Southeast Area Animal Control Authority, Claimant

Dear Ms. Halsey:

The State Controller's Office (SCO) is transmitting our response to the Commission's Draft Proposed Decision dated November 7, 2016, for the above IRC.

The Commission partially approved the IRC and recommended that the SCO reinstate a portion of the costs to the extent the claimant can provide documentation to support the validity of the costs incurred. The SCO would like to provide its comments in relation to the issues addressed in the Draft Proposed Decision.

If you have any questions, please contact me by telephone at (916) 323-5849.

Sincerely,

JIM L. SPANO, Chief

Animal Adoption Program

Commission's Analysis

In its Draft Proposed Decision (DPD), dated November 7, 2016, the Commission partially approved the IRC and requested that the SCO reinstate costs related to the following incorrect reductions to the extent the claimant can provide documentation to support the validity of the costs incurred. The Commission identified three categories of incorrect reductions:

1. The exclusion of animals deemed treatable upon arrival at the shelter and later euthanized during the increased holding period because they became non-rehabilitatable.
2. Exclusion of "eligible animals" held for the required duration under Purifoy, based on the Controller's recalculation of costs using an average number of days.
3. To the extent excluded, "wild animals" legally allowed as personal property and thus subject to the protection of the mandated activities.

The Commission further found that all other reductions made by the SCO were correct.

SCO's Comments

The SCO maintains that the reductions in costs identified above were consistent with the intent of the mandated program and the reimbursable criteria. The SCO would like to offer comments relating to each one of the reductions.

- 1. Exclusion of animals deemed treatable upon arrival at the shelter and later euthanized during the increase holding period because they became non-rehabilitatable

The Commission found that the SCO's interpretation of the plain language of the parameters and guidelines was incorrect. The SCO relied on the phrase "animals that died during the increased holding period or are ultimately euthanized" as a judgement criteria to determine eligible animals for reimbursement. The Commission stated that this phrase was "vague and ambiguous" and needed further interpretation.

We audited to the language in the parameters and guidelines

The SCO used the language in the parameters and guidelines as its primary judgement criteria. The SCO conducts its audits to the plain language of the criteria in order to avoid any bias. The Animal Adoption program's parameters and guidelines contain detailed descriptions of the reimbursable activities, including specific calculation steps, formulas, and animal population exclusions. The SCO used the criteria set forth by the Commission without exercising subjective interpretations, especially as the criteria was written with such specificity and detail. The SCO had no reason to treat the phrase "die during the increased holding period or are ultimately euthanized” as vague and in need of interpretation, when all other phrases, descriptions of activities, exclusions, and formulas contained specific language and appeared to be intentional. Specifically, the use of the word “or” indicated the distinct separation between the words “die” and “ultimately euthanized” as two unique categories.

The claimants PaxTrax database contains limited information

Moreover, the phrase “die during the increased holding period or are ultimately euthanized” was also consistent with the type of details captured in the claimant’s Paw Trax database for all animal records. The animal records contained brief explanation categories if the animal was euthanized for medical reasons, behavioral reasons, time and space constraints, etc. The data did not provide further detail as to the health status of the animal from arrival to its demise. However, the DPD described a hypothetical scenario of an animal that arrived sick being deemed treatable, then non-rehabilitatable, and ultimately euthanized within the increased holding period as a result of its health changing. This scenario is simply impossible to track with the data being captured. The vast majority of animals that were euthanized within the first few days after impoundment were recorded as either irremediably suffering or having medical issues. If the animal record showed an animal being euthanized for medical reasons on day three, the shelter staff made a humane decision to relieve that animal’s suffering. Shelters across the State will delay euthanizing animals prematurely, as required by this mandate. This was evident from reviewing the animal records and statistics during the course of the audits for the Animal Adoption program. However, it is impossible to determine whether the animals euthanized for medical reasons would fit in the hypothetical scenario described in the DPD.

The recorded reasons for disposition of the animals are brief descriptions from the drop-down menu per the design of the claimant’s Paw Trax system and its fields. The animals that were euthanized in the first few days after coming into the shelter predominately suffered from serious medical conditions and, therefore, were not considered treatable or adoptable. The exclusion of these animals was not due to bias on the part of the SCO and was consistent with the plain language in the parameters and guidelines, lacking any other judgement criteria.

For those animals euthanized during the increased holding period, the level of detail necessary to review each individual animal’s health status and progression of their disease prior to euthanasia simply is not available from the animal data statistics maintained in the claimant’s Paw Trax database.

Hypothetically, the shelters’ veterinarian could have records with such specific analysis as whether the animal was initially considered treatable and then changed to non-rehabilitatable. However, this task would be most-time consuming, without the potential of leading to any material results. We believe that such an exercise would be impractical and would include subjective bias.

2. Exclusion of “eligible animals” held for the required duration under Purifoy, based on the Controller’s recalculation of costs using an average number of days

In the DPD, the Commission states:

The Controller’s recalculation and use of the average number of reimbursable days is incorrect as a matter of law to the extent it results in the exclusion of “eligible animals” held for the duration required by law.

We disagree. The SCO maintains that using an average increased holding period days in the computation of allowable costs was not detrimental to the claimant, as it is the only reasonable and practical methodology to approximate actual costs. Further, the claimant clearly agreed with the SCO, as the claimed information also used the average increased holding period days to compute claimed costs.

Sorting large volumes of animal data is practically impossible

The Commission suggests that the SCO evaluate each animal's intake information to determine the actual increased holding period of each animal. However, this suggestion assumes that an infinite amount of detail exists in each animal record and also assumes a practical ease in performing such calculations. In reality, doing so would be practically impossible.

The claimant's animal data averaged between 18,000 and 25,000 line items per fiscal year. The animal census data contains each animal's date of impoundment and the date of outcome. The Controller computed each animal's total number of holding period days, but used an average number of reimbursable days to determine the allowable population of animals and to compute allowable costs.

In order to compute the actual increased holding period days for every animal on an individual basis, we would need to know what day of the week the animal was impounded. The auditor would then need to evaluate, based on the calendar of the specific week and year, the actual number of days in the increased holding period. Once the animal's eligibility was established, the auditor would need to compute each animal's allowable costs using the applicable number of reimbursable days. This task would be impractical and most likely would not produce results materially different from using an average calculation.

Impossible to calculate increased holding period for dogs and cats

The increased holding period days for dogs and cats is computed as the difference between the 72-hour holding period under prior law and four business days following the day of impoundment. In order to properly compute the actual increased holding period days for dogs and cats, one would need to know not only the day of the week the animal came in, but also the exact hour.

Animals are impounded or dropped off at the shelter 24 hours a day, regardless of the shelter's operating schedule. The exact hour of animal impoundment is not recorded. Therefore, computing an accurate increased holding period for dogs and cats is impossible in the absence of a recorded time of day that the animal was impounded. Further, one would need to make assumptions as to whether animals were impounded in the morning, afternoon, or evening, which would change the computation of the actual increased holding period. Making such assumptions would inherently bring an element of approximation to the computation and would defeat the purpose of attempting to compute an actual increased holding period for these animals.

The increased holding period average calculated by the SCO is favorable to the claimant

The Commission suggested that using an average reimbursable days potentially excludes a marginal amount of "eligible animals." We concur. However, we believe that it is equally possible that the use of this average also included an equal number of non-eligible animals as well. The use of a mathematical average assumes some outliers. But in this case, it provides the most reasonable and cost-effective way to analyze unusually large quantities of animal data. In fact, the large size of the animal population (as previously noted) makes the use of an average value statistically more accurate and decreases the probability of error.

- Dogs and Cats – Average increased holding period is three days

For demonstration purposes, the SCO wishes to present an analysis that we used during the audit to determine the average increased holding period for dogs and cats, which is consistent with the methodology used by the Commission in the DPD. This methodology is unbiased and mathematically sound.

The SCO methodology used to calculate the increased holding period for dogs and cats is as follows:

| Increased Holding Period for Dogs and Cats | | | | | | | | | | | |
|--|------|-----|------|-----|-----|-----|-----|-----|-----|------|--------------------------|
| Mon | Tues | Wed | Thur | Fri | Sat | Sun | Mon | Tue | Wed | Thur | Increased Holding Period |
| Imp | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | | | | | | | 2 days ✕ |
| | Imp | 1 | 2 | 3 | | | 4 | | | | 4 days ✓ |
| | | Imp | 1 | 2 | | | 3 | 4 | | | 4 days ✓ |
| | | | Imp | 1 | | | 2 | 3 | 4 | | 4 days ✓ |
| | | | | Imp | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 4 days ✓ |
| | | | | | Imp | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 3 days |
| | | | | | | Imp | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 2 days ✕ |

Average used by SCO = 3 days

Legend:

- ✕ Impounds on Monday and Sundays may be disadvantageous to the claimant
- ✓ Impounds on Tuesday through Friday may be advantageous to the claimant

The Commission notes that using this average may potentially exclude eligible animals from the population of eligible animals, as with a Sunday or Monday impound, for example. However, the SCO maintains that the scenarios of including potentially ineligible animals are far more frequent, as with a Tuesday through Friday impound, making the use of a 3-day average a fair and reasonable methodology. To demonstrate this, we ran a query for the first week of fiscal year (FY) 2006-07, FY 2007-08, and FY 2008-09, and found that the number of dogs and cats impounded Tuesday through Friday far exceeded the number of dogs and cats impounded Sunday and Monday, as noted on the following table:

| Day of the Week | Dates | Total Number of Dogs/Cats Impounded | Reference |
|------------------------|-----------------|--|------------------|
| FY 2006-07 | | | |
| Sunday and Monday | July 2-3, 2006 | 108 | Tab 3 |
| Tuesday through Friday | July 4-7, 2006 | 242 | Tab 3 |
| FY 2007-08 | | | |
| Sunday and Monday | July 1-2, 2007 | 110 | Tab 4 |
| Tuesday through Friday | July 3-6, 2007 | 237 | Tab 4 |
| FY 2008-09 | | | |
| Sunday and Monday | July 6-7, 2008 | 115 | Tab 5 |
| Tuesday through Friday | July 8-11, 2008 | 343 | Tab 5 |

As such, we have demonstrated the SCO's use of an average increased holding period is advantageous to the claimant.

- Other Animals – Average increased holding period is 6 days

Again, the SCO wishes to present an analysis that we used during the audit to determine the average increased holding period for other animals, which is consistent with the methodology used by the Commission in the DPD. Again, this methodology is unbiased and mathematically sound.

The SCO methodology used to calculate the increased holding period for other animals is as follows:

| Increased Holding Period for Other Animals | | | | | | | | | | | |
|--|------|-----|------|-----|-----|-----|-----|-----|-----|------|--------------------------|
| Mon | Tues | Wed | Thur | Fri | Sat | Sun | Mon | Tue | Wed | Thur | Increased Holding Period |
| Imp | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | | | | | | | 5 days × |
| | Imp | 1 | 2 | 3 | | | 4 | | | | 7 days ✓ |
| | | Imp | 1 | 2 | | | 3 | 4 | | | 7 days ✓ |
| | | | Imp | 1 | | | 2 | 3 | 4 | | 7 days ✓ |
| | | | | Imp | | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 7 days ✓ |
| | | | | | Imp | | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 6 days |
| | | | | | | Imp | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 days × |

Average used by SCO = 6 days

Legend:

- × Impounds on Monday and Sundays may be disadvantageous to the claimant
- ✓ Impounds on Tuesday through Friday may be advantageous to the claimant

In the DPD, we find that the Commission incorrectly counted the increased holding period for other animals. For example, the Commission states that “if the animal is impounded on a Saturday, the reimbursable increased holding period is five calendar days.” We disagree. As the “required” holding period is four business days following the day of impound, we find that the claimant must hold the animal for a total of six calendar days (Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday).

The Commission notes that using an average may potentially exclude eligible animals from the population of eligible animals, as with a Sunday or Monday, for example. However, the SCO maintains that the scenarios of including potentially ineligible animals are far more frequent, as with a Tuesday through Friday impound, making the use of a 6-day average a fair and reasonable methodology. To demonstrate this, we ran a query for the first week of FY 2006-07, FY 2007-08, and FY 2008-09 and found that the number of other animals impounded Tuesday through Friday far exceeded the number of other animals impounded Sunday and Monday, as noted on the following table:

| Day of the Week | Dates | Total Number of Other Animals Impounded | Reference |
|------------------------|-----------------|--|------------------|
| FY 2006-07 | | | |
| Sunday and Monday | July 2-3, 2006 | 1 | Tab 3 |
| Tuesday through Friday | July 4-7, 2006 | 15 | Tab 3 |
| FY 2007-08 | | | |
| Sunday and Monday | July 1-2, 2007 | 8 | Tab 4 |
| Tuesday through Friday | July 3-6, 2007 | 17 | Tab 4 |
| FY 2008-09 | | | |
| Sunday and Monday | July 6-7, 2008 | 5 | Tab 5 |
| Tuesday through Friday | July 8-11, 2008 | 36 | Tab 5 |

As such, we have demonstrated the SCO’s use of an average increased holding period is advantageous to the claimant.

Animal data for FY 2001-02 and FY 2002-03 was not provided to the SCO by the Authority

The parameters and guidelines allow reimbursement for actual costs that are traceable and supported by source documentation; however, the Authority did not provide any animal data for FY 2001-02 and FY 2002-03. Therefore, in the absence of contemporaneous documentation, the SCO computed an average of FY 2006-07, FY 2007-08, and FY 2008-09 and applied the average to FY 2001-02 and FY 2002-03.

As such, the SCO was more than fair in allowing reimbursement for “eligible animals” beyond what the Authority was able to provide documentation to support.

3. To the extent excluded, "wild animals" legally allowed as personal property and thus, subject to the protection of the mandated activities

In the DPD, the Commission states:

Included with the Controller's comments on the IRC is a chart showing the raw data of eligible other animals held by the claimant for FY 2008-09, with the auditor note of "wild?" next to the lines for rabbit, a dove, and ducks. It is unclear from the record if the Controller chose to exclude these animals on the basis that they were considered "wild."

For clarification purposes, this table identifies the animals found to be eligible, as noted in the upper-right-hand corner where the auditor identified 100 "Eligible Other" animals. These eligible animals included the duck, rabbit, and dove noted as "Wild?" (see Tab 6 for the full accounting of the 100 eligible animals). Therefore, the Commission's conclusion that the Controller excluded these animals is inaccurate.

Minor transposition error in Final Audit Report

We should note that while the Final Audit Report (page 489 of the claimants Incorrect Reduction Claim) identifies 103 eligible other animal for the Care and Maintenance cost component for FY 2008-09, our audit work papers support only the 100 eligible other animals identified in Tab 6. This minor error occurred because we transposed the 103 allowable eligible other animals identified for FY 2006-07 to FY 2008-09.

All rabbits and birds legally allowed as personal property were identified as eligible

In the DPD, the Commission states:

Therefore, to the extent that the Controller excluded rabbits and birds without analysis and notice to the claimant of the animals excluded, that exclusion is facially inconsistent with the law of the Parameters and Guidelines, is incorrect as a matter of law, and is arbitrary, capricious, and entirely lacking in evidentiary support.

The SCO can assure the Commission that all rabbits and birds legally allowed as personal property were determined to be eligible and were not excluded from the animal population. In addition, all work papers supporting the audit adjustments were provided to the claimant during audit fieldwork.

Animal data for FY 2001-02 and FY 2002-03 was not provided to the SCO by the Authority

The parameters and guidelines allow reimbursement for actual costs that are traceable and supported by source documentation; however, the Authority did not provide any animal data for FY 2001-02 and FY 2002-03. Therefore, in the absence of contemporaneous documentation, the SCO computed an average of FY 2006-07, FY 2007-08, and FY 2008-09 and applied the average to FY 2001-02 and FY 2002-03.

As such, the SCO was more than fair in allowing reimbursement for "other animals legally allowed as personal property" beyond what the Authority was able to provide documentation to support.
