity on retention and degree completion for transfer students as well as for native students, and the number and percentage of baccalaureate degree recipients who transferred from a community college.

66743. The California Postsecondary Education Commission is requested to convene an intersegmental advisory committee on transfer access and performance for the purposes of presenting biennial reports to the Governor and the Legislature on the status of transfer policies and programs, the diligence of each segment's board, and the effectiveness of these programs in meeting the state's goals for transfer. The report shall include information about all of the following:

(a) The effectiveness of transfer agreement programs and activities in enhancing the transfer function overall as well as the extent to which transfer program activities have been directed at students who have been historically underrepresented in the University of California and the California State University.

(b) The status of the implementation of the transfer core curriculum as described in Section 66720 for each community college, including information about the extent to which sophomore level courses needed for transfer are available on all community college campuses.

(c) Progress that has been made in achieving articulation agreements in those specific majors that have lower division prerequisites, and the dissemination of this information. The committee shall also explore methods to systematically measure the extent to which the state's goals of freshmen and transfer student access are being met, including analyses of the number of fully eligible freshmen or transfer students who are denied access to the system, and the reasons for that denial. The committee shall also address ways in which sharing of information about transfer students among the segments can be improved, including early identification of potential transfer students for intensive recruitment purposes.

No later than April 1994, the California Postsecondary Education Commission shall report to the Governor and the Legislature on the overall success of this chapter in expediting the goals of transfer, including recommendations about a common definition of transfer rates, including the identification of campuses and positions of employment that prevent progress toward a more effective transfer program, with specific recommendations about resource, program, or other incentives to encourage an effective intersegmental transfer program. /The Governor and the Legislature shall monitor the success of the University of California and the California State University in achieving their targeted enrollment levels and in implementing these reforms. A substantial failure to implement reform, to achieve the 60/40 ratio by the designated dates, or to significantly improve the transfer rate of historically underrepresented groups, shall precipitate legislative hearings to determine the reasons why any one or all of these goals have not been met.

66744. No provision of this article shall apply to the University of California except to the extent that the Regents of the University of California, by resolution, make that provision applicable.

SEC. 6. The Board of Regents of the University of California, the Board of Trustees of the California State University, and the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, are requested to each prepare a plan for the implementation of Article 2 (commencing with Section 66730) of Chapter 9.2 of Part 40 of the Education Code. These plans shall be submitted to the policy and fiscal committees of the Legislature by January 15, 1992.

It is the intent of the Legislature that each plan shall include a timetable for implementation of this act, including identification of additional resources that may be required. The Legislature acknowledges that some sections of Article 2 (commencing with Section 66730) of Chapter 9.2 of Part 40 of the Education Code, such as Section 66740, will require a phase in process and the full implementation of those sections will depend on the availability of resources.

The institutions are requested further to identify those additional resources required for faculty time associated with course articulation, and those that are associated with counseling, student advising and outreach to community college students. Any request for augmentation of a four-year segment's resources should further include an estimate of the resources currently being used for community college purposes as well as for analogous activities with high schools and high school students.
