Dear Ms. Li:

This letter requests written comment relating to the Commission's reconsideration of the Sexually Violent Predators (SVP) Mandate Redetermination on Remand, pursuant to court order.

The California Supreme Court, in County of San Diego v. Commission on State Mandates (2018) 6 Cal.5th 196, held the Commission's prior Decision in Sexually Violent Predators (CSM-4509), 12-MR-01 to be incorrect, and remanded the matter to the Commission, with instructions for reconsideration. Though the writ has not yet been issued by the Court, Commission staff are working to expedite the reconsideration on remand pursuant to the California Supreme Court decision. In preparation for the Reconsideration of the Request for Mandate Redetermination on Remand in accordance with the Supreme Court's direction, the Commission is seeking comment from parties, interested parties, and interested persons as stated below.

Background

On January 15, 2013, the Department of Finance (Finance), in accordance with Government Code section 17570, filed a Request for Mandate Redetermination of the SVP Decision adopted on June 25, 1998. Finance alleged that Proposition 83, adopted by the voters in the November 2006 general election, constituted a "subsequent change in law," as defined, because the Welfare and Institutions Code sections approved in the Test Claim Decision were either expressly included in or necessary to implement Proposition 83.

On December 6, 2013, the Commission adopted the Decision partially approving Finance's Request for Mandate Redetermination. That Decision found that the State's liability pursuant to article XIII B, section 6 had been modified by a subsequent change in law, as defined, and that six of eight approved activities were no longer reimbursable pursuant to Government Code section 17556, beginning July 1, 2011. Several counties jointly filed a petition for writ of mandate seeking to overturn the Commission's Decision, and the case was ultimately heard by the California Supreme Court.

On November 19, 2018, the California Supreme Court issued its decision in County of San Diego v. Commission on State Mandates (2018) 6 Cal.5th 196, finding the Commission’s Decision on mandate redetermination relating to the SVP program was incorrectly decided, and directing the Commission to reconsider the matter, with instructions. Specifically, the Court did not agree with the Commission’s findings that several of the approved activities were “expressly included in” Proposition 83, within the meaning of Government Code section 17556(f), because, the Court reasoned, the operative Welfare and Institutions Code provisions were only “technically reenacted” by the Proposition, and were “statutory bystanders,” not actually amended by the ballot measure, but included only for context and clarity in accordance with article IV, section 9 of the California Constitution.¹ Further, the Court disagreed with the Commission’s reasoning that the Amendment Clause of Proposition 83, which prohibited any amendment by the Legislature that does not expand the scope of the SVP program absent a two-thirds majority vote, should be interpreted more narrowly, to apply only to those provisions actually altered by the ballot measure or “integral to accomplishing the electorate’s goals...”² Then, because the Court determined that the relevant Welfare and Institutions Code provisions were not “expressly included in” the ballot measure, the Commission’s reasoning that the remaining activities were “necessary to implement” the other provisions also failed.³ For these reasons, the Court found that the Commission’s Decision was incorrect, and not supported. However, the Court also determined that the Commission should consider whether Proposition 83 might have had an effect on the mandate more broadly, as a result of the expanded definition of an SVP:

Unfortunately, the Commission never considered whether the expanded SVP definition in Proposition 83 transformed the test claim statutes as a whole into a voter-imposed mandate or, alternatively, did so to the extent the expanded definition incrementally imposed new, additional duties on the Counties. Its ruling granting the State respondents’ request for mandate redetermination instead rested entirely on grounds that we now disapprove. Moreover, the parties admit — and the Court of Appeal found — that the current record is insufficient to establish how, if at all, the expanded SVP definition in Proposition 83 affected the number of referrals to local governments. (See County of San Diego, supra, 7 Cal.App.5th at p. 36, fn. 14, 212 Cal.Rptr.3d 259; cf. San Diego Unified, supra, 33 Cal.4th at p. 889, 16 Cal.Rptr.3d 466, 94 P.3d 589 [additional state statutory protections that were “incidental” to federal due process requirements, “producing at most de minimis added cost, should be viewed as part and parcel of the underlying federal mandate, and hence nonreimbursable under Government Code section 17556, subdivision (c)”].) Under the circumstances, we find it prudent to remand the matter to the Commission to enable it to address these arguments in the first instance.⁴
